Caviart Ally outduels Blazin Britches to win Jugette

The pacing filly delivers the first Jugette for driver Andrew McCarthy, trainer Noel Daley and Judy and Buck Chaffee's Caviart Farms of Vienna, VA.

Caviart Ally (Andrew McCarthy) out-gunned Blazin Britches on Wednesday at the Delaware County Fairgrounds to win the 47th edition of the Jugette.ne Caviart Ally got the better of a stretch duel between elimination winners, capturing Wednesday's (Sept. 20) $163,950 Jugette Stakes final for 3-year-old female pacers by three-quarters of a length over favorite Blazin Britches in 1:51.3 at the Delaware County Fairgrounds. Obvious Blue Chip was third and Tequila Monday finished fourth.

Caviart Ally and Blazin Britches won their respective eliminations earlier in the day; Caviart Ally in 1:52 and Blazin Britches in 1:52.1.

Blazin Britches and driver Trace Tetrick started from post No. 1 in the final and got the lead at the start as Caviart Ally and driver Andrew McCarthy settled into second and Obvious Blue Chip was third.

The horses remained in those positions through an opening quarter-mile of :27.3 and half in :55.4. On the backstretch, Tequila Monday made a first-over move and

The connections of Caviart Ally celebrate their win in the $273,250 Jugette.

Caviart Ally pulled out from behind Blazin Britches to make her bid for the lead. After reaching three-quarters in 1:23.3, the stretch battle was set.

Blazin Britches and Caviart Ally raced side by side for several strides through the lane, but Caviart Ally pulled clear as the two horses neared the wire.

"I saw (Tetrick) timed the gate pretty good and I didn't have any shot of getting around him," McCarthy said about the start of the race. "I looked up coming out of the third turn and (Blazin Britches) looked a little lazy on him. I wasn't sure how much pace he had, so I decided to take a shot and race him and it worked out."

Caviart Ally, a daughter of Bettor's Delight out of the mare Allamerican Cool, is owned by Judy and Buck Chaffee's Caviart Farms of Vienna, VA. The filly was bred by Hanover Shoe Farms and sold for $35,000 at the 2015 Standardbred Horse Sale.

For the year, Caviart Ally has won six of 15 races and hit the board a total of 13 times. She has won eight of 29 career starts and earned $585,000. She won this year's Pennsylvania

Sire Stakes championship and has finished no worse than second in eight consecutive races, winning five.

"She's got as much speed as (the other top 3-year-old filly pacers) but up until now she hasn't had as much bottom as a couple of them," winning trainer Noel Daley said. "We added Lasix a couple starts ago and it seems to have done the trick."

Caviart Ally was sent off at odds of 9-5, the second choice behind 2-5 Blazin Britches, who entered the final with 10 wins in 11 races this year and is stabled at the Delaware County Fairgrounds with trainer Brian Brown.

It was the first Jugette win for Caviart Farms, Daley and McCarthy.

"I saw her put the one step in and then the second one when she was gapping a little bit on the second turn," said Daley. "I was watching the race from the backside and John Campbell was right next to me. He even said Andy needed to pull right then. Once Andy did that she straightened right out; she was very good today.

"Between the two heats all we did was keep putting cold water on her with no blankets. That seemed to work for us and she came out of the first race just fine.

"Of course we are very happy with her today. Blazin Britches had a very tough race at Hoosier last out over that track. That might have taken just a little bit out of her. You never know. With the kind of race she had there it might have taken her a little more time to bounce back."

Jugette eliminations

In her $54,650 elimination, Blazin Britches won and Obvious Blue Chip finished second, followed by Terrortina and Rockin Serena to advance to the final.

Sent off at odds of 1-9, Blazin Britches (Rock N Roll Heaven—Soggy Britches) and Tetrick went to the lead on the first turn and never looked back, winning by 2-1/4 lengths. The filly, who has won 10 of 11 races this year, is owned by her breeder Emerald Highlands Farm.

Blazin Britches set fractions of :28.1, :57 and 1:24.4. Obvious Blue Chip tried to challenge heading around the final turn, but was unable to get within striking distance.

"I wanted to be on the move to the front by the backside to try to control the race," Tetrick said. "I had plenty of mare left; it was just trying to get her to pay attention. She kind of got to daydreaming there a little bit.

"She loves her job. When it was time to race she wanted to go forward.

"She was a little headstrong earlier on and Brian (Brown) went ahead and changed bits on her. Since then she has been perfect. She really loves her work."

Caviart Ally romped to victory in the second $54,650 Jugette elimination. Caviart Ally, the 8-5 favorite, led every step of the way. She pulled away from her rivals on the backstretch and was unthreatened from there.

Tequila Monday finished second, followed by Idyllic Beach and Ella Christina to reach the final.

Caviart Ally set fractions of :27.1, :56.3, and 1:23.4 on her way to victory.

"She's very handy off the gate," McCarthy said. "You just have to chirp to her a little bit and she will get out of there as much as you want to. That definitely helped. She actually got a little bumpy on me coming out of the third turn. I think we were going too slow; she just wanted to get going. I had to let her pace out a little bit to get her smoothed out and she was good.

"Over the last few months she has become much stronger. I used to always race from off the pace for that reason but I don't have to anymore. They did add Lasix as well, so that may have helped, but she is coming into her own."

Jugette Day undercard

McCarthy and Daley teamed up after their Jugette elimination win to take the $80,575 Buckette for three-year-old filly trotters.

McCarthy used a perfect drive with Cool Cates to keep Satin Dancer (Ronnie Wrenn, Jr.) locked on the rail and sprinted home to win in 1:56.

The Yankee Glide—Dance To Market filly, a $35,000 yearling purchase, has now won more than $250,000 for the All Laid Out Stables.

Seventeen three-year-old colt trotters competed in the $94,334 Ohio Breeders Championship.

Trainer Chris Beaver swept the two divisions with Buckeye Boss (Aaron Merriman) in the first division and Fraser Ridge (Ronnie Wrenn, Jr.) in the second.

Fraser Ridge established a national season's record of 1:55 in the second $47,167 division with a 4 ½ length win over Full Surge (Mike Wilder).

Fraser Ridge has won three in a row for Donald Robinson, Robert Mondillo, Beaver and RBH Ventures.

Buckeye Boss took the second division in 1:55.3 over Jailhouse Sam (Hugh Beatty) and Dejarover (David Miller).

The winner is owned by Beaver, Marion Beachy and Three divisions of the $130,000 OBCs for freshman pacing fillies were held with Prsntpretynperfect taking the fastest division in 1:54.3.

Prsntpretynperfect (Kayne Kauffman) overcame post 7 and was able to sit behind the leading Princess Rougarou (Yannick Gingras) until the final turn and sprinted clear to score by three lengths.

The daughter of Big Bad John—Wildfire Princess has now won six of seven starts this season for owners Jennifer Brown, Richard Lombardo and Joshua Green and trainer Brian Brown.

Baron Remy (Chris Page) won the second $43,333 division in 1:54.4.

Baron Remy belongs to Burke Racing Stable, Silva, Pumel & Libby, Lawrence Karr and Weaver Bruscemi. The nation's leading trainer Ron Burke conditions the Yankee Cruiser—Riley Character filly.

Pearl Crush (Ryan Stahl) took the first division over Shadows On Time (Ronnie Wrenn, Jr.) and Delicate Arch (Yannick Gingras) in a lifetime best 1:55.3.

The Yankee Cruiser—Pearly Berly filly is conditioned by Ron Potter for Clyde Perfect.

Two-year-old filly trotters competed in a pair of divisions of the $113,400 (div) Ohio Breeders Championships.

The first division featured a classic stretch duel between Looking For Zelda (Tony Hall) and Risky Deal (David Miller). The Break The Bank K fillies were nose-to-nose through the lane with Risky Deal getting the last call in a lifetime best 1:57.

Crist Hershberger trains the winner for Deborah Kvernmo.

To Russia (Ryan Stahl) used a final turn move to win the second $56,700 division in 1:58.2 over Red Storm (Aaron Merriman) and She's Got Pizazz (Brett Miller).

The Manofmanymissions—Oaklea Odessa filly now has $104,380 on her card for owner Parent Racing Stable and trainer Scott Cox.

The $12,900 OBC for aged trotters went to A Tc Queenie (Dan Noble) in 1:54.3.

The 4 year-old Triumphant Caviar—American Queen mare is owned by Trish Soulsby and Richard Schault and trained by Ron Steck.

Jules Siegel, Margareta Wallenius-Kleberg voted to Hall of Fame in class of 2018

Carl Becker and HRU's Dave Briggs elected to the Harness Racing Communicators Hall of Fame.

by the U.S. Harness Writers Association

Hambletonian Society

Jules Siegel (with his late wife Arlene) will lead the 2018 class of Harness Racing Hall of Fame inductees.

Longtime Pennsylvania owner and breeder Jules Siegel, less than two months short of his 90th birthday, joins Margareta Wallenius-Kleberg, one of the driving forces of harness racing in her native Sweden and a leader in European-American harness connections, as members of the 2018 class of the Harness Racing Hall of Fame. Siegel and Wallenius-Kleberg were elected by a joint polling of the members of both the U.S. Harness Writers Association (USHWA), the sport's leading media organization, and elected members of the Hall of Fame.

Elected as members of the Harness Racing Communicators Hall of Fame by a vote of USHWA members were Carl Becker, veteran announcer-pedigree expert-auctioneer based in his native Midwest, and Harness Racing Update editor Dave Briggs, whose nine Hervey Awards for outstanding writing have set the standard for quality harness racing journalism in recent years.

Hambletonian Society

Margareta Wallenius-Kleberg will be the first woman to be inducted.

In both cases, nominations were made by chapters of the harness writers, and then winnowed down to these four by blue-ribbon panels of veteran journalists. Each nominee needed 75 per cent of the yes-no votes cast by eligible electors to gain the sport's ultimate honor.

Jules Siegel was at Pocono Downs a couple of weeks ago when his Fashionwoodchopper (carrying the name of his Fashion Farms) won a Pennsylvania Sire Stakes championship. And it is safe to say that of the large group in and near the winner's circle, no one was more excited that the soon-to-be nonagenarian.

Veteran announcer and pedigree reader Carl Becker will be inducted into the Harness Racing Communicators Hall of Fame.

Siegel and his late wife Arlene established Fashion Farms in eastern Pennsylvania for their own pleasure, but when the college pharmacy major sold his successful chain of drugstores and retired in 1995, Arlene insisted "you cannot retire to nothing," so the Siegels acquired first-rate broodmares, bred them to top sires to achieve successful racehorses, then retained the females for future breeding and built success upon success, lasting to this day.

Tagliabue, the Hambletonian winner in Siegel's retirement year of 1995, was the first of his eight Dan Patch Award seasonal champions. He has five Breeders Crown winners to his credit as well, two of them homebreds: Broadway Schooner in 2009 and Broadway Schooner's daughter, Broadway Donna, last year.

Siegel and his wife were twice named Owner of the Year by USHWA, in 2002 and 2009, and Siegel was Standardbred

Dave Landry

HRU editor Dave Briggs will also be inducted in the Harness Racing Communicators Hall of Fame.

Canada's Owner of the Decade for the 2000s.

Margareta Wallenius-Kleberg, the first woman elected to the Hall of Fame, is the owner of Menhammar Stuteri AB, a breeding farm which has been in her family for 70 years and has been the leading breeder in her native Sweden for the last nine years. Wallenius-Kleberg created a North America-Europe comingling of racing and breeding talent with her partner, the late Hall of Famer Norman Woolworth, headed by stallions Zoot Suit and Smokin Yankee. The farm also stood two-time U.S. Horse of the Year Mack Lobell.

A tireless worker for the sport, Wallenius-Kleberg is a director of the Hambletonian Society in the U.S., and in 2011 received the Pinnacle Award for promotion of the sport. In Sweden, she was the former chair of the Swedish Breeders Association and of the organization operating Solvalla Racetrack, home of the famous Elitlopp, and is an honorary lifetime member of these two organizations and of the Swedish Trotting Association

Communicators

One, though a good writer, made his mark on harness racing through announcing and presentation of pedigrees at auction; the other, though an intelligent and glib speaker, has set the standard for writing excellence through his domination of the Hervey Awards. But Carl Becker and Dave Briggs share the characteristics of clarity, class, exhaustive knowledge, and insight, and thus both have risen to the top of their professions and a place in the Communicators Hall.

Carl Becker, a native of Illinois, began his career in harness announcing in 1963, traveling 300 miles to a matinee in Iowa where he worked without pay just to gain experience. Soon, major tracks were seeking him out to provide his insightful calls and commentary, most notably Du Quoin, IL, where he called the Hambletonian and World Trotting Derby; The Red Mile in Lexington, where he announced Niatross' historic 1:49.1 time-trial; and Louisville Downs.

Becker helped to transform the job of auctioneer and pedigree reader with his prodigious knowledge of breeding, family achievement, and "nicks," combining these with his enthusiastic announcing style to "draw out" the assembled bidders, pointing out a tidbit that might keep an auction going. In this capacity, he worked the sport's two major sales, Harrisburg and Lexington (and later both when two companies offered at Lexington), as well as for Garden State Sales and Blooded Horse Sales.

Dave Briggs, a native of Windsor, ON, achieved most of his early journalistic success through a series of increasingly-responsible roles at the venerable Canadian Sportsman magazine, while also writing for other top trade journals. In the last couple of years Briggs has been in charge of the reborn Harness Racing Update online newsletter, which provides coverage of the sport's major events along with commentary examining trends on the current harness scene.

With this workload have come awards – lots of them. Before Briggs, the most USHWA Dan Patch journalism awards won had been five, achieved by the late Hall of Famer Phil Pines. Briggs has shattered this standard by winning nine John Hervey awards, including an award in each of the last five years – and in 2012-2015, for four different publications. He has an equally long list of Canadian and international awards for journalism to his credit.

The new Hall of Famers will first be feted at USHWA's Dan Patch Awards Banquet, to be held Sunday, Feb. 25, 2018 at the Rosen Shingle Creek Resort in Orlando, in conjunction with USHWA's annual meetings. The new Hall of Fame class will be formally inducted during 2018's Hall of Fame ceremony on July 1 at the Harness Racing Museum and Hall of Fame in Goshen, NY.

Little Brown Jug Society doing the Wright thing

Little Brown Jug Society president Tom Wright talks about eliminating the race-off and other changes that may come.

by Dave Little

Courtesy Little Brown Jug Society

Jug Society president Tom Wright said the Jug format is changing to meet the times.

Among the many things harness racing and its governing bodies are known for are their resistance to change, so it came as a surprise when the Little Brown Jug Society decided to eliminate its winner-take-all third heat, given how rich in tradition the society and its marquee event, the Little Brown Jug, are.

Now, instead of winning twice on the same day, the Jug winner need only hit the wire first in the final.

"It came after years and years of thought," said Tom Wright, president of the Little Brown Jug Society. "I'm a traditionalist in the biggest sense there is, but we obviously had a great deal of opposition to the potential of a horse having to go three heats. We felt it was time to change."

Wright, 55, has seen it all when it comes to the Jug. He was on the society's board of directors for 22 years before being elevated to president in 2012. "We had a debate that lingered for three-to-five years on this topic," he said. "We felt it was the right thing to do for the sport, the industry and our event. For me, most important is the animal. He's got to come first. There was a time years ago when people went two and three heats out of necessity. That's not the case today. Speed has changed the breed dramatically. With speed comes potential wear and tear on the animal, and the last thing I want to do is damage an animal. That's the number one priority."

Clearly, Wright and the LBJ Society board members decided it was time for a change, but he admitted it took time for him to agree with the switch.

"I have not always been on the side that wanted to get rid of the third heat," he said. "I was a traditionalist to begin with. I learned from (grandfather-in-law) Hank (Thomson) and (father-in-law) Tom (Thomson). The most important thing in any business is to listen. So we listened to what owners, trainers, spectators, officials, veterinarians, everybody had to say. You have to listen. You don't want to make a hasty decision. You want to make the right decision. Society is made up of 25 directors that are knowledgeable and together we made that decision. The vote was not unanimous, I don't know the exact count, but it was heavily favored."

Today's Little Brown Jug will be the 72nd. The first 71 had the race-off in the conditions. Everybody knows about Rome and how it wasn't built in a day, so while it was huge to get rid of the race-off, why not also stipulate that if only eight horses drop into the Jug box (which is the case this year) that the event becomes one dash for the cash, rather than have an elimination that does no eliminating (Instead, the order of finish in the 16th race only determines post positions for the 20th race final.)?

"That's a good question, a great question," said Wright. "The answer is the fan. As long as I'm not doing damage to the animal, the fan loves (having the elim). Why do I get 40-50,000 people around a little Ohio county half-mile track? Because the fans love the horses. They enjoy watching the athlete and the thrill of the comeback. The excitement of it that builds is like none other."

We explained to Wright that with this format, the elimination, which goes for a purse of $188,928, might see horses not raced as aggressively as they figure to be for the $401,472 final.

"Great argument from that perspective," said Wright. "We want to make sure it's right for the animal. We want to make sure it's right for the sport. I fully support having an elimination and a final because the elim is critical to the final. If I don't race hard in the elimination, then I am affecting my outcome in the final, and the final is for significantly more money. We are taking steps. Eliminating the 'if necessary' third heat, that was a big deal for us. Now you come back and ask when are you getting rid of the second heat?"

While the days of getting 24-30 horses to drop into the Jug entry box are likely a thing of the past, Wright says the society was prepared in the event of a small turnout.

"We planned ahead as a group," he said. "And went through every one of those scenarios. If we get this many horses, what are we going to do? If we get that many horses, what are we going to do? That's the scenario we thought was best. Our fans, they love the two heats. It brings people out. We are different. We are not a commercial racetrack. That's not who we are and not who we want to be."

There are horsemen who are opposed to the multiple heat formats that are slowly but surely being phased out of the game. Ray Schnittker has made his opinion clear on the issue, which is why one-third of the sport's superstar 3-year-old colts, Huntsville, will not be at the Jug. (Fear The Dragon and Downbytheseaside will be there.)

Now that Ohio has alternate gaming, could the Jug bolster its purse moving forward to get the horsemen who might otherwise skip the event because of the multiple heats or small track size to reconsider?

"I asked John Campbell about it," said Wright. "And the best line I ever heard, John told me 'If you get the purse to a million, we'll race up and down Route 23.' We want to get the purse for the Jug to $1 million, no question about it. The Ohio Harness Horsemen's Association is helping us. They have contributed a great deal of money to the Jug and all of the races at Delaware. And we are grateful beyond belief. We are going to need more sponsorship and potentially maybe change the payment structure. All of those things come into play. We have a goal to get to a million. I get reminded of it almost daily."

BETWEEN THE LINES

First heat means everything in this year's Little Brown Jug

by Brett Sturman

The 72nd edition of the Little Brown Jug drew only eight entries, which is the smallest number of horses entered for the race since 1980. There will still be a first heat but all horses will be guaranteed to return for the final heat, should their trainers elect to race them a second time.

Eliminations where little to no horses are eliminated are generally meaningless since everyone returns for a subsequent richer race, but there's a twist in this case. Post positions for the final heat will be determined entirely by the official order of finish for all horses in the first heat. On the Delaware half-mile oval, where the inside posts are supremely advantageous, there is tremendous incentive to win the first heat, or at least to finish in as high a spot as possible.

What makes this logic easier said than done is the fact that the second heat is raced on the same afternoon as the first one. It's not the case of an elimination one week where you can go all out to secure a favorable inside draw and then reload and come back next week. In the Jug this year, you either have to win or come very close to winning the first heat, but do so without expending too much energy. Granted this isn't that different from any other year, but this year the winner of their first heat will be guaranteed the rail in the final heat.

An interesting observation is that because there is only a single preliminary heat, the purse of the first heat is very high relative of the purse to the final heat. The final heat goes for $401,472 but the first heat still goes for almost half that amount at $188,928. So unlike in many cases where the purse of the final may be 20 times more than the amount of the purse of the elimination, there is actually much more of a financial incentive in the Jug to do well in the first heat if you can, based on the purse being offered.

That said, most of the trainers sending out these eight horses in the Little Brown Jug are more concerned with the prestige of the winning the final heat of the Jug more so than the purses in either heat. If purses were an overriding concern for any of these horses, the trainers may have elected to race their horses elsewhere.

From a wagering standpoint – and I get that the Delaware County Fair is more than betting – can you really wager on the first heat? There's an obvious incentive to win as discussed, but there is also an incentive for drivers to not use their horses to their maximum effort.

The overall question becomes, with a spot already guaranteed in the final heat, how hard do you want to push your horse in the first heat. Ideally a driver wants to get the rail for the final but at the same time at what cost should that come to?

Brian Sears drives first heat morning line favorite Downbytheseaside and as expected, Sears is keeping his cards close to his vest. Not to reveal his strategy in mind, Sears said, "I really can't tell you what I'm thinking, because (of the importance of the decision). But it's all things that you have to think about."

Downbytheseaside has drawn post 5 for the first heat of the Little Brown Jug. It's certainly a less than an ideal post at Delaware and is further compounded by the fact that chief rival Fear The Dragon has drawn inside of him in post 3.

Said Sears, "Obviously, I would have liked to have drawn better. But I'm just going to see how my horse is feeling behind the gate, and see how aggressive he's feeling and take it from there. Hopefully he lets me know what he feels like doing."

Beginning with a monstrous effort in the Millstein at Northfield last month, Downbytheseaside has been as good as he's been all year.

"Seaside is a sharp horse right now," said Sears. I have to say that Brian (Brown) has done a great job because this horse has had to deal with some issues. He's been a little sharper at times than others; no question about it. But he's had at least 10 days off since his last race so hopefully he'll be sharp again.

"He's maintained his form really well. This is the type of horse that's kind of a speedball. He races aggressively and that's the way you have to race these better horses that are considered heavy favorites in races. He's held up well as the season has progressed. The season is so long for these 3-year-olds, when you look at where they started going back to the North America Cup and even before that in the sire stakes. It's a grueling season, to be raced on your toes all year long."

Sears knows that having the right horse is only part of the equation for success today. "To win the Jug, it's kind of got to be your day. You have to have some things go right; that's for sure."

In terms of handicapping the Jug, let's assume for all intents and purposes that the winner of the first heat will be the winner of the final heat due to the advantage that the rail horse will have.

Fear The Dragon lands a post edge but hasn't raced in a month. He also lost a slugfest with a similar post advantage to Downbytheseaside when these two last met in August, so there are reasons to play against if one is so inclined.

Not to be outdone, Filibuster Hanover is peaking for Burke right now and could surprise, as well as giving early issues to #'s 3 and 5. This one nearly lost on the front in an exceptionally fast 1:48:2 mile at Philly two back and closed strongly last out in the Jug Preview at Scioto. He picks up Yannick Gingras also and could be a sneaky play.

This is a tough call because in this race the post position matters almost as much as the quality of the horse, but I think Downbytheseaside is good enough to overcome his draw. He's the best horse at the moment and is my selection to win the 72nd edition of the Little Brown Jug.

Trainer Brian Brown

Brian Brown hoping to drink from the Little Brown Jug

The Delaware, Ohio-based trainer has the top two colts — Downbytheseaside and Fear The Dragon — and the home track advantage.

by Dave Little

These are hectic times for Brian Brown. They are also great times.

But when HRU reached the lifelong Ohio trainer yesterday before the start of the Jugette Day program, he wasn't sure of a few things.

"I think I have 11 in (Wednesday)," said Brown, who turns 53 next week. "But I'm not 100 per cent sure. (Today) I think it's 13, 12 maybe."

Brown may not be certain how many horses he has in, but after talking with him, you get the idea he would not have things any other way. He's the envy of every horsemen at the Delaware Fairgrounds, as in today's $590,400, 72nd edition of the Little Brown Jug for 3-year-old colt and gelding pacers, he holds a pair of aces.

Brown's power-packed pair includes Fear The Dragon (7-2 second choice on the morning-line, David Miller driving from post 3) and Downbytheseaside (2-1 favorite, Brian Sears, post 5), both of which have earned in excess of $1 million this season.

The duo, along with all of Brown's other horses, call Delaware home, so it should make for a big home-track advantage, yes?

"To tell you the truth," said Brown. "As good as Delaware's track is, I don't think I have any advantage. I don't think a horse that comes here, even if they have trouble on a half-mile track, would have a problem. As good as these turns are, as good as the track is banked, it's easier to get around. I don't think it makes a big difference for me. I just don't see it.

"When you are at this level, these are good horses, and if there's any horse in this race who can't get around a half, I doubt very much that they'd be here. If a horse had trouble at Yonkers, he could probably come here and get around this track and have no trouble. This track is so kind to horses. Good turns. Good footing. It's always in good shape."

Fear The Dragon was the early-season sensation after taking the North America Cup and Adios, but the son of Dragon Again—Armbro Cinnamon tied up before the Pennsylvania Sire Stakes Championship on Sept. 3 and, except for a Sept. 13 qualifier, hasn't raced since Aug. 18.

"Sure, I'm a little worried about the layoff," said Brown. "But I've trained him enough and he went a pretty good qualifier the other day. It might not look that good on paper (he went 1:54 at Hoosier Park) but the track wasn't that great. During the day, we were disappointed, but by the end of the night (given how the track improved), I thought it wasn't that bad."

After playing second fiddle to his stablemate earlier in the year, Downbytheseaside heads into the Jug with a fabulous four-race win streak that started with an electric performance in the Milstein, in which he defeated Fear The Dragon, who had drawn the rail and was bet down to 1-5, by going parked the final five-eighths after drawing post 7.

"It looks on paper like Seaside is the better horse right now," said Brown. "But don't ever count Dragon out. That horse is coming into the race in pretty good shape."

Downbytheseaside (Somebeachsomewhere—Sprig Hanover) has only four losses this year. Two to Huntsville and two to Fear The Dragon. All while battling some physical issues.

"In the Messenger elimination, Downbytheseaside was unbelievable," said Brown. "But I almost scratched him because his feet were killing him at the time. He was on like his fourth pair of shoes in about five days. Then, we finally hit the right combination. When we changed him back to regular aluminum shoes for the final, he was not as good. Then, when we went back to the flip flops at Scioto, Brian (Sears) actually said he was dull, so we changed his bridle a little to train him. I'll go back to the normal bridle he races in, the open bridle with the Murphy Blind on the left, and use the flip flops for the Jug."

With the exception of Huntsville, whose connections opted to skip the Jug due to the multiple-heat format, some of the better sophomore pacing colts in training will be on hand to take on the dynamic duo.

"Funknwaffles (Corey Callahan, 6-1) got the rail and is going to get a great trip," said Brown. "So he could easily be part of the race. Filibuster Hanover (Yannick Gingras, 5-1, post 2) and Boogie Shuffle (Scott Zeron, 6-1, post 6) are coming in off two unbelievable races. Filibuster, I think they raced him kind of easy expecting a hotter pace at Scioto. It didn't materialize and they raced him from behind (and finished second to Downbytheseaside), but that horse whacked out a :48.2 mile and Boogie sat behind him and beat him that day (Sept. 3) at (Harrah's Philadelphia). That was a helluva mile. Those are the two that I'm most worried about."

Brown is well aware of what the Jug is all about from a historic perspective, and while he favors the new format – where a race-off is now unnecessary – he would have been okay with anything thrown his way.

"I'm fine with the new format," he said. "And I would hate to race three times in a day. I'm sure there are horses that get beat up, roughed up, but so far I have not had that problem. This year (with only eight dropping in) would have been the year to try one trip, but whatever the conditions say, we'll be here."

The possible problem with this year's two-heat, non-elimination format is how much effort will be given in the first heat when the second goes for twice the money and determines who walks away with the hardware. The first heat's order of finish determines post positions for the final.

"What if my horses had drawn posts 7 and 8?" said Brown. "I would have been very disappointed if we went one trip then. This is the Jug. I don't think the two trips is the reason people aren't coming to the Jug. I don't believe two trips bothers the horses that much. I don't think you can pinpoint (why more horses didn't drop in), everybody has different reasons. If it went for more money, I'm sure we'd have more horses. I think you'd have more than you wanted if we went for a million."

For someone like Brown, who grew up 40 miles from the track and has made his mark in life racing in Ohio, winning the Jug would be beyond special.

Would this be the biggest win of your career? "Yes," said Brown. "I can remember coming here and hearing Roger Huston's voice. It made the hair on my arms stand up. There is nothing like being at Delaware. It's different here. I snuck into the grandstand the year (1977) Governor Skipper won and wound up in a box seat with some elderly people who were nice enough to let me sit with them. I have never missed a Jug since.

"I'm not just in the business to be in the business. I'm a fan. To be here on Jug Day, and racing, and then be in the Jug with the two favorites, there's nothing that describes what it feels like. These horses have not given me a reason to be overly nervous in any race this year because they always race well. I'm sure by the time the final comes, I'll be nervous. But let the horses do their thing, the drivers do their thing and the horses will talk for all of us."

Good thing, because Brown probably doesn't have the time to spare.

2005 was a most interesting Jug

by Bob Heyden

P Forty Seven won the Jug but never another race — and he competed at age 4.

The Horse Of The Year Rocknroll Hanover lost twice that day (finishing second and third). His part-owner, Jeff Snyder, did not win the final, but got three checks for finishing second with Village Jolt, third with Rocknroll Hanover and fifth with Cams Fool.

Lis Mara finished sixth and last in his heat, but a year later was the Older Pacer Of The Year

With Anticipation was also no factor in his heat, but two years later — on Aug. 4, 2007 — his 1:47.2 on Hambletonian Day was the fastest mile in the sport that year.

From longshot to fave

Steve Elliott sent out the favorite to win the 2009 Jug — Well Said. But 23 years earlier, he was far from the public choice with 332-1 shot Mr Rodeo Drive (who finished eighth).

Best Bret

Bret Hanover entered the1965 Little Brown Jug — which he swept — with a 40-for-43 career slate going in.

$8 million finish in 2001 Jug

The 1-2-3 finishers across the wire in the 2001 Jug — coincidentally the richest Jug ever to that point with a purse of $646,050 — wound up with over $8 million in career earnings when all was said and done.

1st Bettors Delight — $2,581,461
2nd Real Desire — $3,159,299
3rd Four Starzzz Shark — $2,537,267
The three had combined earnings of $8,278,027

Mother and Child Reunion

Three Diamonds won the 1982 Jugette and her son, Life Sign, won the 1993 Jug. Scott Nazdeo was the caretaker for both.

Dream anniversary

In 1997, for the first time since Dream Maker raced in the 1976 edition (sixth), a horse with "DREAM" as a part of his name competed in the Little Brown Jug. Three horses had DREAM in their names, as a matter of fact, and all they did was win every race and the final.

Dream Away $4.40

Gothic Dream $14.60

Western Dreamer $2.60, $5.00. The latter price is in the final where he was not favored — 6-5 Dream Away was.

Did you know...

... The Jug Preview debuted in 1944, but the Little Brown Jug itself would not begin until 1946?

Dozen dominance

In the 12 years between 1954 and 1965, Adios sired the winner of the Jug eight times. He did so with a brown, a bay and a chestnut and six of the eight winners were conditioned by trainers who became Hall of Famers.

Jug milestones

First $100,000 Jug — 1968 Rum Customer

First $200,000 Jug — 1979 Hot Hitter

First $300,000 Jug — 1982 Merger

First $400,000 Jug — 1986 Barberry Spur

First $500,000 Jug — 1989 Goalie Jeff

First $600,000 Jug — 2001 Bettors Delight

Quiz

Q. Who is the only trainer to win the Jug, the North America Cup, the Meadowlands Pace twice, the Hambletonian twice and have the Horse Of The Year twice as well?

A. Blair Burgess.

The 1951 Jug

Tar Heel makes history in an epic and controversial Jug.

by Dean A. Hoffman

It was a casual comment uttered in a tack room a half-century ago.

"Solicitor," the old horseman said, rubbing his chin whiskers, "was the first horse ever to pace in 2:00 on a half-mile track and get stiffed."

I knew who Solicitor was. In that era, he was best known as the sire of Overtrick, winner of the 1963 Little Brown Jug in a world record 1:57.1. But Solicitor had competed in the early 1950s when 2:00 miles were as rare as a cactus in the Klondike.

I knew, too, that Solicitor had been a stablemate of Tar Heel when he won the Little Brown Jug, but it wasn't until the 1980s that I probed the accusation of Solicitor being "stiffed" in the Little Brown Jug.

Allow me to set the stage first. By the middle of the 20th century, Delvin G. Miller was harness racing's shooting star. He became the first driver ever to win the Hambletonian and Jug in the same year when he steered Lusty Song to win at Goshen and Dudley Hanover to win at Delaware in 1950. He had a power-packed group of juveniles in his racing stable in 1950 and he had a 10-year-old stallion named Adios at his Meadow Lands Farm in western Pennsylvania.

Miller's extraordinary skill earned him the patronage of W.N. Reynolds, a patriarch of harness racing and co-founder of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco empire. Reynolds had bred and owned a Hambletonian winner and campaigned at the elite levels of the sport, but picked the young man from Pennsylvania to manage his horses.

In the spring of 1950. Miller and his assistant Jimmy Arthur realized that they had some serious talent in Tar Heel and Direct Rhythm, two posthumous sons of the world champion Billy Direct. Another talented but headstrong juvenile colt in the stable was Solicitor. This trio rolled over their opposition in the juvenile wars of 1950.

Miller often drove Solicitor because he was a challenge to control in a race and Miller seemed to get along with him best.

One young reinsman that Miller selected to drive Tar Heel in his juvenile form was Billy Haughton, then 26. Miller came under some criticism for not using more experienced Grand Circuit stars.

"He's sure getting kids to drive Tar Heel," whispered the anvil chorus.

Milller said, "Billy had shown me that he could drive with the best of them by then."

The Fox Stake was then the prime prize for junvenile pacers and the Miller entry bowled over their foes. Solicitor won the first heat after Tar Heel skipped offstride briefly. But Tar Heel took round two.

That set up a raceoff between the stablemates. Tar Heel went to the front and Miller sat on his back with Solicitor and burst past the pacesetter with a final eighth in 14 seconds.

Tar Heel popped a curb at the start of the 1951 season and Miller took it easy with him for a couple months. He was far from top form in the summer, but getting better as his hocks healed and he got tighter.

The success of his homebreds was lost on the beloved "Uncle Will" as Reynolds was seriously ill in the summer of 1951. He died on Sept. 10.

Miller spent the summer priming Solicitor, Tar Heel, and Direct Rhythm for the Little Brown Jug in Delaware. He'd won the previous year with Dudley Hanover, but that was a catch-driver. This year, Miller wanted to have the Jug winner in his stable.

Miller had already entered the Reynolds trio in the Reading Futurity in Pennsylvania, but scratched them when he got the news of their owner's passing.

"I didn't want them to race while Mr. Reynolds was laid out," he said. Miller himself went to North Carolina for his patron's funeral services.

The Little Brown Jug loomed just a week away. The three heats of the Reading Futurity would have been a perfect tightener for the Jug. He managed to get Tar Heel into a free-for-all race that he won in 2:03.2.

In the Jug, Del Cameron steered Tar Heel and Miller himself was behind the headstrong Solicitor. Tar Heel got away easily and Solicitor gave Miller fits and simply couldn't catch his stablemate.

In the second heat, however, Solicitor behaved and got away strongly and Tar Heel was behind him this time.

This was a scenario that Miller had frankly dreaded. He knew that if he drove Solicitor all out, the colt might win the second heat.

"I was worried about going three heats since I'd missed the Reading Futurity because of Mr. Reynolds' death," explained Miller. "If Solicitor had won the second heat, we'd have to come back for a third and another horse might have won the third heat. And then there'd have been a fourth heat.

"I was cutting a pretty good pace with Solicitor in the second heat," Miller continued, "and I got a little worried that Tar Heel wasn't going to catch me. I didn't punish Solicitor, but he wasn't a horse that needed to be punished. But I really believe that if I'd gotten into Solicitor he might have beat Tar Heel. But I wasn't anxious to go another heat."

Tar Heel inched past his stablemate in the stretch and hit the wire in 2:00, making him the first sophomore to pace in that time on a half-mile track.

Miller quickly pointed out that the Reynolds horses were all coupled in the wagering and they were owned by the same man, so the bettors were not harmed and no owner suffered.

Times have changed since Tar Heel paced the first 2:00 mile in Jug history. Trainers seldom drive their horses today. Popular and talented Ohioan Brian Brown comes into today's Jug with a powerful entry, but he won't be sitting behind either one. Those responsibilities fall to David Miller and Brian Sears. And it's likely that Brown will give both drivers the same simple instructions: "Win the Jug."

Meadowlands seeks permission to ban horses that test positive

by Bill Finley

The New Jersey Racing Commission (NJRC) put off making a decision Wednesday on a petition submitted by the Meadowlands that would make any horse that tests positive for a prohibited medication ineligible to race for 90 days.

NJRC executive director Frank Zanzuccki announced at yesterday's regularly scheduled commission meeting that a ruling would be deferred for 90 days because the commission needed more time to review some of the legalities involved.

Should the commission approve the Meadowlands petition, New Jersey will become the latest jurisdiction to place a temporary ban on horses who have had positive tests. Ontario already had such bans in place and Pennsylvania recently passed regulations mirroring the Ontario rules.

However, the proposed New Jersey ban would be stricter than those in Ontario and Pennsylvania, in that horses testing positive for any type of prohibited medication or having an excessive TCO2 level would be banned for 90 days. In Pennsylvania, TCO2 overages and Class III drug violations result in bans of 30 days.

Zanzuccki said that should the new rule be implemented, any horse testing positive in New Jersey will be banned from racing at both Freehold and the Meadowlands. In addition, horses testing positive in outside states could not compete at the New Jersey tracks.

Unlike in Pennsylvania, where the new regulations cover thoroughbreds and standardbreds, the New Jersey rules would be for harness horses only.

In an unrelated matter, the commission approved the Meadowlands' request to alter its racing schedule in November. Cards scheduled for Nov. 17 and 24 will be eliminated and replaced by racing programs on Nov. 4 and 11. The latter two dates are Saturdays and became available when thoroughbred interests decided to scrap plans to race those days on the grass course at the Meadowlands.

Two world records last weekend

by Thomas Hedlund

At Vincennes in Paris, France last weekend, the Prix de l'Etoile was held. It is a special race for 3-, 4- and 5-year-old trotters. The 3-year-old horses has an advantage of 50 meters compared to the 5-year-olds and this year a youngster took the trip to the winner's circle.

Sébastien Guarato is the trainer of Ecu Pierji (Tucson) and the 3-year-old trotter was served a trip third over by Mathieu Mothier when the pace was high in front. Ecu Pierji had advantage of the race with 250 meters to go and the winning time, 1:54.2 (mile rate) over approximately 1.3 miles, is a world record for 3-year-olds over the actual distance.

Ecu Pierji was the best horse in Criterium des jeunes ($240,000) earlier this year and Guarato could note that he has been successful in Prix de l'Etoile ($270,000) two years in a row. Last year, his Love You son Bolero Love (5-years-old) won the race in 1:53.2 (mile rate).

Enrico Bellei drove Italian-bred Urlo dei Venti (Mago d'Amore) in front in Gran Premio Continentale ($210,000) in Bologna, Italy last Sunday and the 4-year-old trotter won easily in a world record time of 1:55 (mile rate) over the distance 1.25 miles on a half mile track. Natural Herbie held the record (2:24.4) before Urlo dei Venti.

Kriterium elims

Last Sunday, eliminations for the Kriterium in Sweden was held at Solvalla and trainer Svante Båth had a great day with two winners and a total of five contenders in the final where a $500,000 purse is waiting.

Båth won with Very Kronos (Ready Cash) and Coin Perdu (S.J.'s Caviar). Båth's other finalists are: Global Unspoked (S.J.'s Caviar), Global un Poco (Conway Hall) and Capitol Hill (Muscle Hill).

Here are the entires for the Oct. 1 events at Solvalla:

Svenskt Travkriterium ($503,000)

Big finals in Norway

On Sunday, Sept. 10 at Bjerke racetrack in Oslo, Norway, was a big day for harness racing fans. The track gathers all the finalists in the crops of 3- and 4-year-olds for the Kriterium (3-year-olds) and the Derby (4-year-olds).

Norskt Travkriterium for mares ($97,000) saw an upset winner in the Weingartner son Gluhwein, trained by Gunnar Eggen, who is most known for his success in Europe and USA with Sugarcane Hanover in the late 80's. Sugarcane Hanover won, among many big races, the historical March Of Dimes at Garden State Park in 1988 and overcame horses such as Ourasi, Mack Lobell and Napoletano.

Gunnar Eggens son Hans Jörgen drove Gluhwein and from second over the duo were unstoppable at 2:00.1 as approximate mile time over the distance two 5/8ths of a mile.

In the colts and geldings division ($194,000) Cocktail Jet son Hard Times, trained by amateur Ola Åsebö and driven by Ulf Ohlsson, went to the front early in the race and Hard Times sprinted easily to victory in 1:58.1 over the distance 1.6 miles.

Front position was also the winning concept when the two divisions of the Derby were held. In the fillies division ($128,000) Thai Tanic mare Medelen L.T.C. kept the lead with driver Erik Höitomt and with a half-length advantage the last quarter of a mile, the 4-year-old held on to victory in 1:58 over the distance two 5/8ths of a mile.

The biggest event of the day was the Derby ($256,000) and it was excitement around the arena when many fans wanted to see Per Oleg Midtfjeld's world record holder Ferrari B.R. bring home the biggest victory of the season. Ferrari B.R. (Muscles Yankee) surprised the harness racing world when, in May, he set a world record by winning in 1.09.9 (1:52.2 as approximate mile time) over the distance two 5/8ths.

The 4-year-old had won all his races towards the Derby, but in chase of the lead, he made a break and was never seen with great chance to win the race.

The front horse Cokstile (Quite Easy) stood up well when the opponents tried to defeat him. In the end of the last turn, Cokstile was a beaten horse, but driver Lars Anvar Kolle managed to get the best out of the 4-year-old and the duo came home in 1:58.1 over the distance 1.6 miles.

A yearling sale was connected to this spectacular weekend and Trixton son Te Amo Corazon was sold in new sale record in Norway of $122,000.
