The Trot Harness Racing Survey: Give Us Value For Our Betting Dollars & We Will Patronize the Sport

* The results from Trot Magazine's spring Horseplayer Survey mirror the Horseplayer Association of North America harness racing survey several years earlier. It's all about value, and it's always been about value ****

This spring, the fine folks at Trot Magazine asked over 300 horseplayers a set of questions relating to harness racing. In general the main focus was what they liked, what they disliked, and what they think harness racing could do better for them as customers. With horse racing so concentrated on race date fights, slot machines, foal crops, and everything else on the supply side, it's nice to hear from the people who support the purses with their hard-earned dollars once in a while. The respondents were a pretty good representative sample, too, with the following characteristics:

---Almost 7 in ten played the harness races at least once a week.

---Six in ten played over $50 each racing day.

---Four in ten wagered over $500 each month.

Now, let's take a look at a few of the responses.

"What would encourage you to bet more on harness racing?" With 5 being "agree very much" and 1 being "agree very little", lower takeout led the charge, with an average score of 4 out of 5. This was followed by more competitive racing with a score of 3.8.

These top two responses are indicative of something referred to in gambling circles as "horseplayer value." A more competitive field allows for a more value oriented choice to be made, which may yield long-term profit. Lower takeout, by definition, increases value by increasing payouts to customers so their bankrolls last longer. It's no secret the harness pools have had value eroded of late with high favorite hit rates and a subsequent low return on investment per dollar bet, so the answer to this question should probably not surprise anyone.

On the same 1 to 5 scale, the question "How much do you like the following wagers?" led to some interesting responses. Win betting ranked first with a score of 4.1. In last was show wagering - tied with Super High Five wagers - with a 2.4. We expect new bets like the Super High Five to be well down the list (horseplayers are a creature of habit), but a staple like show wagering (which has been around for well over 100 years) scoring so low might be a tiny bit surprising to some. However, it should not be. Show wagering in harness racing provides almost no value whatsoever. First, with high chalk hit rates, show prices of the $2.40 variety are commonplace. Second, breakage - an added horseplayer tax on winning bets - is most pronounced in the show pools. Show ROI for any bettor is usually much, much lower than win ROI.

In the HANA Harness survey several years ago, new types of bets were shunned for various reasons, and in Trot's survey, most of these new proposed bets were too of no interest - except for two. "Futures Betting for Big Races" scored a 3.0, as did "Fixed Odds Betting."

The common theme with these two answers needs to be examined. First, futures betting - for Stanley Cups, the Derby, the Super Bowl and myriad other events - are very popular in sports betting, and exchanges like Betfair have made these bets more and more accepted, as well. Second, one of harness racing's big betting issues is the toteboard, where 5-2 shots at the gate can end up at 4-5 at the half-mile pole when the money finally all comes in. This is terrible for "value" seekers (there's that word again) and it has angered players for years. This response is likely their pushback.

There were many other interesting answers, relating to lack of accountability of the judges, the disdain for post drags, and other issues. However, those three items were a pretty good representation of the survey.

What should be done about the above? To address these bettor concerns, I don't think it's as difficult as insiders think, or would lead us to believe, quite frankly.

Can takeout be lowered? Of course it can. Currently at some slots tracks, it's not uncommon to see $100,000 in purses for a card, with $100,000 in handle. We may see $5,000 of that handle from on-track, with $95,000 off-track. At 20% takeout, $1,000 is earned from the on-track wagering, and with a 3% signal fee, another $2,800 is approximately earned from off-site betting. That's 3.8% of purses earned from betting - or when split up between the track and its horsemen, 1.9% each.

If takeout is lowered to 10%, we're at $1,900 less revenue per card, if (and this, over time will not happen; handle will go up) handle stays exactly the same. Seriously, with $100,000 in purses a card, and millions upon millions of dollars in slot money, you are going to anger customers so much, and cause them so much grief through lower payouts that they move on to sports betting and other games, over $1,900 a card? That's barely 1/5th a purse for a single race at some of these tracks.

Similarly, the other main concern - playable races with proper fields - is fixable to a large extent. Why are tracks carding two six-horse eliminations for a 12-entry stakes race? Those are two races that need not be raced. Races can be seeded, you can race one ten-horse elimination, or come up with a better way. Why are tracks carding 14 or 16 race cards, with half of them unplayable, centered around 3-5 shots? Card better races, and take in more dollars, by encouraging the bet to grow. This seems common-sense, yet it is elusive in much of the sport.

As for show wagering, I have often wondered, why does harness racing even have show wagering? Seriously. The pools are tiny, and these pools have value eroded so much through breakage, it's a lost cause. Some say harness racing needs a show bet so people cash tickets, because cashing tickets entices them to come back. If that's true, wouldn't harness racing be handling more than the eminently tougher-to-cash-a-ticket Thoroughbred racing? Bets that make bettors slowly go broke - especially newbies - should be sent out to pasture. You're not doing your customer base any favors by helping them lose more money.

As for new types of wagers, fixed odds betting - like exchange wagering - attacks late odds drops and helps add to a bettors first love, win wagering. Win wagering, especially with fixed odds, is easier to beat and attracts a whole new legion of people who bet sports; e.g. those who bet the Pats -140 on Friday and are locked in at -140 in Sunday, even if the offensive line is out from eating bad clams. I understand this is more complex than some other fixes, and horsemen groups balk at such changes, but if harness racing is serious about trying to increase its betting base, it better be worked on soon.

Harness racing's customers are probably as frustrated as any when taking these surveys. They become the old Yogi Berra line, "I wish I had an answer to that, because I am tired of answering that question." They've been telling the sport for years and years in black and white what they want, and in the majority of cases it falls on deaf ears. At times lip service is paid to the customers of the sport, sure; at times nice things are said about "change", but when bettors open their ADW account, or head to the track Monday evening for a few races there is no change. They are still betting into egregious takeout rates, they are still looking at a five-horse field with a 2-5 shot, they are still seeing late odds drops.

This is probably why in the final Trot magazine survey question, only a third of the respondents agreed that "Horse racing respects me as a customer." And remember, that's answered by people who are still wagering, not the people who were so frustrated they headed to the exits a long time ago. You can't poll the invisible.

Harness racing constantly wishes they had the customers they want, not the customers they have. That attitude is flawed and will continue to be flawed. Harness racing must change. Customers will show you the way, and if racing opens its mind, listens and acts, perhaps some of the lost bettors will one day return, and the existing customer base will bet a little more frequently.

Harness Racing Update Correction on E L Titan

E L Titan

Following a win by E L Titan in the Sebastian K last week at Pocono Downs, HRU incorrectly quoted trainer Riina Rekila as saying the horse had a delayed start to the year because he was “bleeding.” In fact, the Finnish-born trainer said the horse was late to get back to the races because he had been “breeding.” The horse does not have any issues with bleeding. HRU regrets the error.

3. Woodbine Entertainment Group reserves the right to change the time and/or place of the race in its absolute discretion, subject, however, to the Rules and Regulations of the Ontario Racing Commission.
4. It is expressly understood and agreed that the race may, if Woodbine Entertainment Group so determines in its absolute discretion, be conducted by a Racing Association other than Woodbine Entertainment Group, and Woodbine Entertainment Group shall have the right to assign, and transfer this entry and all monies paid to it hereunder to such other Racing Association and in such event all obligations, if any, of Woodbine Entertainment Group shall terminate.
5. Purse distribution: 50 per cent, 25 per cent, 12 per cent, 8 per cent, 5 per cent, unless otherwise stated in the conditions. Purse distribution for added money events may be held for a minimum of 15 days.
6. Woodbine Entertainment Group reserves the right to increase added monies at any time.
7. All races to be a distance of One Mile (1609 M) unless otherwise stated in the conditions.
8. If Eleven (11) horses or fewer declare to start, there will be no eliminations, and all declared horses will advance directly to the Final.
9. If Twelve (12) or more horses declare to start, races will be contested with two or more eliminations. The finalists from the elimination will be those horses who finish highest in the official order of finish. Horses tied for the last eligible starting position or positions for the final event will be drawn by lot to constitute a ten-horse field. All horses that qualify will advance directly to the final. If eliminations are used to determine the finalists, post positions in the final will be determined by an open draw with the exception that the elimination winners, in an order determined by lot, may choose their post position for the Final. The owner(s), or designated agent, of each winner must select the post position by a time specified by the Racing Secretary, or that elimination winner will be placed in the open draw with the rest of the Final field.
10. For each series conducted (unless otherwise stated in conditions): the Final event will be limited to ten horses according to the highest money earnings in the series. All horses must declare in for the Final. If one of the ten highest money winners fails to declare in for the final, the next highest money winner declared will become eligible to the final. If the number of horses tied in money earnings for the last eligible starting position increases the field to more than ten horses, they will be drawn by lot to constitute a ten horse field. If enough money winners fail to declare in for the final, starters in the series that are not money winners and declared for the final may increase the field to ten horses, and such horses will be drawn by lot. If there is more than one division of the preliminary races, each division will race for 100% of the advertised purse. If there are more than 4 divisions of a preliminary leg, some divisions may be carried over to the next racing day.
11. One Also Eligible may be carried on the Final Event.
12. Ontario Sired means bred by a sire that was registered in the Ontario Sires Stakes program in the year of the breeding. **
13. U.S. Funds will be accepted at the fees designated on the stake conditions. U.S. funds will be converted to Canadian funds when deposited to the bank. U.S. funds will be converted at WEG's internally published buying rate for US dollars.
14. Woodbine Entertainment Group may require all horses declared to its races to be on the grounds of Woodbine or Mohawk Racetracks up to 48 hours prior to the race in which such horses are to start. These horses may be placed in a retention barn.
15. All post positions will be drawn by lot unless otherwise stated in the conditions.
16. In series races a leg or a race may be cancelled if less than five separate betting interests are declared to start or due to weather or track conditions. A cancellation of a leg will not affect the running of the remaining legs of the series.
17. All nominated or supplemented horses must be registered as twins that were carried by the natural mother to term, or the only foal of the dam in any given year, or if produced through embryo/ovum transfer, must be the donor mare's first born foal in any given year.
18. No Also Eligible will draw in to race after wagering has opened.
19. A breach of any of these General Racing Conditions and/or any applicable racing rules and policies of Woodbine Entertainment Group that are in effect at the time of racing may result in fines, suspension of privileges, the loss of any or all nomination fees, sustaining fees and/or starting fees, and/or eviction from the premises of Woodbine Entertainment Group,
20. Qualifying standards for all added money events are governed by the Rules of The Ontario Racing Commission.
21. All nominating and all sustaining payments must be postmarked no later than due date. Failure to make a payment when it is due constitutes automatic withdrawal from the event. short period of time. While his neck healed nicely, his back has remained a problem.

"They're going to go in and lay something on the broken bones that will help them heal and they're going to reduce the pressure on a couple of nerves that are being pinched," Pierce said. "It will be done by the same doctor who did the operation on my neck and he did me a world of good. It's unbelievable how well my neck is now. I have a lot of confidence that this guy will be able to help. The first operation I had on my back didn't help at all. I thought it did because what they did is they cut some nerves when they operated on me and that relieved a lot of the pain, so I thought the operation worked. But it didn't last long. The pain came back and I was maybe even worse than I was before the operation. The people that will be operating this time, I have a lot of confidence in them."

Pierce said he has not gotten any guarantees from his doctors that have led him to believe he can definitely drive again.

"They didn't say they could fix me," he said. "They said they think they can relieve some of the pain."

When asked if he is more confident now than he was a few weeks ago that he will drive again, Pierce replied: "No, I'm not more confident. I wish I could say I was. But I'm not. I'm just going to take it as it comes, see how I come out of this operation. I will try to recover and be as easy on myself as possible and not do anything. That's hard and I've been doing too much when I should just be sitting around. I really have to pay attention this time. It's now or never."

Should Pierce make it back he will be pushing 60 and coming off a layoff of at least a year. That would seem to suggest he might struggle to get quality drives but Pierce said he thinks the opposite will be the case. He said that if he makes it back it will only mean that his back problems are in the past and he will be healthier than he has been in years.

"If I come back I'll be in better than ever," he said. "I think a year off will do me a lot of good. I'll be working on getting in tip top shape."

French Making Strong Effort to Extend Their Bloodlines Into Foreign Countries

By Emmanuel Roussel

Though French harness racing is largely closed to outsiders, that doesn't mean that foreigners cannot get their hands on French horses or inject French bloodlines into their own breeding industries. In fact, the French Trotting Association has been conducting private sales for about a decade to cater to non-French European breeders in need of cheap French bloodstock.

About ten times a year on average, horsemen of such and such country, Ireland or Poland for instance, are invited to provide a list of horse profiles they would need for importation in their home country. The Cheval Français then sends the required profiles through its Intranet, with a price tag attached to every type needed, and gathers the corresponding offers. Lots are made according to the localization of the horses for sale, generally 60 to 80 per round, and the foreign delegation is taken on tour to see the racehorses in action on local racetracks. When more than one horseman is willing to import an individual, the lot is drawn between the contestants. Once a horse is entered in the round, there cannot be any negotiation of its price within the program.

Benoît Fabrega, the Cheval Français MD's deputy, created this program when he was still working with Hippodrome de Montreal and joined the French organization international department, about ten years ago. Cheval Français was already trying to convince Canadian breeders to import some of the French stock by sponsoring a race restricted to their breed, and Fabrega developed these private sales to help Canadians to acquire horses without exposing the foreign buyers to any wrongdoing.

"About ten horses are sold for every round on average," says Fabrega. "The needs differ from a country to country, but people often look for cheap mares, aged 4 to 7-years-old without too much money on their account, with a price tag around €5,000. They can race them at home for a bit before they turn them to their farms. With time, French and foreign owners have developed individual relationships, as they invite each other. We also gather them every year in December for our International Day at Vincennes, and honor the actual and past owners of the best exported Trotteurs Français. It helps creating bonds.

Sometimes, the French horses do extremely good. I remember Iffrida (born in 1996), who had been sold to Canada and first went racing in local claimers, but ended up doing extremely well at the Meadowlands with Dan Dubé and Michel Lachance."

Iffrida is by Astiland and won 22 races in North America, earning $158,709.

By actively supporting the breed it represents, the Cheval Français strengthens its case for an alternative source of trotting bloodlines to those of the Standardbred in the rest of Europe and the world. "Production agreements" have been signed with 28 countries, including Canada and the USA, so that breeders in the participating countries can breed Trotteur Français horses and register them in the stud book with their national ruling body. Races restricted to these bloodlines have been sponsored by the French organization throughout Europe to further help the import of trotters from France and spread the breed.

The Cheval Français's raison d'être is the promotion of the breed it rules through the Trotteur Français studbook. It allows them to keep most of their racing program restricted to the French horses. However, almost anyone in the world of harness can now breed Trotteur Français and many Scandinavian or Italian breeders have chosen to do so. Swedish top trainer Lutfi Kolgjini sells the French yearlings he breeds at Deauville, the Swedish-based owner Courant AB invests in premier Standardbred and French bloodstock, and both plan to expand the French side of their business rather than reduce it.

Lutfi Kolgjini owns a dozen Frenchbred mares and most of them are covered by French sires so that the resulting foals are registered with the French studbook, which makes them eligible to the rich French racing program. The renaissance horseman that Kolgjini is, he sells most of that lot at the yearling sales but also keeps a few mixed foals in Sweden to sell and train. He's been developing a pan-European operation that has already proved successful many times and could again reach higher ground with a new star of his block, Pythagoras Face, a 3-year-old son of Muscle Hill out of French mare Occitane, whom he values a lot.

"I have always been interested in the Franco-American mix and I must say that my first attempt as a breeder was very successful as it gave us Revenue (born in 1996 and recently exported from the USA to follow his career at stud in Sweden)," Kolgjini told Trot Infos Magazine. "His dam Hazel Sund was very well bred and she had some class but she wasn't that strong. I wanted to mate her to a stout Frenchbred to compensate that and I thought about (1991 International Trot winner) Reve d'Udon, who has impressed me on the track and struck me as a very stout French trotter. Revenue was a champion and he also did well as a sire in the States. He'd won everything in Sweden at two, which I thought would convince the American breeders to go for it."

Mission Brief has a smidgen of French bloodlines in her pedigree

"Breeding that kind of horses is not that simple though. It cost me a lot to know it. Frenchbreds are not as predictable as standardbreds, which are easier to assess and to train. They need time and you never know where you are going with them, whereas you know pretty well where you stand after a few weeks in training with American horses. Yet, I still believe that the mix is the best breed you can find in the world. If the French stud book opens again to foreign bloodlines, I think the resulting horses can conquer the world."

With only a few exceptions, American owners and breeders have been reluctant to get involved with French horses or French bloodlines.

The reasons are fairly obvious. First, the stakes system in America favors the sires whose offspring reach their peak by the time they are 3. A Frenchbred typically peaks at 5, even though they are getting more precocious now thanks to the import of US bloodlines in the 90's. Yet to win a Hambletonian, you need a horse able to stand an enormous amount of training early enough in his sophomore season, which is not the rule in France.

Second, importing French sires and mares into the States would be like running a French turf thoroughbred over the dirt, or even hiring a rugby player to play in the NFL. Both sports have similarities, but it's a different game, and even though it could work with outstanding individuals with outstanding abilities, such as Revenue, it would be a major risk to be taken by a commercial stud. Which leads us to a third and very good reason: it would be difficult to sell a yearling whose pedigree is very unfamiliar to most prospective buyers, and the most important stud farms in the States are selling their foals.

Eventually, though, American breeders might change their minds. Though he no longer stands in the U.S., Revenue made an impact while there and sired Hambletonian winner Market Share. The Canadian-based sire Intinif, a Frenchbred, has also had some success in the States. There is also Mission Brief . Her dam's sire, Varenne, has got 1/16th of French blood. That may not be a lot, but surely, one of these days, a 3-year-old colt out of a French mare or by a French sire will perform at the highest level in the USA. And if the colt's owner is business orientated, like say a Jean-Pierre Dubois in his prime or Anders Ström (Courant AB), an alert Swedish businessman who breeds in Sweden, France and the USA, well, that will be the day.

PA HarnessWeek to End Run Tomorrow

The popular PA HarnessWeek show will be discontinued after airing Saturday. Yesterday, the team from the show released a statement on their Facebook page.

Dear Friends,

We're sad to announce this week's show is the final episode of PA HarnessWeek. It has been an honor to report on the excitement of Pennsylvania harness racing for eight amazing years. As the saying goes, if you love your job, you will never work a day in your life. In our case, truer words have never been spoken.

We cannot adequately express how grateful we are for the thousands upon thousands of you who have tuned in on CSN Philly, watched us online at www.HarnessWeek.com, and followed us on social media.

In the coming months, we will explore ways in which PA HarnessWeek might possibly continue, such as online streaming. We'll keep you posted. And of course, we'll still be on social media bringing you the latest news and announcements, so by all means, please keep following us! Special thanks to our friends at the Pennsylvania Harness Horsemen's Association for their major sponsorship. Also, thanks to The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono and Harrah's Philadelphia as well as CSN Philly. And of course, a heartfelt appreciation to all those who appeared on our little show over the years including Shannon DiAntonio, Kelly Connors, Ebe 'The Coach' Helm, Jennifer Sherlock, Susan Ehlers, Sonny the Paddock Judge and too many others to mention.

Finally, thank you to those involved in the sport. From owners and trainers to drivers and grooms and everyone in between, your generosity of time, passion and spirit has been unforgettable. You made it a pleasure for us to tell your stories.

Eight seasons flew by in the blink of an eye. We couldn't have done it without your support. From the bottom of our hearts, thank you. We hope to see you again, perhaps in a different form, next year.

Sincerely,
Heather, Steve, Sharla & Bruce

Meadow Skipper, The Untold Story Novel Is Released (press release)

BOCA RATON, FL (August 27, 2015) - Meadow Skipper, The Untold Story, written by equine professionals Victoria M. Howard and Bob Marks, has been pre-released.

Meadow Skipper, The Untold Story, is an unofficial autobiography of the historical life story of the Standardbred world champion pacer, Meadow Skipper, as told in a unique fashion with commentary by the horse himself.

The book features many action photographs of Meadow Skipper during his racing career and his life as the most prominent stallion in the history of the sport since Rysdyk's Hambletonian back in the 1850's.

The novel follows Meadow Skipper from his birth in 1960 through his intense racing career with trainer/driver Earle Avery. Meadow Skipper was a world or seasonal champion during each year that he raced. Once retired to stud duty, he went on to sired more than 1,700 progeny and as a stud, his progeny earned more than $66 million.

Some of his world champion foals include Albatross, Most Happy Fella, Ralph Hanover, Handle With Care, Naughty But Nice, Genghis Khan, Chairmanoftheboard and Governor Skipper, just to name a few of the nearly countless top horses he bred.

Published by Tate Publishing, the book is now available only through the publisher at https://www.tatepublishing.com/bookstore/book.php?w=978-1-68187-954-3. It will be sold throughout bookstores nationwide beginning in September.

Victoria M. Howard has raised, bred and raced harness horses for over 40 years. Howard has published 12 books. Her prior equine novels include Roosevelt Raceway; Where it All Began and a children's book, The Adventures of Max & Molly.

Bob Marks is a longtime marketing head of Perretti Farms in New Jersey and a noted equine writer, Standardbred pedigree expert and professional handicapper. He was recently inducted into the Harness Racing Hall of Fame in July, 2015. This is his first novel.

A book signing tour is set to begin on Sunday, October 4 at the Lexington Select Yearling Sales in Lexington, KY.

Virginia Harness Racing To Return To Oak Ridge Estate in October (press release)

WARRENTON, VA ----Harness racing will return to Virginia this October for a four day pari-mutuel meet at the beautiful Oak Ridge Estate in Nelson County. Located just off Route 29 in Arrington, halfway between Charlottesville and Lynchburg, Oak Ridge last played host to pacers and trotters back in 2001.

All the action is sponsored by the Virginia Equine Alliance (VEA) and will be contested over a one mile dirt oval on back-to-back weekends --- October 10/11 and 17/18. Wagering on the races will be available all four days. Win, place, show, exacta, trifecta and daily double bets will be offered.

Highlight of the meet is the $300,000 (est.) Virginia Harness Day of Champions, scheduled for Sunday October 18th. Eight championship races featuring Virginia's best two and three year old pacers and trotters of both sexes will compete on the same card. Prep/elimination races will be held the prior weekend --- three years olds on Saturday and two years olds on Sunday.

In addition to the Virginia Breeders' races, there are seven different late closer series that horses can enter. The first leg of these will be held either Saturday or Sunday of the first weekend, and the respective final legs, which carry purses of between $5,000 and $7,000, will be held on closing weekend.

Two of the seven are open handicap races --- the John Holland Jr. Memorial Trot and the Oak Ridge Pace. The remaining five are open to standardbreds that are Virginia owned, bred or sired. Pacing events are named respectively for the USTA, the Holland Family and Nelson County, while the trotting counterparts are named for the VEA and "To All Who Helped Make This Season Happen".

The barn area will open Sunday October 4th; qualifiers and the first draw will both take place on Wednesday October 7th. Horsemen must present current coggins papers for all horses upon arrival. For more information or to get stall applications, call Racing Secretary Craig Andow at 551-204-1796.

The physical address for the Oak Ridge Estate is 2300 Oak Ridge Road, Arrington, Virginia 22922. For more details on the harness meet and all of the new VEA initiatives, visit www.VirginiaEquineAlliance.com.

Rockin In Heaven

Rock N Roll Heaven

Standing at stud for just $8,500, Rock N Roll Heaven's offspring keep fattening their owners' bank accounts!

With Rockin In Heaven leading the way with a win in the $290,000 Empire Breeders Classic Final at Tioga, the richest race on the calendar for New York-breds, the sons and daughters of Rock N Roll Heaven had a big week. Five "Rocks" won or placed in stakes worth at least $200,000 and Sassa Hanover increased her career earnings to $676,440.

Look for the next crew of Rock N Roll Heaven winners at this fall's yearling sales.

in their respective finals on Sunday night in hopes of repeating.

Although the 2014 Two-Year-Old Colt Trot champ Cinnabar Hall was winless in 10 starts heading into this year's KYSS action, the son of Groton Hall has swept his two preliminaries as he is the odds-on favorite to repeat. Reigning filly trot champ Armatrading scored a career-best 1:55.4 victory in round two of the KYSS as she hopes to defend her title.

Cielle, who won last year's 2-Year-Old Filly Pace final, is still searching for her first win in 2015, but the daughter of Third Straight has a second and third in the KYSS prelims. The one to beat in the final for 3-year-old filly pacers is Twilight Princess, who has swept her way into the final and has the continent's leading dash-winning driver Aaron Merriman in the sulky.

Merriman will also drive defending colt champion Bestbestraight in the final for 3-year-old pacers, with the son of Third Straight posting a win and fourth in the opening two legs. Formidable competition should come the way of Tail Gunner Hall, who has six wins and four seconds in 10 starts this year. Also a son of Third Straight, Tail Gunner Hall scored a career-best 1:52 win in a Kentucky Fair contest earlier this month at The Red Mile, and he comes into the KYSS final off a 1:53.2 win in the second KYSS round.

In the 2-year-old finals, prelim winners Cavalcade Hall and Barryscourt will meet up in the colt trot, as will Kentucky Hall and Abbieville in the filly trot. Filly pace prelim winners Lakeisha Hall and Bellatricks will square off in the filly pace, while Cracker Cam, who swept his way in the opening rounds for freshman male pacers, is heavily favored in the final.

Nearly 200 televisions have been added to the renovated wagering and simulcasting area, with harness, Quarter Horse and Thoroughbred signals available. The area includes added wagering windows and self-serve units. Also, new, appetizing food service options are available.

Two guaranteed Pick 4 pools will be available for wagering. There will be a $10,000 guaranteed Pick 4 on races 7-10, with a $7,500 guaranteed Pick 4 on races 11-15. If there are no winning tickets on the first Pick 4, there will be a carryover into the second Pick 4.

Post time for the first race is 7 p.m. Admission and parking is free.

'Golden' Girls Impress At Mohawk

Courtesy of Woodbine Entertainment

Solar Sister has been unstoppable this season in the OSS, and it was more of the same when she took on five foes in the second of two Gold Series divisions Thursday evening at Mohawk Racetrack.

With three wins in as many tries against Gold Series foes this season, Solar Sister turned a two-hole trip into an eye-catching score in 1:50.4 in her $105,000 assignment for Team McNair.

She rushed to the early lead and threw down a :26.2 opening quarter before taking a backseat to Tessa Seelster as the field moved into the backstretch. Tessa Seelster sprinted through middle panels of :54.4 and 1:23 before being challenged in deep stretch by Solar Sister. Doug McNair summoned up :27.2 closing speed from Solar Sister who edged past Tessa Seelster by a neck in the closing strides. Capela rallied to finish third.

Gregg McNair trains the homebred daughter of Mach Three-Cabrini Hanover for partners David Willmot of King City and Clay Horner of Toronto, ON. The victory was the seventh of the season in 11 tries for the career winner of $598,940.

Cast No Shadow turned her two-hole trip into a 1:51 triumph in the first division for driver Randy Waples. The daughter of Shadow Play-Hypnotize stalked race favourite Wrangler Magic through sensible fractions of :27.1, :56 and 1:24.1 before going on the offensive in the lane. Cast No Shadow rolled alongside Wrangler Magic before using a :26.3 kicker to prevail by one-quarter of a length over the late-rushing Glamour Seelster. Wrangler Magic managed to hold on for the show dough.

Nick Gallucci trains the photogenic pacer for owner Millard Adams of Carlisle, OH. The victory was her eighth of the season in 15 tries, and the lion's share of the purse bumped her bankroll to $185,784

The three-year-old pacing fillies have one more Gold Series event prior to the Super Final. The fifth – and final – leg will be hosted by Flamboro Downs on October 1.
