Jiggleit (Montrell Teague) recorded a career best 1:47.2 mile while defeating Freaky Feet Pete by a half-length. Rock N' Roll World was third.

"He's a great horse who likes to do what he does," said Wiggle It Jiggleit's principal owner George Teague Jr.

Wiggle It Jiggleit was away well from post three. Freaky Feet Pete also left quickly and while parked had the lead at the quarter in :25.3. With Wiggle It Jiggleit right behind him, Pete hit the half in :53.1 and three-quarters in 1:20.4 and appeared to get a bit of separation as they turned for home. But then driver Montrell Teague hit the gas pedal, and once again, Wiggle It Jiggleit had more than enough fuel left in the tank. He drew clear in the final sixteenth to return $3.00 to win as the 1-2 favorite.

"Great horses do great things," said George Teague.

Wiggle It Jiggleit has now earned $2,815,760 lifetime and sports a record of 32-6-1 in 40 career starts for trainer Clyde Francis. The pacer is 9-3-1 in 13 starts with earnings of $627,265 in 2016 for George Teague Jr., Inc. of Harrington, DE and the Teague Racing Partnership LLC of Boynton Beach, FL.

A week earlier at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono, Wiggle It Jiggleit was third behind five-year-old Always B Miki — who was ineligible for the Graduate which is reserved for four-year-olds — and Freaky Feet Pete.

"This little guy amazes me all the time," said winning trainer Benoit Baillargeon. "But you have to be careful with him in the turns."

That is exactly how Campbell handled things.

Musical Rhythm left quickly and was parked in second as Crazshana hit the quarter in :27.4. Musical Rhythm took over shortly thereafter, trotting past the half in :55.4. Wings Of Royalty, who got off the rail at the three-eighths and provided live cover for even-money favorite Maestro Blue Chip, ranged up to get the top at three-quarters in 1:23.2 as Campbell handled his charge with care through the far turn.

Through the stretch, Maestro Blue Chip did not fire, and nearing the wire, Campbell swung Musical Rhythm out of the pocket and exploded home in the final sixteenth to record the win in 1:51.2, a lifetime best. Centurion ATM, a 30-1 longshot, finished second, with Crazshana third. Maestro Blue Chip faded to sixth.

"He let the guy go on the turn," said Baillargeon of Campbell permitting Wings Of Royalty to get the lead. "But then he swelled right up."

Musical Rhythm returned $12.20 to win as the third betting choice for owners Santo Vena of Brampton, ON, Nunzio Vena of Bolton, ON, Claude Hamel of Ayer's Cliff, QC and Baillargeon, who lives in Guelph, ON. Musical Rhythm has now won 12 of 14 starts this year and $276,823 of a career total of $362,344.

For Campbell, it marked his second consecutive win in the Graduate for trotters. A year ago, he guided JL Cruze to victory lane in 1:49.4, the only sub-1:50 mile on the trot in Meadowlands history.

All-source wagering on the card totaled $2,834,080. Meadowlands Pace Night is Saturday, July 16, and has an early post time of 6:30 p.m.

Miller. By virtue of being the top seasonal money-earner in the field, Racing Hill elected to take a bye to the final.

Earlier on Saturday, Control The Moment ($4.00), driven for the first time by Brian Sears, stormed home with a :26.2 final quarter to win the lone Meadowlands Pace elimination by a length in a lifetime-best 1:49.2. Lyons Snyder finished second with JK Will Power third. Check Six was fourth.

"He is a really nice horse and did everything that I asked him to do tonight," said Sears, who won the 2005 Meadowlands Pace with Rocknroll Hanover. "The opportunity knocked to be able to drive this horse and I was really looking forward to it. I know he races well from off the pace and everything worked out well."

By winning the elimination, Control The Moment earned the right to draw for post positions one through six and will start from post three. He was made the 5-2 second choice on Dave Little's morning line.

Blockbuster Deal

by Dave Briggs

Al Crawford said the chance to purchase the dam of Hambletonian favorite Southwind Frank was too good to pass up.

On Friday, Crawford Farms of Durhamville, NY completed the deal to purchase Flawless Lindy from Southwind Farms of Pennington, NJ. It was a whirlwind deal consummated in just a few days. Both parties declined to disclose the purchase price, but said the deal — while not inexpensive — was a fair one.

Southwind's syndicate manager Mike Klau said Flawless Lindy was not being shopped, but was sold because the price was right.

"We were not actively seeking to sell her," Klau said. "But, we got an offer that was hard to say no to. We are in the business of selling horses and we run Southwind as a business."

Flawless Lindy is a nine-year-old Cantab Hall mare out of the Lindy Lane mare Clasically Designed. Flawless Lindy's first foal was Southwind Frank, the two-year-old trotting colt of the year for 2015. Southwind Frank, whom Klau said was named for Frank Sinatra, not Lindy Farms' Frank Antonacci — "That year we named all our yearlings after singers," he said — has a career record of 14-0-1 in 16 starts with earnings of more than $1.1 million and a mark of 1:52.1.

"Obviously, (the success of Southwind Frank) was a huge motivator and watching how he was at Pocono last week, too. He was dominant there and in his two-year-old season.

Ronnie (Burke) definitely has him in good form," Crawford said. "The funny thing right now is we own Marion Marauder's full-brother yearling. So, looking at Marion Marauder last night, you've got to think he's coming into the Hambo with some steam and then you've got Southwind Frank on the other side. I think that's kind of neat. I'm not sure who we will be rooting for between the two, owning the full-brother that's going to sell in Lexington and having the mare with a full-brother or full-sister to Southwind Frank in her belly. It makes the Hambo extra interesting for Crawford Farms this year."

Klau said the deal happened something by accident. Agent Ernie Martinez recently phoned to inquire if Southwind had any mares it wished to sell to an unnamed client. Not long after that, Southwind received an offer to buy Flawless Lindy from European interests. Klau said Southwind turned down that offer, but he phoned Martinez to ask if the Europeans were Martinez's clients. They were not. Then Klau told Martinez that the offer for Flawless Lindy did not meet Southwind's price.

"(Martinez) kind of haphazardly said, 'What would buy her?' I threw a number out and he said, 'I can get that for you in two days,'" Klau said.

True to his word, the deal was done in two days.

"The money was wired into our account yesterday," Klau said Saturday. "Done deal"

Crawford said the acquisition is not without its risks.

Courtesy Crawford Farms

Flawless Lindy at her new home at Crawford Farms.

Flawless Lindy produced Muscle Hill-sired foals in 2012 (Southwind Frank) and 2013 (Southwind Fiat), but was barren in 2014 after being bred to Muscle Hill. Flawless Lindy aborted a Muscle Hill foal in 2015. The mare is back in foal to Muscle Hill.

"People say, 'Why do you think they sold her?' When you go two open years on a mare and you're in the breeding business it can get a little bit interesting," Crawford said. "We certainly don't want that. Our whole thing is it's an opportunity. There's one in the belly that we pray we can get out, obviously. It's a full brother or sister to Southwind Frank... I think it's a really fair trade both ways and I think there's risk on both sides."

Klau said the answer to the question of why Southwind would sell Flawless Lindy is: "Why not?" He added that every horse is for sale at a price. "That's the rule of the game. We try to run Southwind Farm as a business. It's never a bad idea to take a profit."

That the purchase came the same week as the Crawford Farms-sponsored Meadowlands Pace is simply good for business, Crawford said.

"That went into it a little bit. With (Southwind Frank) in the Hambo, I think we can do some advertising around that. I think it gives a little extra punch for us on the marketing side just this time of year... It lets people know we're aggressively in the industry. Stop by our consignment, we're really looking to upgrade and we're working on it every year," he said, adding that Crawford has grown from eight mares just seven years ago to 77 today.

Klau said he wishes Crawford Farms nothing but success with Flawless Lindy.

"There's no question we wish there were 10 more people like the Crawfords in the business," Klau said. "They're committed to the business, they're investing a lot of money. We wish them the best of success."

Converseon opts out of contract with USTA

Rob Key said the decision to hand off the social media campaign to another company is “a natural progression” and will “hopefully spur deeper collaboration and investment in the program.”

by Dave Briggs

Rob Key's company Converseon, which developed the Harness Racing FanZone, among other initiatives, is opting out of its contract to provide social media services to the United States Trotting Association (USTA).

On Friday, Converseon gave the USTA the required 60 days notice that it was ending the contract.

In a series of texts on Saturday, Key wrote that, “the program so far is meeting or exceeding all goals set this year. This transition is the next phase. Step one was to build a digital platform. The digital platform is in place, apps, website, ambassador program and more. The next step was to build an audience. We've reached millions of new potential fans. We have more than 54,000 likes, have a 60 per cent increase in reach and engagement since this time last year and reached more than 100 new potential owners just in last three weeks... And now the last step is to monetize through new owners... Our heavy lifting is done. It's time for the sport to now build on all of this foundation to take it to the next step. It's not something I can make happen.”

Key, who had to fight hard at the USTA's annual meeting in February to retain $250,000 in funding for 2016 for Converseon's social media campaign on behalf of the harness racing industry, said “I fought for it because a sustainable, ongoing marketing initiative is the only way forward — with or without me.”

He said his decision to opt out of the contract now, “shouldn't be that big of a deal really. Consultants really should only stay involved to the point that the client can stand on its own two feet.

“This handoff is to hopefully spur deeper collaboration and investment in this. This is natural progression. At some point the industry needs to own this. We've fulfilled all objectives so now is time to do this. This will be the true test of the sport can unify for the greater good or not. This final transition was always expected, but now we're simply putting the mechanics in place to do it. The USTA deserves credit for funding this. The sport now has a powerful and compelling social and digital presence that is comparable to other leading sports. The challenge will be what happens next with it.

Fantastic Voyage

by Karen Briggs

In the somewhat cheesy 1966 film, Fantastic Voyage, a miniaturized submarine (likely most notable for having Raquel Welch among its crew) undertakes a dangerous mission: to cruise through the body of its designer in order to destroy a life-threatening blood clot in his brain.

The special effects were a little more sophisticated in 1987's quasi-remake, Innerspace, in which Dennis Quaid pilots a microscopic pod around in Martin Short's innards, even if the dialogue was not. And then there was the 2001 animated effort, Osmosis Jones, a bit of a box-office bomb despite a voice cast that included Chris Rock, Bill Murray, David Hyde Pierce, Molly Shannon, and Laurence Fishburne, playing interior anatomical investigation for laughs.

One thing is obvious: the notion of exploring a body from the inside, Jules Verne-style, isn't going away.

We're getting closer all the time to being able to do it, too. Maybe not with miniaturized humans on board, but we've now got the next best thing: a small, smart, sophisticated capsule endoscope (CE) which can be gently introduced to the digestive tract to take a cruise, snap some photos, and grab a few souvenirs along the way.

Capsule endoscopes have been in use in human medicine for about a decade now. Of course, we've had 'regular' endoscopes for even longer than that – the kind where a cable is snaked down the esophagus and examines as far as it will go – but they have limitations. Even in the human gastrointestinal tract (GI), there are limits to how far we can explore with a conventional endoscope, leaving much of the twisty, turny small intestine out of reach.

A capsule endoscope, by contrast, can traverse the digestive system tetherless and fancy free, shoved ever onward by peristalsis, the natural rhythm of contractions that moves food from stomach to intestines and thence to elimination. In humans, the tiny capsules, averaging about 1 cm by 2.5 cm in size (depending on the manufacturer) are proving useful in detecting otherwise-hard-to-diagnose things such as lesions, tumours, Crohn's and celiac disease, and mystery bleeding in the small intestine. There have been over a thousand peer-reviewed articles published since the early 2000s, all of which have concluded that capsule endoscopy is non-invasive and safe (but not, so far, re-useable).

It was only a matter of time before CE started being applied to the equine digestive tract. Conventional endoscopy is limited by the length of the 'scope (usually somewhere between 2.2 and 2.5 metres long) – which isn't that useful when you're talking about a mass of tubes with a total length of 24 to 30 metres.

The sheer length and mass of the equine GI tract, combined with the way it's shielded by thick walls of abdominal muscle, also make other diagnostic methods problematic. Ultrasound can't penetrate the abdominal wall and the ribcage all that well, and MRI and CT have similar limitations. The conventional approach, rectal palpation, also only allows access to the last 30 to 40 per cent of the GI tract. Neither the stomach, the proximal duodenum, nor any part of the small intestine can be explored that way.

So while conventional endoscopes have had good success in illuminating gastric ulcers – and if inserted at the other end, can provide a view of the first metre or two of the large intestine – the small intestine remains a "black box", according to Diane Gibbard, MS, who in September 2015 completed a Masters' degree at the University of Guelph by presenting her thesis on the applications of capsule endoscopy in horses.

Her desire to investigate CE – which had previously only been applied on the veterinary side in a scant few studies on dogs and pigs – stemmed from personal experience: her first horse was suffering intermittent bouts of mild colic which defied diagnosis. Gibbard's veterinarian suggested they try capsule endoscopy, which he had used experimentally once before – but unfortunately, the trial "failed miserably", she says. "I thought, there has to be a way to make this work in horses," so she approached her faculty advisor, Dr. Jeff Thomason, with the idea.

Gibbard began with one of the capsule endoscope models popular in human medicine, MiroCam®, and worked with the company's engineers to adapt the technology for use in horses. Because of the sheer size of the patient, the capsule needed to have enhanced signal strength with which to send its images to a series of electrodes placed on the horse's skin. Initially, those electrodes – nine in all – were taped to the skin as they are with humans, but Gibbard's team soon discovered that sub-dermal electrodes did a better job of picking up the signal through a horse's thick abdominal walls. Even then, the signal strength waxed and waned, and clear images only got transmitted when it surpassed 85 per cent. Through four trials each on two standardbred mares, Gibbard continued to make modifications to both the equipment and the methodology to improve the chances of success.

"In the final trial, the image transmission was much better. It's very promising that we got such high-quality images... we saw peristalsis in action, we saw sites of inflammation, and one thing we didn't expect at all, was clear images of parasites like tapeworms and pinworms. We got parasitologist Andrew Peregrine (University of Guelph) involved and he was over the moon, because those were the first clear images he'd ever seen of a live internal parasite 'swimming' in its natural environment.

"Just 'unlocking' the small intestine for the first time, was fascinating to me. Every time I watch the videos of the contraction and expansion that comes with peristalsis, I'm in awe."

There were, of course, frustrations in using a technology adapted from human use. “A lot of the time, the signal transmission wasn’t good enough to get much of anything ... and often when we did get images, they were partially or fully obscured by residual food particles in the GI tract, despite a 12 hour fasting protocol,” Gibbard says. “We think that a 24 fast might work better in future, but we have to balance that with compromising peristalsis, particularly because we also used sedation while introducing the capsule with a nasogastric tube. Most sedatives also interfere with peristalsis.

“It would also be great to know which leads are picking up the signal as the capsule makes its way through the gut. That would help us optimize the placement of the electrodes. We based their placement on human medicine, but it’s possible something else would work better for horses. Right now, we can’t tell exactly where in the small intestine the capsule actually is when a signal is transmitted, and that would be helpful in the identification of the images.”

Battery life is also an issue. The MiroCam © model used in Gibbard’s study remained active for about 12 hours, which with normal peristalsis is enough for it to scan most or all of the small intestine, she said. That peristalsis was encouraged with fluid boluses throughout the 12-hour period, and regular feeding of soaked hay cubes.

All told, both mares experienced minimal stress while having miniature cameras cruise through their guts, and recovered without incident. Though the team searched (and one mare was euthanized and her GI tract thoroughly explored afterwards), none of the eight capsules was ever recovered, though Gibbard suspects they probably passed out of the mares beyond the seven-day period in which their manure was collected and searched.

Gibbard’s conclusion was that CE is not ready for commercial veterinary use just yet – but it’s close. “It’s quite non-invasive, so I could see it being used on-farm in future,” she says. “I’m guessing at this point, but it would probably end up costing somewhere in the $2,000 to $3,000 range – so, not something you would use every day, but considerably cheaper than colic surgery.”

As for next steps, Gibbard would like to try CE on a pony. “One of our test horses was quite a bit smaller than the other, and we consistently got better results with the smaller mare, so size may matter,” she says. “I would also like to increase the fasting protocol to 24 hours, to see how it affects image capture.

“I think the potential for (CE to perform) tissue biopsy is really interesting. That’s something that’s starting to be explored in human medicine, along with capsule endoscopes which could be controlled and ‘steered’ so that you can take more detailed images of a particular area, for example, or even go back to get a better look at something suspicious.”

Potential applications of CE in horses

- gastric ulcers
- Lawsonia bacterial infections
- intestinal ulcers
- tumours, including lymphosarcoma, squamous cell carcinoma, and adenocarcinoma
- some forms of colic (not impactions or torsions)
- malabsorption syndrome
- sand accumulation in the gut
- parasitism and associated inflammation and damage
- tissue biopsy

O'Brien Award winner L A Delight (Randy Waples) dominated her $105,000 (Cdn) Ontario Sires Stakes Gold event Saturday at Mohawk.

L A Delight and Lay Lady Lay golden in Ontario

Saturday's Ontario Sires Stakes Gold divisions at Mohawk Racetrack were captured by two very different three-year-old pacing fillies.

The first $105,000 division was won by L A Delight, the Ontario Sires Stakes (OSS) division and O'Brien Award-winning star that trainer Bob McIntosh calls a "truly professional race filly." The second division went to first-time OSS winner Lay Lady Lay, a long-legged lass that trainer Chris Matthews refers to, affectionately, as "a pain in the butt."

Both fillies used similar race tactics to accomplish their Gold Series victories. Leaving from Post 1, driver Randy Waples allowed rivals Chris Christoforou Jr. and Good Will Hanover to reach the quarter first in :27, but then the Milton, ON resident sent L A Delight to the front. The fan favorite rolled to a :55.3 half and 1:23.3 three-quarters and then powered home to a three-and-a-half length victory in 1:51.2. Good Will Hanover and Party In Rome dead-heated for second.

"She's rounding into mid-season form. We couldn't be happier with her at this point," said McIntosh, who shares ownership and breeding credit on the champion filly with Al

McIntosh Holdings Inc. of Leamington, ON and C S X Stables of Liberty Center, OH. "She makes us all look good."

The victory was L A Delight's third in six sophomore starts. The Bettors Delight—West of L A daughter also captured her division in the June 4 Gold Series opener at Mohawk and has now banked $187,420 (Cdn) for her owners this season, adding to the $704,335 she amassed at two.

L A Delight's next start will be in the Mistletoe Shalee at the Meadowlands on July 16, where she will once again take on North America's best. In the Fan Hanover Final at Mohawk on June 18 she finished a hard-closing third, just one length behind winner Pure Country, who is also expected to compete in the Mistletoe Shalee.

Three races later, it was Christoforou who allowed his rivals a brief moment of pacesetting before sending Lay Lady Lay to the front. The filly was well in command before the :55.3 half and sailed through a 1:23.4 three-quarters before reaching the wire in a personal best 1:52. Favored Cracklin Rosie finished one-and-a-quarter lengths back in second, two lengths ahead of third-place finisher Windsun Glory.

Campbellville, ON resident Christoforou engineered the victory, Lay Lady Lay's first in Ontario Sires Stakes competition, for trainer Chris Matthews and his partners in the 1Posse2Steves4Brothers Stable of Guelph, ON.

“He drove her twice last year, he’s never been beat with her now, actually, so he knows the filly,” said Matthews of Christoforou’s race strategy. “She’s a little bit easier to drive this year than she was last year, so yeah, he was full of confidence that’s for sure.”

Lay Lady Lay made seven starts last season, appearing once in the Ontario Sires Stakes at the Grassroots level, and posted three wins and one second. This season she has emerged as one of the top fillies in the province, posting three wins, two seconds and three thirds in 10 starts for earnings of $153,029.

“We always knew she had potential, we had a couple setbacks, but we knew she’d be better at three, she was so big and growthy,” said Matthews. “She hasn’t had a lot of luck, but we always thought she’d be pretty competitive with this group of fillies.”

While it may be an advantage on the racetrack, Matthews said that it is the Up The Credit—Lady D M daughter’s size that has caused many of the issues for her long-suffering handlers.

“She can be a handful,” said the Guelph, ON resident. “She’s just so big, she doesn’t even know what she’s doing, she doesn’t care.”

Any bumps and bruises the filly had inflicted in the days leading up to Saturday’s victory were quickly forgotten when she captured her first Gold Series trophy, rewarding the creatively named ownership group that has waited patiently for her to display her true potential.

“When we bought her I started getting phone calls that everybody wanted a piece of her,” said Matthews. “The one posse is myself and two of my friends I grew up with (Jeff Bryan and Desmond Scott). My group of friends I grew up with they used to call us the Orangeville posse, so we went with that, and then two of my partners on the horse are Steve Basteard and Steve Byers, so that’s two Steve’s, and the three brothers are Gordie, Gary and Glen Lyon, so that formed the three brothers.

“They all wanted in so we split her up between everybody, just to keep everybody happy, and they are,” said the horseman. “Everyone is enjoying it and having some fun.”

The three-year-old pacing fillies’ Gold Series fun will continue on Civic Holiday Monday (Aug. 1) when they are part of the Industry Day celebrations at Grand River Raceway.

Ontario Sires Stakes action continues at Mohawk Racetrack on Monday evening, when the Campbellville oval welcomes the three-year-old trotting colts and geldings for their second Gold Series event. Post time is 7:30 pm and the Gold Series battles will take place in Races 3 and 7.

Sintra and Lindys Nightmare decisive winners in stakes at Mohawk

Sintra and Lindys Nightmare turned in outstanding performances to win their respective series finals Saturday (July 9) at Mohawk Racetrack.

The $47,000 Summertime Series and $48,800 Town Pro Series finals helped make up a solid 11-race card evening at the Campbellville oval.

A field of eight sophomore pacing colts and geldings clashed in the Summertime final, but all eyes were focused squarely on Dave Menary trainee Sintra.

The gelded son of Mach Three—Dancin Barefoot entered the Summertime final with just a single loss on his card this season and he kept it that way with an easy 1:50 victory. Driven by Jody Jamieson, Sintra got away third and made a second-quarter brush to the front to reach the half in :55.2.

The Menary trainee ramped up the tempo in the third quarter to reach that marker in 1:23 and finished off the mile with comfortable :27 kicker to win by four lengths. Major Hill finished second, while Blayde Hanover grabbed third.

After going winless in an injury-shortened rookie season, Sintra now has seven wins in eight starts this season.

“He’s just been a great horse all year,” said Jamieson following the race. “They were high on him last year and when the horse moved over from Dan Lagace’s barn, who did a great job prepping him last year, he just took a bad step at Grand River and got hurt, but Dave (Menary) has given him lots of time and brought him back the right way.”

Sintra’s only loss this season was a runner-up finish to Pepsi North America Cup champion Betting Line in an Ontario Sires Stakes Gold event last week.

“You can’t really call it a blemish when Betting Line beats you in the stretch,” said Jamieson. “But that’s his only blemish so far this year and he’s just been a monster and tonight was no different.”

Owned by Brad Gray, Michael Guerriero and Menary Racing Inc, Sintra now has $136,250 (Cdn) earned this season to bring his career earnings to $145,400. The clocking of 1:50 shaved three-fifths of a second off his previous career-best.

A $2 win ticket on Sintra returned $2.20.

The Town Pro Series final for three-year-old pacing fillies saw another impressive victory by a heavy-favorite.

Lindys Nightmare followed up her 1:50.4 victory in the opening leg with an open lengths score in 1:51.2 Saturday night. Driven by Rick Zeron, the 1-5 favorite moved from fourth to the front in the second-quarter, ultimately clearing to command at the half in :54.4.

After reaching the three-quarter pole in 1:23.2, Lindys Nightmare waved goodbye to her rivals and pulled away for a seven-length victory. Queen Ideal edged out Southwind Tango for second, while Shes Lights Out was fourth.

"I was pretty confident with her," said Zeron post-race. "She did get used a bit going to the half, but she kicked into gear in the lane and was all by herself."

A daughter of Western Terror—Linday's Bandita, Lindys Nightmare didn't race at age two and now has four wins in five starts this season. Her career earnings sit at $46,400 for Lindy Farms of Connecticut following Saturday's victory.

Lindys Nightmare paid $2.50 to win.

Paver Jack upsets in Indiana Sires Stakes

Paver Jack used a strong stretch rally to pull the 28-1 upset in the featured event Saturday (July 9), the $75,000 Indiana Sires Stakes final for three-year-old pacing colts and geldings at Hoosier Park Racing & Casino.

Skillfully driven by Tyler Smith, Paver Jack avoided an early speed duel to score in 1:51, recording a new lifetime mark by nearly four seconds.

Mike Peterson sent Matrix of Luck away from the gate firing as they grabbed the early lead through an opening quarter in :26.1 with Paver Jack leaving just enough to grab a pocket seat. Ville Valo and Ricky Macomber Jr. were next in third but quickly made a move to the front. Ville Valo reached the lead at the half in :54.4 and was quickly joined on the outside by Downthehighway and Jason Dillander who were heading the first-over attack. The heavy betting favorite, Bourbon Chase and Dan Shetler, were well placed second-over at three-quarter clocking in 1:23.3. Ville Valo continued to call the shots as the field turned for home but there was a cavalry charge behind him. Ville Valo was able to put away Downthehighway but Paver Jack and a host of others were looming large in the background. Bourbon Chase tipped off cover just as Duel of Truth and John DeLong found late racing room up the passing lane. Smith also found late racing room and Paver Jack used a :26.4 final quarter to prevail in a tight photo. Bourbon Chase rallied nicely to finish second while Duel of Truth rounded out the trifecta. As the fourth longest shot on the board, Paver Jack returned $59.00 for the victory.

"I knew I didn't want to get in too much of an early speed battle," Smith said in the winner's circle. "After driving him last week, I knew this was a really nice colt. I didn't know if I had enough to hold off the horses on the outside but he raced really well tonight. He's a nice colt and Tyler (George) has got him really sharp right now."

Trained by Tyler George, Paver Jack notched the third win of the season from 14 starts while bankrolling $72,597 in 2016. Owned and bred by Leroy Slabaugh, the son of Panspacificflight—Not Home Yet has now won four of 20 lifetime outings.

With the win, Paver Jack also earned points for the $200,000 Indiana Sires Stakes Super Finals slated for Oct. 15 at Hoosier Park Racing & Casino. The Indiana Sires Stakes program will culminate with the top 10 point earners from the previous $75,000 finals in each division returning to compete in the Super Finals.

Napolitano, Jr. wins seven at Pocono

George Napolitano Jr., the all-time leading driver at The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono, took the Saturday (July 9) spotlight by storm, visiting Victory Lane in seven of the 13 races in which he drove.

Napolitano actually has his seventh win by race nine, having taken the first four races on the card. He won four races by 5 lengths or more, including a 15-length victory with the trotter Fortunista. "George Nap" finished the evening with a 13-7-3-2-684 tally,

Faraldo: Setting the record straight... Its not a “Joe / Jeff thing”

Inasmuch as Mr. Gural has attempted to cloud the issue as to why there is a prohibition in New York and other jurisdictions against allowing a beneficial owner of a racetrack from racing his own horses at a track he controls – in addition to why the New York State Legislature and gaming regulators have wisely chosen not to risk the integrity of our sport by changing this prohibition – let's just get some objective facts straight.

The prohibition came about precisely because of abuses that were previously experienced when years ago a track owner had permission to race his horses at his own track. For the past 10 years, Mr. Gural has been trying to get this prohibition removed through various devices, including forcing horsemen to sign a contract with similar, if not identical provisions, under the repetitive threat: "If you don't agree, I'll close the track."

While the referenced contract provision does attempt to provide some protections through the inclusion of a process for horsemen to potentially rescind the owner's right to race, it is simply naïve to deny that a distinct chilling affect would hover over horsemen who objectively determine that Mr. Gural had abused his privilege to race his own horses at his tracks in a demonstrable way. The horsemen wishing to curry favor with the “boss” will vote one way; the others will face his wrath. Don't think that will happen? Consider that this author has been excluded, purportedly for “life,” from all Gural racetracks. I had previously been banned from racing at Vernon and Tioga, the two he has an ownership interest in, and the Meadowlands where he is a tenant. Truthfully the reason is the same – simply because I have chosen to stand up for fairness in this regard.

Remember that track owner abuses are not always easy to pick up, even with a discerning eye. The patented abuses pointed out by the Western New York Harness Horsemen's Association (below - see race chart February 26, 2016) and that are recited in the Monticello Harness Horsemen's Association opposition memo (also attached) are notorious. What is even harder to identify are those actions taken by members of the race office and racing officials; two groups of individuals over whom the track owner maintains tremendous influence. A myriad of pressures, ranging from keeping one's job to keeping a job near home and family, are ever-present anxieties for those under management's direct or peripheral control.

So pervasive is this control by private owners at their facilities – and knowing how Mr. Gural has arbitrarily excluded so many legitimate horsemen in the past – that New York horsemen were actually compelled to petition for legislation last year that would give any horseman (among them many he has excluded) the right to appeal such exclusion to the New York State Gaming Commission. This very type of “due process,” objective appeal is provided for in other jurisdictions. However, the New York Gaming Association (NYGA), of which Mr. Gural is a prominent member, submitted memos of opposition to the horsemen's exclusion appeal legislation and it was not voted on in the just completed legislative session.

This context is just to give your readers a brief, far from exhaustive picture of the objective reasons that have motivated horsemen from across New York State (and at least one regional OTB Corporation dependent on the integrity of harness racing and the pari-mutuel system) to oppose legislation to allow “the boss” to race horses at his own tracks. And let us be very clear: This never was and will never be a “Joe/Jeff thing” (although couching it in such a fashion provides convenient cover to those who choose not to look at the bigger, objective picture). Rather, as regulators often like to say to horsemen on any number of issues, it is actually a matter of “avoiding even the appearance of impropriety” for the well being of the industry.

Unfortunately, based upon our previous, proven experiences with this particular track operator, it actually is more than simply appearances that require us to stand strong against forcing horsemen to race against “the boss.”

RE: Our opposition to S7786 - A bill which would allow harness track Owners to race their horses at their own venues.

As a working member of Empire State Harness Horsemen's Alliance (ESHHA), it is imperative that we address this to your kind attention.

Monticello Harness Horsemen's Association, Inc. strongly opposes any legislative bill which would permit a track Owner to race a personally-owned horse at his facility. We cannot comprehend the "why and wherefor" of any horseman being placed in the position of being obligated to race against the person who has the final say on everything at his own track.

The repercussions resulting from such legislation would be rife with the possibilities of a relaxing of oversight with regard to how management might set racing conditions, eligibility factors, post positions and a host of other race-related areas which directly impact the integrity of harness racing.

Further in this regard, we are of the opinion that the wagering public would view such an irregularity as a blatant and outright re-engineering of the ethics of our sport and would forevermore be wary of indulging in his or her previous enjoyment of placing a bet and believing in an equal and fair chance of winning... with no advantage or ground given to the track owner.

This proposed bill, gentlemen, would do irreparable damage to our racing profession and we respectfully ask that you take note of our staunch objection to S7786. Thank you.

Hon. John Bonacic
Chair, NYS Senate Racing & Wagering Committee
845 LOB
Albany, NY 12248

Dear Senator Bonacic:

I am writing today as President and Administrative Director of the Western New York Harness Horsemen's Association to strongly oppose S7786. I had personally owned Standardbred race horses since 1972, until such time as I was hired as Administrative Director and elected President of the Western New York Harness Horsemen's Association in 1992. At that time, I divested myself of all ownership interest in Standardbreds, as it was a matter of integrity, perception and fairness that I took such a step. Such issues are magnified many times over when applied to the owner of a racetrack.

Allowing owners of harness tracks to race their own horses at their own facility, which has been banned under harness Rule 4116.3(a) for over 40 years, would be a disastrous blow to the integrity and fairness of our industry. The actual or perceived intimidation factor, added to the control of all aspects of racing by the owner, is something that must never be allowed to exist at our harness tracks.

I enclose the following results chart as an extreme and blatant example of how this is abusive to other horsemen racing at a track against the owner's horses and trainers. Though NJ has never allowed this, as many other states still don't, NJ has looked the other way due to Jeff Gural owning the Meadowlands. The point of showing this is due to the three horse entry. Of the entries, Mr. Gural owns not only Gural Hanover but also Opulent Yankee, and one of his trainers aside from Ron Burke, is Julie Miller. Therefore 1, 1A and 1B are all associated with the owner of the track in one way or another.

Horsemen in NJ hate being put in this position, not to mention there are subtler ways that the owner gets accommodated at the expense of the horsemen. If they speak out or voice their opinion against this or if they had a vote to stop it, the next day, week or month they would likely be told that their racing privileges are denied.

One may also wonder what the judges will do when dealing with a decision concerning the owners horses for fear of being reassigned to a track away from home.

I urge you not to pass S7786 as it will certainly lead to doubts and concern among the general public along with all of our horsemen in the backstretch. The boss should NEVER be allowed to compete with the horsemen under any conditions.

Very truly yours,

Bruce Tubin

President & Administrative Director

Gural responds

(Editor's note: With the full knowledge of Mr. Faraldo, Mr. Gural was given the opportunity to respond to Mr. Faraldo's latest letter. Mr. Gural's response is as follows):

I really don't understand why allowing me to race horses I own at Vernon and Tioga is such a big deal considering the horsemen can revoke the privilege for any reason. Almost every horsemen stabled at Vernon and Tioga signed a letter expressing their support. It has not been a problem at the Meadowlands and the SBOA wrote a letter of support. This does not seem to be a problem at the NYRA tracks where the directors race their horses or at the six tracks owned by Frank Stronach where he races his horses and the handle seems fine.

If you think about it, wouldn't our industry be far better off if the owners of the five other harness tracks in New York also owned and bred horses. They would certainly care more about conditions in the barn area, conditions of the racing surface and the paddock than they do now. They would probably spend money promoting the sport the way I do, rather than simply allow the sport to die. I doubt if anyone attending the races at Yonkers or Monticello is going to bring their wives and friends to experience what it is like to own a horse.

When I arrived on the scene at Vernon, it was closed, the electric and water were about to be disconnected for lack of payment and the racing license was allowed to lapse. I allowed the horsemen to stay for free and essentially use the facility as a training center while I tried to iron out the bankruptcy. For this, I was sued by Mr. Faraldo on behalf of the horsemen who trained for nothing on the theory that I was responsible to reimburse those horsemen stabled there for their expenses related to having to ship their horses to other tracks because we didn't have a license. When I went to ask for a temporary license I invited Joe but he refused and told me it was a waste of time.

I think it is safe to say that considering Vernon is seven miles from a full billion-dollar Indian casino it is no surprise it loses money. In short, the horsemen who Faraldo represents have treated me like shit for over 10 years. The majority of horsemen there are great and I employ three of them as trainers of my young horses, but the association represents a small group of unappreciative individuals. I expect the only way to resolve this is to close after one last try next year and as Nixon said you won't have Gural to kick around anymore.

One last thing: I am glad to see integrity is so important to the people opposing my being able to race. That may surprise some of the honest people racing at these tracks.

— Jeff Gural / chairman Meadowlands Racetrack, Vernon and Tioga Downs

Hail to Towers / wrong about Big M

Dean Towers' article in the (July 8) edition on the Ben Franklin Race, exemplifies almost exactly why I fell love with harness racing.

My special horse was Albatross who I saw run a world record 1:54:3 at Sportsmans Park in Chicago, an unheard of feat at a five-eighths mile track.

The State Fair at Springfield at Springfield was also a major league stop on the Grand Circuit in '70s and was the fastest track in the world, I saw numerous world records there including Colt 46 winning in an unheard of time of 1:51:4.

On another note, when I am wrong, I am just plain wrong and need to fess up.

I wrote a letter earlier about how turned off I was at the Meadowlands stopping their free lives feed on the web.

I broke down and bought the $10-a-month full access feed on the Racetrack Television Network.

The ability to watch Pocono live as well as the Meadowlands and their sophisticated replay system with excellent search capabilities, just confirms what a harness racing junkie I am.

Even if the Chicago Cubs having their best year of my lifetime are playing against a great race card, I'll take the great card any day of the week.

Nothing does it for me more than a great Free For All group, which the Indiana-breds have provided us this year.

Pet Rock, Rock and Roll Dance, Foiled, Sweet Lou et al were a great crew that made for super competitive FFA's and the potential for world records every time they met on a fast track on a warm summer night. The current group may not be as deep, but three great horses like Always B Miki, Freaky Feet Pete and Wiggle It Jiggle It are one of the most compelling group of superior horses I have had the pleasure of seeing.

To Jeff Gural, you wrote a really terrific letter about why you went to the pay system and I wish you much success in getting a casino on the grounds.

— Avy Meyers / Chicago, IL

Free live stream needed

Not sure why the tracks don't have live stream for free. Do they wonder why the sport doesn't have the younger generation's support? I live in New Jersey and I watched Pocono's 9th thru 11th races on TVG (last Saturday). Sad that the Meadowlands feels the need to charge a fee for live stream. If they get slots will they still be greedy? If no slots will they close? The best harness track in the U.S. only racing two nights a week. I now watch and bet Mohawk/Woodbine.

I have been a fan since Niatross (1980). I remember Jack Kaiser from the Philadelphia Daily News call it like it was at Liberty Bell Racetrack. Always signed off. "Don't get me wrong I love harness racing."

— Deb Seckinger / Marlton, NJ

Super confusing

I was recently at the Meadowlands and I wanted to play the last race Super High 5. I went to the self service machine but I couldn't find the wager. I was looking for the words "super high 5" or SH5 but didn't see either. Then it dawned on me that the Super High 5 is also called the pentafecta. Sure enough, I saw the abbreviation "PEN" and I was able to make my (losing) bet. With the mandatory payout on Pace night and the large crowd on hand, I think it would be a good idea for the track to change the tote machines to say SH5 or at least get the word out that it is also called the pentafecta. Picking the first five finishers is hard enough without confusing the bettors at the machines.

My other suggestion is for online harness handicapping tournaments. Tournaments are very popular right now in the thoroughbred world with even the DRF starting their own tournament website. For the harness handicapper, we have very few tournaments. I would like to see the Meadowlands work with TVG to offer online live money tournaments. For example, the handicapper would put up $400 with $200 going to the prize pool. The remaining $200 would be the bankroll to wager on ten select Meadowlands races. These could be offered a few times during the meet as qualifying events with the winners of the various tournaments meeting at the Meadowlands for a in person championship tournament. Since tournaments are hot, it might even be a good way to lure in players who are just interested in thoroughbred tournaments. It is worth a shot.

Just my 2 cents.

Shame on Saratoga

Saratoga Harness Raceway is celebrating its 75th year and how do the owners of the track recognize this? They change the name of the venue to "Saratoga Casino Hotel." Casino Hotel? Where is the raceway? I am appalled at the USTA and other industry segments and media that promoted this change by posting the press release issued by the Casino Hotel. This is an insult to harness racing. Nowhere in their release did the Casino Hotel mention they built this building on the site of the jog track, thereby depriving the horsemen of a valued resource. Maybe next they plan to convert the equine swimming pool they closed and reopen it for the guests of the Casino Hotel.

It is too bad these owners fail to acknowledge the fact were it not for harness racing, they would not have a casino. This new name clearly provides insight as to the priorities of this ownership group. Like many racinos, I don't think there is any doubt these owners would eliminate racing in a flash, if ever allowed by the state.

These owners should be ashamed and embarrassed by the conditions of the racing facilities. They have done little to improve the condition of the clubhouse and grandstand beyond renovating a portion of the clubhouse to offer dinner buffets primarily for their slot players. The backstretch was once considered amongst the best maintained and prettiest barn areas of any track in North America. Now, the area is depressed with barns that are barely maintained and a safety hazard.

Governor Cuomo should tour this backstretch to see how hard the tracks are working to improve the racing product and venues.

The State of New York has done a very poor job in holding the racetracks accountable for earmarking a portion of slot profits to rebuild and properly market racing before they go embarking on improvements like this that actually prove detrimental to the sport. Sadly, Saratoga Casino Hotel presents a clear example of what is wrong with the slots at the track program and deserves to be investigated for their failings.

Questioning the HOF process

I have been involved in harness racing since my dad purchased his first horse in 1959. I announced 35,000 races and have trained and owned horses during my Harness career. I was also president of the Florida Chapter of USHWA when I announced at Pompano from 1975-1982 and currently serve on the Board of Directors of The Florida Standardbred Breeders and Owners Association.

First, I congratulate Brian Sears on being on the Hall of Fame ballot for 2017. Secondly, I cannot hide my disdain for the USHWA selection committee for their continued omission of some of the sport's greats. To name a few: Steve Elliott, Jerry Silverman, Bill Popfinger, Joe Holloway, Lucien Fontaine and Per Eriksson.

Elliott trains my two horses and is a personal friend, so yes, I am biased, but I will make my case. He has won virtually every major race in the sport. He has won the Hambletonian, the Jug, the Meadowlands Pace, the Wilson, the NA Cup, Breeders Crowns and most if not all of the other big races. He trained the great Valley Victory, who changed the sport during his brief stud career, he trained Donato Hanover who was a champion at two and three and has had a successful career at stud at Hanover siring the likes of Shake It Cerry and Check Me Out. He trained Well Said who was the dominant two and three year old pacer of his generation and has had a decent stud career at Hanover siring some top fillies and the good colt Control The Moment. He trained the great three-year-old and FFA pacer Artistic Fella whose battles with Mister Big were epic. Standing at stud also. He trained Riverboat King winner of over $1 million and the sire of Androvette. He has trained Sweet Reflection, Burning Point, Doo Wop Hanover, Boston Red Rocks, Even Odds, Totally Ruthless, Art Professor, Rockeyed Optimist and so many others I don't have the time to name. He has been Trainer of The Year twice. So my question would be to the HOF committee: Who has a better resume in the Hall? How could Elliott not even make the nomination ballot?

In my opinion, the Hall is making itself irrelevant thanks to the misguided selection committee at USHWA. The process needs to be changed or else the only attendees at the HOF dinner will be the statues that reside there. Shame on the committee for thinking they are holier than though.

MESSAGE TO OUR READERS

When we brought HRU back in January, we asked for your support both as readers and advertisers. We have been overwhelmed with the response so far on both ends, but still need your help to make HRU viable and sustainable. Here are three ways you can help—and they're all free:

1. If you haven't already, please subscribe to receive HRU and encourage anyone you know who might like HRU to do the same. It's quick and easy and, again, free!
2. Support the advertisers that support us. Click on their ads and check out their websites. Most ads are linked to their sites. Tell them, or us, if you like one of their ads and why. The advertisers keep HRU free for readers.
3. Write more letters. One of the most popular features of HRU is Sunday's Feedback section. We want to hear from you!

THANKS
from the new HRU Team!
