Dan Patch trotting divisional champs named

Four of the six divisional champions – Hannelore Hanover, Marion Marauder, Ariana G and Walner – were nearly unanimous choices.

by Harness Racing Communications for the U.S. Harness Writers Association

Mark Hall / USTA

Top-earning female trotter Hannelore Hanover and Triple Crown winner Marion Marauder were among six trotters named Dan Patch Award winners Thursday (Dec. 15) by the U.S. Harness Writers Association (USHWA). Ariana G, Broadway Donna, Obrigado, and Walner also were named divisional champs by the organization.

A total of 155 Dan Patch ballots were returned by USHWA's membership. Ariana G, Hannelore Hanover, Marion Marauder, and Walner all garnered at least 94 per cent of the vote.

Broadway Donna, who received 83 per cent of the vote among 3-year-old female trotters, is a repeat winner. The six champions came from six different training stables.

Divisional honors for pacers will be announced today (Friday).

Trotter of the Year, Pacer of the Year, and Horse of the Year will be announced at noon Monday (Dec. 19) in a live show streamed over the Facebook pages of USHWA, Hoosier Park, and the Harness Racing FanZone. Emily Gaskin, Hoosier Park's race marketing manager, will play host to the presentation.

A season of winning to all and to all a happy and healthy new year.

Marion Marauder was named the sport's best 3-year-old male trotter following a campaign that saw the colt become the ninth Trotting Triple Crown winner – and first since 2006 – by sweeping the Hambletonian, Yonkers Trot and Kentucky Futurity.

In addition, Marion Marauder won the Goodtimes and a division of the Stanley Dancer Memorial on his way to $1.48 million in purses, leading all trotters in North America.

Marion Marauder won 10 of 15 starts and finished second three times this season for the wife-and-husband training team of Paula Wellwood and Mike Keeling. The couple's son, Devin Keeling, and Wellwood's mother, Marion Jean Wellwood, own Marion Marauder. Scott Zeron was the colt's regular driver.

A son of stallion Muscle Hill out of the mare Spellbound Hanover, Marion Marauder was bred by William Mulligan.

For the second consecutive year, filly Broadway Donna was named a divisional champion and in the process joined her dam, Broadway Schooner, in receiving a Dan Patch Award at age 3. Broadway Schooner was honored in 2009.

Broadway Donna, a daughter of stallion Donato Hanover, won seven of 12 starts and earned $664,708 in purses for breeder/owner Fashion Farms. Trained by Jim Campbell and driven by David Miller, her wins included the Breeders Crown for 3-year-old female trotters, Kentucky Filly Futurity, and the Pennsylvania Sire Stakes championship.

Four-year-old mare Hannelore Hanover was named the sport's best older female trotter. She won 17 of 20 races and earned $1.11 million in purses, leading all female trotters in earnings. Her victories included the Breeders Crown Mare Trot and the Hambletonian Maturity, where she defeated male rivals.

Walner (Tim Tetrick) was voted top two-year-old trotting colt.

She also beat the boys in the Centaur Trotting Classic in addition to winning the Armbrø Flight Stakes, TVG Series championship for female trotters, Fresh Yankee, Muscle Hill, and Miami Valley Distaff. Her mile time of 1:51 in winning the Armbrø Flight equaled the world record for a 4-year-old trotting mare.

Hannelore Hanover, trained by Ron Burke and driven by Yannick Gingras and Ricky Macomber Jr., is owned by Burke Racing, the partnership of Mark Weaver and Mike Brussemi, Frank Baldachino, and J&T Silva Stables. A daughter of stallion Swan For All out of the mare High Sobriety, she was bred by Hanover Shoe Farms.

Obrigado was named the best older male trotter. The 6-year-old gelding's wins included a world-record-equaling 1:53.2 performance around Northfield Park's half-mile oval in the Cleveland Trotting Classic and victories in the TVG Series championship for male trotters, Maxie Lee Memorial, Charlie Hill Memorial, Crawford Farms Open, and Dayton Trotting Derby. He won more than $800,000.

The gelding, trained by Paul Kelley and driven by Mark MacDonald, is owned by the Paul Kelley Racing Stable, SRF Stable, Linwood Higgins, and Stable 45. Obrigado, bred by Mike Andrew, is a son of stallion Boy Band out of the mare Malimony.

Walner won seven of eight races and finished the season with a five-race victory streak that included triumphs in the Breeders Crown for 2-year-old male trotters, Kindergarten Classic Series championship, and a division of the International Stallion Stakes in a world-record 1:51.3.

Linda Toscano trained Walner for owner Ken Jacobs. Tim Tetrick handled the driving. The colt is a son of stallion Chapter Seven out of the mare Random Destiny. He was bred by Overseas Farms.

Mark Hall / USTA

Arian G (Yannick Gingras) was voted the top two-year-old trotting filly.

Owners AL Libfeld and Marvin Katz finished second with All The Time in last year's voting for best 2-year-old female trotter, but captured the division this year with the aforementioned filly's sister, Ariana G. The homebred daughter of Muscle Hill out of Cantab It All won nine of 11 races and earned $743,967.

Trained by Jimmy Takter and driven by Gingras, Ariana G's wins included the Breeders Crown for 2-year-old female trotters, Jim Doherty Memorial, Peaceful Way Stakes, and New Jersey Sire Stakes championship.

Last chance for Christmas cash

by Brett Sturman

Last Week's Bankroll: $1,000

Total Wagers: $64 | Total Return: $51

This Week's Bankroll: $987

Friday, Dec. 16 - Western Fair

Race 4: IONIA hasn't lost in the new barn since returning to the races earlier this month following a limited number of Ontario Sires Stakes (OSS) starts during the summer. The two-year-old Majestic Son filly faces predominantly elders in here but simply may have more talent than most; Steward back aboard and may only need to get away well from the second tier; continues to go faster. BIPARTISAN HANOVER lands 9-5 morning line favoritism despite the outside post and has not raced since October; what are we supposed to make of that? The three-year-old Kadabra gelding jogged when last seen but it's tough to predict what we'll get now; clearly should appreciate the smaller track, but might let him beat me if he can. PERFECT LOVER figures a chance on paper but chased the top choice in vain last out from the pocket; seeks to turn the tables for Lyle. It's a big drop off after these top three; LILYSGONECHEATING can land a slot in the super with a flat mile.

$10 Win 8

Race 8: WINDSUN CHEYENNE has won his last pair convincingly and looks sharp enough to handle the step up to the $8,500 claiming level. This one was actually entered most recently at Flamboro for $12,500 before that card was cancelled due to poor weather conditions so that's encouraging; recent win times rate well. GOLIATH REIGNS was top driver Bob McClure's pick over the top choice and exits a win at this level last out as a comfortable tripped out winner. He tired on the front in his race prior, but his try from three back would likely be good enough; expect a short price. HP SHADOW drops but is compromised by the post; has had no luck at the draw since the claim three back. LIGHTNING LEGS goes first start for the new barn but seems up against it with these from out here. LITTLE QUICK can tow along on the move back to the inside.

$10 Win 4

Race 9: In an opening leg of the Alliance Series for $7,500 claimers, PACIFIC WAVE K gets the upset nod. This one goes third start off the claim and had no shot last out from the outside post in the Western Fair Preferred-3; absolutely crushed similar claiming foes two back. JIMORIS TIGERESS looms a typical short priced contender from the rail as many at this oval do. This one goes for trainer Bossence whose barn has won a remarkable six of their last seven races including two in a row with this one; tough to go against. TINAS WAR took a run at the likely favorite last out but had to settle for second; it wasn't a bad try and she'll be stalking once again. MOST WANTED LINDY drops but recent form is suspect; turnaround tough to predict for a six per cent barn. RIDDLE ME MISS has flown from impossible spots in her last three; coming from last once again.

Friday, Dec. 16 - Meadowlands

Race 7: The featured pace of the night is wide open and a case could be made for nearly anyone in here. ASHLEYS HUSBAND is likely to get bet down off his 8-1 morning line, but the price should still be square enough to warrant taking a shot with. This one couldn't track down the leaders in his last two but was impressive three back when he closed in :26:2 to win easy; makes his fifth start back from the layoff and is no stranger to the winners circle here. CITY HALL has rocketed up the class ladder in recent weeks and that was a sub :26 final quarter this one stormed home with last out; he's been this good before. MATRIX OF LUCK jogged two weeks ago but that was with Yannick; it's back to Joe B here for the lone sophomore in the field. BULLET BOB posted another front-end score last out and that's now two out of three for him; continues to go relatively overlooked each race and no question about the strategy with Callahan back. MR HASANI N has suddenly found his best form again at the near age of nine; scored three weeks ago off a sweet trip. I feel EL BLOOMBITO has somewhat underachieved this year; exits a win at Philly though and does throw in a good win here from time to time.

$10 Win 4*$1 Exacta Box: 1-2-4-8 $12

Race 8: ELWELL took deserved tote action last week and raced accordingly in a really good-looking score; he's bound to attract attention once again in this spot from the rail. The step up in condition doesn't appear all that big when looking at others in the field; any repeat of his last gives him a big chance to repeat. GHOST PINE is a player while landing his best starting slot in some time for trainer Coyne; picks up Andy and seems bound to land a share. SOMESIZESOMESTYLE was nailed last week by a powerful winner so no disgrace there; early speed likely coming. MORE DRAGON came up empty last week as the 3-2 favorite with no apparent excuse and his try prior at Pocono wasn't stellar either; morning line fave is in need of a turnaround for Burke. TOTALLY DREAMY wasn't bad last out on the step up; Russo barn was hot here last winter.

$10 Win 1*$1 Exacta Box: 1-3-7

Race 9: TINK AND TIGER makes his second start at this level and had some sneaky late pace to offer last out. The winner of that recent race is superior to anyone in here Marcus will have this one in play tonight; figures. CLASSIC AMERICAN didn't have the easiest go of it last out and this field doesn't seem as tough; one-run type can reach with a well-timed move for barn that's been going well of late. FITZ'S Z TAM came on with a late surge last Saturday in a race that had a couple older foes with class; the post hurts but this one isn't without a chance if Callahan can find a way into it. ROCK STAR was involved in a fast mile last out and beat lesser two back; picks up Ginsburg and wouldn't be a total shock. ASTOR would have once crushed these many moons ago; exits a confidence-building win at Freehold. GAMBLER'S TALE can beat me if he can.

$20 Win 4*$1 Exacta Box: 2-3-4-10*Saturday, Dec. 17 - Woodbine

Race 9: The Woodbine Preferred features the return of MODERN LEGEND who makes his first start since May 2015. Just $30K shy of the $1 million lifetime earnings mark, the shocking winner of the 2014 Canadian Pacing Derby has returned with two good looking qualifiers for the local connections following lengthy time off that first began with a sickness. He'll most likely be using tonight to re-acclimate; I'd be surprised if he even wants to go sub-1:50 in just his first start back. NICKEL BAG zipped right down the road in the Preferred two weeks ago despite being used past a :25:4 opening quarter; this after he finally got a night off from rival Andreios Kardia. A repeat seems likely provided driver Henry is inclined to put him back on the engine tonight. TRACEUR HANOVER was surprisingly favored at this level last out but that was now three weeks ago; Moreau will need to have him A-1 ready. ALEXAS JACKPOT has been knocking on the doorstep of late; crafty barn.

No Letting Up

Aaron Merriman will win the North America dash crown by open lengths in 2016 for his second straight title, but that's not stopping him from driving two-a-days at The Meadows and Northfield.

by Bob Roberts

His body is hinting that it's had enough, that it wants to retreat to the comfort of a hammock or a recliner. It sometimes screams at him, revolting in pain at its workload.

Aaron Merriman doesn't want to listen. He's not ready to cut back or sit back. No tropical drink with an umbrella in it for him when there are races to be won.

This year, for the second year in a row, Merriman will be North America's winningest harness driver. He's easily outdistancing his closest pursuer, George Napolitano Jr., by more than 140 winners and is pretty much on pace to equal or eclipse his total of 874 victories in 2015.

To build such an advantage, Merriman has maintained a breakneck schedule that he began almost a decade ago. He drives afternoons in Pennsylvania and evenings in Ohio, requiring him to endure a 270-mile roundtrip — that includes four hours of driving — four days a week.

Longtime sulky rival Chris Page shakes his head when he ponders Merriman's routine.

"He's sick," said Page, only half-jokingly. "You have to be mentally sick to do what he does. I could not do all that back and forth, week in and week out."

Merriman smiles at Page's analysis, but he's paying a physical price for his success. On a recent night in the Northfield Park paddock, after driving in 10 races at The Meadows in suburban Pittsburgh (winning once) and now about to launch into four-winner, 11-drive night at the track midway between Cleveland and Akron, he admitted his 38-year-old body has enjoyed healthier afternoons and evenings.

"I'm not having a good day, and yesterday was even worse," said Merriman. "My schedule takes a toll, but I can take it. It's funny. I can stand in the paddock and feel like hell, but as soon as I get in the bike, I feel better. And I like doubleheaders, driving day and night. Some days I feel like I'm 20, but there are others when I feel much older than 38."

Merriman missed a matinee and a night of racing just 24 hours earlier when his left shoulder popped out of the socket and he had to wait for his body to relax before painfully popping it back in.

Aaron Merriman will win the North American dash crown for the second straight year.

"I got it hung up putting on a sweatshirt," he said. "Talk about a bad day."

There are also long-lasting effects from being spilled out of his sulky, especially the lingering pain from a 2010 accident that left him with fractures in his neck, both wrists and an elbow.

"I have issues with headaches," said Merriman. "I get extreme migraines, which I'm sure is the result of some of the race accidents. I have no idea how many concussions I've had, but when they come on, I treat them with (the medication) Imitrex."

Merriman also finds relief in long, lukewarm showers.

"They reset my body," he said.

But as fall turns to winter and the wear and tear on his 5'11" frame piles up, Merriman is seeking new forms of relief.

"I've never had a massage in my life, but I'm going this week,” he said. “I do go to acupuncture a couple of times a week. It’s great. They needle you up and there is instant relief.”

While it’s doubtful that anybody will ever eclipse Tim Tetrick’s record number of drives and victories in 2007 (he won 1,189 races from a staggering 4,728 starts), Merriman is working on longevity gems of his own.

He has driven over 800 winners the last three years, a feat accomplished only by Tony Morgan (2006-2008) when he won three consecutive dash titles. And, Merriman’s 12,892 drives (and counting) since the start of the 2014 season, is a record for a reinsman over a three-year span. This year alone, no other driver is within 800 starts of Merriman’s work rate.

His love of the sport, the paddock camaraderie he says he enjoys among fellow drivers, and his appetite for victory, pushes Merriman to push himself. He couldn’t list his major stakes race victories this year and doesn’t seem overly concerned about it. It’s all about winning, no matter what the purse.

“Nobody feels worse than me about missing a race,” said Merriman. “It bothers me so much that I don’t want to look at the results to see if I missed a winner.”

Merriman is still ferrying back and forth from The Meadows to Northfield (he lives less than a mile from the latter) in the same black Cadillac that he employed last year.

“Yeah, but it’s got to go,” he said. “Even though it still rides good, it has 210,000 miles on it. I’ll get a new one, soon.”

Merriman confesses that he’s always in a rush to get to The Meadows and Northfield and usually applies a lead foot to the gas pedal.

“It’s been a horrible year for tickets,” he said. “It’s cost me hundreds.”

The judges’ stands at both tracks are also home to stern traffic cops. They pinch Merriman hard when he’s late to the races or is a no-show and he bristles over the treatment.

“The times I’m late it’s because of traffic or weather, yet they punish me for busting my butt,” said Merriman. “I don’t think it’s fair.”

Merriman estimates his fines this season are in the thousands of dollars. The most expensive penalty was dished out by the judges at The Meadows. They fined him $1,400 for “failing to fulfill his driving obligations on July 15.” He was named on horses in seven races and the fine was $200 for each missed drive.

As he closes in on the 2016 sulky championship, Merriman is not thinking vacation and has nothing planned for the first quarter of 2017. He did visit Ireland last summer where he was invited to compete in the Delaney Memorial (Aug. 13-14), thus adding trans-Atlantic miles to his already hectic schedule.

“I won a couple of races over there,” he said “Maybe somebody will add them to my worldly totals.”

While Merriman finds it difficult stepping away from his Penn-Ohio routine, he is about to take a break from one of his leisure time pleasures – the Cleveland Browns.

“I’ve had season tickets for three years but this year (the Browns are winless in 13 games) has been horrific. The last home game is on Christmas Eve. I usually do my gift shopping that day, so it’s not a hard decision to stay away from Browns Stadium this year.”

Monday, the day after Christmas, is another story. Post time at The Meadows is 1 p.m. It’s 6 p.m. at Northfield.

Three ways for racing to halt the spread of whip bans

The big news in the harness racing world last week came from the land downunder. Harness Racing Australia announced that – beginning in September of 2017 – the use of whips will be banned for racing and training.

This policy was somewhat unexpected, but was clearly driven by the greyhound ban earlier this year in New South Wales (covered in HRU in August). Time will tell if this action is sound, dangerous, or does nothing at all to stem the tide regarding animal welfare in Australia.

Here across the pond, racing is a little different, but animal welfare issues are not.

Not so long ago (in 1939) a movie about Jesse James was made, and in a closing scene a horse was made to jump off a cliff into an ocean below. There was not a great deal of trick camerawork in those days, and there was no safe way to shoot the scene; the horse ended up jumping, and was killed. When word of the event hit the newspapers, the outcry was palpable, and the Humane Society got involved. This is how oversight began, and from that film forward, it's the reason we see "no animals were harmed" messages in the credits.

Society, through urbanization and education, was evolving when it came to the treatment of animals.

Fast forwarding 75 years, things are even more night and day. Today, ethical treatment of animals laws are so common that even how animals are harvested for food is regulated. It's a different world.

So, with changing society, maybe harness racing should get ahead of the curve and ban whipping in the U.S. and Canada?

I think that's over-the-top. I believe the public understands the need for a whip for a "buggy horse" when it comes to control and safety. A whip's benefit is completely logical, even to a layman. But, with the world changing, some response is needed because these issues are not going away.

Here are three things I think the sport in North America can do right now to ensure the Australia whip ban stays in Australia.

First, the judges need to enforce the rules. The sport of harness racing has rules already on the books with regards to overwhipping, kicking, whipping under the shaft, and myriad other techniques to illegally move a horse forward. If a driver breaks them, aggressively fine them, give them days, and call every one of them without fail.

To me, watching the Elitlopp each year is glorious. The drivers – with whips – tap a horse beautifully and get the most out of them. It's trotting in its purest form, and the hackers and slashers are nowhere to be found. This majesty of driving is not accomplished in any mystical way; if a driver raises his whip above his shoulder he is not given an electrical shock; she is not sent to a Swedish version of Guantanamo Bay. The judges simply enforce the rules.

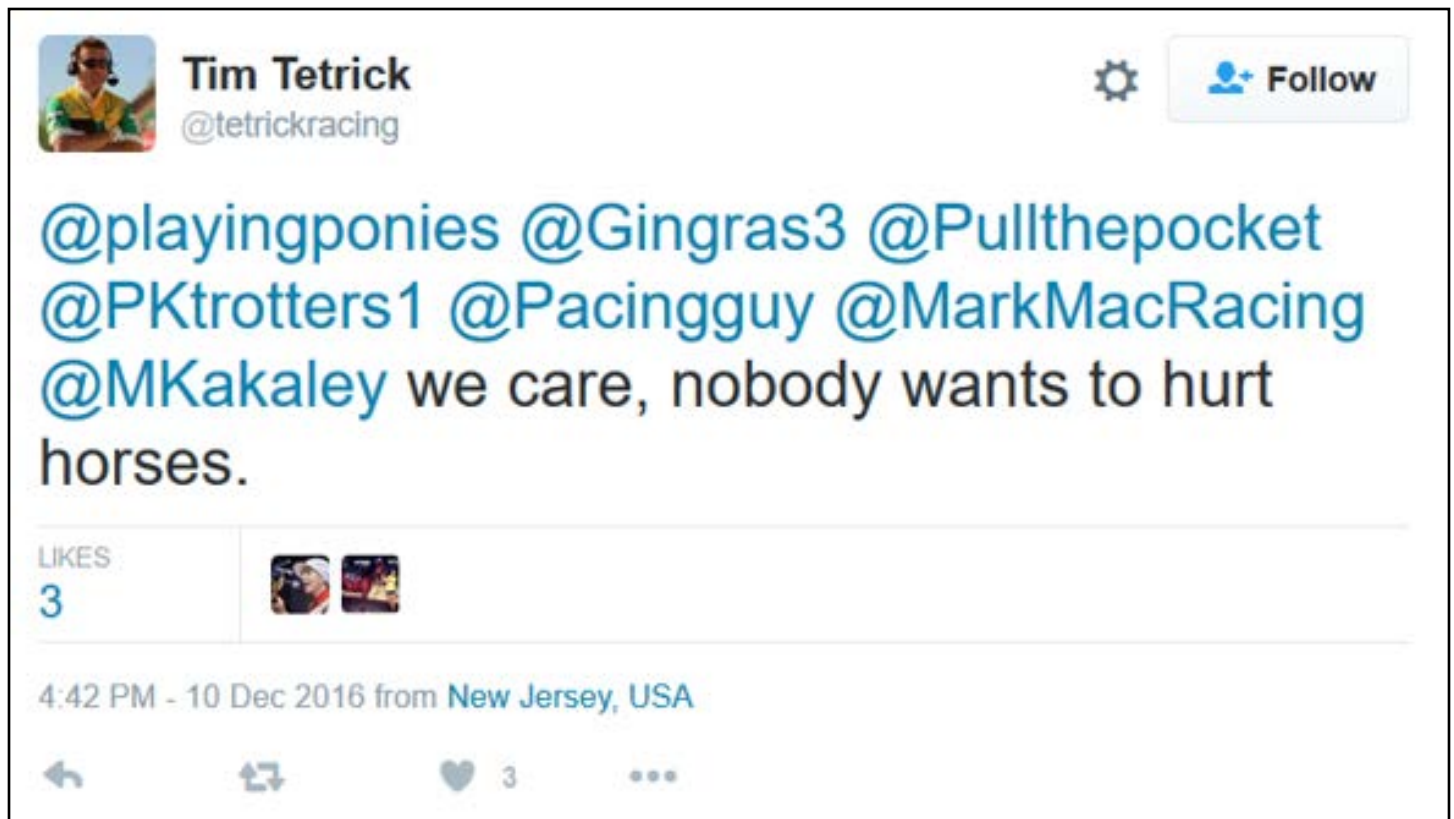

Don't think for a second the top drivers here would not like these rules enforced.

Second, when confronted, the sport needs to stop with the silly arguments excusing overwhipping, or techniques that look like horse abuse. If I have to answer how a driver whipping a horse 22 times in the lane was "only hitting the saddle pad" one more time to a newbie, my head is going to explode. Dumb excuses make the sport look backwards and out of touch, and only invite more criticism.

A driver hacking and slashing looks bad, sure, but it's also probably pretty ineffective; because study after study in Australia (which predicated many of these bans) have shown that horses are immune to the 10th or 30th slash. In fact, where whip use is curtailed (like Europe, New Zealand and Australia, pre-ban), studies show horses are getting faster, not slower. If you hack, you're doing it wrong.

The most professional drivers already know this, which is why Yannick, or Tim, or John rarely go to work like so many inexperienced drivers do. They know when their horse is done.

As for kicking or whipping below the shaft or under the horse, just stop it. It looks terrible and it's a reason why so many want to take the whip away and tie drivers' boots to the shaft, a la Walter Case, in the first place.

An added benefit to improved optics is that when drivers do treat horses kindly, it helps relay to the public that the sport cares about the animals who put food on the table.

Last up, harness racing should create a funded animal welfare committee to handle decision-making on these matters (along with public relations). This type of committee is common in the animal research world as scientists struggle with the public's changing view towards animal usage for testing.

Dr. Paul McGreevy, Animal Sciences Professor at the University of Sydney, has proposed how this may work for racing:

"Such a welfare committee could move away from decisions based on opinion towards decisions based on evidence, particularly science-based evidence. It could include equitation scientists, veterinarians with welfare qualifications and research experience, ethicists, lay members, animal welfare members as well as representatives of human stakeholders such as stewards, trainers and jockeys. But its chief stakeholder should be the horse, something the industry should enthusiastically embrace since it constantly reminds us that horse welfare is paramount," he wrote.

A group like this would help racing immensely as our world evolves in these matters. It would act as a sounding board for those inside the sport, be an avenue for referral when the sport is confronted with issues, and work towards educating the public and formulating responses when putting out political fires. Something like this is long overdue for a horse-driven sport like harness racing.

In the end, I believe whip bans are not necessary. I think the current set of rules do the job, if the judges enforce them. I believe to be a top driver in this sport, the best drivers from past and present prove you don't need to overwhip, or kick, or rely on illegal tricks. I also firmly believe most drivers care about the animals they drive.

I completely believe that the sport can take care of whipping issues on its own. It doesn't take bans, it takes planning and foresight.

Dear Santa

Thanks to a connection at the North Pole, the author managed to get his hands on some letters to Santa from some notable harness racing names.

by Joe FitzGerald

Dear Santa,

There's quite a bit of controversy over the legitimacy of the Pacing Triple Crown, but not so much on the trotting side. That Triple Crown hadn't been won in a decade. I beat the next great trotting "superstar," my paternal brother, Southwind Frank, twice that day. I overcame the tight turns and a feisty challenge from Smalltownthrowdown in the Yonkers Trot, and I took the Kentucky Futurity, again over Frank, from the tough 11 post as the third choice. Right to the end, the fans and bettors refused to accept me as the top dog in the division. One would expect serious Horse of the Year consideration for one of only nine Triple Crown winners, but many are reluctant to even concede Trotter of the Year honors to me. It's not my fault that I have a filly's name.

A little respect please, Santa.

Marion M (TC)

Dear Santa,

Despite my gaudy numbers, I can't even get voted Trainer of the Year, forget about being considered for the HOF. I won TOY in 2013, but the following year, when I set an all-breed record of $28.4 million, Takter beat me 84 to 56. And to add insult to injury, I wasn't even on the ballot last year as Jimmy was a unanimous selection, despite my being the leader in wins and money for a seventh consecutive year. Make it eight in 2016 as I recently surpassed $20 million for the fourth year in a row. Takter, who is also a Libra — thinking sign — is nine years my senior and has 1,100 more wins on his resume, but I have him by $56 million. He deserved that TOY award in 2015, but we're both down this year — him more than me — so how about tossing a bone my way, Santa. Foiled Again, Sweet Lou, Mission Brief, Buck I St Pat —you get the picture. Do I have to wait until I get 10,000 wins and earn $200 million to sniff the Hall of Fame, Santa?

Look at the numbers,

Ron

Dear Santa,

In 2014, I topped the earnings list by $5.3 million and was the unanimous choice for Driver of the Year. That was a no brainer. Last year, I was the leading money winning driver once again — this time by a more modest $1.3 million. I drove seven of the eight richest sophomore trotters, including Hambletonian winner Pinkman and world champion Mission Brief, and also handled freshman world champion Southwind Frank. However, David Miller, who was 55 wins behind me won the award with 67 votes to my 43 and 22 for dash champ Aaron Merriman. Okay, Dave's a Hall of Fame driver and he did have a record year and win five Breeders Crown races. So what if I did sport a stellar UDRS of 0.346 to his ordinary 0.276. He hadn't won since 2003, so no problem. But this year I didn't even make the ballot?

I'm the only driver with more than $13 million and I'm $509,000 ahead on the money list, but I'm not even a candidate for Driver of the Year? It's Dave or Scott Zeron. I'm $4.2 million and 123 wins ahead of the latter. Give me a break, Santa. Ronnie and Jimmy together are short $6 million this year. Still, my UDRS is 0.331 to 0.321 for David and 0.256 for Scotty. At least put me on the ballot, Santa.

Searching for Justice,

Yannick

Dear Santa,

Why would there even be a debate about the 2016 Horse of the Year award? I broke Cambest's 23-year-old all age time trial record in an actual race. They don't call me One-Forty-Six for nothing. At the same time, I put to rest that ridiculous race record log-jam at :46.4. For that alone, I should get a medal. For drama's sake, some have tried to make a Miki vs WIJL contest out of it. Dave Briggs crunched a boatload of numbers and decided I finished a nose up on that pest from Hoosier Land. He must have scrambled his figures, Santa. Yeah, Wiggles And Jiggles, or whatever his name is, won the CPD, but I took the BC, Franklin, Haughton and TVG. And I didn't have any restricted walkovers against four-year-olds on my dance card. And again, 1:46!

It should be unanimous, Santa.

ABM

Dear Santa,

I've been associated with this business since childhood, and have owned probably a thousand horses in my lifetime — horses such as Buck I St Pat, Economy Terror and Escape the News. And 2016 has been a career year for me, without any question; on the same day my Control The Moment won the Pace, my Shamballa won the USPC and my Lady Shadow won the Lady Liberty. The latter set a world record for a mile and an eighth in the Golden Girls. My Every Way Out dominated in the NJSS and Candelight Dinner impressed one and all in Ontario. So, I guess all that success put the USHWA in a tough spot: should they nominate me for Owner of the Year or the Good Guy award? Insanity prevailed and I was left off both ballots. I'm shocked!

What's the problem, Santa?

Howard

Dear Santa,

Betting Line has had a great year. He's the first son of the great Bettor's Delight to win the NA Cup and he's the second (both mine) to win the Jug. At $1.8 million, he retires to stud as the richest sophomore colt by his sire to become available to breeders in North America at that age. So enough with the yogurt jokes. Yeah, he enjoys a cup of Fage strawberry or Chobani Peanut Butter Dream — so what! They can come after me all they want, but leave the colt alone.

Enough is enough, Santa.

Dear Santa,

A ban on whipping, enacted by the enlightened folks at Harness Racing Australia, will take effect in September of next year. A similar prohibition against beating on racehorses has been on the books in Norway since the early '60s. What are WE waiting for? Please take the whips from every driver in North America as you make your rounds on the big night, Santa. I'll lose my mind if we don't legislate our own ban before the 2017 season heats up.

Brandon

Dear Santa,

I turn 13 in a couple of weeks, so it stands to reason that I'm not as fast as I was in my prime, but I'm still just as tough as I was back then. With my birthday approaching I'm sure I'll get the same texts and email I've been getting for the past several years begging me to retire — for my own good. Zip it is all I have to say to those people. I made the board in almost half my starts this year, won five of them, and banked more than $126,000 — and I'm in at Yonkers Saturday night. I banked almost $563,000 the last two years, so keep your misplaced concern, all you mindless do-gooders. A lump of coal for anyone who suggests I'm ready to be a full time grass eater, Santa.

Foiled

Dear Santa,

I'd say I'm the best since Speedy Crown, but before I'm through he'll be out of the conversation. With only four crops on the ground credit me with the fastest trotting filly ever: Mission Brief; Triple Crown winner, Marion Marauder; freshman world record holder, Southwind Frank; Trixton, Bar Hopping and Ariana G. My get generated an otherworldly $150,000 average in Harrisburg. So, tell me why I'm back in godforsaken New Jersey, Santa? Cantab and Patrick are laughing at me from the sire stakes rich Keystone State. Yeah, I breed for the Grand Circuit, but that restricted cash pads the total. This is the equivalent of Lady Gaga or Beyonce living in Toledo. Get me outta here, Santa.

M Hill

Dear Santa,

We finally get a crack at hosting the Breeders Crown in 2017, but that will simply whet our appetite for more. There's no big track in Pennsylvania, New York or Ohio, and The Meadowlands is a wounded animal without a casino license. Bring us the Hambletonian, Santa. We're taking over.

Hoosier Park

Dear Santa,

For the second year in a row I'm going to be third on the trainer's earnings list. Last year, I also had the highest UDRS in the top 50, except for one-horse Clyde and Tracy Brainard. The top two, Burke and Takter, seem to get written about on a daily basis, but when is the last time you read a piece about me? A little recognition for all my success, Santa. Please.

Rene

Dear Santa,

Yeah, I came up a little short in the Hambo, Futurity and BC, but I won the Beal, Dancer and Colonial and banked a million dollars. I didn't live up to my freshman promise, but still, not a bad year by most standards. Now, bring me some well-bred and straight standing mares so I can let Marion and Hopping know who the post-race boss is.

SC, OLG to recognize outstanding groom

For the second consecutive year, Standardbred Canada, in partnership with the Ontario Lottery and Gaming Corporation (OLG), would like to recognize one outstanding groom at the O'Brien Awards.

Grooms are the unsung heroes of harness racing. They don't always receive the recognition they deserve, but are critical to the success of any horse in any stable. We entrust our prized animals to them and sometimes forget to let them know how much we appreciate everything they do for us.

Do you know a groom who has worked in the industry for over five years, someone who treats their horses with kindness and outstanding care, regardless of the horse or its ability? The candidate should have a strong work ethic, be dependable, a good sportsman and be based in Canada.

Candidates must be over the age of 19.

If this sounds like someone you know, please submit a nomination as follows:

- A letter of nomination (maximum 400 words) describing the candidate. Please include how long they have worked in the industry, where he/she has worked, names of some of the horses he/she has groomed.

- Tell us what makes this groom outstanding and unique.
- Please supply the names and contact information for two additional supporters.

Deadline for submissions is Tues., Jan. 3, 2017.

Please email your submissions to:
kwvlaar@standardbredcanada.ca

A selection committee will determine the winner and he/she will be recognized at the O'Brien Awards on Sat., Jan. 28, 2017.

Yonkers new owners cash in

The new owner promotion at Yonkers Raceway held in conjunction with the Standardbred Owners Association of New York and the USTA has come to a close with 10 lucky new owners tasting victory and some strong returns.

In early November, 10 harness racing fans were randomly chosen from the USTA new owner's database to each receive five per cent of the earnings of a designated horse racing at Yonkers Raceway through the end of the meet.

The 3-year-old trotting gelding Emerald Chip was chosen for the promotion with trainer Andrew Harris. Emerald Chip made five starts, including a win in his first start of the promotion, a $20,000 non-winners of four conditioned event. He moved up in class and made four starts in non-winners of six trotting events at Yonkers for purses of $25,000 and $32,000. Emerald Chip picked up checks for $2000 with a fourth and $1600 with a fifth place finish and also earned $500 for starting in a 10-horse field at Yonkers.

For the five starts, Emerald Chip earned $14,100, netting each of the 10 virtual owners $705. As part of the promotion, the winners were not responsible for any expenses associated with the horse.

"I have to thank the SOA of NY, Yonkers Raceway and the USTA," said trainer Andrew Harris. "Without movements like this, it's hard to show people how easy it is to get involved. It just takes a push in the right direction. We can make this business great again."

The 2016 racing season at Yonkers Raceway concludes Sunday, Dec. 18 with a 1 pm first post. Yonkers Raceway has submitted a 2017 calendar of 238 racing dates to the New York Gaming Commission with a proposed return to racing Sunday afternoon Jan. 8. The opening day card in 2017 will feature purses boosted from their normal levels in appreciation of horsemen both old and new.

Rich Mays and Jim McNeight Jr. to be honored by UNY-USHWA

As the 2016 live racing season comes to a close at Batavia Downs, the Upstate New York Chapter of the United States Harness Writers Association annually recognizes the top horses and horsepeople who put on the show for the racing fans during the meet.

This year, the chapter will present the Lifetime Achievement Award to Rich Mays and the Award of Valor to Jim McNeight Jr.

Richie Mays got his start in harness racing by working for his father, Frank Mays, who was a respected longtime horseman in western New York. They were stabled at the Butternut Farm, which was a training facility they owned in Silver Creek, NY.

At a young age, Mays, along with his brothers Frank Jr, Tom and Terry, were taking care of outstanding horses such as Mighty Tar Heel, a local legend that his father trained. Richie perfected his skills from the ground up and was eventually driving by the 1970's. Getting good mounts from the family stable gave Mays notoriety and it didn't take long before he became a very popular catch driver.

Through the 1970's and 80's, Mays was one of the top drivers on the Batavia-Buffalo circuit and the horses that he and his family campaigned dotted the top classes for many of those years.

Magician, Lyron Hanover, May O Neighs, Avon Sweet Song, Suspense, Elmo Hanover, Sam Fella, R L Lobell, Family Fortune, Spooky Doyle, Mountain Pam, Karen's Joy, Diesel Duke, Two Twenty Two and Serious George are just a small sampling of names that Mays brought to the winner's circle in a career that spans over five decades and is still going strong.

Mays has logged career numbers as both a driver and trainer. Driving, he has 1,638 wins and $4.22 million in earnings. As a conditioner he shows another 273 wins and $1.2 million in purses.

Successful and professional could be used when discussing Richie Mays. But liked and respected by all who know him is what everyone would tell you first.

On June 1 of this year, longtime western New York driver Jim McNeight went down in a three-horse accident at Buffalo Raceway and seriously injured his back. Being immediately sidelined from doing any training or driving, and with a quick comeback not a consideration, the day to day operation of the stable was seriously in jeopardy.

Jimmy's son, 19-year-old Jim Jr., had been grooming horses for a little over a year before getting his "Q" license. He had only driven 20 qualifiers in 2015 and 14 more in 2016. He was given his "P" license and made his first pari-mutuel start on May 6 of this year. 17 professional drives into his career, his father went down and it was time for him to step up. And step up is exactly what he did.

It's not easy to fill the shoes of a horseman who has 3,578 wins and $13 million earned driving and another 974 wins and $3.3 million training. But the young McNeight answered the bell and put up impressive numbers despite taking on his father's training and driving responsibilities of a 10-horse stable with little experience.

McNeight Jr. had a lot to learn. He had never even driven a truck and trailer before. But with the help of Michelle Gramza and Bradley Jackson who would help him train, Bill Weigand who helped him jog, and Bruce Scheffler, Dale Donovan and Mike Kwoka who helped with barn work, the young McNeight eventually got a handle on the day to day operation and fell into a groove that helped his family keep the business running smoothly.

Two days after McNeight Jr. took over the barn, he scored his first ever win behind their good trotter, Jim Dandy in 2:00 flat. For the remainder of the Buffalo meet he added 4 more wins, 8 seconds and 14 thirds out of 71 starts and earned $37,544 in purses.

During the current Batavia Downs meet, McNeight Jr. has 12 wins, 10 seconds and 15 thirds with $94,224 in earnings.

In the face of adversity and under a tremendous amount of pressure, Jim McNeight Jr. has put together a year he can be proud of. He registered 208 starts with 17 wins, 18 seconds and 29 thirds with $102,975 in purse money.

He also gained a wealth of experience through sweat equity, all with helping his family in mind.

Rich Mays and Jim McNeight Jr. will receive their awards in the Purple Haze Winners' Circle at Batavia Downs on Friday night (Dec. 16).

Martin Scharf to present Gallo Blue Chip Scholarships

In a winner's circle presentation during the Thursday, Dec. 29 race card at The Meadowlands, Martin Scharf will present the 2016 Gallo Blue Chip Scholarships to Garrett Chellis and Natalie Martuscello. The scholarship is administered by the Harness Horse Youth Foundation (HHYF).

Chellis, of Honesdale, PA, will receive a $15,000 Gallo Blue Chip stipend. The son of Drew and Wendy Chellis, Garrett attends Millersville University of Pennsylvania, where he studies Technology and Engineering. He graduated from Commonwealth Connections Academy with a Straight-A report card. In addition to helping in his parents' stable, Garrett has worked as a carpenter second, assisting in various aspects of the trade. He hopes to combine those skills with his college education, to become a teacher.

Natalie Martuscello will receive a $5,000 Gallo Blue Chip scholarship from Scharf and HHYF. A resident of Latham, NY, she studies Psychology and Neuroscience at Temple University. She graduated this spring from Shaker High School and was named to the Honor Roll. She has a long resume of extra-curricular and volunteer activities, ranging from cheerleading, to attending leadership conferences to working with a regional food bank.

The HHYF has posted applications for the 2017 Gallo Blue Chip Scholarship and its other scholarships at the website, www.hhyf.org.

Celebrating 40 years of youth education and service to harness racing, the Harness Horse Youth Foundation is a charitable 501(c)3 organization dedicated to providing young people and their families educational opportunities with harness horses, in order to foster the next generation of participants and fans. The Foundation makes a difference in young people's lives through interactive learning experiences with these versatile animals, scholarship programs, and creation and distribution of educational materials. For more information on opportunities through HHYF, or to support its mission, go www.hhyf.org.

Woodbine Jackpot Hi-5 carryover now over $500,000

The Woodbine Jackpot Hi-5 carryover has grown to over $500,000 following Thursday evening's card.

Despite a 50-1 upset in the Jackpot Hi-5 race by Deadly Action and driver Scott Coulter, multiple winning tickets connected on Thursday's Jackpot Hi-5 to bring the carryover to $510,899.49.

In order to win the entire Jackpot, a horseplayer must have the only winning ticket to correctly select the top-five finishers in order.

Thursday was the third-final chance for horseplayers to potentially takedown the entire Jackpot, as the Jackpot Hi-5 wager will be suspended and the carryover frozen following Saturday evening's card in preparation for a mandatory payout night on Friday, Dec. 23.

Although horseplayers may have visions of hitting the Jackpot, the nightly Hi-5 pool has been strong in recent weeks and has lead to great payouts. A total of $42,550 was wagered into the Jackpot Hi-5 Thursday and a $0.20 winning ticket returned $1,515.84.

Friday evening's 10-race card at Woodbine is the second-last chance to hit the Jackpot before the mandatory payout night. Post time is 7:30 p.m.
