Some days she rides.

Some days she drives.

It's her call.

But every day, every single day, whether it's bathing or showering, or changing for bed, there is part of her life where there are no choices. Whenever she peers into a mirror and looks over her shoulder, there are reminders of the darkest day of her life.

Nadine Habke, 38, is an outrider at Northfield Park, a driver on the CKG Billings Championship circuit and, more importantly, a survivor.

This summer (June 22) will mark 12 years since Habke, near the end of a crumbling marriage, was chased down by her husband outside their apartment in suburban Cleveland and repeatedly stabbed in the back with a steak knife.

The husband, now her former husband, was Walter Case Jr., one of the most successful drivers in harness racing history.

"Had he twisted the knife just a half-inch, I'd be paralyzed," said Habke.

Case was found guilty of felonious assault and was sentenced to five years in prison. He served four-and-a-half years at the Belmont Correctional Institution in southeastern Ohio, resumed his sulky career briefly, but has been unlicensed the last 10 years.

"I still can't fathom I did what I did. I feel terrible for what happened to (Nadine)," Case told the Cleveland Plain Dealer in 2006 from prison. "I'm mad at myself for being that weak."

For the most part, Habke has shooed away her demons, but those reminders in the mirror – three healed-over puncture wounds and the remnants of the 25 stitches needed to close the cuts – are regretful souvenirs from a marriage that went bad in a hurry.

Despite the fact that she could have been killed or confined to a wheelchair for life, Habke doesn't speak ill of Case, whom she says she hasn't spoken to since the incident.

"He had all the talent in the world, but couldn't handle life off the track," she said. "Walter would have been fine if he could have driven horses 24 hours a day, seven days a week."

Married in Las Vegas, in 2003, the union lasted a little more than a year before unraveling.

"When it started to go down, when the drugs and alcohol took over, I knew I had to save myself," said Habke.

She missed her opportunity by at least a day. Estranged from her husband, Habke returned to their apartment to bring Case a check for horses and a saddle but before long, all hell broke loose.

"He just lost it and began hitting me. I ran outside and he chased after and tripped me. I didn't know I was stabbed. It felt like somebody punching me with brass knuckles."

Habke ended up in Robinson Memorial Hospital in nearby Ravenna in critical condition. In addition to the stab wounds, she suffered a collapsed lung. She was on morphine for three weeks. The lung was slow to recover and she lost 30 to 40 pounds.

"It was very scary," she said. "I even had a policeman on my door for several days."

But she eventually recovered and today is perhaps the most passionate outrider in pari-mutuel history. Being a lifeguard on horseback means everything to her. So much so that Habke is becoming a regular on the Billings circuit.

"As a driver, I like the shoe being on the other foot because I want to know what a professional driver experiences. I need to know where they are coming from. My No. 1 priority is being an outrider, but this (the Billings) is a change of pace I needed. Plus, I always wanted to be a jockey, but I'm too tall." She's 6'1".

Born and raised in Edmonton, Alberta, Habke fell in love with horses at an early age (a neighbor farmer had stock), and took riding lessons at age 11. Her parents bought her a horse for her 14th birthday.

Soon after graduating from high school, Nadine moved to California. Her love for horses landed her on the backstretch at Del Mar where she became a groom and a hot walker.

From the San Diego track, she headed for Santa Anita where he eventually met David Stratton, who just happened to be an Ohio harness horseman. Habke accepted a job with Stratton and went to work at Northfield Park in 1998. She eventually took a position with Ohio kingpin owner/trainer Virgil Morgan who sent her to the New Jersey to work with his Meadowlands string.

It was at the Big M where Habke met Case Jr.

"Walter got me my first job," she said, referring to her outriding duties at Pocono Downs, which lasted just one season. Her stay was shortened when she learned that Northfield Park, due to an Ohio State Racing Commission rule that mandated all four state harness tracks employ an outrider, was in need of her services.

She started at Northfield in 2001 and has spent the better part of her career impressing horsemen with her outrider prowess.

"She is completely awesome. I cannot say enough good things about her," said Aaron Merriman, North America's champion dash rider and a regular at Northfield.

Habke is a self-taught outrider. "I never really had someone teach me the job. I think I have developed and earned the trust of the horsemen. I love the work. It's my life."

Northfield races year-round and Habke is often tested in northeast Ohio's harsh winters that usually include several blasts of lake effect snow.

"There have been nights when I haven't been able to feel my toes until two hours afterwards," she said. "I have winter clothing, but you can only protect yourself so much. I have to be able to maneuver. It's like the mail, I'm out there come rain, sleet or snow."

As for her driving career, Habke acquired her "P" (provisional) license last year and had a handful of drives as a warm-up for this season's C.K.G. Billings Series.

"I drove in my first Billings race at Miami Valley (Apr. 24) and finished third," said Habke. "I was happy with my performance and I'm thankful that (trainer) Frank Harris is giving me the opportunity to drive his horses. Frank and his wife Stacey are my family, my adopted family."

Habke is a racetrack triple threat. In addition to outriding at Northfield and driving on the Billings circuit, she competes in racing under saddle races and has two official RUS victories, both scored on Ohio's extensive county fair calendar.

"I'm shooting for a big race at Flamboro Downs in mid-May," said Habke. "I'm already qualified for it on a Frank Harris horse."

In the meantime, Habke will continue to patrol and keep the peace on Northfield's half-mile oval while picking out her Billings driving dates.

"I'm happy and I'm healthy," she said. "I can't ask for much more."

What harness racing must learn from the Kentucky Derby

The Run for the Roses is a unique racing experience. Harness racing stakes are not unique, but could be, with some work.

Tomorrow at around 6 pm (EST), the gates will spring open at Churchill Downs in Louisville, KY and the Kentucky Derby will be underway. Twenty horses and jockeys will be vying for position, and over 15 million people across the U.S. will be riding along with them. Well over $100 million will be bet legally on the race, at racetracks, via the internet, at OTBs and at thousands of Kentucky Derby parties from sea to sea. It's a spectacular spectacle.

If you watch the Derby, the first thing that might come to mind would be, "horse racing ain't dead". It isn't, but the Derby works so well because it's not just a horse race, it's a perfect storm.

The First Saturday in May has history and a following because it's a slice of Americana; it's been that before you and I were alive, and will be long after we're gone. It has a unique pull that sporting events need to have to thrive – 20 horses will be travelling further than they've ever been asked to go. Most of these 20 horses are meeting for the very first time, which adds to the interest in the event.

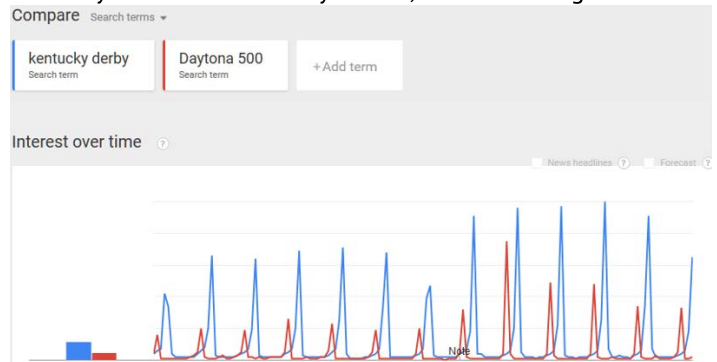

The field comes from prep races that were closely watched; prep races in Florida and Kentucky and Arkansas and New York and California. This year, with the Tapit colt Lani, an entry comes from Japan, via a prep race in Dubai. If you were interested and followed a horse in the preps, you are surely interested to watch him or her in the big race.

In the week or two before the race, social media hums with live video of workouts, gallops, and the ever-present horse baths. Scoops are filed via Periscope on Twitter. Media, both inside and outside racing, look for clues on a horse's health through trainer and jockey and owner interviews. Fifteen-and-a-half hours of TV coverage begins with the draw for posts on Wednesday, which trends on Twitter. On Friday, another event – the Kentucky Derby for fillies, the Oaks – is run, with big handles and big crowds.

The Derby may be a race that lasts two minutes, but the buzz, the buildup and the promotion is an almost year-long event. It's a big reason why the Derby dwarfs other niche sporting big events, and it's not really that close.

Each year when the Derby occurs, harness racing's inferiority complex invariably rears its head. Harness racing participants and fans are down to earth, love their sport, and when they see the runners treated like Kings, they tend to be taken aback.

Google searches, Kentucky Derby (blue), Daytona 500 (red)

"Well, our sport is good too, y'know. We have the North America Cup, the Pace, the Jug....."

These events are good. But they are a completely different animal.

While the Derby is the aforementioned perfect storm, harness racing big events have a different set of rules, and parameters. There won't be a 20 horse field for a North America Cup where the participants come from all over, and have never met each other in a race before. A few weeks after the Cup, these same horses will meet again, contesting the Meadowlands Pace. And so on.

Creating a thoroughbred-type stakes race buzz for every harness class seems like trying to put a round peg in a square hole.

As any good marketer will tell you, your business or sport has to be what it is, and do what it's built for; not what you wish it was built for. When it comes to stakes racing, and big horses, harness does have an edge.

While thoroughbred fans waited for a possible California Chrome versus American Pharoah meeting in the Classic, a race between Zenyatta and Rachel Alexandra, and countless other matchups that never materialized, harness racing stars were meeting that weekend. And they were meeting three weeks from then, and five weeks from then, and eight weeks from then. Fans can see the stars meet all year, not just once or twice.

This is an asset, but promoting that asset takes some hard work, and planning.

The problem with stakes season (say for three-year-olds) is that one race is not only one race; it's a week to ship, an elimination race, a final, then another week to ship home and get settled. The time it takes to participate in one big race is not optimal. When you add the fact that there are a dozen or so tracks offering stakes, the sport itself doesn't showcase itself very well. While the best should meet the best often, the schedule doesn't allow for it.

We realize eliminations tend to be needed to increase stakes money, but can't there be a better way?

As for the big races themselves, they tend to be nothing like the Kentucky Derby, or other thoroughbred stakes races which bring in huge handle, and big audiences. Often, elimination winners pick their posts, and in the big event there's a huge favorite that gets an easy lead, keying a merry-go-round race and a small mutuel. Sometimes a deep 12 claimer in the first can outhandle a stakes race in the ninth.

Further, stakes races are often placed late in the card in harness racing, which to me is not maximizing eyeballs. Most horsemen I know have to be at the barn in the morning, and most bettors are tapped out by then after a full day of Saturday betting.

I firmly believe stakes season in harness racing can be much, much bigger, if done right.

Scheduling races at proper spacing, marketing them with real dollars in a systemic way, and working on phasing out eliminations, is doable. Seeded pools through a central fund can increase wagering (and eyeballs) for the races. Experimenting by placing the races in race four or five instead of nine or 12 can help handles, too, in my view.

Making sure the casual fans knows there's a stakes race at time "X" this Saturday evening, and it's a match up they saw two Saturday's ago, is compelling. It's a strong sales point because it schedules a sport and makes it easier for the public to consume. Football Sunday works for a reason.

Much of the above would have to be implemented through strong central leadership, with a few slots dollars. I fully realize this is an issue, and has been for some time. However, if you're like me and love watching great standardbreds race and want to share them with the world, maybe it's time to make it less of an issue, and more of a reality.

Cohen's Derby news picks

*HRU alum Andrew Cohen is still actively involved in harness racing – he's just much quieter about it. He has young horses with Linda Toscano and broodmares with Steve Stewart at Hunterton Farm and he follows our sport as closely as he did when he wrote about it regularly. He's also deeply involved in his "day jobs," one of which is to write a daily newsletter for The Marshall Project, the Pulitzer-prize winning news organization dedicated to the coverage of criminal justice in America. ## Breaking down the Mack Lobell Elitlopp Playoff card

Some numbers on Sunday's special afternoon Mother's Day card at the Meadowlands:

- 91 horses entered
- 48 of them are female
- 58 are trotters
- 21 of the trotters are female

Other notes:

The three richest horses in the opening race, the Mack Lobell Elitlopp Playoff, drew the outside three posts.

The two trotting mares in the race, Bee A Magician and Shake It Cerry, have a combined $6,219,200 in lifetime earnings. The seven males have a combined lifetime bankroll of $5,867,674.

Four of the horses in that race have a better than 50 per cent lifetime winning percentage:

- Bee A Magician – 66 per cent
- Shake It Cerry – 60 per cent
- J L Cruze – 58.5 per cent
- Obrigado 55 per cent
- The field is a combined 225 for 515 – 44 per cent.

Stingers

Bee A Magician was the richest ever single season female trotter in 2013 with over $1.5 million. She exceeded Moni Maker's prior best of $1.484 million in the Moni Maker stake to end the year a perfect 17-for-17.

Bee A Magician last year banked $980,845, making her the richest horse in the sport over the age of three.

Bee A Magician is trying to do what only Good Time has done – be Horse Of The Year three years apart (Good Time did it in 1949, 1952).

The last North American bred to win the Elitlopp was a mare: Moni Maker.

Bee A Magician averages $56,499 per start

Shake It Cerry averages $54,145 per start

Cruzing?

J L Cruze was 16-for-21 last year as a four-year-old and looms as the horse to beat in the Elitlopp Playoff, especially when you consider the combined four-year-old wins for Bee A Magician (four), Resolve (four), Gural Hanover (one) and Shake It Cerry (five) was 14.

Crazy

Crazed is the only sire with three sons in the Elitlopp Playoff – J L Cruze, Gural Hanover and Crazy Wow. Should Crazy Wow advance and make it to Sweden, remember that it has been 28 years since any four-year-old has won the Elitlopp final (Mack Lobell in 1988).

Nearly a Hat Trick

Pinkman was not made eligible for the Elitlopp Playoff, or we would have had the last three Trotters Of The Year in this field.

Seeing double HOY

With Bee A Magician and Wiggle It Jiggleit competing this year, it marks a historic first. Never in the Meadowlands era (1976-2016) has there been a year where a trotter that was Horse of the Year has raced while a pacer that was also Horse of the Year is also still racing. The last time this happened was 1972, when 1970's spectacular HOY trotting mare Fresh Yankee was winding up her career and the four-year-old Albatross was en route to defending the HOY title in 1972 he captured as a sophomore.

Horse of the Year showdown Saturday at Mohawk

It is not every day that a pair of Horse of the Year recipients meet up, but harness racing fans will receive a rare treat Saturday night at Mohawk Racetrack.

State Treasurer, 2015 Canadian Horse of the Year, and Wiggle It Jiggleit, 2015 U.S. Horse of the Year, will square off for the first time in the $34,000 preferred pace.

A four-year-old son of Mr Wiggles out of Mozzi Hanover, Wiggle It Jiggleit's next start was expected to be in the Confederation Cup eliminations, but after no eliminations were necessary for the May 15 final, the George Teague stable star will now tune-up with a start at Mohawk.

Trained by Clyde Francis and driven by Montrell Teague, Wiggle It Jiggleit won 22 of 26 starts last season and earned over $2.2 million. He recorded victories in the Meadowlands Pace, Little Brown Jug and Progress Pace over the course of his Horse of the Year campaign. The four-year-old gelding has won four of five starts to begin his 2016 season.

Wiggle It Jiggleit will start from post-six in a field of seven.

A seven-year-old son of Real Desire—Ideal Treasure, State Treasurer will be making his second start of 2016 Saturday night. The Dr. Ian Moore trainee won nine of 19 starts last season and banked over $986,000 to earn Canadian Horse of the Year honours.

State Treasurer's signature victories last season included the Canadian Pacing Derby and U.S. Pacing Championship. The veteran pacing stallion is nearing double millionaire status with over $1.9 million in career earnings.

State Treasurer will leave from post four with driver Chris Christoforou in the sulky.

Both award-winning pacers sport sub-1:48 career-marks. Wiggle It Jiggleit took his 1:47.4 mark in the Meadowlands Pace, while State Treasurer's 1:47 mark was taken in the U.S. Pacing Championship.

While the Horse of the Year winners will be in the spotlight Saturday, a strong group of five older pacers will be looking to steal the show.

Nickle Bag (PP1, Trevor Henry) enters Saturday's contest with plenty of momentum. The Bill Robinson trainee won last week's preferred in 1:49 and has won two of his last three starts.

A six-year-old son of Rocknroll Hanover—Buckle Bunni, Nickle Bag has nine victories in 15 starts this season, with seven of those scores coming in the WEG preferred.

Nirvana Seelster (PP2, Rick Zeron) and Boomboom Ballykeel (PP3, Sylvain Filion) also have victories this season in the WEG preferred.

Idole Duhas (PP5, James MacDonald) and Mohawk Warrior (PP7, Sylvain Filion) round out the field of seven.

The $34,000 preferred pace is carded as the ninth-race on Saturday's 12-race card.

Saturday's card also features the $57,600 Diplomat Series (race-four) and $57,400 Princess Series (race-eight) finals.

A special post time of 7:05 p.m. is scheduled for Saturday's card. Fans can arrive early at Mohawk to watch the Kentucky Derby on the infield LED screen (approximate post time 6:34 p.m.).

$34,000 Preferred Pace (Race 9 – Saturday, May 7)

1. Nickle Bag (Trevor Henry – Bill Robinson)
2. Nirvana Seelster (Rick Zeron – Bill Budd)
3. Boomboom Ballykeel (Sylvain Filion – Richard Moreau)
4. State Treasurer (Chris Christoforou – Dr. Ian Moore)
5. Idole Duhas (James MacDonald – Sean Mehlenbacher)
6. Wiggle It Jiggleit (Montrell Teague – Clyde Francis)
7. Mohawk Warrior (Sylvain Filion – Richard Moreau)

Henriksen records milestone

New Image Media

Per Henriksen is congratulated in the winner's circle following his 1,000th training win by Bill McLinchey (right), senior manager of racing for WEG, and Bill O'Donnell (2nd from right), President of the Central Ontario Standardbred Association.

Trotters young and old were in the spotlight Monday (May 2) night at Mohawk Racetrack and fittingly trotting master.

Bee In Charge, the three-year-old half-brother to $3.8 million winner Bee A Magician, gave Henriksen a very special victory Monday at Mohawk. Not only was it the youngster's first lifetime win, but it was also the 1,000th North American training victory for Henriksen, who was also in the sulky for the milestone.

In the second-race, $14,000 Maiden Trot, Henriksen put Bee In Charge on top by the 1:01.4 half, was two lengths the best by the 1:31 three-quarters and had more than three lengths on their foes by the wire reached in 1:58.

It was just the fourth lifetime start for the Manofmanymissions—Beehive son, who sold as a yearling for $130,000. Richard 'Nifty' Norman started out with the colt, who had difficulty making breaks as a rookie and was sent to Henriksen at the end of his two-year-old season.

A native of Norway who came to the U.S. in 1980 and Canada, specifically Norwood, ON, 20 years later, Henriksen qualified Bee In Charge in early April and then guided him to a third-place finish two weeks later. The trotter is owned by Mel Hartman of Ottawa and David McDuffee of Florida, two of the partners on his famous big sister.

Bee In Charge is the latest talented trotter to emerge from Henriksen's care. Other standouts include Hambletonian winner Nuclear Kosmos, Hambletonian Oaks winner Oolong, Breeders Crown winner Southwind Serena and $800,000 winner Clerk Magistrate among many others.

Also on Monday's card, Henriksen's Asa Farm got a victory with Exemplar in the $34,000 preferred trot.

Exemplar now has two wins in 11 starts this season. The six-year-old gelded son of Andover Hall—Southwind Serena has earned $47,440 this season for owners Andrea Lea Racingstables Inc. and Asa Farm. Monday's victory was the 12th career triumph for Exemplar, who has spent time in both the Henriksen and Moreau stables this season. The veteran trotter has career earnings of over $237,000.

Sand Vic dead at 15

On Friday (April 29), Sand Vic was found dead in his field at Winbak Farm of Maryland.

"Sand Vic will be missed," said Garrett Bell, Winbak Farm general manager. "He was a great horse to be around and knew his job in the breeding shed."

Sand Vic, 2, 1:57.3; 3, Q1:54.1f; 1:51.2 ($2,121,269), was the winner of 23 races. He was a HTA Nova and USHWA Dan Patch divisional Award Winner for Older Trotting Horses.

Sand Vic (Mr. Vic—Cindy Q—American Winner) was trained during his older racing career by Trond Smedshammer for owner August Meidel. Sand Vic was first developed in his racing career by Jim Arledge Jr.

At two, Sand Vic was the winner of the Arden Downs Stakes division, Bluegrass Stakes leg, Event 9 Final, John F Simpson Stakes leg, Kentucky Sire Stakes leg, Lexington Breeders Classic elimination and Reynolds Memorial. He was second in the Kentucky Sire Stakes Final, Lexington Breeders Classic Final, Northfield Grand Circuit Stake and Tompkins-Geers Stakes.

At three, Sand Vic won the Currier & Ives Stakes elimination and was second in a Kentucky Sire Stakes leg. At four, he was second in the A J Cutler Memorial elimination and Final, Allerage Farm Stakes Final, Breeders Crown Final, Classic Series division and Nat Ray Stakes.

Sand Vic truly shined as an older racehorse. He won the A J Cutler Memorial Final twice, Allerage Stakes Final, American-National Stakes Final, Breeders Crown Final, Maple Leaf Trot elimination, Nat Ray Final, Trotting Classic leg and Titan Cup elimination and Final. He was second in A J Cutler Memorial elimination, Patriot Invitation, and W J Sullivan Memorial leg.

As a sire, Sand Vic stood at Winbak of New York and later at Winbak of Maryland. His progeny include world champion, Bourbon Bay, 1:52.1f -'15 ($217,678), New York Sire Stakes Winner, Steuben Lone Pine, 1:55.1s ($189,442) and John Simpson Memorial Winner, Lady Riviera, 2, 1:58 ($162,492).

Wiggle It Jiggleit leads Confederation Cup field of nine

With no eliminations necessary, an outstanding group of nine four-year-old pacers will compete in the $244,000 Confederation Cup May 15 at Flamboro Downs.

U.S. Horse of the Year Wiggle It Jiggleit headlines the field. The George Teague stable star has won four of five starts to begin his four-year-old season.

Last year, Wiggle It Jiggleit won 22 of 26 starts for earnings of over $2.2 million. His list of accolades includes victories in The Meadowlands Pace, Little Brown Jug and Progress Pace.

Trained by Clyde Francis and driven by Montrell Teague, Wiggle It Jiggleit will prepare for the Confederation Cup in the Preferred Pace this Saturday at Mohawk Racetrack.

Here is the full group of nine four-year-old pacers, in alphabetical order, to enter the Confederation Cup:

Americanprimetime

Drachan Hanover

My Hero Ron

National Seelster

Rock N Roll World

Rockin In Heaven

Rockin Ron

Rodeo Romeo

Wiggle It Jiggleit

The post position draw for the Confederation Cup will take place next week.

Post time for Confederation Cup night at Flamboro Downs is 6 p.m.

Illinois horse racing industry fights fantasy sports bill

The Illinois Harness Horseman's Association this week decried legislation that would legalize fantasy sports gambling while, at the same time, lawmakers have failed to support a horse racing industry that employs 14,000 people.

"Horsemen in Illinois are suffering at the same time that the sport is flourishing in other states," said Illinois Harness Horseman's Association president Marty Engel. "We're grateful to legislators who passed gaming legislation in 2012, but Governor Pat Quinn vetoed that bill. Let me be clear, because of legislative inaction in the last four years, the industry has suffered greatly."

Meanwhile, Illinois legislators are currently considering legalizing fantasy sports gambling.

"People aren't buying Illinois racehorses anymore because of the uncertainty in the state," said standardbred horse breeder Rita Williams.

"It's safer to buy Indiana or Ohio horses," said Williams. "People aren't certain that Springfield will act to restore our sport in Illinois. A lot of breeders are going to Indiana to breed their horses, it just makes more sense for horsemen to go to other states in which horse racing thrives."

If legislators continue to ignore the plight of horse racing, more trainers, breeders, blacksmiths, hay and grain farmers, grooms and other industry workers will move to states like Ohio where horse racing has exploded at the same time that Illinois horse racing has imploded.

Sbrocco wins Elitlopp trip

Of all the winners of the Standardbred Retirement Foundation's (SRF) Elitlopp raffle fundraiser, this year's winner, Joe Sbrocco, couldn't contain his excitement.

The Ohio resident has been an owner for nearly 40 years and has enjoyed tremendous success, most recently with Captaintrecherous, and Artspeak.

"You gotta be kidding," were his first words when SRF's director Judy Bokman called him with the news. The excitement continued for him. "I'm 75 years old and I feel like I was just born!"

The seasoned owner is still in the game with a small stake in horses being trained by Brian Brown, Tony Alagna, Paul Kelly, Nancy Johannsen, Jonas Czernyson, Ake Swendsted, Jimmy Takter and Jimmy Arledge.

Sbrocco and his wife will enjoy a fabulous five-day trip to Sweden visiting famous breeding farms, taking a trip to Mendham, visiting a yearling auction, sightseeing, enjoying authentic dining at an old world restaurant dating back to the 1700s, and attending the great race at Solvalla.

SRF is a 27-year-old organization, unique in its work, as it never relinquishes ownership of its horses. The Elitlopp raffle, as well as the raffle for a trip to the Prix d'Amerique help fund the care of 205 trotters and pacers of which 130 are retired due to age or injuries under the full care and expense of SRF.

SRF thanks Marc and Marcia Goldberg of the Arch Madness fame for their generous gift of sponsorship of the trip from the SRF's Twelve Days of Giving campaign in December 2015. "We can only give these horses a chance when special people like the Goldbergs, and our supporters of this fundraiser make it possible with their kindness; we so appreciate this wonderful support," Paula Campbell, SRF's president added. — SRF
