

Wakizashi Hanover vs. Wiggle It Rematch Tops Stellar Pocono Card

By Bill Finley

They have a lot in common. Both are talented. Both are trained in Delaware, are modestly bred and wear the label of over achieving underdog. But only one can be No. 1.

The battle for supremacy in the 3-year-old male pacing division will be on the line tonight at Pocono Downs in the $500,000 Max Hempt. And while there are several top horses in the race, it's likely that it will be won by either Wakizashi Hanover or Wiggle It Jiggleit, who were one-two, respectively, in the Pepsi North America Cup. Since, both won eliminations for tonight's showdown.

The Hempt will be the spotlight race tonight at Pocono, where there will be three $500,000 races, one $300,000 race and a terrific open trot in the $75,000 Pocono Invitational.

Wiggle It Jiggleit will look to bounce back off his NA Cup defeat tonight at Pocono

For good reason, Wiggle It Jiggleit was all the rage coming into the North America Cup. He was undefeated in 12 career starts and respected owner/trainer George Teague Jr. had repeatedly said this was the best horse he had ever had. But the son of Mr Wiggles was beaten by his fellow horse out of Delaware, Wakizashi Hanover. Did he have a bad trip or a bad day? Is Wakizashi Hanover just the better horse? Those questions will be a lot easier to answer after the Hempt.

"Was it disappointing? Yes. But it was not surprising" Teague said of the North America Cup outcome. "On any given night that you go behind that gate you might get beat. It's the same for any sport. Sooner or later you're going to taste defeat. I thought he was as impressive in defeat as he had been in winning. I'm not making any excuses, but for a horse to go in 25.1 (for the first quarter) and get beat just three-quarters by a real nice horse who is as sharp as a tack right now, I can't be surprised with the way the race came out."

With the opening quarter apparently stinging Wiggle It Jiggleit in the NA Cup, Wakizashi Hanover, who was second early, shot past him in the stretch to win by three-quarters of a length in 1:48.

A week later, Wiggle It Jiggleit was rated by Montrell Teague, sitting fourth early before taking control on his way to an easy win. That could have been a sign that the Teagues want to have other options besides always trying to win on the front end.

"Last week we taught him a little bit how to race from off the pace," George Teague said. "He took him off the gate and he settled fine. He's a versatile horse. He's not one dimensional."

Despite the North America Cup outcome, Wiggle It Jiggleit will likely be the favorite tonight as it is too early to jump off his bandwagon. For Wakizashi Hanover's trainer Joann Looney-King, that would be fine...sort of.

"I don't think my horse has anything to prove but my horse doesn't seem to be the crowd pleaser," she said. "He is the Nova Scotia crowd pleaser; that's where his fan club seems to be. It doesn't seem to here. Because I'm still hearing Wiggle It Jiggleit, Artspeak, Wiggle It Jiggleit, Artspeak. Sometimes I get a little offended, but on the other hand I've gone further with this horse than I ever thought we could."

Wakizashi Hanover cost just $23,000 at the Harrisburg yearling sale and was purchased by a group of six Nova Scotians who put in a mere $5,000 each to buy the horse and pay his early training fees. They now own a gelding who might be worth seven figures. The story just keeps getting better with every race, but Wakizashi Hanover does need this one to cement his position as the top horse in the division.

Of course, this is not a two-horse race. As the year began, Artspeak looked like he would be the best among this group. Instead, he's had an up-and-down year, losing two of his five starts, including the North America Cup. But after he finished fifth at Mohawk he came back to win an elim for the Hempt. Trained by Tony Alagna, Artspeak obviously has the talent to jump up and win.

The first of the six figure races is the $300,000 James Lynch Memorial for 3-year-old filly pacers. With JK She'salady struggling this year, the division is wide open. Elim winners The Show Returns and Stacia Hanover will take action at the betting windows as will Sassa Hanover.

The $500,000 Ben Franklin will bring together free-for-all pacers in another race that lacks an obvious favorite. The horse to beat could be State Treasurer who has won four of his last five despite drawing, in order, posts nine, seven, seven, eight and two. Tonight, he will leave from post four.

"We've been drawing poorly it seems quite a bit lately, but that's horse racing," said co-owner Paul MacDonald. "It's certainly tough with such a strong group of older pacers when you're drawing on the outside. I don't think we'll continue to get the breaks we've been getting in some of these races. You just can't do that all the time against such a good group of horses."

With an eye on the Hambletonian, 3-year-old male trotters will slug it out in the $500,000 Earl Beal Jr. Memorial. At 4 for 4 this year, Uncle Lasse has been the most consistent member of Jimmy Takter's 3-year-old arsenal and will among the favorites. Takter will also go with 2014 Dan Patch Award winner Pinkman, who suffered his first loss of the year last week when second behind Wicker Hanover in a Beal elim.

JL Cruze Squares Off Against Sebastian K in Pocono Invitational

Sebastian K was the best older male trotter in the sport last year. This year, that title appears to belong to JL Cruze. Tonight, the two meet for the first time in a race where one or the other will no doubt make a statement.

Few thought JL Cruze would be in the position he's in at the start of the year. He dominated his competition this winter at the Meadowlands but didn't really prove what he has until beating Father Patrick twice in a row in the Graduate Series at the Meadowlands. With a win tonight in the $75,000 Mohegan Sun Pocono Invitational he might just make the argument that he's the best male trotter in the sport.

"He is so confident right now and is on top of his game," trainer Eric Ell said. "His confidence level is sky high. He's just a competitor. He's overcome two major foot injuries that, really, he shouldn't have been racing on. He's been battling a stifle that has been giving him problems all year. He just overcomes anything you put him up against. He's just an athlete. He likes to compete."

JL Cruze, who is a New York-bred by Crazyed, is the only 4-year-old in the field and will be making his first start against fives-and-up. John Campbell will drive and JL Cruze drew post five.

Ell said his main worry tonight will be how JL Cruze handles Pocono. Though his horse is 3 for 3 there this year, Ell said it's not his favorite track.

"The five-eighths could hinder him a little bit," he said. "He likes a bigger track. When he did win at Pocono those times he was winning pretty handy in 52, but he doesn't handle the turns as well as I'd like him to."

Sebastian K is nothing less than the fastest trotter in history, a title he earned in this same race last year when completing the mile in an almost unfathomable 1:49. That was his fourth start of the year, this will be his first. He had some problems with ulcers while gearing up for his 2015 debut and his connections have decided to give him a lighter schedule this year. That decision came after Sebastian K clearly tailed off at the end of the year last year.

All indications are that he'll be ready to go tonight as the Ake Svanstedt stable has been reporting they are very pleased with how the now 9-year-old is training.

"I am sure Sebastian K will be as competitive this year as last year," co-owner Tristan Sjoberg said. "The competition has totally changed with many of last year's aged trotters retiring or shipped to Europe so he will face a new group of horses and that will be exciting for fans."

During his down time, Sebastian K was bred, but just for the European market.

"We decided to breed him this year for the European market as breeders had contacted us since he broke the world record last year," Sjoberg said. "We are delighted by the demand from Europe and we hope that North American breeders will be as enthusiastic when he retires at the end of this season."

Sjoberg confirmed that Sebastian K will be retired at the end of the year.

My Love Bi, Hot Shot Blue Chip, Daylon Miracle, Gural Hanover and the mare Classic Martine round out the field.

Doo Wop Hanover Captures Graduate Final

Let there be no doubt who the best 4-year-old male pacer on the planet is.

Doo Wop Hanover proved that he is top dog in his division when winning the rich $250,000 Graduate final for 4-year-old pacers last night at the Meadowlands. It was his fourth straight win, all of them coming in the Graduate Series.

It figured that trainer Steve Elliott would win this race as he had the top two horses in the field in Rockeyed Optimist and Doo Wop Hanover, but it was a tough call as to which one would get the money. In the end, Doo Wop Hanover separated himself from the field and his stablemate. With

With Doo Wop Hanover leading the way, John Campbell drove four stakes winners last night at the Meadowlands

John Campbell driving, he won by a head in 1:48 and paid $3.20.

Lyonssomewhere was second, while Rockeyed Optimist finished fifth.

Doo Wop Hanover has made the transition from a decent 3-year-old to a star 4-year-old. Elliott gave the credit to Peter Blood, his co-owner and the colt's trainer while he wintered and campaigned at Pompano Park.

"He has just turned into a good horse," Elliott said.

"Peter is the one who got him ready all winter."

Blood wouldn't take the credit.

"This was Steve's doing," he said. "He got him better."

He's been a good horse

since we bought him, but he's just gotten better ever year. We're hoping now that we have a sire."

There was an intense battle for the early lead among three longshots, which worked out well for Campbell and Doo Wop Hanover. With Tim Tetrack driving, Rockeyed Optimist came first over after the pacesetters and Campbell followed right behind him. With a dream trip, Campbell stormed down the middle of the track to blow past Limelight Beach and then had enough left to hold off 21-1 shot Lyonssomewhere.

Blood wasn't sure where Doo Wop Hanover would race next but added that he would likely try the aged pacers in Grand Circuit action.

years, Moiseyev guided Daylon Magician to a narrow win over favorite Ogrigado in last night's $170,000 Cleveland Trotting Classic.

Moiseyev hadn't driven at Northfield since guiding Precious Bunny to a win in the 1991 Cleveland Classic.

It had been a busy week for the 7-year-old son of Kadabra, who raced just four days earlier when fourth in a Preferred at Mohawk.

"He had three weeks off so Monday was just a tightener," said Moiseyev, also Daylon Magician's trainer. "We tried to win it but it just didn't work out. Tonight was a good night."

Daylon Magician was a bit lucky as Ogrigado, the odds-on favorite, didn't have the best of trips. As the field went down the backstretch for the first time he was about to go right past Count Me In but broke. Driver Mark MacDonald got him quickly back on stride but he fell back to third in the process. He recovered and regained the lead but didn't have enough left to hold off Daylon Magician.

The winning time was 1:53.2 and Daylon Magician paid $19.80.

Mission Brief Among Winners at Meadowlands Qualifiers (by Meadowlands Media Staff)

EAST RUTHERFORD, NJ - Breakfast With The Babies was held on a picture-perfect Friday morning with moderate temperatures, clear skies and a slight cross breeze as the races began at 9:30am.

Mission Brief was a winner in a Meadowlands qualifier yesterday

World Champion Mission Brief came onto the track for her qualifying race this morning equipped with trotting hobbles and went a flat mile in 1:54.3. Gingras put her on the lead and faced pressure in the 27.4

second quarter from stablemate I'm So Fancy, put that one in behind her then drifted out some in the stretch while still a bit tentative through the 28.4 last quarter.

Hustle Heart opened the two-year-old races 1:59.3 winner for Andy & Julie Miller. The Marvin Katz/Al Libfeld homebred Credit Winner from their Hambo Oaks winner Creamy Mimi led all the way to hold $260,000 Lexington purchase Earn Your Wings safe with a 29.4 final quarter.

Scott Zeron drove a sharp looking Donato Hanover filly named Side Bet Hanover to a come from behind 1:58.4 win for trainer Jonas Czernyson this morning. She closed well to be fourth in her initial outing last week and gobbled up the ground into a 29.1 final quarter to run down Keep It Classy. SRF Stable paid $55,000 for her at the Standardbred Horse Sale (SHS) at Harrisburg last fall.

The $240,000 Lexington Select Yearling Sale (LSYS) graduate Winter Harbor was a 1:59 winner off a perfect steer by Zeron. The Muscle Hill colt found early pocket position from the outside and had plenty when called upon through the 29.2 closing quarter to a clear win over Armbró Hall with $320,000 LSYS purchase The Perfect Lindy closing to be third. The winner is trained by Tony Alagna for Brittany Farms, John Cancelliere, Little E and Winter Harbor Partners.

Promise Delivered impressed with both his speed and maneuverability in the fourth race as driver Tim Tetrick had to change course abruptly to avoid a breaker on the last turn, yet the colt continued his momentum to edge past Curious De Vie for a 1:58.2/28.4 win. He's a Muscle Hill $50,000 (SHS) buy for trainer Staffan Lind and owners Bender Sweden, Acadia Farms and Elmer Fannin.

The pacing races began with Mario Mazza's A List Hanover cut the mile for Andy Miller and won in 1:56.1, holding a late rallying Penpal off with a 28.2 last quarter. Julie Miller trains the Somebeachsomewhere filly that was a $160,000 Harrisburg purchase by Mr. Mazza.

Zeron and Alagna combined for another win with the nice Vintage Master filly Vintage Babe. She led all the way through comfortable fractions then sprinted home in 28 flat for the "W" over selfie and a closing Call Me Queen Be. Tony and Jodi Siamis ponied up $25,000 at LSYS for the winner.

It was Settlemoir squared in the seventh with Jason Settlemoir the Meadowlands GM in for the call of the race which was won by Settlemoir the Western Ideal pacing colt. Driven by trainer Jimmy Takter, Settlemoir was prominent throughout, posting all the fractions then digging in gamely to hold off a wave of closers in the 27.4 final quarter of the 1:55.2 mile. Christina Takter, Herb Liverman and the Fieldings are the proud owners of the $105,000 Lexington buy.

Dr J Hanover was a winner today for Alagna and Tetrick, cutting the mile and closing out the 1:55 score with a 28.1 final quarter over Sunken Treasure with Jann And Dean gaining late for third. Dr J was a big ticket yearling with Brittany Farms, Marvin Katz, John Cancelliere and the Dr J Partners parting with $300,000 to buy him at Harrisburg then naming the Somebeachsomewhere colt for Dr Jablonsky from Hanover Shoe Farms.

The ninth saw three colts flash under the wire in a line with Cruise Patrol splitting Artmagic and Uncle Nicky for the 1:56.1/27.3 record. Cruise Patrol is a $60,000 LSYS Bettors Delight colt trained and driven by Jimmy Takter for owners wife Christina, Fielding, Fielding and RAW Equine.

Takter collected another win with Badstormanyport, driven by Yannick Gingras to a 1:55 flat record. Gingras placed him in a pocket early, following through a 59 half and 1:27.1 three quarters and the Somebeach colt went by the leader willingly when asked. Tom Hill (the horse) closed nicely to be second. The winner was a $90,000 SHS yearling and is owned by the partnership of Takter, Fielding, Sbrocco and J&T Silva Stable.

Merrie Annabelle Stakes Renamed to Honor Jim Doherty

(press release)

EAST RUTHERFORD, NJ - The Meadowlands is pleased to announce that beginning with the 2015 edition, the Merrie Annabelle stake for two-year-old trotting fillies will be retitled the "Jim Doherty Memorial" recognizing the legacy of that Hall of Fame horseman.

Jim Doherty was born in New Brunswick, Canada. He learned horses at the hand of his father Frank at Exhibition Park in Saint John and drove his first winner in 1959. Honing his skills while rising through the levels of racetrack quality, Doherty eventually excelled on the ultra-competitive New England circuit through the 1970's.

New England was where his talents would draw the interest of Joe DeFrank when that Hall of Fame Racing Secretary was assembling the nucleus of horsemen that would launch the inaugural Meadowlands meet in 1976. Jim became a part of the fabric at the fantastic new venue and his talents as both a horseman and a driver led to his operating a large and powerful stable for decades.

On the racetrack his stars were many, led by the champion trotter Fools Goal who earned more than $3 million while winning all the major races for his division. No Nonsense Woman was a million dollar winner, counting the Goldsmith Maid, World Filly Trotting Derby and Breeders Crown among her successes. Starchip Enterprise promised greatness before succumbing to a career-ending injury at three.

Beyond his Meadowlands achievements, Doherty enjoyed great success on a national level including the 2002 Glen Garnsey Trainer of the Year award. His life's work culminated in his 2002 induction into the Living Hall of Fame, the highest award bestowed upon a Standardbred horseman.

In a game that is defined by competition, "Gentleman Jim" Doherty's class and grace earned him the respect of his peers as few have in the long history of racing.

The inaugural Merrie Annabelle stake was raced in 1977 for a purse of just $30,000. It quickly became the "must win" race for the feminine freshmen and by 1985 the purse had risen to its apex at $627,250.

Past winners of the stake include champions like Peace Corps, CR Kay Suzie, Check Me Out, Shake It Cerry and last year's sensation Mission Brief (who set the stakes record at 1:52.2).

"Jim Doherty was one of the horsemen that helped put the Meadowlands on the map more than 30 years ago," said Meadowlands chairman Jeffrey Gural. "His contributions to the Meadowlands and harness racing are numerous and this is another way to honor his legacy."

"As a young harness racing fan growing up in Ohio, you couldn't help but look up to 'Gentleman Jim' Doherty," said Jason M. Settlement, Meadowlands CEO and General Manager. "He was the consummate horseman that you always respected and rooted for on the sport's biggest stage. He touched so many people in this industry and we hope attaching his name to one of the sport's premier races will help keep his memory alive forever."

The 2015 $350,000E Jim Doherty Memorial will be raced on Hambletonian Day, August 8, 2015.

Harness Racing Is Special, and It Needs More Unique Meets to Illustrate It

Last week, Parx, the Thoroughbred venue in Philadelphia, announced a change of plans for the fall:

"Parx Racing and the Pennsylvania Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association (PTHA) announce the creation of a new, annual $20 Million Parx Racing Fall Festival that will commence on Saturday, Aug. 29, 2015, and continue through Oct. 20, 2015. By doubling purse levels throughout the two month festival, Parx and the PTHA have created a signature racing meet that will attract top horse racing talent in the industry, increase the field size of the races, enhance betting interest, and draw new fans to the racetrack. Parx Racing will not run eight scheduled dates from Aug. 15-28 leading up to the Fall Festival to complete some capital improvements to the facility."

Parx is the quintessential year round racetrack that runs four or five times a week. It's been that way for a while, but particularly since slots were first installed, which added significantly to purses and increased racedates. The problem with that, however, is that (total or average) handle has not moved much (purse levels in black on graph below, handle in red), and as Einstein once said 'doing the same thing over and over again and expecting a different result is the definition of insanity'.

Parx, with this new venture, is banking on a phenomenon that has worked very well for Thoroughbred racing - the "boutique meet".

Boutique meets in Thoroughbred racing can be storied, attractive to horsemen and fans, and yield significant revenue for year round revenues. Everyone knows about Del Mar, Keeneland and Saratoga, and I would submit none of those three meets would attract such attention if they were watered down, or longer. Across the ponds the Melbourne Cup or Ascot meets are very well-known and create monster handles.

But it's more than that. It's not just the big names. Just five years ago, Kentucky Downs in Franklin, Kentucky raced an all-turf meet that not a whole lot of people paid much attention to. Handles were in the $700,000 per card range, and it wasn't really on the horse owner radar. With the advent of historical racing machines and year round simulcasting, revenues rose and track President Corey Johnsen began to think he could make his meet extra-special. Bigger purses (maiden purses approach $100,000) would bring in the horsemen, and his new plan to lower takeout to "the lowest blended rate in North America" would hopefully attract bettors. Away he went with the grand "festival meet experiment".

Last year this unique meet at Kentucky Downs averaged over $3 million per race card. The box was overflowing with some very nice horses, from great barns. Horsemen and bettors heaped praise on the endeavor. Fans packed the stands. Success.

This concept is something we've seen more and more of. Suffolk Downs is trying to have a short meet to create some buzz with limited money, the Monmouth "Elite Meet" worked fairly well from a fan and betting perspective. Elsewhere, the New York Racing Association has created "Belmont Week." These tracks are doing so because the everyday, knockdown, drag out sameness of racing cards cannot capture the imagination of bettors like they once did.

In harness racing, we've seen some of this, in pockets, and in those pockets they've worked some real magic. We've all been to Jug week - if you haven't you should go - and the name "Jug" and "Week" tells you what you need to know. There's no metropolis nearby to draw fans from; there are no jam packed $2 million stakes cards like on a Breeders Crown or Hambletonian Day; there are not countless commercials on TV trying to get people out to the event. You've got the Jug, the Jugette, a few small stakes and a whole lot of Ohio bred races. Yet there it is: Tens of thousands of fans (the biggest crowds in all of harness racing), having a good time, drinking a beer or two, chatting with harness racing insiders and long-time fans. They're there to have a great time at the harness races and every year they come.

A month earlier, about a 17 hour or so drive east, is Gold Cup and Saucer week in Charlottetown, PEI. The Gold Cup and Saucer is the premiere event, raced Saturday night at midnight, but there's a lot more to it. From the previous weekend onwards, sires stakes finals, homegrown stakes races and overnights are raced; sometimes with double cards. I was there once on a Tuesday for the matinee card and the place was near packed. Insert chair for me to fall out of.

In PEI this is achieved without massive purse money, or huge names. Niatross or Cam Fella never went, Greyhound did not try and break a time trial mark between races, Overtrick and Meadow Skipper might've not been able to get a passport. It's a $60,000 race, not unlike a Yonkers open pace on a Saturday night.

Jug week and Gold Cup and Saucer week offer something fun and unique. It's not the same old same old. It's intertwined with the agrarian aspect of the sport, and the tourism of Ohio and PEI work closely with the events, which helps make them what they are. There's just something about special.

Elsewhere in harness racing, these events or festivals either do not exist, or do not pass muster. The Meadowlands has some great stakes racing, everyone with a two-year-old wants to race at the Meadowlands in July and in August there's the Hambo. Eight hours drive north at Mohawk it is not dissimilar with the North America Cup, Canadian Trotting Classic etc. But none of those have the characteristics of a meet. At both venues there is barely a beginning and end.

In Pennsylvania, the tracks tend to put on a product that is very watered down. Sure there are some stakes events, but again, no beginning, no end. There's nothing special with a 15-race card at some of these tracks, even with a few stakes races, because it looks like any other 15 race card.

Down at the Red Mile - which in my view is special - we have a kinda-sorta boutique. But it feels more about the horsemen rather than the fans. It doesn't feel like a Del Mar, or Gold Cup and Saucer.

I was, like you, born on a day and it was not yesterday. I know the way the strings are pulled and I know the way purse money is doled out in harness racing. The magic elixir is lots of dates, lots of races, raced year round with no break. With a boutique, like Parx is trying, that formula does not have to end. A track can still race near year round, keeping the horsemen groups happy, but it can also think outside the box a little. It can take a couple of weeks off, say when the Big M is racing their stakes races, then start back up with an elite, boutique meet of their own. It can modify and massage a stakes schedule that hopefully entices racing fans to come out to watch. It can tweak the takeouts to encourage more play. It can create new events, to attract buzz. It can make the betting pools larger, by seeding them, encouraging more betting and more eyeballs. It can pour some of the marketing money into an event and over time make it special. The list is endless, really.

Can your track create a meet with some buzz surrounding it? Can your track increase attendance like Charlottetown has? I think, with some work, it can be done. And if so, it'll help not only your track, but the entire sport of harness racing.

WILKES-BARRE PA - The father/son team of driver Marcus and trainer Erv Miller accounted for half of the six divisions of a $180,000 Pennsylvania All-Stars event for state-sired two-year-old pacing colts on the first Friday card of the season at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono, while driver Dave Palone and trainer Ron Burke bookended the action for babies.

The fastest of the three wins for Team Miller was the 1:53.3 triumph of He's Marvalous, a son of Delmarvalous (hence the spelling: remember the Del(aware)-Mar(yland)-V(irgini)a peninsula). He's Marvalous made every pole a winning one while closing in 56 – 27.1 for the combine of Badlands Racing LLC and L. A. Express Stable LLC.

Also flying the Miller colors in Victory Lane were the McArdle colt McDave, longest price of the six at 7-1, as he rallied from the pocket into back splits of 55.1 – 27.2 to score in 1:53.4 for owners Ronald Michelin and David & John Prushnok, along with Ideal Jimmy, an altered son of Western Ideal who was a “pocket rocket,” gaining into a 27.4 kicker to stop the clock in 1:54 for owner D R Van Witzenburg.

Palone/Burke got the evening's stakes action underway with a victory with the Well Said colt Genovese, who made a backstretch brush of 26.4 in going from fifth to the lead and then on to victory in 1:53.2. Burke Racing Stable LLC, Weaver Brussemi LLC, Jack Piatt III, and The Panhellenic Stable Corporation own Genovese; the first two share ownership with the JJK Stables LLC and Lawrence Karr of the other Palone/Burke winner, the Yankee Cruiser colt Allie's Cruiser, who made a quarter-move and then sped home in 27.1 to complete a 1:53 victory.

The 1:53 time of Allie's Cruiser equaled the fastest clocking of the stakes sextet, which was earlier put up by a colt sired by The Panderosa, Bank Shot Hanover, in familiar style for driver George Napolitano Jr. – on the engine – trainer Daniel Renaud and owner Robert DiNozzi.

Saturday night is of course the $2.2M Sun Stakes Saturday supercard, with the $500,000 Championship of the Ben Franklin FFAP, the Max C. Hempt 3CP, and the Earl Beal Jr. 3CT, along with the $300,000 Championship of the James Lunch 3FP. Also sure to attract a lot of interest is the $75,000 Sun Invitational Trot, marking the Pocono and 2015 return of Sebastian K S, who recorded the fastest trotting mile in history, 1:49, here last year. The first post for Sun Stakes Saturday is set for 6:30 pm.

Riveting Rosie Steals One

Courtesy of Woodbine Entertainment

Seven of North America's top older trotting mares contested the $40,000 second leg of the Miss Versatility Series during Friday evening's card at Mohawk Racetrack, and Paul MacDonell pulled off a major upset with Riveting Rosie.

The O'Brien Award-winning Riveting Rosie rushed to the lead from Post 3 and made every pole a winning one. She was rated beautifully through fractions of :27.4, :56.4 and 1:25 before turning on the afterburners and finishing off her foes by a neck with a :27.4 kicker. Charmed Life came on strong to finish second, while Allie Labrook failed to fire after being treated to a pocket trip. She settled for third prize.

It was the second win of the season – and the 13th to date – for the four-year-old daughter of Muscle Mass-Rose De Vie Stena. John Bax trains the OSS graduate for Parkhill Stud Farm, Don Allensen, J And T Stable Newmarket along with John Hayes. The mare, who now boasts a bankroll of $943,153, paid $49.30.

Round two of the Town Pro Series also went postward during Friday's card, and Caviart Scarlett pulled off the biggest shocker of the summer meet. Chris Christoforou rallied from out of the clouds with the three-year-old daughter of Sportswriter-Caviart Sydney, and in the process blew up the toteboard to the tune of 99-1. She defeated Lindys Old Lady and race favourite Moonlit Dance in a time of 1:52.

Richard 'Nifty' Norman trains the homebred for Caviart Farms of Vienna, Virginia. It was the second lifetime win in five tries for the career winner of $18,640. She paid $211.20.

Three-year-old trotting colts and geldings made their way to the Campbellville oval, as well, for a host of OSS Grassroots divisions.

Namesmuscle took home a new lifetime mark thanks to his 1:56.3 score in the first division. Doug McNair marched the odds-on favourite first-over in the back half of the mile and then used a :28.2 closing panel to win by 2-1/4 lengths over Parkhill Lancelot. Taking home third prize was Thoughtful Leader.

Pam Forgie trains the son of Muscle Mass-Names Agnes for owner John Patterson of Bayfield, Ontario. It was the first win of the year – and the second to date – for the gelding who bumped his lifetime earnings to $49,019 with the win.

Duh Bubbees was a wire-to-wire winner in his $18,000 division for the tandem of driver Sylvain Filion and trainer Jamie Wilson. The homebred charged to the lead and threw down splits of :28.1, :57.2 and 1:26.2 before kicking home in a :29-second clip to stop the teletimer in 1:55.2. Call Me Richard's late bid fell short by half a length. The show dough went to race favourite Kadabrasnewrecruit.

Sent off at odds of 5-1, the son of Up Front Ben-Nothing To Justify won for the second time this season for owner Chris Wilson of Huron Park, Ontario. The five-time winner pushed his cash stash to $44,389 with the win.

Pilgrims Joy blew away the foes he faced in his $18,000 OSS Grassroots division. James MacDonald came first-over going into the final turn with the Johnny McKinnon pupil, who wound up drawing clear to win by 5-1/4 lengths over Ontheroad De Vie in 1:56. Taking home third prize was Lets Be Honest.

The win improved the homebred's 2015 record to 2-1-0 from five tries. Len Kordy of Picton, Ontario bred and owns the son of Pilgrims Taj-Joys Incredible. The $9,000 payday boosted the colt's earnings to $47,573.

New Muscle AS won as he pleased in the fourth division for driver Rick Zeron and trainer Anette Lorentzon. The son of Muscle Mass-New Circle AS was treated to cover in the backstretch before steamrolling past the leaders in deep stretch. He used a :28-second closing quarter to win by 1-1/4 lengths over Stormont Wizard. Buzz rounded out the top three finishers.

The victory improved the gelding's 2015 record to 2-4-0 from seven starts and the lion's share of the loot pushed his cash stash to $27,130. The homebred is owned by ACL Stuteri AB of Paris, Kentucky and Kjell Johansson of Soslada, Sweden.

Its Huw You Know made it back-to-back OSS wins thanks to his 1:56.4 score in the final division for the duo of driver Sylvain Filion and trainer Keith Jones. Fresh off a 2:00.2 score versus OSS Grassroots foes at Grand River Raceway, the son of Holiday Road-Lukes Elvira rushed to the front and sliced out fractions of :27.2, :57.4 and 1:27.2 before finishing off his foes with a :29.2 closing quarter. P L Intimidator was next best, with third prize going to Delcrest Massy.

Douglas McCarthy of Holland Landing, Ontario owns the gelding who is now a three-time winner to date. The $9,000 payday lifted his lifetime loot to $41,330.

The Show Returns

throughout the season so far and was able to storm by everyone late in her elimination and that came following a shuffle. She almost won two back at over 100/1 with an unfortunate trip and there's no question she has the speed to overcome the 9 hole tonight; Campbell has gotten along very well with her. SASSA HANOVER hasn't been the most consistent filly of late but there's no question she's one of the shorter priced contenders. She went a big mile in her elimination making multiple moves through fast fractions and Gingras will give her every chance tonight. STACIA HANOVER went wire to wire in her elimination on Saturday but it came against the softer competition; she'll need even more tonight. BETTOR BE STEPPIN lands the rail and that will be her best asset; the Bettor's Delight filly that we saw as a 2-year-old would be good enough. MOMAS GOT A GUN delivered a win last week that was hard to see coming; steps up but picks up Morrill. WICKED LITTLE MINX was Brett Miller's choice of a few.

Perhaps the biggest story in this race is who isn't in here, last year's Horse of the Year JK SHE'SALADY. After struggling in her two most recent starts, this division is suddenly wide open and THE SHOW RETURNS is the top pick to win tonight. This one's been wildly underestimated

The Hempt final features the highly anticipated rematch between North America champion WAKIZASHI HANOVER and WIGGLE IT JIGGLEIT, along with a resurgent ARTSPEAK. WIGGLE IT JIGGLEIT bounced right back from his tough loss in the NA Cup two back when crushing foes last week in his elimination and he didn't look any worse for the wear following that big trip two weeks ago from Mohawk. I had underestimated this horse throughout much of the year but it's clear he's the very real deal and the fastest horse in here; wins it with Teague. WAKIZASHI HANOVER is in career form and the pride of Truro, Nova Scotia has never been better. He followed up his $810,000 win two back with a multiple move effort to coast in his elimination; let's see what Tetrick will do tonight as he lands his worst post in some time. ARTSPEAK rebounded last week with a wire to wire win following a somewhat disappointing trip to Mohawk. It actually looked like he was in some trouble around the final turn in his elimination but he found another gear and was able to fight them all off late; I still think there's some questions here and he'll need to be at his A-1 best to beat all of these. IN THE ARSENAL just missed last week and it looked like Sears had him under a stranglehold through most of the race from the pocket. If there's a mid-priced play in this race that can upset he is it.

11th Race. $500,000, Pace. Ben Franklin

Post Horse	Sire	Trainer/Driver

8 Vegas Vacation	Bettor's Delight	Coleman/Sears
9 Luck Be Withyou	Western Ideal	Oakes/G Napolitano

STATE TREASURER might be the sharpest older pacer in the sport right now and that elimination win last week was nothing less than brilliant. Coming from 9th at this track is almost impossible and this one swept from the most improbable of spots to get up for the win. This one crushed two back in the Gold Cup at Mohawk and lands an ideal post for tonight's final; looms tough to go against. LUCK BE WITHYOU went right down the road in his elimination and it's almost not fair that he lands post 9 for the final. George Nap won a big race on this night here last year and seems to make the most of these opportunities; only shot into it is to blast and we'll see how tough the road to the front is. It would be fitting for FOILED AGAIN to win tonight on a night where his very own toy horse is being sold but he was lucky just to make the final; the Battle of Lake Erie from June has reminded us though never to count him out. VEGAS VACATION goes from the pole to post 8 and that could present some problems; at least has Sears to help aid his cause. MACH IT SO showed early speed in his elimination and could have more coming for tonight; capable of landing a share.

12th Race. $500,000, Trot. Earl Beal Jr. Memorial

Post Horse	Sire	Trainer/Driver
1 Pinkman	Explosive Matter	Takter/Gingras
2 Cruzado Dela Noche	Muscle Massive	Johansson/D Miller
3 Centurion ATM	SJ's Caviar	Svanstedt/Svanstedt
4 Uncle Lasse	Donato Hanover	Takter/B Miller
5 Crazy Wow	Crazed	Burke/Sears
6 Wicker Hanover	Explosive Matter	Daley/McCarthy
7 Shoot The Thrill	Explosive Matter	Simpson/Tetrick
8 Boots N Chains	Yankee Glide	Butenschoen/A Miller
9 Southwind Mozart	Muscle Hill	Svanstedt/Campbell

CRAZY WOW picks up Sears tonight as Gingras opts away from Burke to Takter's PINKMAN. That move isn't exactly unsurprising but the son of Crazed looks even better this year than he did at 2 and is clearly a top colt whose success won't be limited to predominantly NYSS competition. This one couldn't get close to some of these last fall at Lexington but he'll be heard from tonight; he was dead game last week when losing a heartbreaker with a tough trip in his elimination. PINKMAN will be the deserving favorite from the rail and that loss he had pinned on him last week was somewhat stunning. The track did seem to be tiring last Saturday for many on the front end so perhaps the loss can be forgiven for last year's divisional champion; seeks to make amends now with the money on the line. WICKER HANOVER was used twice last week to pull the upset trick and he just might be this good right now for trainer Daley. Versatile colt by Explosive Matter can do it on or off the lead; a win here would be the biggest of McCarthy's career in these parts. UNCLE LASSE is unbeaten on the year for Takter and will need his very best to keep the streak intact tonight; Hambletonian hopeful is flying somewhat under the radar. CRUZADO DELA NOCHE picked up a well earned win last week in the faster of the two eliminations; will offer a good price to do it again.
