Black Friday won't work for customers of harness racing

Instead of trying to wow people with a one-day takeout sale and special card, let's focus more energy on keeping existing customers that bet year-round.

by Dean Towers

Today is the craziest shopping day of the year – Black Friday. It's a day that benefits consumers (certainly the demographic who is lighter in the wallet than some), and the stores who sell to them. It's an American Thanksgiving weekend tradition, and probably will be forever.

I've often heard that harness racing should have a "Black Friday" for bettors; a big takeout sale, a great race card, seeded pools, the whole shebang. It'd energize customers, and give the sport some good PR. My answer to that, every year, is the same – harness racing and flash sales have absolutely nothing in common. It'd do nothing for the sport because this sport – from a betting perspective – depends on one thing more than most, and that's regular, every day players.

Every day players are the customers who show up (or bet) several times a week, all year long. They play the races 200 or more days a year, rain or shine; they're the folks that Moira Fanning calls "her people" on her Twitter feed. They are the sport's lifeblood, people who provide "lifetime value"; something that racing depends on for its revenues and relevance.

Lifetime value (in its simplest definition) is how much money a customer spends with you per year, multiplied by the number of years he or she is a customer. It is dependent in large part on a retention rate, i.e. how many bettors out of one hundred stay with you each year. It's that part of the equation that's vitally important, and in my view, it can't be stressed enough.

If a track has a customer betting $250 a visit over 200 visits a year, and the margin (e.g. the portion of the takeout rate that goes to your track) is 10 per cent, he or she brings in $5,000 revenue per year. If this customer keeps coming back forever, you get your $5,000 every year, ad infinitum, but that doesn't happen. Some leave, some go broke, and some come much less often. That makes up a retention rate.

If harness racing has a retention rate of 85 per cent (85 out of 100 customers keep coming back each year), the average person is a customer for 6.67 years. The cumulative net present value of these customers after year five is $18,543 – a sizeable profit.

Now, what happens if the sport does a poor job keeping these every day customers – they switch to poker, thoroughbred racing, or simply stop betting – and the retention rate drops to 70 per cent. Then the average life span of customers falls back to 3.33 years, and that $18,543 of profit after year five drops to $13,866. That's huge.

Much of the focus in this sport, and in thoroughbred racing, is about marketing to new people and trying to convert them into long-term customers. This is extremely difficult, because the learning curve is steep, and it's a time-consuming game. It may cost tens of thousands of dollars to find a customer who will bet with you for six years, and bring in $18,000 after year five. If it's costing you more than $18,000 – which I firmly believe it is – it's a losing proposition.

Now, I am not saying never going after new customers is smart, don't get me wrong. But, I believe an easier and more cost-effective strategy is to pay huge attention to existing customers. Work hard to keep them customers, and while they are, ensure they are given the tools and pricing to bet more and more money. Some of you might be saying this has always been a goal, and the sport works hard at exactly that, but – with respect – I don't believe it for a second.

I have an example that happened over a decade ago now. A player was betting a pretty decent amount at a venue via a players' card mostly on harness racing – more than $250,000 per year. Then, one day, cold turkey, he withdrew his balance and moved his play. He, like any customer, expected a call, perhaps an email asking where his play went. Maybe they'd even offer a deal to get him back.

There were crickets. Not one person contacted him. To this day no one has.

In what business would someone have all your information, know your play, and see that upwards of $40,000 of revenue per year is suddenly gone, and not even call to find out why?

I'm sure customers of harness racing reading this have similar stories.

Harness racing has a long way to go when it comes to keeping existing customers betting, happy, and enticing them to bet more. Identifying them, modeling their play – using both big and small data – and keeping in contact with them is paramount. Follow the casinos for a roadmap on customer appreciation, dynamically price, and use internal numbers that are unique to horse racing for the rest.

The sports' existing customer base is inordinately more important than any new "Black Friday" shopper that walks in the door. Harness racing would be wise to be cognizant of that.

O'Briens adopt Jimmy Takter rule

by Dave Briggs

Winning an O'Brien Award is one of the greatest honors in the sport. Too bad most Americans won't get the chance to know the feeling as the awards have become increasingly insular with each passing year.

New rules put in place this year by Standardbred Canada restrict the Trainer of the Year award to a person who has made at least 30 per cent of his or her starts in Canada. Let's call it the Jimmy Takter Rule.

Takter has been a finalist for Canada's top trainer award the last two years and lost both times to three-time winner Richard Moreau. Despite Takter's overwhelming success racing in Canada, his nomination has sparked a debate about whether an American should even be eligible for the award.

On the surface, that makes sense, right? After all, this is Canada's Trainer of the Year Award. Shouldn't it automatically go to a Canadian?

Not exactly.

The O'Brien winners do skew heavily toward Canadians, as they should.

But they are not, by rule, restricted to Canadians, just as the Dan Patch Awards are not restricted to Americans.

What few people know is the clear mandate of O'Brien Award voters is to select the people and horses that "made the greatest contribution to Canadian racing." That's left up to voters, as it should be, to decide what that means to them. By rule, people and horses do not have to be Canadian. There also is no rule that they have to operate in the country (other than the new trainer restrictions and a requirement that horses have to race at least three times that year in Canada

Three-time reigning Canadian Trainer of the Year Richard Moreau.

— a rule that also was adopted long after the O'Briens began in 1989).

Second, voters have repeatedly shown a gross inconsistency between how they pick the horse and people awards. Plenty of U.S. horses have won O'Brien Awards by winning major races in Canada. Yet, a non-Canadian has never won the Trainer of the Year award despite a long list of them winning major events in Canada and, clearly, making a great contribution to Canadian racing.

I'm not sure, exactly, why an American horse that races just three times in Canada and has success in the country is okay by voters when an American trainer – let's use Takter's 2016 stats as an example – did not make a great contribution when he raced 70 times in Canada (about 10 per cent of his total starts), earned $2.26 million north of the border and won five of the country's major stakes races.

Tony Alagna is another great example. Sure, he's an American, but he operated a stable in Canada, had 170 starts in the country – about 28 per cent of his total starts, meaning he will be ineligible for the Trainer of the Year Award – earned more than $1.7 million in Canada and competed in the Ontario Sires Stakes program. Why should he be ineligible for consideration?

Restricting the trainer award to those that race mostly in Canada is an extremely narrow view of what constitutes a great contribution. It also smacks of xenophobia and is particularly odd considering the O'Briens are named for Joe O'Brien, a proud Canadian whose greatest career accomplishments came in the United States, not Canada.

All that aside, mostly I'm left scratching my head about why this rule is even necessary in the first place since non-Canadians have never won the top trainer award. On their own, voters clearly selected the Canadian (Moreau) over the American (Takter), despite the latter having arguably the flashier stats and scoring higher than Moreau in the categories that usually determine the horse winners – namely, earnings and major stakes victories that occur at the upper echelons of the sport.

The new rule also threatens to weaken the award by placing it in restricted, not open, company in a borderless industry in which Ontario, in particular, is as important a jurisdiction as Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Indiana and Ohio.

Bill O'Donnell, who is on Standardbred Canada's O'Brien/Cam Fella Awards committee said Thursday that he was the one who suggested the rule change in the hope of providing further clarity to voters. He said Takter's repeated nomination was confusing to those that did not understand the O'Brien Awards' unique, unwritten, mandate to be awards mostly about and for Canadians. On the surface, considering Takter's higher profile, it became difficult to explain to people why he didn't win the award. So, O'Donnell led the charge to take future confusion on the issue out of the equation and, in the process, make it difficult for non-Canadians to be eligible. With all due respect to the Hall of Famer, that may be over-thinking the issue.

I have a great passion for the O'Brien Awards. I believe they are the best annual awards in the business and Standardbred Canada puts on a terrific show.

Yes, they should mostly be about Canadians, but voters have done just fine arriving at that conclusion on their own.

Honestly, for me, this isn't about Takter. There won't be a single tear shed by anyone if he never wins Canada's Trainer of the Year award.

But that's not the point. Why should he, and other non-Canadians, be excluded from consideration when, by doing so, it weakens the O'Brien's terrific brand?

You CAN go home again

It appears that it'll come down to Always B Miki and Wiggle It Jiggle It for Horse of the Year. Either way, it'll mark the third straight season that a homebred has captured the year-end honor – JK She'salady in 2014 and Wiggle It Jiggle It in 2015 – in the same year that six of the 12 Breeders Crowns went to homebreds, too.

Three Kings

All-time leading money-winning pacer Foiled Again ($7.46 million) has more or less put this stat out of reach, but, in 1983 and 1985, three different horses were actually the all-time leader at some point in the season as pacing's leading earner ever.

1983: Niatross (the first ever double million-dollar winning pacer) started on top, was passed by Rambling Willie ($2.038 million) and then Cam Fella, in December, took over at $2.041 million 1985: Cam Fella held that until mid-1985 when On The Road Again vaulted by at $2.8 million. But, Nihilator passed them both at $3.2 million at season's end.

Patience, parience

Did you know that Billy Haughton went into the Hall Of Fame in 1968 without having had a Horse of the Year and without a Hambletonian winner? And, it took him six years before he remedied the situation. He won the Hambletonian an incredible five times in nine years between 1974 and 1982. In 1977, Green Speed added the Horse of the Year title to Haughton's bio, followed by Nihilator in 1985.

In triplicate

Frank Ervin did it first, winning three straight Horse of the Year titles with a pacer – 1964-1966 with Brett Hanover. Stanley Dancer then followed with three straight HOY titles with a trotter – 1967-1969 with Nevele Pride. Jimmy Takter then followed that in 1997-1998 with three straight HOY titles with two different trotters – Malabar Man and then Moni Maker, twice.

Speed badges

2016 marked the first time a father-son each paced in under 1:47 – Somebeachsomewhere scored in 1:46.4 in 2008 and his son, Shamballa was timed in 1:46.1 while finishing second to Always B Miki in the latter's 1:46 world record mile at Red Mile.

Elder statesmen

If Always B Miki does win the HOY title, Jimmy Takter will join Stanley Dancer as the only two conditioners to have had three HOYs over the age of three. Dancer had Su Mac Lad (eight in 1962), Nevele Pride (four in 1969) and Albatross (four in 1972). So far, Takter has had Moni Maker, a two-time HOY who won at age five and six.

A fifth in Canada

Since 1998, when Badlands Hanover became the sport's first freshman 1:50 winner at Colonial in the Breeders Crown, five times the record has been lowered, each time by a fifth-of-a-second and each time in Canada.

1:49.4 in 2004 by Rocknroll Hanover in the Metro Pace.

1:49.3 in 2007 by Somebeachsomewhere in the Metro.

1:49.2 in 2009 by Sportswriter in the Metro.

1:49.1 in 2010 by Big Jim in the Governor's Cup.

1:49 in 2011 by Sweet Lou in the Breeders Crown.

Before Kennedy

Did you know the last time the all-time speed record in harness racing was not either held or co-held by a horse that set the mark in a time trial was before the Kennedy administration?

In 1960, Adios Harry equaled Billy Direct's 1:55 mile set in 1938. Since then, until now, time trailers have ruled:

1:54.3 – Adios Butler 1960 TT

1:53.3 – Bret Hanover 1966 TT

1:52 – Steady Star 1971 TT

1:49.1 – Niatross 1980 TT

1:48.2 – Matts Scooter 1988 TT (tied in a race by Staying Together in 1993)

1:46.1 – Cambest 1993 TT

Now, 1:46 by a horse in a race – Always B Miki.

USTA president Langley to step down at end of 2016

U.S. Trotting Association president and director Phil Langley announced Sunday (Nov. 20) at a meeting of the USTA Board of Directors executive committee at the Columbus (Ohio) Airport Marriott hotel, that he will resign from those positions effective Dec. 31, 2016. His current term was set to expire in 2019.

Langley explained that given the situation in Illinois, where both Balmoral and Maywood Parks have been closed, he feels that he can no longer fairly address the ongoing concerns of the USTA.

"I no longer have a track to represent and there is little quality racing in Illinois anymore," said Langley. "For years, my tracks were involved on a national basis with the American-Nationals, the World Trotting Derby, the Windy City Pace and the Hanover Stakes among others. Without that base, I no longer feel a part of the national scene that is necessary for the USTA president."

In accordance with USTA bylaw 11.04, since the vacancy in the presidency will occur within 60 days of the next USTA Annual Meeting, which is scheduled for Feb. 26-28, 2017 in Las Vegas, Nevada, USTA Chairman of the Board Ivan Axelrod will serve as interim president until the election of a new president at that time who will serve the remainder of Langley's term until 2019.

USTA bylaw 11.04 states:

"If a vacancy occurs in the office of the president, a meeting of the executive committee shall be called immediately to elect an interim president who shall serve until the next annual meeting of the full board of directors, at which time a president shall be elected for the balance of the term or a new four-year term if the existing term has expired. However, if the vacancy occurs within sixty (60) days of the next scheduled annual meeting, the chairman of the board shall serve as president until said meeting."

Langley was first elected to the USTA board of directors from District 5 in 1983. He began the first of his four terms as USTA president in 2003.

A 1959 graduate of Dartmouth College, Langley became racing director and racing secretary for the Chicago Downs Association and Fox Valley Trotting Club in 1965. He served in those positions as well as vice president of Fox Valley until 1998 when Sportsman's Park discontinued harness racing.

Langley also was a member of the ownership group for both Balmoral Park and Maywood Park, served as treasurer of Balmoral and was director of racing at both tracks.

In addition, he was a member of the Illinois Department of Agriculture Advisory Board, Racing Industry Charitable Foundation board of directors, Harness Racing Museum and Hall of Fame board of trustees and the North American Harness Racing Secretaries Association. He also served in an advisory capacity for both the Illinois State Fair and Du Quoin State Fair.

Langley was inducted in the Living Hall of Fame in Goshen, NY on July 1, 2007 and was previously inducted into the Illinois Harness Horsemen's Hall of Fame in 1994.

Bellatricks hopes to star in Courageous Lady

After spending the past three weeks racing against older horses, Bellatricks returns to her age group to face seven rivals in Saturday's $120,000 Courageous Lady for three-year-old filly pacers at Northfield Park.

Trainer Virgil Morgan Jr. would have preferred to keep Bellatricks away from older horses, but his filly didn't fit many conditions and she needed to keep racing in preparation for the Courageous Lady. As it turned out, Bellatricks held her own in her three starts in the fillies and mares open at Hollywood Gaming at Dayton Raceway, posting two second-place finishes before ending up fifth in her most recent performance on Nov. 18.

Morgan, though, said the filly's finish last week was deceptively good.

"She was loaded last week, she just couldn't get out," Morgan said. "They don't have a passing lane there unfortunately and she had nowhere to go. But she's heading into this race somewhat fresh. She will need to be, because the competition is pretty stiff."

"You hate to race a three-year-old against aged horses, but it's late in the year and it served its purpose for a couple weeks until the Courageous Lady."

Bellatricks and driver Ryan Stahl will start the Courageous Lady from post three. Bellatricks is 10-1 on the morning line. Jugette winner L A Delight, who will leave from post eight with John Campbell at the lines for trainer Bob McIntosh, is the 5-2 favorite.

The field also includes two entries from the stable of trainer Ron Burke, who has won the last three editions of the event. Burke's starters are Mother Of Art from post one, at 9-2 on the morning line, and 12-1 Free Show from post six.

Bellatricks, a daughter of stallion Third Straight out of the mare Scarlet Begonia, has won four of 18 races this season and six of 25 starts lifetime. She has earned $170,859 in her career for owner Carl Howard, who purchased the filly under the name Shameless Hall for $18,000 at the 2014 Blooded Horse Sale.

She twice finished second in the Kentucky Sire Stakes championship, losing each year to Lakeisha Hall. This season's setback in the final came by a head. In fact, Bellatricks finished second to Lakeisha Hall three times this year in the sire stakes series, with two losses by a head and the other by one length.

"It would have been nice to win the final at Lexington, but second place for $175,000 is okay," Morgan said. "She's been a pleasant surprise. She was not a high-priced yearling. Carl Howard picked her out. He did a great job doing a little research and finding out there were only 20 fillies eligible for the Kentucky Sire Stakes and he nabbed her.

"She's been a success."

Bellatricks' recent efforts against older horses were not her only starts this season in fields with aged rivals. Two months ago, she finished third to 2015 Courageous Lady winner Sassa Hanover in a conditioned race at Harrah's Philadelphia. Sassa Hanover later went on to finish second in the Breeders Crown mare pace.

In July, Bellatricks beat older foes at Scioto Downs, a feat she repeated in August at Yonkers Raceway.

"She's got a great attitude," Morgan said. "She's a good-looking filly. She's not real big, but she's built very well. She's got great conformation. I think she will be a nice racehorse hopefully for the next few years. She's versatile. She can leave a quarter in :26 and you can grab her and she'll come right back to you and she loves to pass a horse.

"I think her versatility is what will make her a good aged horse. She's already won on a half and five-eighths and she was good on the mile track at Lexington. It's nice to have a horse that you can use that to your advantage. She's just real handy; I think that's the best way to describe her. By being so handy I think she'll be competitive wherever she goes."

Morgan believes that includes Saturday at Northfield Park.

"I think she'll be competitive in there," Morgan said. "Obviously that's a very tough field with some really good fillies. But I think if she gets a trip she'll be competitive."

Muscle Hill to stand in New Jersey in 2017

Muscle Hill, the leading trotting sire in the world, will be standing at stud at Southwind Farms in New Jersey for the 2017 breeding season.

Although Muscle Hill stood at stud at Southwind Farms in New Jersey for the first four years of his stallion career, beginning in 2014 he was at Marion Farms in New Hope, PA so that his foals would be eligible in Pennsylvania.

"The reason for the move is we have noticed a marked difference in the stallion's libido, health and general well-being upon his return home," said syndicate manager Mike Klau, noting that Muscle Hill spent the offseason at Southwind in New Jersey, where he was collected for the frozen semen markets in Europe and the Southern Hemisphere. "We feel that it is in the best interest of the horse and the syndicate for him to remain year-round at Southwind."

Muscle Hill has sired the winners of over $11 million, a record for trotting stallions, and has sired four million-dollar winners, led by Triple Crown winner Marion Marauder 3,1:51.3 ($1,484,532), Breeders Crown winner Bar Hopping 3,1:51.4($1,191,195), Yonkers International winner Resolve

1:50.2 ($1,184,780) and multiple stakes winner Southwind Frank 3,1:52.1 ($1,164,468). Muscle Hill is the leading money-winning sire of 2-year-olds, 3-year-olds and all-age performers from just four crops of racing age. His 2016 2-year-olds were headed by the world champion filly Ariana G 2,1:51.4 ($743,967) and Peter Haughton Memorial winner What The Hill 2,1:54.4 ($315,686). Internationally, Muscle Hill's son Propulsion just qualified for the prestigious Prix d'Amerique in Paris.

At the sales, Muscle Hill's offspring were in great demand, having the sales topper at both the Lexington Selected Sale (Tactical Landing, selling for $800,000) and the Standardbred Horse Sale in Harrisburg (Story Time Hanover, sold for $410,000). A total of 34 of his yearlings sold for $100,000 or more and the average price for his yearlings was $113,199.

Wilder wins seven at The Meadows

Mike Wilder rolled up seven wins on Wednesday's (Nov. 23) 13-race card at The Meadows, including five straight victories that spanned the $20,000 preferred trot.

A winner of more than 7,000 races in his career, Wilder collected two victories each for trainers Mark Goldberg and Tyler Stillings as well as singletons for conditioners Paul Corey, Jeff Hochstetler and Ray Simms.

In the preferred trot, Wilder hustled Fashion Chocolate to the pocket from post seven, then sent him after the leader, See The Wind, at the three-quarters. The four-year-old Chocolatier—Fun And Strokes gelding wore down See The Wind and downed him by a neck in 1:54.1, with longshot Wilberforce third.

Trained by Hochstetler for owner Philip Hochstetler, Fashion Chocolate was unraced at 2 and 3 but has captured 15 of 32 starts this year and banked $124,386.

Napolitano, Oakes win Pocono dash titles

The Downs at Mohegan Sun Pocono continues their End of Year Awards on closing night, Saturday (Nov. 26), honoring the Driver and Trainer of the Year in special ceremonies in the Hanover Shoe Farms Winner's Circle.

George Napolitano Jr. will again come out on top of the driving colony, as he has been the pacesetter from practically the first "They are underway!" Trainer Chris Oakes had a terrific end to his local campaign to take home the trainers' title.

George Napolitano Jr. was far clear in the drivers' dash-winning derby – his total of 359 victories has been eclipsed locally in one season only by the 407 victories he rang up last year. This was the 10th year where he led the Pocono drivers' colony in sulky successes, and it was the eighth time he posted the highest UDR of the meeting, with a .383 "batting average" with three local cards in 2016 to go.

Napolitano got many of his victories behind horses trained by Chris Oakes, as Oakes, winning his third Pocono trainers' title, with scorching fractions late in the year, posted 34 local victories since Oct. 1 (32 of them driven by Napolitano) to bust open what had been a good battle with three-time defending champion Rene Allard.
