Brian Brown's Cup Double Shot

The personable trainer based at the famed Delaware County Fairgrounds in Ohio has not one, but two, top colts in Saturday's $1 million Pepsi North America Cup at Mohawk Racetrack thanks to elimination winners Fear The Dragon and Downbytheseaside.

Despite having to jump over a fallen head number in deep stretch, Fear The Dragon (with his trainer Brian Brown at Classy Lane in Ontario) was impressive in his Pepsi North America Cup elimination last week and will be one of the favorites for Saturday's $1 million final at Mohawk.

It is special for a trainer to have a pupil in a million-dollar race, but having two elimination winners puts trainer Brian Brown in rarified air. With a win or loss in tomorrow's $1 million Pepsi North America Cup at Mohawk Racetrack, one thing is certain, Brown will be surrounded by family.

The 52-year-old trainer is making his first appearance in a NA Cup final and sends out Downbytheseaside (3-1 on the morning line) and Fear The Dragon (2-1).

Downbytheseaside (Post 2) comes into the rich final off a two-length victory in last weekend's first elimination. Ohio native David Miller drove the Somebeachsomewhere–Sprig Hanover colt to a 1:50.4 score over Western Hill and Sports Column.

Downbytheseaside is owned by Jim Kohler's Country Club Acres Inc. (Findlay, OH), Joe Sbrocco (Brecksville, OH), Richard Lombardo (Solon, OH) and Diamond Creek Racing (Wellsville, PA). He has won 12 of his 17 career races, never finishing off the board, and has earned $784,266.

Fear The Dragon (Post 4) also comes into the final undefeated in five seasonal starts. Despite the unblemished 2017 record, the Dragon Again—Armbro Cinnamon colt gave his connections a scare when he jumped over a head number laying on the track. Driver David Miller gathered the colt back on stride to secure the one-and-a-half length elimination win in 1:50.

"When he opened up, I started to relax. (The break in stride) happened so fast, I couldn't react. My heart sank," Brown said. "I thought they might take him down. David (Miller) did a great job getting him back on stride. Dragon never broke before and he didn't know what to do, so he stumbled. He is such a nice horse, so last week's mistake shouldn't bother him."

Fear The Dragon is owned by Bruce Trogdon's Emerald Highlands Farm (Mount Vernon, OH).

Brown started in the sport like so many, spending time with family, watching his father Robert H. Brown and uncle William Brown. He starting driving horses at age of 16, but switched to training nearly exclusively in the early 1990s.

Brown enjoyed much success in Ohio and the Midwest, and made waves nationwide in 2015 by winning a Breeders Crown with Emerald Highland's pacing mare Color's A Virgin and came within a scan nose of winning the Little Brown Jug when Lost For Words, who was owned in part by the Country Club Acres and Lombardo, was edged by Wiggle It Jiggleit in an epic battle.

Once last week's elimination results were final, driver David Miller found himself in a difficult position, having to choose between two undefeated colts. Miller chose to stay with Fear The Dragon, noting that although Downbytheseaside won, "he wasn't his best." The 2017 Hall-of-Fame inductee, Brian Sears, will pick up the mount behind Downbytheseaside.

Dave Landry

Well-liked trainer Brian Brown said he's blessed to have two top colts in the NA Cup.

While the issue of choosing a new driver behind him, Brown turned his focus to prepping his colts.

"We are going to treat this week like any other week," Brown said. "Same jogging and training schedule. The horses stayed in Canada this week (at Classy Lane Training Centre)."

Dave Landry

Downbytheseaside (with Brown) will be driven by Brian Sears in the NA Cup after David Miller opted to steer Fear The Dragon.

Despite the pledge to have things status quo for the biggest three-year-old pacing race of the year, Brown is contemplating an equipment change for Downbytheseaside.

"We are looking at an eye hood with holes to try to get him more aggressive," he said. "We used an open bridle last year to calm him down."

Brown's plan as of Tuesday was to train both colts Wednesday morning and head back to his Ohio operations for Thursday's qualifying races at the Delaware County Fairgrounds.

"We are sending out 30 two-year-olds out for the first time," Brown said. "We have another 15 or so not quite ready."

Brown with the assistance of son, Beau Brown and son-in-law, Cameron McCown, actually sent 28 rookies postward Thursday morning.

The Brown stable currently has 70 head at the Delaware County Fairgrounds, their home base since 2005.

With such a large stable, Brown employs several family members, but there is no important member of 'Team Brown' than Brian's wife, Jennifer.

"She is the numbers person," Brown said. "She gives me the training reports and handles the finances."

Brown's niece, Toni Dale Hollar is the groom for Downbytheseaside. Fear The Dragon is cared for by Rick Graves, a non-Brown family member.

"He's been with us long enough to be a family member though," Brown said.

No matter the results Saturday night, the affable Brown will continue to work hard to develop the next champion.

Did David Miller make right call with Dragon?

by Brett Sturman

David Miller had one of those problems this week that was a nice problem to have, but one that nonetheless could prove to be prosperous or costly.

In a move that surprised more than a few, Miller opted to drive Fear The Dragon over 2-year-old divisional runner-up Downbytheseaside in Saturday's $1 million Pepsi North America Cup at Mohawk. Both colts are trained by Brian Brown, although heading into the season it was Seaside who was clearly seen as the main threat to reigning divisional champion, Huntsville.

To his credit, Seaside hasn't done anything wrong this year and remains unbeaten through four starts that includes wins in the Art Rooney final and in his NA Cup elimination last week. But clearly, Fear The Dragon – who was a formidable colt in his own right last year – has come back with a vengeance.

Miller knows both horses well and regarding Fear The Dragon said, "I always had a high opinion of him, but still you don't know how good they are going to come back. I've been impressed with him in how he's come back so well." Miller explained the choice to me as "very, very tough." He stated, "I like both horses and it was tough to pick one. (Fear The Dragon) just seems to be a bit sharper right now."

The scenario of Miller opting off Seaside while still unbeaten this year would have seemed almost impossible just as recently of a few weeks ago. But where things may have started to change was in a PA sire stake race at Pocono less than one month ago. In the race, Fear the Dragon humbled Huntsville with a backside rush where he blew right by the Breeders Crown winner and was able to win comfortably by a couple of lengths. In an ironic twist, it was the first time Huntsville lost since he was beaten in last year's Governor's Cup by of all horses, Downbytheseaside.

Picking up the drive on Downbytheseaside is coincidentally Brian Sears, and one doesn't have to look back far to find the last time that Sears was the beneficiary of a similar tough driver call in a high-profile race. In the 2015 Hambletonian, Yannick Gingras elected off eventual winner Pinkman in the Hambletonian final in order to drive Mission Brief. Sears picked up the ultimate catch drive on Pinkman and won, while Gingras and Mission Brief were second.

There's always room for second guessing after the fact, but Miller seems comfortable with his choice. He said, "There's nothing wrong with Seaside and I know that he'll put in a good race, it's just very tough. I like Fear The Dragon and that's basically what it came down to."

If not for a stroke of luck in avoiding a freak miscue, Fear

Despite handily winning an NA Cup elimination with Downbytheseaside (above), David Miller will drive Seaside's stablemate Fear The Dragon in the final.

The Dragon might not even have made it into the NA Cup final. In last week's elimination with matters well in hand, Fear The Dragon tried to jump over what was later reported as a fallen head number in deep stretch. The horse almost fell to his knees, but somehow Miller was able to quickly gather him back up and cross the finish line pacing.

As for race strategy, Miller plans to be aggressive.

"My plan is that I'm going to try and leave and be with (Huntsville and Seaside)," Miller said. "I can't afford to let them get too far ahead. I expect other horses to leave from the outside and expect a hot pace; I just can't afford to let the top horses get too far away or allow another horse from the outside to get in my way."

Having the right race strategy is one thing and having the right horse to do it with is another. In both instances, Miller is hoping that it all works out.

North America Cup Night best bets

Race 3 Armbro Flight final: CAPRICE HILL got a bit weary late last week in her elimination but it was only her second start of the season. Tough luck filly from last year has shown a new speed dimension in both her starts this year and horses from Alagna have been doing well of late. A swing can be warranted on this one at an anticipated square price. HANNELORE HANOVER has bounced back strong in her last two following her surprising defeat three back at Miami Valley and is the obvious one to beat. CHARMED LIFE was the mare that beat HANNELORE HANOVER in that Ms. Versatility race at MVR and I wouldn't blame anyone for taking a shot with this one based on her current form; did well for herself two back at Chester against the boys too.

Race 5 Mohawk Gold Cup Invitational: CHRISTEN ME has impressed in his four North American races thus far. The 9-year-old NZ standout gets Tetrick back and early speed is likely coming; relished the mile track at the Meadowlands where he closed in :25.2 and :25.3 in his two races over that track. I'll be a believer in DR J HANOVER if he can win this against older, more seasoned foes but he proved last week at Tioga that his 1:46:1 win at this track two back was no fluke. Couldn't possibly be any better right now. NIRVANA SEELSTER exits a career performance and is rewarded now by landing the rail; rates a big shot even against some of these new shooters. MCWICKED is the one to beat but has been somewhat hit or miss this year; GREAT VINTAGE comes off a game try.

Race 9 Fan Hanover final: In the upset call of the night, FUTURE HEADLINES is worth taking a flyer on. This one had a noticeable amount of belated pace up the inside last week and it came in her first start with Tetrick on board; I'm always hesitant to dismiss this barn as well. TEQUILA MONEY eventually got going late last week but wasn't visually impressive throughout considering she was 1-5; vulnerable favorite? IDYLLIC BEACH won as she pleased in her elimination and seems tough on paper; an obvious short priced and deserving contender.

Race 10 Goodtimes final: INTERNATIONAL MONI flat out exploded in his elimination when given his que by Zeron, and it almost happened in the blink of an eye. Signs were there as this one recently qualified nicely behind FFA star Obrigado and if anything he should be even stronger in his second start back; his dam is one of the all-time greats and he'll have every chance to make her proud. ENTERPRISE jogged last week and will squarely be the one to run down. GUARDIAN ANGEL AS was game in defeat in his elimination and now may suddenly be overlooked while starting from post 10; picks up Sears.

Race 11 Roses Are Red final: NIKE FRANCO N cruised to an elimination win in 1:49:2 and she looks to be the best of these. She made up considerable ground in an uphill battle against LADY SHADOW two back at Chester and that mare won't get off as easy tonight. WRANGLER MAGIC wasn't bad last week and she's jumped up to surprise in spots like this before; wouldn't be a total shock for Allard. FROST DAMAGE BLUES did well for herself last out to win going away after pouncing off cover; needs to prove it all over again. PURE COUNTRY would seem up against it from the outside but you can't question the class or the connections; needs the right setup.

Race 12 North America Cup final: I can't write a column about FEAR THE DRAGON and then not pick him, right? FEAR THE DRAGON is the pick mostly for the reason of the impression that the Pocono win over HUNTSVILLE left on me. That was a real eye opener and the horse has since won over Miller; gets the nod in what sets up to be a thrilling North America Cup. HUNTSVILLE has dominated rivals at Chester and again in his elimination last week since the lone seasonal loss he had pinned on him; he'll be a slight but deserving favorite. DOWNBYTHESEASIDE has been all business this year and can't be faulted for any of the ways in which he's won. Miller did have to chase after him a bit in the stretch last out but by no means would this one be a surprise; trip may tell the story.

Driver Tim Tetrick hopes Huntsville will allow him to kiss the NA Cup a third time.

Master chess player Tetrick hoping Huntsville delivers checkmate

The driver is hoping to score his third Pepsi North America Cup title by driving the Ray Schnittker trainee to victory.

by Ken Weingartner / Harness Racing Communications / USTA

Tim Tetrick knows Huntsville will face challenges in Saturday's $1 million Pepsi North America Cup. His goal is to make the race more challenging for those that oppose him.

"It's like a chess match," said Tetrick, who will drive 8-5 morning line favorite Huntsville in the season's first major open stake for sophomore male pacers. "I try to drive three or four horses in a race all the time. I know where everyone is, and where I can put them. I always try to put them where they don't want to be. That's the name of catch driving.

"And you've got to think about speed and time and who's leaving and who you want to follow. You're looking for a little bit of an edge, where you can get a jump on somebody or keep them locked in."

Huntsville is trying to become the fifth horse this century to receive a Dan Patch Award at age 2 and capture the North America Cup the following year. He would join Captaintreacherous, Sportswriter, Somebeachsomewhere and Bettor's Delight. All but Sportswriter, who retired midseason because of injury, went on to claim a Dan Patch Award at 3.

The 35-year-old Tetrick won the North America Cup with Captaintreacherous in 2013 and Wakizashi Hanover in 2015.

In addition to the 34th edition of the North America Cup, Saturday's card at Mohawk Racetrack includes the $440,000 Fan Hanover for 3-year-old female pacers, $365,000 Roses Are Red Stakes for older female pacers, $253,000 Armbro Flight for older female trotters, and $251,000 Goodtimes for 3-year-old male trotters.

Post time for the first of the 15 races Saturday is 6:30 p.m.

Huntsville, a son of Somebeachsomewhere out of the mare Wild West Show, has won 10 of 15 career races and never finished worse than second. Last year he enjoyed a six-race win streak that included victories in the Breeders Crown, divisions of the Bluegrass and International Stallion Stakes, and Pennsylvania Sire Stakes championship. His 1:49 mile in the International Stallion equaled the world record for a 2-year-old pacer.

He is trained by Ray Schnittker, who bred the colt with Charlie Iannazzo and owns the horse with Iannazzo, Ted Gewertz, and Steven Arnold. Huntsville has earned $764,093 in his career.

Last week, Huntsville won his North America Cup elimination by four-and-a-quarter lengths over Classic Pro in 1:49.1. Fear The Dragon, the 2-1 second choice, won his elim by one-and-a-half lengths over Filibuster Hanover in 1:50 and Downbytheseaside, who is 3-1, won his elim by two lengths over Western Hill in 1:50.4.

Four of Huntsville's second-place finishes have come to either Fear The Dragon or Downbytheseaside. The other, in his first career start, was to Filibuster Hanover. In fact, three of Huntsville's five lifetime runner-up finishes came in his first four races.

"I think I've got one of the best horses, if not the best," Tetrick said. "I'm very confident. He was super last week and I think I've got a great shot. When he's on his game he's very hard to catch.

"He's a big strong horse and he can take air and he's very, very fast. He's had some (steering) issues, but other than that he's got all the attributes of a great horse. He's got tons of speed. I've never gotten him tired. He's been beaten, but never tired. Once you get him in high gear he can carry his speed a long way."

Huntsville will start the North America Cup from post No. 3, with Fear The Dragon and driver David Miller in post four and Downbytheseaside and driver Brian Sears in post two. Fear The Dragon and Downbytheseaside are trained by Brian Brown.

Jimmy Takter's Ocean Colony, with driver Yannick Gingras, in post No. 1 completes the list of horses with inside starting positions.

"It's all going to play out there in the first eighth (of a mile) or first quarter and we'll see what happens," Tetrick said. "I think the best four horses are 1-2-3-4. I'm sure someone on the outside is going to take a flyer.

"Mohawk is a very fair track; you can win both ways (from the front and from behind). But I'm just really super happy with my colt. It should be a great race."

Following is the field for the Pepsi North America Cup. The race, scheduled for 10:40 p.m., will be part of a live broadcast from 10-11 p.m. on TSN3 and TSN5.

Blake Macintosh smitten with Sports Column

The Ontario Sired colt won't be the favorite in Saturday's $1 million Pepsi North America Cup, but his trainer believes the pacer has a great shot at a sizeable check.

by Sandra Snyder

Even if he cannot quite articulate the reasons, Blake Macintosh is clear; he would not trade places with any other owner or trainer in Saturday's $1 million Pepsi North America Cup.

"I'm sure it sounds stupid, but I wouldn't trade him for any horse in there," said the trainer and part-owner of Sports Column. "I know that we're not the best horse, but I just, I love the horse."

Sports Column is frequently a thorn in Macintosh's side — he can be tough to handle in the paddock and has a playful energy that requires a firm hand — but something about the son of Sportswriter and Lady Leslie has wormed its way firmly into the Cambridge, ON resident's heart.

"He can be a bit of dink, but he's just, I don't know, special to me," said the trainer.

Macintosh and Joe and Joann Thomson's Hutt Racing Stable of Paoli, PA acquired Sports Column from the 2015 Lexington Selected Yearling Sale for a modest $20,000. After an impressive 1:52.1 win in the 2016 Ontario Sires Stakes Gold Series season opener, Daniel Plouffe of Bromont, QC joined the ownership group. The colt would go on to post a record of four wins and two seconds in six freshman starts, capturing one more leg of the Gold Series and his elimination and the final of Grand River Raceway's Battle of Waterloo before being shut down in September.

This season, Sports Column qualified twice at Mohawk Racetrack, winning in 1:54.3 and 1:55.2 over off tracks on April 21 and May 8, and had made three starts heading into last weekend's North America Cup eliminations. Third in an overnight at Mohawk on May 13, the colt then finished fifth in the Gold Series season opener at The Raceway at Western Fair District on May 26 and third in his Somebeachsomewhere division back at Mohawk on June 3.

Dave Landry

Trainer Blake Macintosh said he lucked out in the NA Cup draw when Sports Column drew the five hole.

"He hasn't had the best start so far, but we've had troubles

Dave Landry

Macintosh said Sports Column (Chris Christoforou, winning the 2016 Battle of Waterloo at Grand River Raceway) has the gate speed to get into the mix in Saturday's NA Cup.

with his blood all along," said Macintosh, adding that the colt's bilirubin and GGT enzymes, both indicators of liver function, have been elevated since his qualifiers. "Hopefully we're starting to get that under control and we'll have him a lot better for the Cup."

Sports Column earned his way into Saturday's final with a third-place finish behind Downbytheseaside in the first of three eliminations. Starting from Post 7 in the elimination round driver Chris Christoforou, Jr. — who has driven the colt in all 10 of his starts — sent Sports Column straight to the front, reaching the quarter pole in :27. Lawrencetown Beach and Downbytheseaside rolled by heading for the half, leaving Sports Column buried on the rail in fourth, but Christoforou was able to find a lane up the inside in the stretch and the colt paced into third spot.

"I think his best asset is that he can leave out and get spotted," said Macintosh. "I imagine Chris will leave out with him on Saturday and hope for the best."

Christoforou will line Sports Column up at Post 5 in Saturday's final, sandwiched between elimination winner Fear The Dragon at Post 4 and the other Ontario Sired entry, Classic Pro, at Post 6.

"Very happy with the post position, couldn't have asked for a better post," said Macintosh. "It's a tough field, but hopefully we can work out a trip and get a piece."

While Macintosh would love to see Sports Column be the second straight Ontario Sired horse to capture the North America Cup trophy, following the path blazed by 2016 winner Betting Line, the horseman is clear-eyed about the colt's chances against North America's best.

"I'm just so happy to be in the race, honoured to be one of the ten horses in there, and I'll be happy if we get a cheque," he said. "Anything can happen in a horse race, and we're in there, and hopefully everything works out and we get a good piece of it."

Between now and Saturday the trainer and his staff will be working furiously to have Sports Column in the best shape of his life, ready to give a peak performance in the biggest race of his career, and should the horse that he is most proud of achieve the unimaginable Macintosh offered up a piece of advice for members of the media.

"If we actually won it, don't come interview me, because I'll be crying for a day," he said with a laugh.

Tony Alagna-trained Western Hill (Doug McNair) will start from post nine in Saturday's $1 million Pepsi North America Cup.

Alagna gunning for second Cup

Western Hill will be a longshot from post nine, but his trainer believes an upset is possible.

by Ray Cotolo for WEG communications

Trainer Tony Alagna is set to make his fifth appearance in the $1 million Pepsi North America Cup on Saturday when he sends Western Hill, a Western Ideal gelding from the Art Major mare Cosmo Blue Chip, from post nine with Doug McNair driving the 20-1 morning-line shot.

In 2013, Alagna won with, the favorite, Captaintreacherous and was third with stablemate Wake Up Peter. He is aiming for his second NA Cup win after trying with Artspeak (who was fifth in the 2015 edition) and Racing Hill (second in 2016).

"We tend to choose specific families of horses when we go to purchase yearlings," Alagna said regarding his capability to send contenders into the NA Cup year in and year out. "If you follow the families of horses I've had in the North America Cup, they all usually come from great maternal pedigrees, so I feel that contributes greatly to get horses to the North America Cup for us."

Going for a million dollar prize, Alagna does not have a ritualistic routine to ready his contenders for the race.

"They kind of tell you going into the race what they're looking for," Alagna said. "(Western Hill) raced well in his start before (the NA Cup) eliminations, so he didn't require a lot of work. He pretty much had a couple of (training) trips before each race and has seemed to respond well."

Leading up to the NA Cup, Western Hill, who is owned by Tom Hill, only raced twice, off a two-year-old campaign consisting of four wins in 10 starts. In his first start of the year, he lagged off the gate but sprinted home to finish seventh and followed that effort with a 1:51.4 victory against overnight stock at Mohawk. He's entering the NA Cup off his fastest mile to date, a 1:51.1 runner-up off-the-pace finish to elimination winner Downbytheseaside.

"We had this horse last year but we didn't get him ready this winter," Alagna said. "Another trainer got the horse ready and qualified him, then we got the horse back after that. We made a few adjustments and got him back on the routine we had him on the year before and that's why the horse has responded as well as he has."

Racing from far off the pace, on the front, and mid-pack, Western Hill has displayed a versatile racing style, though Western Hill's fastest race came off a trip.

"Against these kind of horses, he's definitely better off a trip," Alagna said. "He likes to run horses down; he likes a target. Some of the races he was in last year he had to be forwardly placed just because I thought he was good enough to win either way and we couldn't take any chances of getting him into a traffic jam coming from off the pace."

Alagna's past contenders, Captaintreacherous, Artspeak, and Racing Hill, entered the NA Cup as favorites or as major contenders. Western Hill approaches the event as a longer shot needing the correct circumstances to propel him to victory.

"When you have a longer shot, you have less pressure, but you still want to see the horse continue to improve," Alagna said. "That's what we're looking for, especially with post position nine it makes [winning] a little bit tougher. We're going to need some speed up front; we're going to need a decent pace to be able to get money from the nine-hole. But we have a horse that was 15, 20-to-one in his elimination, so you hope the horse improves and then move onto the next stakes race and hope for a better post position."

Alagna has in mind what he expects to see from Western Hill in the North America Cup final, but admits he doesn't get in his driver's ear and knows things don't always go as planned.

"I'd probably say he's going to come from off the pace, but one thing about me is I never tell anybody that drives for me what to do," Alagna said. "Things change too quickly — we had She's Watching in a (Fan Hanover) elimination and the plan was to come from off the pace because she has such a big last quarter in her, but nobody was on the gate so (Scott Zeron) left off the gate and got her in third.

"So many things can happen once the gate folds and drivers have to make the split-second decisions they are paid to make."

Big changes are in store for Mohawk, including year-round harness racing.

WEG making $10 million investment in Mohawk

Upgrades include winterizing the grandstand so year-round harness racing can begin at the newly-named Woodbine at Mohawk Park in the spring of 2018.

by Dave Briggs / Mark McKelvie, WEG standardbred communications

Tuesday afternoon at the Pepsi North America Cup draw at Mohawk Racetrack, Woodbine Entertainment Group (WEG) CEO Jim Lawson made two major announcements concerning the Campbellville, ON plant.

Lawson said WEG will make a $10 million investment in Mohawk over the next year to year-and-a-half to winterize the facility, "all with the view of bringing racing to this site year-round" starting as early as 2018.

Lawson also announced a global marketing effort to brand "one brand, two breeds" under the Woodbine name. Thus, Mohawk's name will change to "Woodbine at Mohawk Park."

The investments will be phased in over the coming years and will include extensive renovations to winterize the facilities for fans and horsepeople.

"The future is very bright for standardbred racing and entertainment on this site," Lawson said. "With the long-term gaming lease in place and with the Ontario Lottery and Gaming (OLG) expected to name a new gaming service provider soon, it's a very exciting time to be a racing fan and be involved in the sport. Standardbred horsepeople are a significant part of the fabric of this community and will soon be able to race 12 months of the year here."

Construction will begin in the fall of 2017 and is scheduled to be completed by spring 2018. Once concluded, standardbred horses will compete exclusively in Milton after racing at Woodbine for the final time through the 2017-18 winter months.

The upgrades include winterization of the grandstand, race paddock and maintenance facilities, new glass windows across the Terrace Dining Room, VIP suites and further customer amenities.

"We look forward to welcoming fans to Woodbine at Mohawk Park for world–class harness racing and to experience the new entertainment uses that will become part of the many offerings at Mohawk Park," Lawson said. "The fan experience is outstanding, with great sightlines and fan proximity to the racing action, but this investment will take it to an entirely new level."

The property will continue to contribute positively as an entertainment destination within the surrounding Milton community, while looking to expand and diversify its offerings. As such, Woodbine will be looking at other opportunities on the site to incorporate a mix of uses, complementary to horse racing and entertainment, on the idle lands. LiveWorkLearnPlay (LWLP), Woodbine's lead real estate development partner, has completed a first phase Highest and Best Use Study, which set the vision, programming and development direction for the property. Woodbine will be working with SWA Group, a leading landscape architecture, planning and urban design firm that has been engaged to create the master plan to guide the long-term vision for the site's overall development across its 440 acres. SWA previously collaborated with Woodbine Entertainment on the recently completed master plan for the redevelopment of Woodbine Racetrack.

Head numbers cause second incident in a week at Mohawk

by Garnet Barnsdale

Does harness racing really need to use head numbers anymore?

Following the second incident in two racing cards at Mohawk Racetrack involving head numbers on the track causing incidents in the stretch drive, the driver involved in the one that occurred Tuesday answers "no" to the question.

"I don't see why we need them," said veteran WEG driver Phil Hudon, who was driving Powerful Mission on Tuesday night when she trotted over a head number and broke in the stretch. "I don't think anyone can see them anyway and people just look at the saddle pad number during a race."

Powerful Mission – sent off as the 3-1 second choice by the betting public – was trotting strongly in second place when the incident occurred. She finished fourth, but was placed fifth due to being lapped on while off stride at the wire. Trotting over top of the head number clearly caused the break in stride and cost the Kevin St. Charles trainee a top three finish. "She was going to win or be second," Hudon said. "She was trotting so powerfully." Being that this was a Grassroots race, the loss of placings could be costly for Powerful Mission later in the year as the final nears.

This incident follows a similar event that took place last Saturday during heavy favorite Fear The Dragon's North America Cup elimination win, in which he jumped over a head number, landed off stride and was deftly brought back pacing by driver David Miller just in time to preserve his win.

That event got social media buzzing. Amy Hollar – Ohio Harness Horsemen's association representative – posted on Facebook: "There is literally ZERO reason to use head numbers in the game any more! Kudos to David Miller for keeping Fear The Dragon together."

The subsequent discussion on Hollar's thread raised several good points. The head numbers are required because sometimes in close photo finishes, that is all that can be seen that identifies the horse, says Judge Mike Hall. Hollar replied that the driver of the horse can still be seen in the photo which would identify the horse.

Mark Deutsch, who is a regular WEG bettor, says there is no need for head numbers anymore and as I write this column, he messaged me that another one just went flying off the #6 Dominum Deo, in Mohawk's 9th race.

"From someone who used to train and now bets, I see no value in having a head number and I think the saddle pad is antiquated and comes loose far too often," Deutsch said. "The Europeans have it right. Just as they did when they had pylons long before we did."

Has the time come to get rid of head numbers? Many think so and you have to wonder why it is even debatable when you see them coming off during races causing potentially dangerous situations for the drivers and horses and yet another X-factor that bettors needn't have to worry about during a race.

Help Sam McKee's family

The Meadowlands and U. S. Trotting Association are inviting horsepeople, friends and fans to contribute to the McKee Fund to benefit the family of the late Sam McKee.

McKee, 54, passed away March 8 after suffering a stroke in February. The Hall of Fame announcer and television personality was universally loved and respected throughout harness racing with his smooth race calls serving as the soundtrack to some of the most historic moments in the sport.

"Sam's widow, Chris, and three daughters continue to deal with the devastating and sudden loss of Sam and we want to continue to do all we can to help them," said Jason M. Settlemoir, Meadowlands GM and COO. "We have all been so touched and blown away by all of the support from so many people throughout the industry and this fund will go towards paying the remainder of student loan debt incurred by the McKees' three daughters."

"At the center of this heartfelt gesture will be the educational loans of Sam's and Chris' three accomplished daughters," said USTA President Russell Williams. "Nothing else we could do now would have made Sam happier than this."

The preferred method of contributing to the McKee Fund is to send checks directly to the Meadowlands. Checks can be made out to Meadowlands Racetrack with McKee Fund in the memo line. Checks should be mailed to the attention of:

Jason Settlemoir at Meadowlands Racetrack
1 Racetrack Drive
East Rutherford, NJ 07073

Contributions can also be made on the GoFund Me page that was previously established (http://bit.ly/2sHQsx0). Please be aware that a percentage of each donation is deducted by GoFund Me.

All funds raised will be presented to the McKee Family at the Meadowlands on Friday (Aug. 4), the night before the Hambletonian. On that night, the Meadowlands broadcast center will also be renamed in honor of Sam McKee. Hambletonian Day will also feature the Sam McKee U.S. Pacing Championship for free-for-all pacers.

Ontario regulator rules on Standardbred Revenue Allocation

On June 8, the final decision of a panel of the Ontario Racing Commission (ORC) was released. The matter concerned an appeal by the Ontario Harness Horse Association against an earlier decision of the ORC Executive Director to allocate the Standardbred Revenue Allocation marketing funds, being held in trust by the Woodbine Entertainment Group and as of November 21, 2015, to both the Ontario Harness Horse Association and the Central Ontario Standardbred Association.

The AGCO's panel denied the appeal, and decided that the Standardbred Revenue Allocation ("SRA") marketing funds (the SRA funds), being in the amount of $2,125,827 as of November 21, 2015, are to be allocated to two horsepersons' associations, namely, the Ontario Harness Horse Association ("OHHA") and the Central Ontario Standardbred Association ("COSA").

The allocation of the SRA funds will be as follows:

(i) to OHHA, a total of $515,172.41; and,

(ii) to COSA, a total of $1,610,654.59.

The allocation of funds was contingent on several conditions, including that the two Associations must use the SRA funds only for "an industry marketing program, to market and promote standardbred racing in this province," in accordance with the "Business Plan to Support the Reduction in Pari-Mutuel Taxes," Section A, 4.2.2, dated June 10, 1996, as amended September 15, 1996. And, further, the SRA funds shall not be used for any local association branding, or marketing outside of the Province of Ontario. The Associations must also "provide evidence, on an annual basis, through written documentation" to the Registrar of the Alcohol and Gaming Commission of Ontario, that the SRA funds have been spent for the purposes.

Ontario Racing is supportive of this decision, and believes it reflects major horse racing industry changes, as noted by the ORC's decision. The approved use of marketing funds reflects the intent of the 1996 PMTR M.O.U., and will support the best interests of horse racing in Ontario, as well as be in the best public interest by ensuring value for money and strong accountability measures for the use of the SRA funds.

A full copy of the panel's decision can be found here.

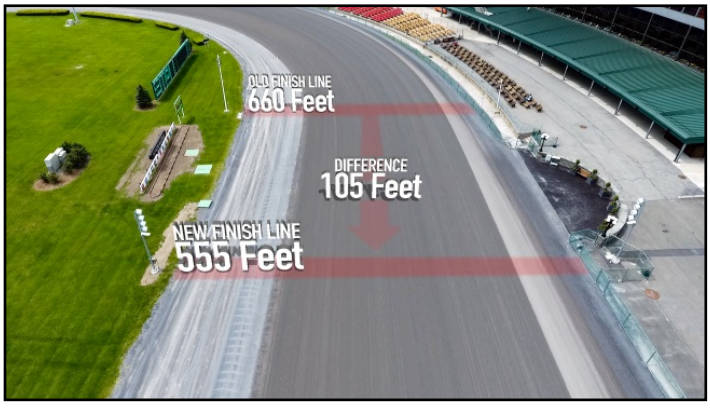
Yonkers unveils changes tonight

Yonkers Raceway is moving the finish line… for starters.

The Raceway has put the finishing touches on the new finish line. The project, which has been approved by the New York State Gaming Commission, will see the current line moved up the track by 105 feet, meaning the length of the stretch decreases from 660 to 555 feet.



Courtesy Yonkers Raceway

The finish line at Yonkers has been moved back 105 feet starting with tonight's race card.

With the 'new line' (and new quarter-pole) is a new, pole-mounted, robotic finish-line pan camera and dual-sided, mirror-image photo finish cameras (all in high-definition). There is also improved lighting around the area of the new finish line.

The project has been ongoing during Yonkers' scheduled hiatus, completed and tested in time for the return of live racing tonight (June 16).

"We're very excited to complete this work," Raceway COO Bob Galterio said. "We're striving to improve the video presentation, and this is going to make our signal even better and give our fans the best look at those tight finishes.

"As always, we appreciate the support of our product and welcome your comments."

ARCI adopts new rules; standards updated

The newest version of model rules approved by the Association of Racing Commissioners International (ARCI) is available at www.arci.com.

ARCI's model rules provide the template for racing regulatory entities and the framework under which the sport has made significant gains toward uniform regulations among jurisdictions.

The standards were reviewed and modified at the ARCI's equine welfare and racing integrity conference in April. The biggest changes involve tougher standards and protocol for the official veterinarian's list, which places restrictions on horses deemed unable to race because of illness, unsoundness or infirmity.

The model rules strengthen the provision where horses cannot race anywhere else if on a vet's list in one jurisdiction until they are released by that state's official veterinarian, unless there is an unforeseen administrative issue in gaining the release. It also places a minimum of seven days that a horse scratched or excused from a race be on the list.

The updated model rules also specify that horses that haven't raced in a year or longer, as well as horses making their first career start at age 4 or older, must work a half-mile in at least 52 seconds (220 yards in 13.3 seconds for quarter Horses) and submit blood or another biological sample to test for any drugs or medications that might mask a physical problem before being allowed to compete.

Out-of-competition testing regulations and protocols were added for standardbred racing to mirror those for thoroughbred and quarter horse racing.

A separate policy governing the use of the bronchodilator clenbuterol was approved for quarter horse racing. That recommended rule now makes any detection of clenbuterol in a post-race sample taken from a quarter horse a violation. The policy also applies to all horses in a mixed breed contest if quarter horses participate. Any finding of clenbuterol, in competition or out,,will trigger six months on the veterinarian's list under the revised model policy for quarter horses.

The ARCI also updated it's Uniform Classification document based upon a periodic review done by the Racing Medication and Testing Consortium.

Massachusetts stakes program is expanding breeders' interest

Breeding competitive standardbreds in Massachusetts goes back to the 1800's when the Boston-based New England Trotting Horse Breeders Association backed and promoted it. As a result of organizations like that, quality state-bred trotters and pacers have been breaking major records in the sport as far back as 1912 when Uhlan, who was foaled in Bedford, MA, trotted a world record mile in 1:58.

Today the Standardbred Owners of Massachusetts mission is much the same as their predecessors and the work of the group is helping the quality of the horses that come out of the state to just keep getting better.

The goal of the Massachusetts breeding program is to promote agriculture and open space, improve the breed and provide economic growth and ancillary jobs to everyone involved. On the strength of two very important bills, the current Massachusetts Sire Stake program has become one of the fastest growing programs of its type in North America.

The first was the resident mare legislation of 2001 that stated all mares bred out of state that reside in Massachusetts would give birth to Massachusetts-eligible foals. The second was the 2011 Race Horse Development Fund legislation that directs proceeds from expanded gaming in the state to the horse breeding and racing industries.

That combination of laws has since produced some of the best harness racing the state of Massachusetts has ever seen. But more importantly, it has breathed new life into what was a rather stagnant breeding program and made it very attractive to individuals currently racing in many jurisdictions outside of the Bay State.

The Massachusetts Sire Stake program is run quite differently from any other in the industry. Rather than have the stallion stand in the state, only the mare need reside in Massachusetts for the full breeding season. It gives the breeder the flexibility to breed to any top stallion in North America and bring the mare to Massachusetts to foal.

As long as the mare is registered with the Standardbred Owners of Massachusetts and a statement of where she will be residing in Massachusetts prior to Dec. 1 is on file and the mare remains in the state until foaling, the foal will be eligible to the Massachusetts Sire Stakes program.

The foal will also be eligible to the sire stake program where the stallion is standing, so having it eligible to two different stake programs simultaneously brings extra equity to the breeding. Massachusetts-eligibles have been performing successfully in other sire stakes programs and the duplicity of eligibility has driven up prices of these horses at the sales.

So, you can race your horse in the New York, New Jersey or Pennsylvania stakes and then bring it to Massachusetts in October and have even more earnings opportunities.

Since expanded gaming at Plainridge Park started generating money for the breeding program the Massachusetts Sire Stakes offering has gone from a total of $206,396 in 2014 to $1.2 million in 2016, Massachusetts breeders have gone from 56 to 72, the number of resident broodmares has risen from 40 to 111 and there are now 40 working standardbred farms serving the needs of all these horses and people as a result of it.

There have been many competitive racehorses bred in Massachusetts in recent years, but the two most notable are definitely Royalty For Life and Wings Of Royalty.

Royalty For Life (R C Royalty—Bourbon 'N Grits 1:51.3, $1,620,166) was bred by Alfred Ross of South Dartmouth, MA and has made headlines worldwide.

At two, Royalty For Life won four legs of the New York Sire Stakes and earned $129,063 for his efforts and he went on to finish second in the Breeders Crown his sophomore year, as well.

At three, he raced exclusively on the Grand Circuit and won the $1.2 million Hambletonian. And he did it old-school; winning two heats on the same day as the classic stake returned to its traditional format in 2013, the first time since 1997.

Royalty For Life was a truly New England affair as the horse was foaled in Belchertown, MA and was owned by Alfred Ross of South Dartmouth, MA, Raymond Campbell of Belchertown, MA and Paul Fontaine of Woonsocket, RI. Plus his trainer George Ducharme is from Norfolk, MA.

Wings Of Royalty (R C Royalty—Sparkling Cider 1:51.4, $603,784) was bred by Raymond Campbell Jr. of Belchertown, MA and starred in two different sire stakes programs.

At two, Wings Of Royalty raced exclusively in the New York program, winning two legs and finishing second in the final to bank $122,702 in Empire State earnings.

At three he made $181,223 in New York Sire Stakes and also competed on the Grand Circuit in the Hambletonian, Zweig, Empire Breeders Classic and an elimination of the Yonkers Trot.

But then he earned another $40,900 in the Massachusetts Sire Stakes.

He raced in three eliminations and the final at Plainridge Park and won all four starts. And in the process he became the fastest 3-year-old trotting colt ever in the Massachusetts Sire Stakes and set the Plainridge Park track record for the same age, gait and gender while winning in 1:54.4 on September 28, 2015.

Now 5 years old, Wings of Royalty is racing Open competition and recently set a new all-time track trotting record at Tioga Downs of 1:53.2 on Saturday (May 13).

With the success Plainridge Park has been having on the gaming floor and two more stand-alone casinos coming online in Massachusetts in the next two years, additional funding will further enhance the Massachusetts Sire Stakes program as provided in the language of the Race Horse Development Fund. That could make the horses foaled in Massachusetts next year the most valuable crop yet.
