The ultimate caretaker

Six decades into her career as a groom, 73-year-old Joanie Uszak will be honored tonight as the Caretaker of the Year by the Florida chapter of the United States Harness Writers Association.

by Tom Pedulla

Skip Smith

For more than 60 years, 73-year-old Joanie Uszak has been grooming horses. Tonight she will be honored as the Caretaker of the Year by the Florida chapter of the United States Harness Writers Association (USHWA).

Trainer Mike Murphy all but pleads with Joanie Uszak not to work so hard, even if it is on his behalf.

Uszak is 73. She is in her sixth decade as a groom. Murphy asks if it really is necessary for her to wake up at 3 a.m. daily so she can arrive at 4 a.m. at Pompano Park in Pompano Beach, FL.

"You don't understand," she tells him. "They're waitin' on me."

Uszak's extreme diligence, her concern for every need of the horses waiting on her, is being saluted by the Florida chapter of the United States Harness Writers Association during its 27th annual awards dinner in Deerfield Beach, FL tonight. She will receive the Caretaker of the Year Award.

It is impossible to imagine a more deserving winner.

"If you've got to go somewhere, you don't have to worry about whether your horses are going to be taken care of," said Murphy. "She's a perfect person that way."

Murphy, who trains eight horses, just wishes Uszak would not push herself so hard. Uszak, born in Elyria, OH, knows no other way. She never forgot the wisdom of her late father, Joseph.

"When you do something," he told her, "take pride in it and do it well."

She had those words in mind long ago when she hitched a ride on a horse van bound for Florida. She had $20 in her pocket and the faith that somehow, some way, she would establish herself as a groom.

She immediately encountered resistance. The sight of women getting their hands dirty at the barn was a rarity then, typically limited to the wives of trainers. Uszak nonetheless approached the great Billy Haughton about obtaining a position.

Haughton would not think of it.

"I'm very sorry. I don't hire women," Uszak recalls Haughton telling her. "I will let you ask the boys if anybody wants to pay you to wash jog carts and wash harnesses."

So she started in that humblest of ways before advancing with another outfit to mucking stalls and handling other duties that go with the job of being a groom.

But do not call it a "job."

"It's not a job. It's a way of life," Uszak said. "You get such satisfaction out of little things, a good training trip for a young horse, seeing that something good is coming along. You also get broken-hearted when it doesn't come together. They are like your children. That's the way that goes."

No matter how meticulously Uszak tends to the feet of her horses, no matter how immaculate she keeps their stalls, she understands how many things can, and do, go wrong during the course of the season.

When asked how she deals with frequent setbacks, she grew emotional responding.

"That one time in the winner's circle when everything goes right," she said, "that makes up for all of it."

Uszak treats her horses like toddlers. She constantly looks to earn their trust, to connect with them, to understand what they are trying to tell her through their behavior.

"It's talking softly, doing things that make them happy," she said. "Do they like carrots? Do they like bananas?"

Uszak never fails to pack their favorite treats when she pulls into the pitch-black barn area. Silence gives way to sounds that, to her, match the greatest symphony ever performed. Horses, aware of her presence, begin to stir.

"It is so quiet," she said. "But as soon as my car comes in and I shut the lights off, you hear the nickers, you see the little pawing (at the ground). Everybody is waiting for breakfast."

Uszak feeds not only Murphy's eight horses in Barn U but those that belong to other appreciative trainers nearby.

She acknowledges her demanding schedule contributed to the end of her only marriage, one that lasted three years. She never felt the need to have children. As she sees it, she has stalls filled with them.

Despite its financial limitations, she never aspired to be more than a groom. She insists there is something new to be learned daily, even in the sixth decade of an itinerant career that brought her to many highly-respected trainers and farms.

Murphy, 72, and his wife, Barbara, who also is hands-on, often find themselves soaking up knowledge from Uszak.

"She's picked up different things," Murphy said, "and she is not bashful about telling you about them."

Uszak allows herself time off once the Pompano Park meet ends. Murphy drives to his home base at Hoosier Park, only to return to Pompano the following winter.

Uszak never intends to fully retire. "This is my pleasure," she said.

Once the interview ended, she hurried down the shedrow to resume her chores.

"I'm behind the eight ball already," she said, walking as rapidly as her 73-year-old legs would allow.

ROCK N ROLL HEAVEN

The only perfect yearling I ever graded

This week's column also addresses whether to race or sell, Oscar picks and my dream race of elite trotters.

by Ron Gurfein

The voices of the children that survived the Parkland massacre are resonating throughout the land.

This is definitely not, nor was it ever intended to be a political forum of any kind. My kind and gentle editor warned me about being inundated with negative reaction after my comments last week. Surprise, surprise, there were NONE. However, the vast amount of positive comments leads me to take this one week further.

The amazing reaction to the surviving kids with their well proposed and delivered oratories discussing gun control, mental health, police protection, and parental roles etc, have caused a change in the thought process not just in Florida but all over the country.

For the first time in 30 years, I see some bending of the staunch NRA doctrine.

One can only hope that this is not a passing fancy, but the building blocks for a strong new generation of voters that will have a formidable affect on the future of gun control.

Don't get me wrong there is plenty of NRA supported politicians either mumbling excuses or just hiding in the closet right now. This will not be easy, but the time is now to leap when the fire is hot. Don't try to ban guns, that just won't fly, just improve background checks and no weapons of mass destruction i.e.: AR15 / AK 47 and the like.

I would like to thank my friend Carlo Vaccarezza the famed thoroughbred horse trainer and restaurateur (Frank And Dino's) for raising $160,000 Sunday at an open house at his place for the families of the victims of the horrid massacre. Both of Carlo's sons were survivors of the frightening ordeal and were very well poised delivering a discussion posted on Facebook. If you wish to contribute to the families of the Parkland victims you may do so by calling (561) 218-4636.

I have looked at thousands of yearlings in my lifetime and I remember a lot of wonderful horses. However, I only gave one a perfect score.

It was a rainy, nasty morning in September in 2002 in Lexington KY. Finally, a little past noon, the sun broke through and altered my plans for the day. I would visit my friend Alan Leavitt at Walnut Hall Ltd. as he had some very nice colts going to auction – two with fabulous pedigrees. The first was Cash Hall a big beautiful son of Self Possessed that had the look of eagles, the second another from Self Possessed, Cantab Hall, smaller in stature and not as flashy on the floor. I told Alan I would like to see them both in the paddock.

“Ronnie, I would love to, but the paddocks are too wet and I don’t want any problems.”

It was a quote that was far from surprising. Excited about the two colts I made an appointment to see them in the paddock the following morning. On the way back to town I called George Segal and told him, “I just saw the 2004 Hambletonian winner. His name is Cash Hall.”

The following morning I was on Alan’s doorstep ready to watch the colts perform. Alan being my age – a bit up there in years – chases the horses in a golf cart. If you haven’t seen the performance, it is truly something to behold. Walnut Hall Ltd.’s show paddock is smaller than many and to see a horse trot the corners and up and down the hills as fast and as athletically and Cantab Hall did was nothing short of amazing. As impressed as I was I was still anxious to see Cash Hall perform. He entered the paddock like a prize fighter, ears up, head alert as if he was in a photo shoot. Alan floored the pedal on the golf cart, Cash whinnied and tore across the field on the PACE. Alan tried for 15 or 20 minutes to get him trotting, to no avail. I got in my car and immediately called Mr Segal to inform him there was an audible at the line of scrimmage, Cantab Hall was the winner of the 2004 Hambletonian. He was, second. I rate yearlings out of a score of 30. The highest that would be 10 on the floor, 10 in the paddock and 10 for the way he moves his front feet. Cantab was the only horse that was a perfect 30.

Undefeated at two going 10-for-10 he was by far the winter book favorite for the Hambletonian. Unfortunately, we were struck a severe blow. Just after his first qualifier he developed a rare condition called Anhydrosis, the inability to control sweat glands and body temperature. His temperature after jogging was 105 to 107, with the normal being 103 to 104. He was always winded and lost much of his conditioning. We did cure the problem with some female hormone therapy, but looking back now we were climbing a vertical mountain for too long a period of time.

He was well worth the price of $310,000 that I paid for him. He won $145,000 on the track, was syndicated for a goodly sum and has turned into one of the finest stallions in our sport’s history.

For me to spend big money, a horse must be a top-rated individual. Two that were both 29’s I would like to forget entirely. Meadowbranch Magic at $335,000 came from the era where if I couldn’t find a colt I liked, I would buy a great filly. She had it all – looks, pedigree and speed. She did win a qualifier at two in 2:03, last quarter in 28 seconds. However, she broke a bone in her right front ankle and that was the end.

I was heartbroken as she was owned by one of the nicest men I ever trained for, Bill Hayes of Daisy Acres, in partnership with Brittany Farms. She did go on to be an excellent broodmare although she was never bred to a top stallion. She had a Malabar Man, Man of Action who won almost two hundred thousand and started in the Hambletonian, then Jersey Gal ($200,000), Make It Happen (almost $1 million) and Wishing Stone (almost $2.5 million). Pretty fancy numbers.

My other 29, and the one that tortured me the most, was Experience Victory. I still have nightmares watching the bid board hit $650,000 and signing the ticket. If you are on the outside, it looks like an awful mistake, but in defense of myself, he was meant to be a top horse and showed it on the track before he lost the ability to breathe. And then with his looks and pedigree he could have been worth a million as a stallion and he turned out to be sterile. Remember, we had just earned $2 million with his brother and syndicated him for nearly $9 million dollars so the expense was mitigated. People only remember the bad. He did win the Castleton in DuQuoin, was second to Chasing Tail in the Bluegrass and won the International Stallion over Liverman Hanover in 1:56. He had the makings of a good horse if things didn't turn on him.

Those were the three most perfect yearlings. Thankfully, there were some great ones that were not so perfect.

Erika Paradee asks: As a breeder/trainer of my own horses in Delaware for the past 15 years, and have recently moved to the Lexington, Kentucky area, I have a dilemma. I have a lovely trotting filly by Amigo Hall out of a mare I bred and raised Chocolate N Roses. She was a great race mare stakes winner at two and three and trotter of the year at Dover. Her first foal, a colt was a stakes winner at 2 and 3. This is her first filly and she is duel eligible in Canada and Kentucky. Do you think a yearling like this could bring good money at the Lexington sale or should I train her and sell privately?

I am old fashioned. I always say sell. Dollars don't get sick, lame, or die. It is impossible to evaluate a yearling by conversation, and on top of that there are professionals that will help you. Before you make a decision either contact David Reid at Preferred Equine Marketing or Bob Boni at Northwood Bloodstock and they will tell you usually within 20 per cent what your filly will bring at auction. If somehow they will not be in the area and you need to decide right away I am sure Art Zubrod of Brittany farm or Steve Stewart of Hunterton will help you out. Best of luck with her no matter what you decide.

Linda Fowler asks: I know you are a movie nut can you give us some of you Oscar choices?

To me it's like a year where I can't find a horse I really love. One of my favorite movies got almost totally ignored and one I thought was horribly done is in the top group – those being Molly's Game and Dunkirk in that order. Molly's Game I thought had a lot more pizzazz than just one nomination for best screenplay. Dunkirk had little or no story line but the cinematography was outstanding.

For Best Picture I will go with Three Billboards Outside Ebbing Missouri although I really like The Post and give honorable mention to Get Out, which was a bit over the top, but fascinating.

For best actor, Gary Oldham was fabulous as Winston Churchill in Darkest Hour.

For best actress, I think Frances McDormand was wonderful in Three Billboards although I have a place in my heart for Meryl Streep.

For supporting actor I choose Woody Harrelson in Three Billboards, and for best Cinematography, Dunkirk.

Lastly, a surprise, I select Jordan Peele as best director for Get Out.

Billy Wilson asks: if you could card a dream group of elite trotters from different eras in one race, what horses are in that race, where is it held, and what horse wins the race and why?

It is too hard to compare horses from different eras. I selected the fastest eight horses I have seen race in my lifetime. No old timers are on the list, only the horses I thought had the speed to beat 1:50 at the distance of a mile. The race to be held at the Red Mile with special dinner and wines to be announced. The horses are listed below. Please don't call me and ask how to bet the race. Here is the field and post positions assigned. Fillies draw inside.

Seventy-nine sophomores nominated to Pepsi North America Cup

The list includes O'Brien winner Stay Hungry and Dan Patch winner Lost In Time, the horse now owned, in part, by wrestling legend Ric Flair.

by Mark McKelvie / WEG standardbred communications

Woodbine Entertainment today announced that 79 three-year-old pacers have been nominated to the 35th edition of the Pepsi North America Cup.

The $1 million Pepsi North America Cup is Canada's richest harness race and this year's edition is scheduled for Saturday, June 16 at Woodbine, Mohawk Park. The eliminations for the $1 million final will take place the week prior on Saturday, June 9.

This year's number of nominated three-year-old pacers is up by 19 over last year's total of 60.

Headlining the group of eligible sophomores is O'Brien Award winner Stay Hungry and Dan Patch Award winner Lost In Time.

The award-winning colts squared off on multiple occasions in 2017 with each capturing marquee events over the course of the season.

A son of the late Somebeachsomewhere, Stay Hungry won six of nine starts as a rookie, including the $600,000 Breeders Crown at Hoosier Park. The Tony Alagna trainee banked $557,088 in 2017 for owners Brad Grant, Woodbine's leading owner, and Irwin Samelman.

Stay Hungry qualified twice and raced four-times last season at Mohawk. He was driven in eight of nine starts by Woodbine's top driver, Doug McNair.

Lost In Time will be looking to create more magic at Mohawk Park in 2018 after he burst onto the scene as a two-year-old to capture the $816,000 Metro Pace for original trainer Jim Mulnix.

The son of A Rocknroll Dance attracted the interest of many prominent owners following his Metro score and eventually moved into the care of Jimmy Takter to finish off his two-year-old campaign.

Lost In Time won the $411,700 Governor's Cup by a nose over Stay Hungry to finish 2017 with five wins in nine starts and $687,432 in earnings. The bay colt will be looking to add to those totals in 2018 for owners Diamond Creek Racing, J And T Silva Stables LLC, William Rufenacht and Team S Racing Stable.

Claus Andersen

Stay Hungry (Doug McNair winning the Breeders Crown) is one of 79 horses nominated to the 35th edition of the $1 million Pepsi North America Cup.

Lost In Time has already grabbed headlines in 2018, as co-owner Scott Robinson recently gifted a share of the colt to professional wrestling legend Ric Flair (see sidebar).

Somebeachsomewhere is again the leading sire of Pepsi North America Cup nominees with 17 sons eligible. "The Beach" captured the 2008 edition and sired the 2013 champion Captaintreacherous.

A total of 24 Ontario Sires Stakes eligible sophomores have been nominated to this year's event. Mach Three leads the way among Ontario stallions with eight eligible three-year-olds.

The number of 79 nominated sophomores is the highest number of nominees for the Pepsi North America Cup since 2011 (83).

A total of three sustaining payments are required to remain eligible to the Pepsi North America Cup. The first sustaining payment ($1,000 CAD, $810 USD) is due Wednesday, March 15. The final two payments are due April 15 and May 15.

Wrestling legend Ric Flair now part-owner of colt Lost in Time

For years, professional wrestling legend 'The Nature Boy' Ric Flair has been at the helm or affiliated with a stable of individuals known as The Four Horsemen. On Sunday – Flair's 69th birthday – he officially became a horseman as part of a different stable in the harness racing industry.

During the Dan Patch Awards at the Rosen Shingle Creek resort in Orlando, FL, Flair was the special guest of the group accepting the award for two-year-old pacing colt Lost In Time. Co-owner Scott Robinson informed those in attendance that it was in fact Flair's birthday and that he had a special gift in store.

"Who would we be as a horse racing community if we didn't get Ric Flair a birthday gift?" Robinson rhetorically asked the audience. "He's got the best car, the best watch, the best clothes, the best of everything, but there's one thing you don't have Ric Flair. You don't have the best horse. I do!

"But guess what? Ric Flair, my gift to you, you now own a piece of Lost in Time."

An appreciative Flair can be heard saying, "I'm holding you to that!"

After the event, Flair posted a note to his 3.6 million social media followers across Facebook, Instagram and Twitter confirming the news with "Yes, I Am A Horseman! WOOOOO!"

Robinson told Trot Insider that the plan is to have Flair licensed as a harness horse owner and have him listed on the ownership of Lost In Time when the pacer returns to the racetrack in 2018.

Early season handle gains from unlikely sources

by Brett Sturman

The year is still young, but through the first two months of 2018 the average amount wagered per harness racing in the U.S. is up over 6 per cent from this time last year, $56,661 per race in 2018 compared to $53,371 through February in 2017.

Coming off a year where the per race average was stagnant to the year prior, what makes this year's early season numbers even more noteworthy is that handle at the Meadowlands is generally no better than the track's numbers from last winter. Typically, the handle trends follow whichever direction the Meadowlands goes in, since volume-wise the Meadowlands still handles far more than any other U.S. harness track and because of that, carries more weight in the industry averages. Based on these numbers, other tracks have been picking up the slack.

Perhaps most surprising, leading the way in this front is Yonkers Raceway. This time last year it wasn't uncommon to see Yonkers post some impossibly bad handle figures, with some cards coming in only in the $200,000's. But just this past Monday, handle posted at a remarkable $927,279.

Alex Dadoyan, executive director for the SOA of NY, sees at Yonkers a few different things going on.

"There's always so many factors at play, and this year there has been quite a few moving parts. There's the elimination of the passing lane, there's Cammie (Haughton) coming on board and trying to time the races better," Dadoyan said. "The Sundays have grown interest with the French import and then there's Mondays with the free programs. I think all of those things are positive and have played a part."

All the changes mentioned by Dadoyan are contributing factors to the handle renaissance at Yonkers, but some warrant considering further. What shouldn't be understated is the impact of the factors driving the big Monday handle.

Beginning in January, Yonkers has been offering complimentary past performances for its full Monday card. At least for the time being, an agreement is in place with TrackMaster which allows the full card past performances to be distributed for free. This is similar to the past performances that are made available through the USTA's strategic wagering initiative, although on Mondays at Yonkers the entire card is made available as opposed to only Pick 4 or Pick 5 sequences.

"There's been a push for Monday and that's become the strongest day right now," said Dadoyan. "If you look at the last four Mondays, the handle has been going straight up, and it wouldn't shock me if it was up to a million soon. But we've done other things, too. We did a deal where we're on TVG on Mondays and Tuesdays, which helps because there isn't a lot of thoroughbred competition on TVG. We thought we'd get a little more visibility that way, and it's helped."

"It's interesting because the Tuesdays have been really strong, too. We don't have the free programs on Tuesdays, but we do have TVG so it's hard to say the impact that each one has. But as far as the programs go, I like it because the people like it and the feedback has all been positive."

You sense Dadoyan's approach at Yonkers comes from the perspective of growing the product from that of which would benefit horseplayers first and foremost.

While it's hard to pinpoint recent handle success to just one of the moving parts more than the other, there are some commonalities between what is working at Yonkers and what is working elsewhere. Take Pompano Park, as another example.

Ironically, a number of years back Pompano Park made past performances free for a short period of time before being forced to stop the practice due to TrackMaster exclusivity. But on Monday, Pompano was able to post a full-card program because of a Pick-5 carryover.

With PP's for the Pick-5 made available in addition to the Pompano Pick-4, which is always made available through the strategic wagering initiative, all nine races on the card were available for free. What resulted from that was a Pick-5 pool of nearly $75,000; the largest pool ever at the south Florida track.

Granted, the Pick-5 pool was anticipated to be high to begin with since it was already guaranteed at $40K due to a $10K carryover. But when we combine that with the fact that Pompano had a track record Pick 4 handle on Sunday and then the highest ever Pick 4 pool for a Monday the very next day, there is no doubt whatsoever that a correlation exists between free access to program data and increased handle.

Meanwhile, Cal Expo posted a Pick-4 handle from this past Saturday of $67,904; good enough for its highest ever non-carryover Pick 4 pool.

All of this is being accomplished at tracks where I think you could certainly debate the racing product itself. Even with the removal of the passing lane at Yonkers they still go 31-second middle fractions, Pompano is loaded with five- or six-horse fields and Cal Expo has a myriad of things to be desired. But despite it all, the products are gathering dedicated followings because race pages are being given away for free.

Credit is to be given where these past performances have been made available for free, and as a result handle is increasing. It's helping support industry numbers. And it's even better that the support is coming from tracks that are finding ways to promote wagering.

Bird Parker wins Prix de Paris

by Thomas Hedlund

Bird Parker (Ready Cash) was one of the main characters when Prix d'Amérique was held in the end of January this year. After victories where the Philippe Allaire-trained 7-year-old beat Bold Eagle in two of the Prix d'Amérique prep races, Bird Parker was seen as one of the horses that really could win the biggest race in Paris during the winter.

Gerard Forni

Bird Parker (14, Jean-Philippe Monclin) winning Sunday's Prix de Paris at Vincennes.

In the Prix d'Amérique, Bird Parker didn't have his best day, but when Prix de Paris was held in France last Sunday, he again showed his talents.

The Jean-Michel Bazire-trained mare Belina Josselyn (Love You) came into the 4-kilometer (2.5 miles) Prix de Paris off a victory in the Prix de France, two weeks prior.

Bird Parker trotted parked outside of leader Bilibili and in the last turn he had beaten the horse on the inside. Bird Parker then had to fight in the stretch to defend himself against Belina Josselyn and Briac Dark, who both finished strongly.

Bird Parker may be the strongest horse that has raced in the Group 1 races during the winter and it was only fair that he won one of the biggest races in Europe, at last.

Bird Parker won the race in a 1:59.3 mile rate to collect $221,000.

Declan Donoway celebrates first career victory in first pari-mutuel start

by Garnet Barnsdale

Race 13 at Rosecroft last Sunday seemed like a run-of-the-mill $5,000 claimer for veteran pacers. But it was a driver causing a buzz when the 11-year-old gelding Hrubys N Luck (Sir Luck out of the Western Hanover mare Hrubys N Emeralds) jogged, giving his 18-year-old teamster Declan Donoway a maiden-breaking win in his first try in a pari-mutuel race.

Donoway had a plan as he approached the gate with Hrubys N Luck, but things worked out a bit differently once they left out of there. "My step-father (trainer Brian Malone) and I discussed a few different scenarios before the race and whether we might try to come first or second-over or maybe get a two-hole trip," he said. "He told me that I probably wouldn't get the front because there were a couple of horses inside of me that had some good speed."

But best-laid plans can change in an instant when the wings of the gate spring open and that's what happened on this occasion. "I'd driven him before in a qualifier and he felt better this day, so I floated him out of there and we made front and when I saw the :26.3 first quarter, I thought, we're really smoking here."

Like a seasoned pro, though, Donoway got Hrubys N Luck a needed breather, slowing the pace with a :29.4 second quarter and a 29 flat third quarter. "I tried to rate him and back it down to the half and three-quarter pole and let him come on home," he explained. "It wasn't the game plan that I had, but it worked for what I had."

With that :58.4 middle half in his pocket, Donoway took a peek back at the three-quarter pole and liked what he saw. "I took a look back and there wasn't anyone coming," he said. The rest, as they say, was history at that point and Rhubys N Luck paced a :29.1 kicker while coasting to a 6 1/2-length win that carried Donoway to his maiden-breaking score.

There was no after party on this night though as Donoway and Malone had to make a 2 1/2 hour drive home to Delmar, Delaware. "We did go out to lunch the other day and had a bit of a celebration," Donoway said.

Donoway raced in one other race for a purse in an Excelsior series event at Goshen last July for three-year-old pacing fillies and he did manage to grab a check in finishing 5th with Ideal Ice. It was an experience that he says he'll never forget.

"It was really exciting just being up there at Goshen," he said. "There was a big crowd there. The thing I remember most was coming around that last turn and having Scott Zeron coming up on the outside of me. I've looked up to him a lot. I really like him as a driver."

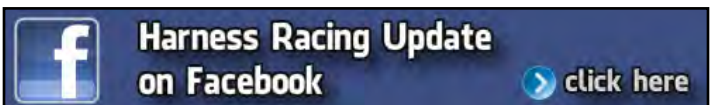

Donoway is a high-school senior who says he plans to give driving a full-time go after he graduates this year.

Curious if drivers winning their pari-mutuel debuts was a rarity, I posed the question in the Facebook group "Harness Racing History" and got a surprising number of responses. Here's just some of them:

- Bob Boyd: "I didn't drive much, but I made my first drive a memorable one! Winning my first lifetime drive at the OJC's Greenwood Raceway driving our stable's Sun Brier Skipper on December 27/1983.
- John Polvinale, the Group Administrator: "George Ramos won his first lifetime pari-mutuel race with my horse "Dining Out" at Freehold going five or six wide on the final turn from last to first (yes, that's correct) you can watch the race on HRH's library or just watch in on YouTube.
- Ira Smolin: "I won my first drive in 1974...at RACEWAY PARK.....the horse drove me...lol."
- Rob Doyle: "I won my first start thought it was an easy game after that one drive. Boy was I wrong lol."

The last word goes to veteran teamster Richard Simard, who may have had the best comment of all: "It took me a full year before I win one LOL."

Ruggeri hoping Western Joe will provide fitting tribute to his uncle

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

It is not unusual for Anthony Ruggeri to include the name "Joe" in the names of his racehorses. It is a way for Ruggeri to honor a late uncle who introduced him to harness racing when he was a kid.

Western Joe is doing his part to make the tribute a winner.

A 4-year-old pacing stallion, Western Joe has won 13 of 34 career races for Ruggeri, who bred and owns the horse. Since a fourth-place finish in the Progress Pace, Western Joe has captured five of eight starts at the Meadowlands and is coming off back-to-back victories in the preferred.

He returns to action Saturday in the preferred at the Big M, where his rivals will include world-record-holder Dr J Hanover, who is making his seasonal debut.

"He's been doing great," Ruggeri said. "We're very happy. He loves the Meadowlands, he loves the mile track, and he's been getting a lot of good trips. It's been nice.

"I love racing at the Meadowlands. Any time I have a chance to race at the Meadowlands, that's where I want to be. To me, that's the premier track to race at. Winning the preferred there against some of the millionaires we've been racing against is like a dream."

Western Joe is a son of Western Ideal out of Ante Fay, who raced for Ruggeri in the mid-2000s.

"I claimed her at the Meadowlands," Ruggeri said. "She was a tough, tough horse. She got hurt, but I wanted to keep her around. I figured I would breed her. That was really my first experience in the breeding end of it. Every one of her foals made it to the races. Some did better than others, but besides being a good racehorse she was a good broodmare also.

"I (recently) donated her to a companionship program in Canada. She was getting up in age. I was thinking about getting another mare soon to start the whole process again, but I haven't done it yet."

Western Joe is one of three Joes out of Ante Fay. Joe Palz won a leg of the 2011 Junior Trendsetter Series and finished second in the final on his way to six figures in purses. Bet On Joe was unraced last year at age 2, but is getting ready for his 3-year-old campaign. Western Joe and Bet On Joe are Ruggeri's only two horses at the moment.

"Joe was an uncle of mine that got me interested in racing when I was a little kid," said Ruggeri, who owns a heating and air conditioning business on Long Island. "He took me to the Meadowlands when I was young; we used to go there all the time. He helped me buy my first horse."

Western Joe is trained by Chris Choate, who has conditioned horses for Ruggeri since 2002.

"He didn't have a lot of horses, but I noticed his horses were always live and in good condition," Ruggeri said. "I asked him if he would train a horse or two for me. He does a great job. Some of these little guys are really unsung heroes."

Western Joe is being pointed toward the Graduate Series, which is restricted to 4-year-olds, later this season.

"We have him staked fairly lightly; nothing crazy," Ruggeri said. "He's a 4-year-old and you know how tough it can be. There are a lot of good horses out there. We have him staked to all the 4-year-old races; the Graduate, the Confederation Cup. And we put him in a couple of things at the Meadowlands because we love racing there and we put him in the Breeders Crown. Hopefully he keeps going forward and hopefully we've got a free-for-all pacer. We'll see what happens."

Tonight's action at the Meadowlands includes the seasonal return of Double L Lindy, who finished third in the 2016 Breeders Crown and second in the 2016 Matron Stakes. The 5-year-old gelding starts from post No. 10 in Friday's eighth race, a conditioned trot that will air as part of the "Meadowlands Harness Live" broadcast from 9-10 p.m. on SNY (SportsNet New York).

Double L Lindy was unraced at age 2 because of knee troubles, but has won eight of 28 career races and earned $258,664 in purses. He is owned by Little E LLC, Living The Dream Racing, and R.B.H. Ventures.

"He is training back good," trainer Ake Svanstedt said. "He qualified good and feels good. He's got a bad post (Friday) so that will be tough. We'll just hope for a good trip."

Double L Lindy is prepping for the Shiaway St Pat Series at the Meadowlands, which begins April 6.

"At the end of his 3-year-old year he raced good," Svanstedt said. "He had some issues last year, but he is better again. He feels good now, bigger and stronger."

SOAOFNY interested in purchasing French trotters

The Standardbred Owners Association of New York is organizing an opportunity for interested trainers/owners to purchase a French trotter to race at Yonkers Raceway. This effort is in furtherance of the global racing activities begun at Yonkers.

The French trotting association Le Trot will be conducting a sale of prospective racehorses. The cost to purchase each horse will be $25,000 and they will all be geldings greater than 4 year olds that are currently racing in France and will be at a similar ability level and value. There will also be a charge of $3,000 to go towards the shipment of the horses to the United States. The SOA of NY will also contribute to the shipping costs for these horses. The total expenditure to acquire a horse through this program will be $28,000.

Three trainers will be chosen by the SOA of NY to travel to Paris and inspect the horses that are offered for sale. The French Le Trot will gather many horses together for inspection and training. Veterinary exams will be required. The trainers will select the horses that show some ability to handle a half-mile track like Yonkers Raceway. A total of 24 horses will be selected and brought back to New York. If at least 20 horses cannot be acquired, all monies will be returned and the program will be canceled.

The three trainers will be given the opportunity to participate in owning a horse, along with anyone else that expresses interest in participating in this program until the capacity is reached. Those trainers involved in the selection process will not be allowed to select any individual horse for themselves or their owners.

Once the 24 horses have been identified by our selected trainers, they will be randomly distributed by public lottery to the 24 entities that have expressed interest in participating in this program. This random distribution ensures that nobody receives an unfair advantage.

A couple of months after the horses have arrived in the United States, Yonkers Raceway will write a series of races open only to these horses that came over from France in this lottery drawing, no other horses will be eligible. There will be several legs at various distances and a rich final for the top 8-12 performers. In these races, horses will be paid down to last an amount to be determined by the SOA of NY and the Management of Yonkers in each of the legs.

Once the lottery drawing is complete, title will pass to the owner(s) who have placed their deposit for this program. The SOA of NY will be covering all costs associated with transporting the horses to the United States above the contribution made by each owner. The SOA of NY will not insure any of these horses but will bear all costs associated with the two to three day quarantine upon arrival in New York. After the quarantine is completed, all responsibility shifts to the owner which will include the obligation and cost for transportation from the NY quarantine facility to the horse's final destination. Neither the trainers reviewing the horses, nor the SOA of NY makes any representation or warranty express or implied as to the fitness of said horses and bears no responsibility of any kind for the selection of said horses but represents to exercise their best efforts in the selection and transportation of said horses to the USA.

In order to participate in this program, a non-refundable deposit of $10,000 will be required by Monday, March 26. The balance of $18,000 will be due on or before Thursday, April 26. If this program is not fully subscribed by March 26, those making an initial deposit will be refunded. The selection of horses is scheduled in France during the period of the Yonkers shut down at the end of May.

If you are interested in participating in this program, please contact the SOA of NY at 914-968-3599 or via email at soaofny@optonline.net. All monies paid after the initial deposit will then be held in escrow in an interest bearing account to the credit of the person depositing the funds. Space in the program is limited to the first 24 owners that reserve a slot by making a deposit.

Participation in the French American Trotting Club does not hold out any promise of income to any owner but provides an opportunity to race horses in the series and participate in this novel project.

Pompano Pro-Am event features Tetrick, Miller

With the $75,000 Isle Casino Racing Pompano Park Late Closing event for mares highlighting the Saturday, March 3 card at the South Florida oval, an added attraction for that program will be the Pro-Am event headed by team captains David Miller and Tim Tetrick.

Florida Amateur Driving Club President Dein Spriggs spearheaded the event and received an enthusiastic response from Miller and Tetrick, two of the leading drivers in the sport.

Miller has driven the winners of more than $10 million in 13 of the past 15 seasons and is within a nose of going over the $200 million mark. He has driven more than 11,600 winners with the crowning touch being in last season's Breeders Crown at Woodbine, where he drove five winners enriching owners by $950,000.

Tetrick, who drove his first winner, Travel N Legacy, at the Paris, IL Fair in 1998, covering the mile in 2:06.4 and earning the major share of the $1,186 purse, just recently won his 9,000th race and has driven the winners of more than $165 million. He, too, has a multitude of Breeders Crown wins, including last season's victory back of 2015 two-year-old colt champion Boston Red Rocks.

Spriggs said, "We are so honoured to have these great drivers and humanitarians here at Pompano Park on March 3.

"In appreciation of their appearance here, our Florida Amateur Driving Club is donating $2,000 to each driver's selected charity – Miller's being the Make A Wish Foundation and Tetrick selecting New Vocation."

Miller and Tetrick will select their respective teams after the March 1 draw with two Pro-Am events tentatively scheduled as a co-feature with the aforementioned $75,000 Isle Casino Late Closing final.

Also on March 3, authors Victoria Howard and Bob Marks will be on hand doing a book signing for their recent publication detailing the life and times of the great Meadow Skipper.

Plans are also being finalized for the Isle International Amateur Series extravaganza on March 12-13. The leading amateur drivers from Austria, Russia, Norway, Hungary, Italy, Spain, Denmark, Germany and New Zealand will be joined by Florida's own Dein Spriggs, who won the right to represent the amateur drivers during a series of events over the past months.

Imported pacers providing boost to Stalbaum/Asher Stable at Yonkers

When the husband-and-wife duo of Larry Stalbaum and Kimberly Asher decided to shift their stable's focus back to Yonkers Raceway this year, they knew they would need a fresh barn of top-class horses to compete. Instead of looking to domestic sales or claimers, Stalbaum went back to a move that he's had success with in the past, importing horses from Australia and New Zealand.

"I like buying them from down there. If I'm going to race Yonkers, they all get around a half good down there because that's basically what they race on," Stalbaum said. "I just do a lot better buying them from down there. I wanted to buy some good ones, so I went back to where I've done good."

Stalbaum wanted a mare who could compete in the Matchmaker Series and a gelding who could race in the Levy.

He ended up with a pair for each series: Gina Grace and Miss Irish Rose for the Matchmaker and Chumlee and Simply Susational for the Levy. This fresh quartet of pacers has been responsible for six of Asher's seven training wins posted so far this season at Yonkers.

"It's been very, very good. All the new horses I've bought have been racing really good. A couple old standbys that I've had are racing okay, but the new horses have really done what I've asked them to do."

All four of Stalbaum's series eligibles are racing this weekend at the Hilltop, none at a higher level than Gina Grace, who takes her second shot at the $40,000 filly and mare open handicap tonight. A 6-year-old by Bettor's Delight out of the In The Pocket Mare Linda Grace, Gina Grace was a four-time Group 3 stakes placed mare in Australia before arriving in the U.S. a few months ago. She made an immediate impression on Stalbaum.

"I liked her. She's got a lot of attitude. She's kind of high-strong and has a very willing attitude, he said. "She likes her space, she eats good, she's real tough. She's not like a big baby, she's not a lover. She likes to go outside, she likes to eat, and she likes to do her job. She's kind of the perfect racehorse. She's always happy, she's always good, but she's a little ornery to be around."

Gina Grace made her first stateside appearance in a qualifier at Monticello on Jan. 10. She won by 7 ¼ lengths, giving Stalbaum the confidence to ship her to Buffalo Raceway for her first pari-mutuel start in the Filly and Mare Open January 24. However, after being parked out the first half-mile, Gina Grace faded and finished a distant seventh. Looking back, Stalbaum concedes the trek to Buffalo and the harsh winter weather contributed to Gina Grace's lackluster debut.

"She didn't take the ship (to Buffalo) very well. It was a little too far of a ship and plus, it's summer down there and its winter up here. It happened to be really winter up there, it was brutal for those couple weeks," Stalbaum said. "It was a bad decision on my part, I shouldn't have taken her up there, but I was looking for an easy race for her, something I didn't really have to race her very hard and she ended up having a little issue."

Stalbaum qualified Gina Grace back at Buffalo February 3 and entered her in a $20,000 overnight at Yonkers six days later. She won by a length in 1:54.2 and came back the next week to post another length win when up in class in 1:55. Her victories impressed Stalbaum, who was in the driver's seat for both races.

"She was very good, well in hand. She's very nice to drive, she can do anything you want her to do, she's not overly aggressive but she likes her job and she's very willing to do whatever you want her to do," he said. "She's very versatile. As of right now, that's what she seems like to me. She can take air, she can come from the back, she can leave. She can do anything."

In her first try in the local filly and mare open one week ago, Gina Grace started from post six and finished fifth beaten 2 ¼ lengths to Sell A Bit. Although Stalbaum wanted to see more from her, he's still optimistic about her chances going forward as the Matchmaker Series approaches.

"She drew bad and we were kind of far out of it. I would have liked to see her finish a little better, but it was her first time she's been against those horses," he said. "I was happy with it. She drew bad, got way too far back, picked up a little money. Hopefully she'll start drawing a little better."

Gina Grace will start from post six again this week and is a 9-2 chance on the morning line with Stalbaum in the bike. Itty Bitty is the 3-1 morning line choice off a sharp qualifier for Andrew Harris while millionaire L A Delight is a 6-1 chance in her debut for trainer Nancy Johansson from post seven. Lispatty, Clear Idea, All About Madi, Delightful Dragon, and Caribbean Pacetry complete the lineup.

The filly and mare open is slated as race six on tonight's 12-race program, which begins at 6:50 p.m.

Nominations up for Meadowlands Grand Circuit stakes

The nominations are in for the 2018 Meadowlands Grand Circuit Stakes and the February payment totals are up by 9 per cent over the 2017 numbers.

The major pacing stakes, WR Houghton and Sam McKee Memorials, swelled by nearly 30 per cent with 33 horses making the nomination payment for both. The Stanley Dancer for sophomore colt trotters and Mistletoe Shalee also increased by a third.

All of the freshman stakes saw solid increases in totals for the new season.

"It's an encouraging sign to see the owners and trainers show support for Meadowlands stakes," said Meadowlands president & CEO Jeff Gural. "Out Of Competition Testing will be expanded this year as part of our efforts to provide a level playing field at The Meadowlands."

Also of note, all three Spring Late Closers for older horses, the Whata Baron, Burning Point and Shiaway St Pat have filled and will begin the first week of April.

Complete lists on the nominees are now available on the Meadowlands website.

Questions should be directed to Peter Koch in the Racing Office at (201) 842-5130.
