My heart and prayers go out to all involved in the horrific shooting at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, FL. When I started to write this column I promised myself I would stay clear of politics. But this, by the nature of its closeness, requires comment. The mass murder happened in my backyard at the school Per and Tina Erickson brought their kids to study. It's crazy. I spoke to my dear friend Carlo Vaccarezza, who I mention later in this column. Both of Carlo's children attend Douglas and were physically unharmed, however most of the shooting came in his son's classroom where he had to witness the killing of many of his best friends. The thought of my son or daughter going through this is nothing short of horrifying. We have gone too far without change. The NRA will blame it on a mentally disturbed kid. Take the GUN out of the hands of the mentally disturbed kid and you wouldn't be reading this story. This was the 18th gun related school incident in the first 45 days of 2018. That is insane. Somehow or other we have to overcome the power of the gun lobby and stop the wanton killing in our communities.

A lot of people asked about the proposed WEG/Gural integrity rule. I have had a myriad of questions relating to it, and fortunately or unfortunately it has been put on hold till 2019. Rather than try to answer the queries individually, I have chosen to answer as follows: The idea was good, not great, but the implementation was way too complex.

I realize that in matters such as this, the rule of law must be seriously considered, however when lawyers try to word it themselves, it appears convoluted, and getting down to basics, unreadable. If a rule is not thoroughly understood it is impossible to put into practice. I have spoken at length with Clay Horner, and he agreed with my assessment that the lengthy explanation of trainers A and B etc. were way too attorney like, and needed simplification.

I am not convinced assessing trainers will work, but if you do it, it should be based on lifetime misconduct not a few years.

I have been informed by Nick Salvi that the Meadowlands was to wait on the new rule till 2019 but that Mr. Gural intended to amp up the search for offenders in 2018.

My personal opinion is that the rule in its present form is not enforceable, nor do I think it would stand up in a court of law. But that is not important, the fact that it asks to be tested is, and at this point there is no necessity to open a legal hornet's nest with all the other problems we face. Let WEG/Gural propose the new rule then sit down with some intelligent people from various sections of the industry and finalize a lucid proposal.

This group should then create a panel of three or five men and women that would have the power to enforce the rules and decide the merit of any "mitigating circumstances." This panel should have the FINAL say in all matters.

For certain, I would not like to see track owners or racing commissions having anything to do with doling out punishment. I don't think this needs any further explanation.

Paul Kelley asks: #1 Please explain what (if any) the influence of Scandinavian training techniques had on your operation and what American techniques do you feel were most accepted and practiced by your Scandinavian competitors. #2 If you are cruising down the highway and feeling really good what are you rocking out to?

Looking back to the early years there were no Scandinavian trainers that I came in contact with as I was always on half-mile ovals i.e. Yonkers, Roosevelt and Monticello Raceways. Hakan Wallner and Nordic didn't appear till later on. So, I did have some success before the Nordic invasion. But the good horses I had at that time were all older and racing in overnights for the most part with a sprinkle of stakes thrown in, but the opportunities were slight compared with today.

When I started training Grand Circuit stock, the Scandinavian influence was profound. I can honestly say I don't think I would have been nearly as successful without the use of interval training on the straight track. If used properly I think it can create miracles.

My teacher — not a good, but great, horseman Per Eriksson — forced me to learn after Giant Victory beat MB Felty in the 1991 Hambletonian. I must add that I also learned a lot about interval training from Eduardo Gubellini while training with his son and fabulous driver Pietro in Milan.

I remember Lindy Farms gave me a 2-year-old colt that had an inoperable OCD in his ankle. Sonny Antonacci came into my office and said, "I don't want to see this colt on the main track once this year. Jog and train only on the straight track." I did sneak in a training or two just to realize how right Sonny was. The colt couldn't trot at a road clip on the hard main track, but acted like a champion on the soft straight track. When we got to the Meadowlands the colt won his only start for me in his first qualifier in 2:01 and found a new home immediately thereafter.

There are other things that I learned from the Scandinavians, Trond Smedshammer taught me about the "Norwegian Whip," which is not a whip at all but a pull up or pull down blind bridle that Continental victory wore in the 1996 Hambletonian. It is called a whip because drivers are not allowed to carry one in a race in Norway. He also taught me about the Norwegian martingale that fits over the head and is made of a stretchy material that works wonders on a horse that fusses with his head.

Believe it or not I did teach the Swedes something. I was always into brace bandages and light shoes behind as opposed to boots and steel shoes. I am not sure if it was Eriksson or Takter, but they called this preference "a la Gurfein".

As far as music is concerned, I have had the same CDs in my car for almost 30 years. My favorite would be Alabama. I love, If You Want To Play In Texas, it's the ringtone on my phone and Christmas In Dixie. I have an eclectic tape that my son Blake made for me mostly '50s and '60s rock and roll, Frank Sinatra, Edith Piaf and last but not least, Jacques Brel Is Alive And Well And Living In Paris.

Sara Miller asks: It seems to me you have lived in Boca Raton for a long time. Do you know of a nice spa in the downtown area?

I have lived here for almost 30 years, and there is a wonderful spa around the corner from Frank and Dino's Restaurant at 94 South Federal Highway.

Beauty Smart Dermatology Clinic Medical Spa, is the brainchild of the world famous international model and actress Deana Clark who has been in the beauty business her entire life. Not only does this elegant lady own the spa she is a major facet of the operation on a daily basis. Her team was enhanced recently by the addition of Ligaya Buchbinder a well known board certified dermatologist who came out of retirement in June. "We customize treatments and services so you are more youthful when you leave. Bring a photo of yourself from five years ago and we will try to turn back the hands of time. We also do skin tightening, not like going under the knife, with a down time of 10 days max," said Clark. Some of the services offered are, laser removal of: brown spots (good for men, too), broken capillaries, wrinkles, hair and tattoos. Also, they offer dermal fillers, Botox, and body contouring. My take on this is you will not leave the spa looking like a typical "Boca Beauty."

Parking is always a problem in downtown, however Carlo Vaccarezza, the owner of Frank and Dino's tells me that if you are going to the spa you are welcome to use his valet service that is just a few paces away.

When you go to the spa mention HRU or my name and save $100.

Gerrit Troisi asks: Do you think there is too much overtraining and warming up between races? It seems like you get only a few quality starts from a 2- of 3-year-old.

If you think that way in 2018 you may rarely win a stake race. Unless you have an exceptionally talented horse those over trained beasts will get you in the long run. The giant stables have troops, not individuals. They train like hell and only the strong survive, but the strong are more than fit. In my early days, all anyone had was maybe a dozen babies and we took care of them. Today, when there are 70 or 80 yearlings, it's a whole new world. I have never had that many that I could even sacrifice one, but I will testify to the fact that training fast works. I have done it on a few occasions and find it more than effective. There are however horses that do not fare well in this type of program and a trainer has to be quite vigilant to pick up on who belongs and who doesn't.

As far as warming up is concerned I find that the "modern" trainer doesn't warm up much at all. Some merely jog a mile and are done. I think warming up is important for a variety of reasons. It loosens a colt up, and gives him a chance to empty out. You have to experiment. No two horses will react exactly the same to warm up methods. I can make a case for jogging three miles, for going a trip in 2:40 or a trip in 2:08. If you want to be successful in 2018 step on the gas.

Thank you again to all my readers. Your positive response has been amazing. Next week Bob Marks asks about the horses I bought that I thought had the greatest ability before sale time.

Belina Josselyn victorious in Prix de France

The spectacular race in Paris featured a battle to the wire with Bold Eagle and Propulsion.

by Thomas Hedlund

Three horses made the €400,000 Prix de France ($500,000) spectacular Sunday at Vincennes racetrack in Paris, as Belina Josselyn was the narrow victor.

French star Bold Eagle was chasing his first victory during the Paris meet, which ended with second-place finishes in all his races there this season.

From number eight behind the gate, the son of Ready Cash opened quickly, but had to wait until the half-mile before he reached the front.

It was Timone Ek and Wild Honey that fought for the lead in the first 500 meters and the American-bred Cantab Hall mare Wild Honey eventually got the desirable position in front for driver Björn Goop. By that time, Bold Eagle attacked three wide for Franck Nivard and when he asked, Goop had no thoughts of keeping Wild Honey in the lead.

With Bold Eagle in front, Propulsion was served a trip second over for Örjan Kihlström and behind him, Jean-Michel Bazire struggled to find a suitable trip for his Belina Josselyn.

In Prix d'Amérique, Belina Josselyn was three wide the whole race (1.7 miles) and this time Bazire helped the mare a little more by giving her a trip in the back of Ringostarr Treb during the last half mile of the race.

In the home stretch, Bold Eagle seemed to have everything under control, but Propulsion, who had made contact on the outside of the leader with 600 meters to go, never gave up and three wide Belina Josselyn attacked with a strong finish. Those three horses fought strongly and it was the mare Belina Josselyn who had shown most of the power when the Prix de France was over.

of 2,100 meters (1.3 miles) with prevailing conditions at Vincennes.

Bold Eagle finished second and Propulsion third. Propulsion will now go back to Sweden and prepare for the Elitloppet in May, while Belina Josselyn, most certainly will aim for Prix de Paris (4,000 meters at Vincennes) on Feb. 25. Bold Eagle will compete in more mile races and it is possible that the 7-year-old will try again in the Elitloppet at Solvalla.

She had a super race in Prix d'Amérique and it feels very good that she could win one of the biggest races this winter. Of course, it's a lot of work behind a victory like this and we have to be very accurate in our preparations," Bazire said.

Wild Honey to Propulsion

Wild Honey's start in last Sunday's Prix de France in Paris was the last race of her career.

Wild Honey had two successful seasons for Jimmy Takter as a 2-, and 3-year-old, where she fought against antagonist Mission Brief in the big races. After the 3-year-old season, Wild Honey was sold to Brixton Medical AB in Sweden, where she continued to race with success among older horses. In 2017 and 2018 she participated in the biggest race for the elite in Europe, the Prix d'Amérique. Trainer Daniel Redén decided to let her be a breeding mare after the Prix de France.

Wild Honey's first companion will be stablemate Propulsion (Muscle Hill—Danae).

Social media lights up over Bert Renaud's questionable drive at The Raceway

by Garnet Barnsdale

You can check out Race 2 from the Tuesday, Feb. 13 card at The Raceway at The Western Fair District here.

Race two at The Raceway at Western Fair caused a bit of a buzz Tuesday night when the heavy favorite Sweet Ana Hanover rode the pylons the entire mile then finished with pace to be a fast-closing second on the wire.

A Facebook post by bettor Ryan Willis complaining about the drive got predictable responses from sides with differing interests. Bettors who made the four-year-old Dragon Again—Sammys Magic Girl mare 65 cents on the dollar predictably complained that they weren't given a fair shake when driver Bert Renaud elected to stay on the pylons in third rather than go first up. Horsepeople – including the mare's trainer Julie Walker – chimed in. Walker noted that her mare tried the overland route the week before with no success: "Maybe she pulled out of the 3 hole the week before and couldn't get around Lady Oxford, so don't repeat the mistake again?????"

It was noted that there were several bettors complaining about the drive at the track and that prompted The Raceway's manager of racing Greg Blanchard to call the judges. "We take these things seriously," Blanchard explained. "Between some comments and emails directed at me and indirect comments on social media platforms, the negative feedback was substantial. The judges did follow up with me after speaking with him and were satisfied with his explanation. We have a good line of communication with our AGCO officials and feel it's important to relay customer concerns such as these."

I will say as both a bettor and an owner I understand both sides of the equation. Based on Sweet Ana Hanover's past performances, it could be expected that there would be a very good chance she'd be pointed to the front from the advantageous rail post. She has shown plenty of early speed in the past and was making her second start after a vet scratch and moving from the worst post to the best slot.

I also understand horses being driven to "get as much money as they can" for their owners. Here's the part I don't understand. There were obviously enough bettors complaining that Blanchard felt compelled to speak with the judges, who in turn questioned Renaud. The AGCO race report noted the result of the investigation this way: "The panel reviewed the race again and spoke to driver Jean-Bernard Renaud and are satisfied with the drive and his explanation."

Here's the rub. The AGCO is all about transparency and kudos to them for publishing these race reports on a nightly basis which detail judges' activity. If you truly want to be 100 per cent transparent, though, don't the bettors who felt compelled to contact Blanchard deserve to know the details of the driver's explanation to the judges?

The morning line as a handicapping tool

by Brett Sturman

Your average harness horseplayer understands the concept of the morning line – or programmed odds – that a horse is assigned, and yet the morning line still carries more weight than it should in driving the final odds. Some of the more sophisticated horseplayers use this to their advantage.

Despite being not much more than a single person's (or a single machine's) estimation, the morning line is often viewed as some type of mythical number and it can have a mental effect on handicapping.

How many times do we see 3-1 morning line horses that are “dead on the board” at odds of 6-1 with a minute before the race goes off, and yet still go off in the final flashes at 3-1 (and more often than not, don't race well). It's because there are a ton of people out there who carelessly play the races and see “value” on a 3-1 horse in the program that sits at double those odds right before post time, even though the horse should never have been 3-1 in the first place.

In a single race, the best way to use the morning line in handicapping is to be aware of it, but not put too much stock into it. In horizontal wagers such as Pick 3s and Pick 4s, the morning line does become more of a factor.

The question I ask myself is why are certain horses being bet the way they are, relative to their morning line? Are they truly that much better (or worse) than their morning line suggests, or may something else be at play? Like almost anything else with betting horses, there aren't any real hard and fast rules; it becomes more about feel in each situation.

If a horse is at 10-1 in the morning line and now opens at 8-5, you have to ask yourself what is going on. Was there a recent barn change to Burke or Allard, or a driver change to Tetrack or Gingras? Second time off the layoff, or first time Lasix? These are obvious instances of why horses often get and in these cases, a player needs to decide for themselves if the current odds being offered are fair knowing the morning line is moot. But other times horses get bet are less obvious, and these instances warrant paying strong attention to.

This Tuesday at Yonkers an 8-year-old mare named Elliesjet N raced in a N/W $5,000 condition race and was assigned a 20-1 morning line while starting from the dreaded post 8. She was making her second start at Yonkers since returning from Miami Valley and the week prior went off at 10-1 from post 6 against comparable foes. This time, she was hammered down to 3-1 throughout much of the betting and ended up closing as the 9-5 favorite. Accordingly, she blasted from the outside post, flew around the first turn to clear easy and then coasted as a never-a-doubt, wire-to-wire winner.

If there was ever an example of “they knew,” this one was it. The typical Joe Horseplayer isn't unloading early on horses that have the profile Elliesjet N had including a 20-1 line from post 8, and the smart money this time was the right money. This mare didn't look uncompetitive and a case for her certainly could have been made, but the way she was bet in such an overwhelming way had to make you aware that at the very least, an aggressive effort would be coming.

At almost all harness racing tracks, early money of just a couple hundred dollars can make people take notice and this often comes from those in the industry or connected to the horses in some way. Because of this, you have to ask yourself if the money coming in (or not) on a horse makes sense.

In a different example, a 6-year-old trotter Celebrity Pegasus took a ton of money a couple weeks ago in a N/W $15,000 race at the Meadowlands, getting bet from an 8-1 morning line all the way down to 9-5. In this case, it was obvious to see what was going on and this was a case of the smart money being wrong. Celebrity Pegasus was making his second start at the Meadowlands after closing in :26.4 in his first start since the Dover opens, but was still up against what I saw as superior foes in Theresademoninme and Opulent Yankee. Celebrity Pegasus raced well enough but couldn't threaten the top two and as this case illustrates, it's much easier to decide whether to go with a horse or toss one if you can understand the reasons why they are getting bet to begin with.

Horizontal wagers such as daily doubles, Pick 3's, 4's and so forth present opportunities where morning lines can be exploited. In a single race everyone gets to see the odds changes at the same time, but there are clear overlays if you can identify what the line movements will be in multi-race sequences.

Let's say in the third leg of a Pick 4 there is a horse with a 12-1 morning line that you know full well was a bad morning line and the horse is likely to go off at closer to 5-1. If you wait until that race to play it, you'll get the same 5-1 odds as everyone else. But in a Pick 4 where you have identified this horse ahead of time, he'll end up paying much more than the 5-1 worth because others will have overlooked it due to the 12-1 morning line. Although the morning line is just one person's estimation, it doesn't play out that way in reality.

Admittedly, I find myself guilty at times of being influenced by the morning lines even though I know better. It's one reason that I'd rather handicap from a track's proofs (the program prior to driver changes and odds assignments), so that I'm not influenced in the slightest bit by the odds. Perhaps it's also a "herd mentality" that people have where it's easier to lose together on a horse that the program says should be short rated rather than step out and bet a higher rated morning line horse even though for all intents and purposes they may be at an equal chance of winning.

It's easy to identify bad morning lines, but harder to pick actual long shots. Conversely, there will be times that a short-priced morning line favorite appears to have no chance based on the fact that he's drifted up in odds, and the skill comes in identifying that perhaps the horse's current odds are more appropriate than the morning line it was given. Instead of being what some would call dead on the board, he may now be much more playable at 7-1 than it was at 7-2.

On limited occasions, there truly is smart money – unanticipated money that ends up being correct. But in most cases the flow of money on a horse makes sense if you look hard enough. The lesson is to stick with your opinion if you feel strong about it and don't be swayed because of large movements from the morning line; it has no more knowledge than you do.

Wallin relishing second year training his own stable

by Ken Weingartner / USTA Media Relations Manager

With a full year of racing and learning under his belt, 25-year-old Lucas Wallin is looking forward to his second season training his own stable. And while Wallin is interested in seeing how his young horses develop through the remainder of this winter with an eye toward summer success, he is happy to have a seasoned veteran to watch right now.

Rossini, an 8-year-old gelding, will try to make it two wins in a row at the Meadowlands Racetrack when he competes against nine rivals in a conditioned trot tonight. Rossini, who won in 1:54.2 on Feb. 3, is 9-2 on the morning line and will have the services of regular driver Eric Carlson.

The race will air as part of the "Meadowlands Harness Live" broadcast from 9-10 p.m. tonight on SNY (SportsNet New York).

Prior to the current Meadowlands meet, Rossini had made only 16 starts in his career, a span of 100 races, on a big track (either one mile or seventh-eighths). His past five starts, though, all have been at the Big M and he has posted two victories as well as a third-place finish.

"He was racing well before, but he really seems to like the Meadowlands," Wallin said. "He's feeling really good. His last race when he won at the Meadowlands he raced really well. He feels the same right now. We gave him a week off and he's training good into this race.

"It looks really interesting (tonight). If everything works out in the race and he has some luck, he will be there, I think."

Rossini, a son of Classic Photo—Beverly Crusher, has won 29 of 105 lifetime starts and earned $457,552 in purses. He is owned by Steve Organ, who also bred the horse. He is a three-quarter brother to stakes-winners In Focus and Not Afraid. Rossini's top win came in the 2013 Galt Stakes at Maywood Park.

"I enjoy his personality," Wallin said about Rossini. "He's 8 years old, but he's acting like a 2-year-old. He's playing all day. He really enjoys his life."

Wallin grew up in Sweden, where he was driving ponies at the age of 8. Several years later, he began helping at his uncle Joakim Wallin's stable. In mid-2014, he was alerted to an opportunity to work for Ake Svanstedt's stable in the U.S. by childhood friend Oskar Florhed. Wallin spent two years with Svanstedt before deciding to go on his own.

Last year, Wallin's stable won 18 of 110 races and earned $183,712 in purses. This season, he has 19 horses in training, with nine being 2-year-olds.

"I learned a lot of things, that's for sure," Wallin said about his first full season. "It was an okay year. The horses that raced, they raced well, and we won a couple of smaller stakes races. Of course you always want to win more and bigger races, but I was happy with my first year.

"It's a lot of responsibility and I have really good owners that trust me and tell me to do the best for the horses. They never rush."

Wallin's 2-year-olds are Anniversary Magic (Lucky Chucky—Beach Magic), Bartolo (Muscles Yankee—Cameo Credit), Cotton To You (Trixtion—Polyester Hanover), Death Bringer (Explosive Matter—Agenda Tom Ridge), Luisa (Andover Hall—Ashley's Carousel), Quiksilver Bluechip (Credit Winner—Sea Raven), Rendezvous Kemp (Trixtion—Smarty Had A Party), Tenacious Seelster (Trixtion—Tara Seelster), and Valentin (Muscle Massive—Nirvana Blue Chip).

Another new addition to his stable is stakes-winner Signal Hill, a 4-year-old trotter purchased for $95,000 at the Tattersalls January Select Mixed Sale at the Meadowlands.

"Of course every year you want to see the 2-year-olds. Last year we had five 2-year-olds and this year we have nine 2-year-olds. We bought a little better breedings and we're looking forward to them. They look good. We're not in a rush. Some stick out a little more than the others, but all of them are doing good right now. I don't want to say any names, but there are a couple that look really interesting. We're hoping for a good season.

"I have a couple of 3-year-olds, especially the fillies, that look really interesting. We took it easy with them last year; they only raced like five to seven times. They won some overnights and they did good. I think they can develop and be in a little bigger races this year."

Hey Blondie should get plenty of attention in 2018

by Ken Weingartner / USTA Media Relations Manager

Chuck Sylvester believes he's got a nice trotter returning from last season in 3-year-old filly Hey Blondie. He's hoping to discover additional nice ones among the six 2-year-olds joining Hey Blondie in his winter stable at Spring Garden Ranch in Florida. That group includes $240,000 yearling purchase Girl With A Past.

Hey Blondie won five of 13 races and earned $295,595 last year, ranking third in purses among all 2-year-old female trotters in North America. Her victories included the Kindergarten Series championship and a division of the International Stallion Stakes. Her best win time of 1:53.1, set in her International Stallion triumph at Lexington's Red Mile, was tied for fourth fastest among 2-year-old female trotters.

"She just came back into training," Sylvester said. "If we handle her like last year I think she should have a real nice year. We let her race from behind and she liked that; she passed horses all the time. When it was right toward the end (of the season) we let her roll and she responded. She's just not a filly that can go to the front and race every week. But I think in spots she'll do fine."

Hey Blondie, who flashed final quarter-mile speed as fast as :26.4, led at the halfway point of a race only three times last season, winning twice. Her loss came in the season-ending Goldsmith Maid, where she went off stride and finished 10th. The race was won by Plunge Blue Chip.

"I didn't have her quite right her last start or she would have had some more money," Sylvester said. "It was my fault. (Plunge Blue Chip) was sharp right then; I don't know if we would have beaten her, but we should have been an easy second."

Hey Blondie is a daughter of Cantab Hall out of Winbak Blondie – who is a full sister to 2009 Horse of the Year Muscle Hill – and sold for $125,000 under the name Whovian Hanover at the 2016 Standardbred Horse Sale. Andy McCarthy drove her throughout last year. The filly is owned by Steve Jones, Mary Kinsey Arnold, Paul Bordogna and David McDuffee.

Last season's group of 2-year-old filly trotters was led by undefeated Dan Patch Award winner Manchego, trained by Jimmy Takter. Other fillies at the top of the division in earnings included Ake Svanstedt's Plunge Blue Chip, Julie Miller's Seviyorum, and Trond Smedshammer's Phaetosive. "If Manchego comes back as good as she was last year, she's going to be tough," Sylvester said. "Ake, I'm sure he'll have his filly right when the time comes. It won't be easy, but we'll pick up some pieces and we'll be okay."

Mark Hall / USTA

Is Hey Blondie (Andrew McCarthy) poised for big things in 2018 for trainer Chuck Sylvester?

Sylvester's group of 2-year-olds is made up of four filly trotters and two colt trotters.

Girl With A Past (Cantab Hall–Shared Past) sold for $240,000 under the name So Diane Hanover at last year's Standardbred Horse Sale. Her dam was a New Jersey Sire Stakes champion and her family includes millionaires Dejarmbro and Manofmanymissions.

The remaining fillies are Chanel De Vie (Cantab Hall–Lola De Vie), Lollipop Lindy (Cantab Hall–Dana Boko) and Shes A Bronxbomber (Donato Hanover–Housethatruthbuilt). Lola De Vie was an Empire Breeders Classic champion. Housethatruthbuilt was a Dan Patch Award winner and is the dam of three horses to earn six figures, including stakes winners Real Babe and Murderers Row.

The colts are Gardepat (Father Patrick–My Dream Gar It; original name Patrick's Diamond) and Lucky Weekend (Lucky Chucky–Weekend Vacation). Sylvester trained Lucky Chucky, a two-time Dan Patch Award winner and earner of $2 million lifetime.

"Right now they're all training and nobody is on the shelf, so that's good," Sylvester said. "We've been in the (2):40s, that's all, which is okay.

"The weather hasn't been very favorable. We've had a lot of rain and we've missed a lot of days. It's just been nice the last 10 days where we've been able to train more consistently. But it seems like no matter what, when it's time to go the good ones will be ready. I'm not one that's going to drop one from (2):40 to (2):25, but if we have good weather and nothing happens we'll be ready whenever the time comes."

Grand River Raceway to play host to Canada's National Driving Championship

Standardbred Canada is pleased to announce the host tracks and dates for the 2018 Regional Driving Championships and National Driving Championship which will ultimately determine Canada's representative to the 2019 World Driving Championship.

The 2018 National Driving Championship will take place at Grand River Raceway, in Elora, ON on Wednesday, Sept. 26.

"Grand River Raceway is truly thrilled to host, for the first time, the National Driving Championship," said the track's marketing manager, Kelly Spencer. "We're keen to showcase our beautiful community and facility on the national stage and welcome the country's finest reinsmen in what is sure to be a first-class event. We're riding the momentum of James MacDonald's WDC win in 2017, which will only elevate the already prestigious spirit of the event. Oh Canada!"

Grand River Raceway has played host to the Ontario Regional Driving Championship several times, including the most recent event in 2016.

Drivers must earn their way into the National Driving Championship by finishing first or second in their respective Regional Driving Championship.

In addition to a first time host for the National event, there are also two first time hosts for the Regionals – Kawartha Downs in Fraserville, ON will play host to the Eastern Ontario / Quebec Regional Driving Championship on June 30 and Truro Raceway in Truro, NS, will play host to the Atlantic Regional event on June 29. Century Downs near Calgary, AB, will play host to the Western Regional on June 23 and The Raceway at Western Fair District in London, ON, will be the site of the Ontario Regional on May 16.

"Standardbred Canada is looking forward to partnering with our host tracks to present four exciting and competitive Regional Driving Championships which will lead into the National Driving Championship. We are very pleased to see the interest that tracks across the country have in hosting these events, including our two first time track partners this year for Regional events, Kawartha Downs and Truro Raceway," said Dan Gall, president and CEO of Standardbred Canada. "We are also looking forward to working with the team at Grand River Raceway to deliver an exceptional National Driving Championship experience for both the drivers and the fans."

The winner of the 2018 National Driving Championship will have the opportunity to represent Canada in the World Driving Championship, and join 2017 World Driving Champion, James MacDonald, in the 2019 World Driving Championship in Sweden.

Standardbred Canada played host to the 2017 World Driving Championship (WDC) in August and MacDonald's victory earned him an automatic invitation to the 2019 event in which he will become the representative for the International Trotting Association.

Canada was invited to send a second driver to the 2019 event and Standardbred Canada accepted the invitation.

Next Super High Five winner at Big M will cash $100,000

A big wave was created last Saturday (Feb. 10) at the Meadowlands when the Early 20-Cent Jackpot Super High Five resulted in a payoff of over $15,000.

Tonight, or whenever the Late JSH5 is finally hit, the payoff will pack a tsunami-like punch, as the next time there is a "jackpot" winner, that lucky patron will walk away with an extraordinary payoff of over $100,000.

Meadowlands die-hards will certainly stick it out to the 13th and final race tonight as the carryover for the bet that requires one to select the first five finishers in the official order of finish – and be the only one to do so – now stands at $101,270. Last Saturday's pool took in over $20,000 in "new" money, so one can surmise that a similar amount would be pumped into the pool tonight, as well.

"Now that the carryover is over $100,000," said Jason Settlemyer, the track chief operating officer and general manager. "It creates more interest in our signal. When you have a Pick-4 pool that is pushing $100,000 followed by a Jackpot High Five pool that is over $100,000, we believe these pools are large enough to bring new night-time players into the system. We are also confident that they will now start wading into the other Meadowlands pools."

Those who want to take a shot at the six-figure payoff need not bet a lot given the bet's low 20-cent base. Here are some ways to play the JSH5 and stay within your budget:

Boxing: Playing a 5-horse box costs $24, a 6-horse box is $144

Keying: Playing one horse in the win position....

- with four horses to finish second through fifth costs $4.80
- with five horses to finish second through fifth costs $24

- with six horses to finish second through fifth costs $72

Wheeling: (numbers show how to make bets only, they do not reflect Friday selections)

- 1 with 2 with 345 costs $1.20
- 1 with 2 with 3456 costs $4.80
- 1 with 2 with 34567 costs $12
- 1 with 2 with 345678 costs $24
- 1 with 2 with 3456789 costs $42
- 1 with 2 with 345678910 costs $67.20

Partial Wheeling: (numbers show how to make bets only, they do not reflect Friday selections)

- 1 with 234 with 234 with 234 with 567 costs $3.60
- 12 with 123 with 1234 with 12345 with 123456 costs $6.40
- 1 with 234 with 234 with 234 with 5678910 costs $7.20

Woodbine Jackpot Hi-5 hit for $70,141

Just a single ticket was able to correctly hit the Jackpot Hi-5 in Monday's final race at Woodbine Racetrack for a score of $70,141.11 (U.S.).

Seven-year-old gelding Jefferson Tare and driver James MacDonald came through in Monday's final race, an $8,000 to $10,000 claiming event for pacers, at odds of 5-2.

The winner was followed across the wire by a quartet of longshots, including a 99-1 shot in third, to round out the top-five finishers. Race-favourite Mybrothergeorge (even-money) finished ninth.

Only one Hi-5 ticket wagered Monday had the combination of 6-2-8-3-10 to takedown the entire jackpot.

The winning ticket cost $4,300.80 (U.S.) and was wagered by a customer in the Arlington Hub. The ticket was constructed as follows:

1,2,3,4,5,6,7,9/1,2,3,4,5,6,7,9,10/ALL/ALL/ALL

Here are the top-five finishers from Monday's Jackpot Hi-5 race:

1st: #6 Jefferson Tare (James MacDonald) 5-2
2nd: #2 HP Black Shadow (Sylvain Filion) 17-1
3rd: #8 Casimir Nunzio (Richard Simard) 99-1
4th: #3 Clever Thing (Bob McClure) 13-1
5th: #10 Mcsinner Man (Jonathan Drury) 89-1

The carryover entering Monday evening's card was $68,165.65 and horseplayers wagered $23,778 into the Jackpot Hi-5 pool.

The Jackpot Hi-5 wager requires horseplayers to select the top-five finishers in order. The wager features a $0.20 minimum and a low takeout of 15 per cent.

13 races on tap tonight at Big M

The Meadowlands returns with another live racing weekend beginning tonight. Thirteen races with plenty of entries populate both tonight's and Saturday cards and tonight's feature is the eighth race, a 10 horse conditioned trot for a purse of $13,000.

The feature field is an interesting mix of young and old led by grizzled veteran 9-year-old Up Front Billy who has amassed more than $800,000 over his racing career for owner/trainer Mark Ford and partner Up Front Racing. A winner three back against lesser, "Billy" will be driven on Friday by Jim Pantaleano.

Explosive Ridge (PP#2 Marcus Johansson) and Di Oggi (PP#10 Marcus Miller) are a talented pair of 4-year olds in the field.

Explosive Matter has been away from the races since last summer and comes in off an impressive qualifying win last week. Trainer Nancy Johansson owns him with Kenneth Ross.

Do Oggi on the other hand is in razor sharp form, having set a brand new 1:54 career record in his most recent start. Archie Kohr trains this one for Whiskey Trails Stable. He's got speed enough to shop for an early forward placement to counter his unfortunate draw.

Tonight is Asian Fusion night in Pink and on the wagering front, the last race Super Hi-5 Jackpot pool is now in excess of $100,000.

Post time is 6:35 p.m.

MSOA donates breeding to Uncle Peter to support scholarship

The Meadows Standardbred Owners Association, in conjunction with Green Acquisition Corporation, announces the donation of a breeding to the stallion Uncle Peter, to benefit the MSOA's Collegiate Scholarship program.

Uncle Peter was a star on the racetrack, taking a mark of 150.3f and earning more than $1.2 million.

The son of Cantab Hall now stands at stud at Hickory Lane Farm in Ohio for a fee of $6,000.

"We have donated breedings to the MSOA Scholarship program in the past," said John Green, principal at Green Acquisition. "It helps to bring youth into a business that needs youthful attendees. It's for a good cause, is a well thought out program, and we are pleased to support it."

Rich Gillock, President of the MSOA, said, "Thanks to donations from people like John and Green Acquisition Corporation, we have been able to give scholarship money to dozens of college-bound students over the past decade. It's a program that we at the MSOA are quite proud of, and it wouldn't be the success that it is without the help of our partners."

Green has been a longtime active member of the MSOA, owning several horses that have raced at The Meadows in recent years. He previously donated breedings to the stallion Trainforthefuture.

The breeding to Uncle Peter will be auctioned to the highest bidder in a seven-day auction on the website www.ongait.com, which is currently underway and will end at 12 Noon Eastern time on Tuesday, January 20.

Pacing for the Cure, a birthday wish for Dani

Jeff and Janine were touched when they heard about 10-year-old Dani's selfless birthday wish.

Dani is hoping that everyone across the country will get involved and donate $10 to Pacing for the Cure in honor of her 10th birthday, which was Thursday (Feb. 15). The only birthday present she wants is to find a cure for Multiple Sclerosis (MS), as she has seen firsthand the toll MS can take on a loved one. She was only five years old when her mother Tina was diagnosed with MS.

When this special 10-year-old child from Maryland heard her mother talk about a special horse named Mr. Bill G, Pacing for a Cure for MS in Delaware, she immediately became his biggest fan. The human-horse connection that inspired Jeff and Janine to start the nonprofit organization, Pacing for the Cure, has now reached across the East Coast and touched a young child's heart and spurred her to action.

Tina says, "MS is horrible, but Mr. Bill G is trying to make it a little less horrible until they figure out how to cure it." Dani wishes all to join her and Mr. Bill G in their determination to build awareness about the debilitating effects of MS and find a cure for her mom and others living with MS.

Please make her birthday wish come true by going to Pacingforthecure.org/donate and donating $10 today.
