"Guns are going to be Blazing"

That's how George Teague sees the epic battle shaping up in Saturday's $500,000 Ben Franklin for older pacers at Mohegan Sun Pocono between his Wiggle It Jiggleit, Always B Miki, Freaky Feet Pete and more.

Jimmy Takter says "My heartbeat is going to go up a little bit at the race. We're all going to feel our heart rates go up" when the Ben Franklin goes to post Saturday night.

Jimmy Takter was holding court in the Mohawk winner's circle on North America Cup Night, the tote board still ablaze with his trainee Always B Miki's 1:47.1 Canadian record mile in the $100,000 (Cdn) Mohawk Gold Cup Invitational, when he turned his attention, with glee, to the looming matchup with Horse of the Year Wiggle It Jiggleit.

"That's what we all love. We all love good horse racing and that is, for sure, going to be good for horse racing," Takter said.

Even two weeks ago, Takter couldn't imagine just how good the first meeting of Always B Miki and Wiggle It Jiggleit would shape up to be. Saturday night, the two ultra-talented older pacers and eight other heavyweights, including the fantastic Freaky Feet Pete, will throw haymakers in the $500,000 Ben Franklin final at Mohegan Sun Pocono. It is already being billed as the race of the year and perhaps the race of the decade. Those that dabble often in hyperbole believe it's the best lineup harness racing has seen in much more than a decade.

"It sets up for something that this game needs more than anything else — hype, buildup, excitement," said George Teague, Jr., principal owner of Wiggle It Jiggleit. "It's no different than a pay-for-view fight or one of those UFC fights."

Just how good is a field that includes horses that have earned $11.8 million combined (average earnings $1.18 million), features six with sub-1:48 marks and three with career bests of 1:47, just one-fifth-of-a-second off the all-time race world record? Over a wide-ranging conversation in which Teague happily dissected Wiggle It Jiggleit's competition, including Miki, Pete, All Bets Off, Mel Mara and Shamballa, last year's Older Pacer of the Year and Canadian Horse of the Year, only came up as an afterthought.

"It's incredible that this race has produced such unbelievable hype and a horse like State Treasurer only gets a mere mention," Teague said.

Two weeks ago, Takter gave the slight edge to Wiggle It Jiggleit in the match-up, but wasn't for a second counting out Always B Miki.

"(Wiggle It Jiggleit) has a little bit of an advantage because he has tremendous front speed, but by the same token you have to go hard and it may cost him. (Always B Miki) doesn't get tired. I'm impressed with Wiggle It Jiggleit and how he's been racing this year. He's a fantastic horse and George (Teague) has done a great job to bring him back in the shape he is, but I love my horse."

Fast forward to this week and Takter echoed the feeling sweeping the harness racing industry in North America — he is giddy with anticipation about the Ben Franklin.

"I love these kind of races. To have one of the big contenders in the race I feel really excited. My heartbeat is going to go up a little bit at the race. We're all going to feel our heart rates go up," Takter said.

Teague said he was just as excited.

"I will say that I would be more excited if (Wiggle It Jiggleit) was 1-9 going for $500,000 without four, five of those other ones in there,” he said laughing.

Still he said he wasn't shy about touting his horse, which only adds to the pre-fight atmosphere for this tilt.

“One thing I'm trying to do which you're not supposed to do is I'm tooting (Wiggle It Jiggleit's) horn,” Teague said. “First over is a tough place to be, and he's done it. I saw Always B Miki the other night with a really tough first over move. Not every horse can suit up every night and do those kind of moves. I've only seen a couple of them that can do it and I've always admired horses that can rough it and take the outside and didn't need trips and didn't need a racetrack. Every time they lined up behind the gate they didn't make excuses, they lined them up and raced... My horse raced outside twice in one day (in last year's Jug) and lived to tell about it. I'm not being cocky, but call it like you may after two :49 miles.

“My horse doesn't need a certain spot to be effective. I'll give you three races. I've seen him sprint home a quarter in 25 seconds in the elimination of the North America Cup when he got to the front end with soft fractions. I've seen him come from last and an impossible spot at Yonkers on two occasions. One time he finished second, one time he finished first. I've seen him being parked first over several times. One of my favorite races besides the Jug was either the Battle of Brandywine or the Max Hempt last year when he came first over in front of the grandstand on Artspeak, looked him in the eye, (and driver Montrell Teague) tapped him and he won by three or four lengths in a mile in :48 last year first over.”

As for strategy, Teague said he would leave that entirely up to his son.

“Montrell will go at it with peace of mind. He will drive his own race. I will not strategize, I will not suggest and I will not think differently than I have for the last 30-some starts. He can handle the rest of them on his own and he will not get any fatherly advice from his dad,” Teague said.

Takter will do the same with Always B Miki's driver David Miller. The pair will start from the seven hole. Freaky Feet Pete has the six hole and Wiggle It Jiggleit is sitting pretty with the three hole.

“I have a feeling that David (Miller) is just going to gun (Always B Miki) right down the tube. Whoever going to be in front, if you want to race him, you have to race him. Whoever is inside of him, he's going to kill,” Takter said. “Inside could be a disadvantage because you're going to take a lot of early heat there.”

Not so fast, said Teague, who reported Wiggle It Jiggleit, who battled a foot problem earlier in the year, is healthier than he's ever been.

“It seems to be rectifying itself and every week he gets a little bit better. I'm pretty happy with him now; as happy as I've been since he started racing as a two-year-old on his soundness. I feel pretty good about that going in,” he said.

No matter what happens, a slew of experts agree that it's shaping up to be epic, something Meadowlands Racetrack owner Jeff Gural was trying to accomplish with his rule aimed at keeping star horses on the track longer.

“This is exactly what the Gural Rule was attempting to accomplish; having the two best three year olds come back at four and take on the best older horses,” Gural wrote in an email. “I can't wait myself... (It's the) most anticipated race I can remember.”

Saturday night we will know if the race matches the hype.

“I'm sure somewhere in the last 20 years there's been fields maybe close to this one, but I can hardly imagine three horses racing at one time getting the respect from others and fans and looking forward to those three horses meeting on pretty much equal terms,” Teague said. “I'm no different than the people I see on Facebook that are all pumped up and are calling it the race of the century and saying it's going to be epic.

“I think guns are going to be blazing.”

Pocono Picks

Saturday at Mohegan Sun Pocono (post time 6:30 pm. Eastern time), one of the best collections of equine talent assembled this year will do battle in a stakes-laden card featuring the $300,000 James M. Lynch Memorial for three-year-old pacing fillies (race nine), the $500,000 Max C. Hempt Memorial for sophomore pacing colts (race 10), the $500,000 Ben Franklin for older pacers (race 11) and the $500,000 Earl Beal Jr. Memorial for three-year-old trotting colts (race 12).

To celebrate this tremendous card of racing, Harness Racing Update is proud to bring you handicapping of the four stakes from four experts – Sam McKee, the Hall of Fame race caller from the Meadowlands Racetrack; Chad Rozema, a lead standardbred analyst and broadcaster with the Woodbine Entertainment Group; Hall of Fame handicapper, statistician, broadcaster and historian Bob Heyden and HRU columnist Dean Towers, an officer with the Horseplayers Association of North America (HANA).

James M. Lynch Memorial

SAM MCKEE

SELECTIONS: 7 – 6 – 8 – 3

7 PURE COUNTRY - Strong grind-em-down effort in her elimination and coming off back-to-back wins. Last year's 2-year-old champion seems to be back to her bruising self. Got a little lucky to shake free of mid-race traffic in the Fan Hanover. Might follow Darlinonthebeach tonight.

6 DARLINONTHEBEACH - Made it close chasing the champion last week off excess cover. Figures to be much closer to the front in the early stages tonight and may get some first turn protection from stable mate JK Fannie. She's tough like her mom and will give it her all.

8 BLUE MOON STRIDE - Might actually be better tracking than from off the pace and can glue herself to Pure Country's back at the start. Quality filly with both speed and versatility.

3 NEWBORN SASSY – Parlayed a good close-up trip into an elimination win. Just had a bit too far to come in Canada in the Fan Hanover. Big shot for a big piece of this one.

CHAD ROZEMA

SELECTIONS: 6 – 7 – 8 – 2

6 DARLINONTHEBEACH - Certainly one of the top fillies in the division, but is still searching for her first big-money win. She was great from off the pace in the elim, but I would expect a more forwardly placed approach tonight. She has all the tools to be successful.

7 PURE COUNTRY - Gutsy first-over effort from the Dan Patch winner in her elim as she wore down Blue Moon Stride. She's so handy and her versatility will serve her well Saturday from this post. The Takter star is on a roll and should be right there.

8 BLUE MOON STRIDE - Worked her way to the lead early last week and looked like she might upset the favourite before settling for second. She's more powerful on the end of her miles this year and will need a huge effort to hit the board from this draw.

2 I SAID DIAMONDS - Put up the early fractions in her elim before being picked off late by Newborn Sassy. She should be tighter second time back after a month hiatus and figures to make her presence felt early. She's 11-for-11 in the money during her career and merits some respect.

BOB HEYDEN

SELECTIONS: 7 – 6 – 3 – 8

7 PURE COUNTRY – Hasn't missed a beat turning three. Jimmy Takter set the then stakes mark in 2012 with American Jewel of 1:49.2, one of four daughters of Somebeachsomewhere in this powerful field. Brett Miller can either be the last to the top or grind it the last quarter. She has proven she can handle it either way. Diamond Creek bred three Breeders Crown winners in 2015 and are continuing right on.

6 DARLINONTHEBEACH - Is one of 11 homebreds in these four finals – and one of two for Nancy Johansson in here. Owned by the farm that went one-two in the 2013 Horse of the Year ballot (White Birch) she's been on her game in every start. Her dam, Darlins Delight, won this in 2006. She looms as the main rival for Pure Country in a great race to start the Pick 4.

3 NEWBORN SASSY - Is quietly over 50 per cent lifetime (nine-for-17) for the over-achieving JoAnn Looney barn. That outfit has defeated the 2015 Pace and Hambletonian winner. She gets dismissed in the wagering too. She has yet to be favored in any sophomore start. She has proven she belongs with the elite of the class and driver Tetrack had the first two sub-1:50 wins in this stake with Southwind Tempo and American Jewel. (2007, 2012).

8 BLUE MOON STRIDE - Looms the most dangerous horse in the field simply because she figures to tailgate Pure Country. Andy McCarthy is slowly coming into his own. He qualified a pair, but this filly is just starting to flex her muscles and can bring some longshot glory to Australia with an upset. A must-use in the trifectas and supers.

DEAN TOWERS

SELECTIONS: 6 – 2 – 7 – 3

6 DARLIN ON THE BEACH - Feels like the leader of the division, even though she's lost her last two. She has been driven conservatively, but will likely be sent to the lead here, and if she gets it, the race might be over. I think the world of this filly. She'll be my pick 4 key.

2 I SAID DIAMONDS - Was ready to go off the month break in her prep, but in my view, she probably wasn't tight enough to go 1:50 race speed. She should be forwardly placed and has a great shot to hit the ticket.

7 PURE COUNTRY - Has done absolutely nothing wrong her last two, but I am not sold on her yet. She was fortunate my top pick was trapped along the wood in the Fan Hanover, and grinded down a 6-1 shot in her last. I think her lines are flattering her a little, and she'll be a very short price.

3 NEWBORN SASSY - Has turned into a nice, useful filly. She always seems to fire and is as honest as the day is long. She's probably not quite as fast as my top three choices, but if she gets some racing luck I don't think anyone would be too surprised to see her convert.

Max C. Hempt Memorial

SAM MCKEE

SELECTIONS: 7 – 8 – 2 – 6

7 KATIES ROCKER - Couldn't touch Racing Hill in his elimination but has a puncher's chance at a decent price with a little bit of racing luck. Has plenty of try and might get either a good up-close spot or a good pace set-up with Control The Moment outside of him.

8 CONTROL THE MOMENT - Very talented colt who will probably have to send out of there at full speed for the third straight start. Someone will probably sting him a bit in the opening three-eighths or they might not have much chance to track him down.

2 RACING HILL - Razor sharp right now and in the catbird seat drawing inside the main contenders. Was able to wear down Control The Moment in the NA Cup final and might well be sitting on his back tonight with a passing lane. Pocono - like practically all five-eighths mile tracks today - plays to speed and this colt could end up in the perfect spot.

6 BOSTON RED ROCKS - Couldn't quite get past Control The Moment in his elimination, but seemed sharper than he did in the North America Cup final. Tetrack may well be as good a tactical big race driver as there is right now. No reason he can't step up and regain the top spot among sophomore pacing colts.

CHAD ROZEMA

SELECTIONS: 2 – 8 – 7 – 6

2 RACING HILL - Posted his first win of the year by capturing his elim with an impressive front-end march where he had to fend off a rushing Talk Show going to three quarters. The Alagna pupil draws an advantageous post and should be tough to keep from gaining his first big money final.

8 CONTROL THE MOMENT - Followed up his tough trip in the NA Cup with a sharp wire-to-wire elim victory. The unfortunate draw could lead to a similar trip scenario as two back, but I believe he's getting stronger with each start. I wouldn't count him out as a win candidate.

7 KATIES ROCKER - Worked out an ideal trip last week but proved to be second best behind Racing Hill. He came on strong late last season and showed he was capable of threatening on the Grand Circuit. The strong finisher can land on the ticket if he gets off to a quick start.

6 BOSTON RED ROCKS - Was given a chance to win by Tetrack last week, but his inside rally fell a half-length short of Control The Moment. He's missed the board just once in his career and can trip out for another top result if he's quick off the gate.

BOB HEYDEN

SELECTIONS: 2 – 6 – 7 – 8

2 RACING HILL - Will likely be the choice at post time, with the emphasis on post position. He simply drew better than the three main contenders, who've gotten 6-7-8. From the first crop of the richest horse of 2011, Roll With Joe ($1,649,725), he can leave in a huge hurry and force the others to make early decisions or encounter traffic issues. One of three homebreds on a card where all four final faves are homebreds.

6 BOSTON RED ROCKS - He stepped it up at the end of last year, but is facing some more quality at three, clearly. Still, he's got a big engine. You have the Elliott-Tetrick angle that always helps and he did show improvement from the NA Cup final to last week's elims.

7 KATIES ROCKER - Can deliver the goods for Jules Siegel in his home state with the right trip. He tripped out to win the NJSS final, and while that kind of journey is not likely, you have the hot hand in Dave Miller and hasn't missed the board since November.

8 CONTROL THE MOMENT - Showed patience and gameness last week as he took to the states-showing those here that his gaudy 2015 numbers were not a mirage after all. Still, post 8, inside speed and a horse who went right by him for second in the NA Cup has drawn six spots inside him. Tough to recommend from here.

DEAN TOWERS

SELECTIONS: 2 - 7 - 9 - 5

2 RACING HILL - Is the obvious choice in the Hempt and I have no quarrel with that. This colt has taken a bit of time to find his feet, but when he did he's fired off some big miles. He has a post edge, and should be able to work out a trip.

7 KATIES ROCKER - Would need to be better this week than last to contend, and I think he might be. His races at the Meadowlands showed high speed on both ends, and last week felt like a true prep to me.

9 CONTROL THE MOMENT - Is a talented colt who won his elimination quite easily; much easier than it looks on the program page. He tried to speed pop in the North America Cup and didn't fade in the stretch, showing he's some solid stock. I think driver Randy Waples looks for an easier journey in this final.

5 TALK SHOW - Hooked my top choice last week, closing to within a whisker at the three quarter pole while going 25.4 down the back. I think that signifies he is very sharp and a case can be made this speedy yet inconsistent colt can give them all a run at a big price.

Ben Franklin

SAM MCKEE

SELECTIONS: 3 - 7 - 6 - 1

3 WIGGLE IT JIGGLEIT - In what will probably be the race of the year, perhaps the race of the decade, and maybe even a Life Sign Jug-like battle for the ages, Wiggle It Jiggleit has the post advantage and the speed to control the front end. He looks sounder, better-gaited, more muscled up and stronger at age four. Based on how the race plays out, it looks like they'll have to come and get him on a speed favoring racetrack, which is why he gets the slightest nod.

7 ALWAYS B MIKI - This horse is an absolute monster, tough as nails, and words cannot describe his effort last week to win his elimination. There is no doubt in my mind he will pace under 1:46 this summer on a mile track under ideal conditions. Who knows, he might even do it in this race. The one minor Achilles heel he seems to have is cornering on the turns. He still gets around them fast, but a foot could easily be the difference between winning and losing in this race. He will probably be out the entire mile and will want to stay fairly close to the lead. Top two are about dead even in my mind because of the starting positions.

6 FREAKY FEET PETE - Shockingly easy 1:47.1 elimination winner is more than capable of upsetting the top pair with an up-close trip. Tricky strategy decision because the pace is going to be blazing and ending up first up might not work for anyone except Always B. Miki.

1 MEL MARA - Scary-fast horse can sustain that high speed for a long way. Parked out Always B Miki in a cutthroat elim battle but couldn't stay with him. Perhaps the best move tonight is to yield to Wiggle It Jiggleit and try to trip out.

CHAD ROZEMA

SELECTIONS: 7 - 6 - 3 - 2

7 ALWAYS B MIKI - Went some kind of trip in his elim being hung out after failing to clear and pulling away late to equal the world record of 1:47. The Taktar star will have to be huge again in this epic showdown and I can't wait to see what he has for an encore. A win tonight would stamp himself as the top older pacer in North America.

6 FREAKY FEET PETE - Set a new world record for 4yo's last week when cruising to an open length 1:47.1 tally. He's the only pacer to have defeated WIJI twice and now has to contend with that one and Always B Miki tonight. He rarely travels outside the Midwest but when he has, he's done well.

3 WIGGLE IT JIGGLEIT - Fought off pressure while on the lead to score an elim victory in 1:48.1 and remain undefeated in five career outings over the Pocono five-eighths. Drawing inside could be key to his success as he's expected to fight hard to control the pace. The heavyweight meets 'Miki' for the initial time and there should be plenty of fireworks.

2 SHAMBALLA - Parked through a quick opening quarter last week and stayed interested late to qualify for tonight's final. Last year's Canadian Pacing Derby runner-up at Mohawk has proven to be a top threat in the older ranks. He can finish strong and will be one to watch in the stretch with wicked fractions expected upfront.

BOB HEYDEN

SELECTIONS: 3 – 6 – 8 – 1

3 WIGGLE IT JIGGLEIT - May have won the race at the draw. Remember how he went right by Artspeak at the three-quarters in the Battle Of Brandywine here last year? No doubt he loves the track, and will look to do what he did in the Battle Of Lake Erie when the race ended about 20 seconds in. Not likely with the presence of Mel Mara, but still, this freak of nature is, with a win tonight, about to surpass three Horses Of The Year on the earnings list (Bunny Lake, Rocknroll Hanover and Rocknroll Heaven).

6 FREAKY FEET PETE - Uncorked a lifetime best last out and is going to be 6 or 7-1 Saturday. Love it. Not familiar with his sire Rockin Image? He was the last horse to defeat the 2010 HOY Rocknroll Heaven. How about Trace Tetrack? He won the Breeders Crown last year and it was his supplement that may have convinced the Wiggle It Jiggleit connections not to supplement (Remember WIJ is a gelding). Great action anticipated and FFP looks to be a part of it all.

8 ALWAYS B MIKI - May have the most untapped potential of any horse ever. Remember his second-place finish in the 1:46.4 Meadowlands Pace won by He's Watching? Beyond incredible. His last two starts have seen him breezing – the first to a Canadian record and then last week to equal the Sweet Lou mark from 2014. The issue here, of course, is post 8. Let's not forget that 2012-2013 Pacer Of The Year Captaintreacherous was lost out there in this very race in 2014. Cannot wait for the most eagerly anticipated race in – well, as long as I can remember.

1 MEL MARA - The "X-Factor" here. Olympic sprinters can take a field a long way. He's one of them. From the rail, how could he possibly be attempting anything else? While nobody is expecting him to upset this incredible triumvirate, he can make a major nuisance of himself for a good ways.

DEAN TOWERS

SELECTIONS: 7 – 6 – 3 – 2

7 ALWAYS B MIKI - Back in 2008, every time Somebeachsomewhere's hooves hit the track we weren't surprised if something earth shattering happened. For me, Always B Miki gives me that same kind of feeling. He's big, strong and has a world of talent with virtually no bottom. A bet against him lies on a hope he doesn't have his "A" game, because if he does, no harness horse in the world can stick with him.

6 FREAKY FEET PETE - Is clearly harness racing's feel good story. The Rheinheimers have managed him well and it's fun to watch them campaign him. In last week's elimination he raced the race of his life, has never looked sounder on the track, and didn't even break a sweat. If you don't like this horse, respectfully, you don't like harness racing.

3 WIGGLE IT JIGGLEIT - Is (amazingly) relegated to the third spot in my picks, which shows just how talented the top two are, and how lucky we are to have a stocked free-for-all division in 2016 to watch. At times this monster has had a little problem finding his feet, and does have nagging issues. In a race against the top two, nothing less than perfection will suffice.

2 SHAMBALLA - Is a horse that gets little respect, but has had a whale of a year.

Earl Beal, Jr. Memorial

SAM MCKEE

SELECTIONS: 7 – 4 – 9 – 6

7 SOUTHWIND FRANK - Gunned down late by a dead-game Bar Hopping in his elimination, but could have needed the race after time off and an easy New Jersey Sire Stakes win where he didn't have to do any work in a soft middle half. He's been dominant so far in his career with the big money on the line and despite the slight setback last week, is still the one to beat.

4 DAYSON – This is a fast colt with a good late kick to him as we saw last week. Jim Morrill always saves some horse for crunch time. He could well be the fresh horse and the main danger in the stretch.

9 BAR HOPPING - Always have liked this horse. Takter was very careful with him last year racing mainly from off the pace. He seems to be learning to use his speed more and developing even more stamina. The outside post doesn't help, but he's a live colt on the upswing that is building a strong foundation heading for the Hambletonian.

6 BROOKLYN HILL – Has tactical early speed and will use it to sit close. Hasn't had quite enough late punch to win yet this year, but his runner-up finishes have been quality efforts behind top ranked Southwind Frank twice and the raging Dayson last week.

CHAD ROZEMA

SELECTIONS: 7 – 4 – 9 – 6

7 SOUTHWIND FRANK - Suffered his first defeat in almost a year last week when picked off in the final strides by Bar Hopping. The Burke pupil should be rounding into form right about now and can bounce back like true champions do. He draws one post better tonight and I'm not sure the rest can catch him.

4 DAYSON - Had a lot of work to do heading into the final turn last week, but he was up to the challenge and reeled in the leader. He's more than just a NYSS star and fits in well here. He's only beaten himself this year and can complete the Burke Exacta with a clean trip.

9 BAR HOPPING - Notched his first win of the campaign and bragging rights after handing Southwind Frank a rare loss last week. Tetrack might be forced to change tactics after drawing the far outside or risk parking the route. He's a talented colt that will need a career performance to score tonight.

6 BROOKLYN HILL - Had the look of a winner in his elim, but was nailed right on the wire by Dayson. He's been a steady contender versus the top colts and six times has finished second best to Southwind Frank. He will be forwardly placed tonight and a pocket trip behind the expected favourite could lead to another finish on the Exacta.

BOB HEYDEN

SELECTIONS: 7 – 6 – 4 – 9

7 SOUTHWIND FRANK - Gets to atone for a brief intermission from the winner's circle and should have no problem here. This is not the best Beal field ever and the three horses to beat are Dayson who has erratic tendencies, Brooklyn Hill who likes the bridesmaid room and Bar Hopping who was 1-13 going into last week. No problem with these guys tonight as he begins, for real, his march to the Hambletonian

6 BROOKLYN HILL - Has eight times been second in 13 tries. That is at two and three combined. Everything went his way last time and there is no reason to believe in the final he'll be a whole lot different. Still, he was the second fastest colt of 2015, and he did have a $390,000 price-tag on him. Dave Miller sure helps too. He has to leave and hope for a Southwind Frank Pocket and hope the fave is still a touch off.

4 DAYSON - Has that all-or-nothing thing going on. He's 11-for-14 without a second or a third. Sire Conway Hall has re-emerged (Habitat in the Yonkers Trot 2015) and let's not forget his Triple Crown winning son turned HOY sire Windsongs Legacy. Jim Morrill, Jr. sure got along with him last out and looks to continue.

9 BAR HOPPING - Is proof that all horses, especially three-year-olds, are on their own individual schedules. The talent has always been there, but the results, at best, have been mixed. But, remember, too, that Hambletonian Day can at times be kind to those who haven't brought a sparkling bio. In 1995, Tagliabue entered the day one-for-seven lifetime. Plus, maybe Timmy and this son of Muscle Hill have teamed up at just the right time.

DEAN TOWERS

SELECTIONS: 9 – 7 – 4 – 6

9 BAR HOPPING - Even from the outside, is my top pick. This talented colt went through a little lull, with apparent nagging issues, but when he's right – like he looked to be in his elimination – he can handle the best three year olds in the world.

7 SOUTHWIND FRANK - Last week, Southwind Frank finally had to go fractions, and met a colt who could test him. Although he was beaten, he showed his mettle and talent. With a slight post advantage he could turn the tables.

4 DAYSON – Was driven conservatively in his elimination, which was probably a wise move after a hiccup at Mohawk. The colt responded beautifully with a strong surge to run down a very nice horse in Brooklyn Hill. It would not shock me in the least if this fella has a nice trip and grabs all the chocolates.

6 BROOKLYN HILL - At the present time, looks a slight notch below my top three.

Fireworks in Ohio

by Bob Roberts

Fans of the Ohio Sires Stakes (OHSS), a rich program stretching from early May to mid October, won't know if they are coming or going this holiday weekend.

Starting tonight and continuing through Fourth of July Monday there will be a staggering 37 divisions of races at either Scioto Downs or Northfield Park worth a whopping $1,480,000 in purse money.

It adds up to the busiest four days on the 2016 OHSS calendar and will have horsepeople scrambling up and down Interstate 71 from Scioto Downs to Northfield and back.

First up are tonight's (Friday's) three legs of three-year-old trotting fillies at Scioto Downs. The action continues at the Columbus oval on Saturday with four legs of three-year-old pacing fillies. Northfield welcomes both freshman filly pacers and trotters on Sunday in the biggest of ways. There will be 14 legs of action, six on the trot and eight for pacers.

The spotlight returns to Scioto Downs on Monday where 14 races aren't enough races to satisfy eager horsepeople. There will be 17 Ohio Sire Stake races – the entire program – for filly and colt freshman trotters.

No one will be as busy as central Ohio owner/trainer Christopher Beaver who will send out 15 horses over the long stakes weekend. To call him a trot man is an understatement.

"I've got 40 horses in my barn and 39 of them are trotters," said Beaver.

That one pacer, a two-year-old colt named Heracer, will race Monday at Scioto in the Ohio Sires series.

Beaver's top OHSS performer is the three-year-old filly Kestrel who was voted the Ohio Harness Horsemen's Association Two-Year-Old Filly Trotter of the Year.

And no one is enjoying the success of Ohsowigglesspecial, an ultra-consistent brown filly pacer with a compressed name, more than her trainer and co-owner, Joe Paver.

"We didn't stake her (to the OHSS races) as a two-year-old so she learned her lessons racing at the fairs last year," said Paver. "It gave her a good foundation."

Beaver will begin his Sires journey on Friday at Scioto by sending out three sophomore filly trotters, including Kestrel.

"She was like a spoiled child when we started with her," Beaver said of Kestrel, a winner of seven of nine starts and $216,650.

"She had all sorts of quirks. She'd run you around the barn or go straight up in the air. One day, she nearly took my wife's head off. She didn't like anybody and really hated it when the vet came around."

Beaver thought Kestrel might not make it to her three-year-old campaign after tearing a ligament in a stifle after a run-in with a fence post.

"It looked bad. She was really lame," said Beaver. "But we took a gamble by injecting her stifle with stem cells. She spent some time in Florida recovering and has come back strong winning the (May 29) second leg of her division after missing the (May 6) first."

When the Ohio Sires Stakes pacers take over at Scioto on Saturday, Beaver will head up to Northfield for a more square-gait action and shot at a big payday. He has two horses (Il Sogno Dream and Muscle Up The Goal) entered in the $180,000 Cleveland Trotting Classic.

Beaver will return to the OSS circuit and Northfield Park on Sunday when he sends out five freshman filly trotters in five of the six legs.

The dust won't settle around the storm of Beaver trotters until Monday. He'll have freshman colts racing in four of the five OSS races at Scioto.

Paver's Ohio Sires Stakes weekend will be considerably less hectic than Beaver's. He only has to worry about Ohsowigglesspecial in Saturday's 11th race at Scioto Downs.

The daughter of Mr Wiggles—So-Ho Special was a county fair monster last year, winning 10 of 14 starts with four seconds for earnings of $27,335. The richest pot she raced for and won was the $9,803 dash at Upper Sandusky. She got $4,411 of it.

"That was a lot of winning for not a lot of money," said Paver.

The cheapest purse that Ohsowigglesspecial chased was the $2,958 purse at Paulding in her career debut. She finished second and collected $739.

"I'm partners on her with my dad (Pearl) and my brother (Dennis)," said Paver. "I wanted to stake her to the Sires but I got outvoted. There was no arguing and it worked out, because she got a good foundation. I remember schooling her at the fair in Ottawa by putting her alongside and behind the water truck. She was taught to get use to stuff out on the track."

But Ohsowigglespecial has made up for lost Ohio Sires Stakes time by winning both her state-bred starts this year at Miami Valley and Scioto Downs. The two triumphs earned the Pavers $40,000.

"Winning an Ohio Sires Stakes race is like spending a full summer at the fairs," said Paver. "And we've got two of them."

Gingras records 6,000th victory

In many cases, winning seven harness races in a row would be the most notable achievement of any driver's day. But for Yannick Gingras, such a streak got him to an even more noteworthy accomplishment — career victory No. 6,000.

On Sunday (June 26), the 36-year-old Gingras won his final four drives at Harrah's Philadelphia before heading north to The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono, where he had three drives in Pennsylvania All-Stars action. Gingras won all three, finishing the day with 6,000 lifetime triumphs.

Gingras notched his milestone win with Ron Burke-trained two-year-old male pacer Normandy Beach in the seventh race at Pocono.

"That's just neat that it worked out that way," Gingras said. "Someone mentioned to me yesterday that I was getting close, but I wasn't sure how close I was."

"At this stage, it's a good number — it's always nice to get these milestones — but at this point we race so many horses they come quite often, honestly. But it's definitely nice. I'm sure it's something that later on it will be nice to talk about these numbers. Hopefully, I'll have made it higher than 6,000."

Gingras was harness racing's Driver of the Year in 2014 and has led the sport in purses each of the past two seasons. This year, Gingras has won 164 races and $3.12 million, which ranks fifth in North America.

This weekend, Gingras will turn his attention to Pocono's Sun Stakes Saturday card, where his drives include Southwind Frank in the $500,000 Earl Beal Jr. Memorial. Southwind Frank, last year's Dan Patch Award winner for best two-year-old male trotter, saw a 12-race win streak halted by Bar Hopping last Saturday in their Beal elimination. Bar Hopping won by a neck in 1:52.1.

"He's good," Gingras said about Southwind Frank, who has won 13 of 15 career races and is the early Hambletonian Stakes favorite. "He wasn't a hundred percent on Saturday. That's pretty scary to get beat a neck when he's not at his best. I think he'll be ready to rock on Saturday night."

Gingras also is anticipating the $500,000 Ben Franklin, where older male pacing stars Always B Miki, Freaky Feet Pete, and Wiggle It Jiggleit all head to the final off impressive elimination victories.

"That's going to be an unbelievable race," said Gingras, who is listed on Burke Always At My Place. "I'm looking forward to, not only being a part of it, but seeing who is the king of the division now. I hope it's everything we hope it's going to be."

"There will be a lot of good racing there at Pocono on Saturday night. I have some good ones, so I'm definitely looking forward to it."

PA Horse Racing Commission holds first meeting

A stronger, unified governance body to oversee Pennsylvania's more than $1 billion equine racing industry began its work to strengthen horse and harness racing on Wednesday (June 29) as the new State Horse Racing Commission had its first meeting.

Governor Tom Wolf paved the way for the new commission and other needed reforms to the industry earlier this year when he signed Act 7. The law represents the first significant industry reforms in three decades — a period over which time the nature and breadth of racing in Pennsylvania changed dramatically, bringing with it new challenges and new opportunities.

The new commission puts the oversight of thoroughbred and standardbred racing under one body, rather than the two separate commissions that existed previously for each breed.

In October 2015, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture announced it no longer had the needed financial resources to maintain operations at the state's two racing commissions — the Horse Racing Commission and the Harness Racing Commission — or to operate the Pennsylvania Equine Toxicology Research Laboratory (PETRL) at West Chester University where samples from race horses are tested for performance-enhancing substances. As a result, the state faced the difficult prospect of suspending racing in Pennsylvania.

"Today represents the beginning of a new day for racing in Pennsylvania," said Agriculture Secretary Russell Redding. "This is the result of hard work and compromise by a number of stakeholders. Each of the involved parties came to the table, engaged in meaningful discussions and provided leadership to get us to this point. I sincerely thank each of them for that.

"Act 7 and the Race Horse Development and Gaming Act make clear that horse and harness racing are important parts of our agricultural economy. Collectively, racing contributes an estimated $1.6 billion in economic activity for Pennsylvania, with many of those dollars going to support agricultural operations. The commonwealth has made two very intentional and clear statements – we value racing and what it does economically for this state. I look forward to the work the commission will do moving forward to grow this industry."

The new commission will have a total of nine members. Per Act 7, five appointments are made by the governor – one veterinarian, one representative of a thoroughbred horsemen's organization, one representative of a thoroughbred breeder organization, one representative of a standardbred horsemen's association, and one representative of a standardbred breeder organization – and four members appointed by each of the four legislative caucuses.

The commission's next meeting is scheduled for July 27 at 10 a.m. at the Department of Agriculture's headquarters in Harrisburg.

Mandatory payout of Big M's Jackpot Super High Five set for Meadowlands Pace night

The Meadowlands Racetrack is pleased to announce the mandatory payout of the last race Jackpot Super High Five on Meadowlands Pace night, Saturday, July 16. The current jackpot stands at $267,769. The wager will not be offered until the mandatory payout night to ensure it is not hit before then.

"We think the opportunity for horseplayers to wager into possibly a negative takeout pool that we expect to be well into the seven-figure range makes Meadowlands Pace night an even bigger 'must-see' night of racing and wagering," said Meadowlands GM/COO Jason M. Settlemoir. "With the success Mohawk had with the mandatory payout of their Jackpot Hi-5 on North America Cup night, we believe the wagering public will tune in and wager accordingly."

A separate Jackpot Super High Five is offered on the track's fifth race each night. That jackpot has been hit four times since the meet began in November. The fifth race wager will continue to be offered with a jackpot amount of $21,976 heading into tonight's live racing card.

The early Jackpot Super High Five requires a horseplayer to predict the first five finishers in order. It carries a 20¢ base wager. The jackpot amount only pays out if there is one single winner. Otherwise, 75 percent of the net pool is paid out to consolation winners while the remaining 25 percent is added to the jackpot.

Meadowlands Pace Night features total stakes purses of more than $2.5 million. In addition to The Pace, the card also includes the Hambletonian Maturity, Stanley Dancer Memorial, Golden Girls, Del Miller Memorial, Mistletoe Shalee, and the William Haughton Free-For-All Pace that could feature a rematch between Always B Miki, Wiggle It Jiggle it, and Freaky Feet Pete. For more information, visit www.meadowlandspace.com.

Fireworks at Big M

The holiday weekend at The Meadowlands offers a look into racing's future with two-year-old stakes tonight (Friday) then a celebration of America's Independence on Saturday with a special 6:30 p.m. post time and a fireworks display immediately following the races.

The New Jersey Sires Stakes (NJSS) for two-year-olds gets underway on Friday with six divisions of Garden State bred trotting and pacing hopefuls.

Saturday's early post time will result in the live races being concluded by around 10:15 p.m. with the Ben Franklin and Earl Beal finals shown on the giant infield screen before the fireworks begin at 10:30.
