Kentucky boom expected to continue after legalizing historic horse racing table games

by Bob Duff

RACING INTO THE FUTURE

with BOB DUFF

Historic horse racing (HHR), also referred to as instant horse racing, has proven to be a multi-billion-dollar boon for the industry in Kentucky. And horse racing folks certainly aren't about to look a gift horse in the mouth.

Building on the success of historical horse racing machines, the Bluegrass State has expanded its HHR empire. The state is now offering table game versions of the popular historic horse racing machines, which, in simple terms, are slot machines offering the chance to wager on horse races from past years.

The Kentucky Horse Racing and Gaming Corporation (KHRGC) approved the use of historical horse racing technology for electronic table games in late November. Even though these games resemble roulette, blackjack, and craps, in the eyes of state gaming officials, they are officially recognized as a form of pari-mutuel wagering. That's vital, because pari-mutuel wagering is legal in Kentucky. Electronic casino games are not. No traditional casinos are operating in Kentucky, a state in which casino gambling remains illegal.

With historic horse racing games, players are wagering against each other, and all funds bet on the HHR games are pooled. They are not betting against the house.

Seeing the amount of funds that HHR machines are contributing to the state's purse structure for live horse racing, horsepeople in the state fully support adding newer upgrades to this form of virtual racing. In 2023 alone, $963 million in revenue was generated in Kentucky through historical horse racing machines. These machines were legalized in the state in 2020.

"I'd just like to say I agree with it," trainer and KHRGC board member Dale Romans told Spectrum News 1. "We're doing very well in Kentucky, and we can't be complacent."

"We have to keep getting better, and I think this makes us more competitive with the three major [Kentucky] racetracks on the Indiana border that are competing with [Indiana] casinos."

"This is going to make us more competitive."

There was only one dissenting vote during the ballot to legalize the HHR table games.

“KHRGC [Kentucky Horse Racing and Gaming Corporation] staff anticipates future requests will have other types of theme [historic horse racing] game terminals.”

~ Travers Manley

“I really believe these machines allow Kentucky to remain competitive with the competition from adjoining states,” KHGRC director Bill Landes said.

Operators of prominent Kentucky racetracks such as Churchill Downs have also thrown their support behind the expansion of HHR into electronic table games.

The first approved version of a historic horse racing table game looks very similar to roulette. It's anticipated that gaming technology developers will be increasing their focus on developing a variety of HHR-themed versions of table games now that the use of these games in Kentucky has been granted approval.

“KHRGC staff anticipates future requests will have other types of theme game terminals,” said Travers Manley, the senior vice president of gaming for KHRGC.

Games with craps and blackjack themes are expected to be developed in the near future.

HOW HISTORIC HORSE RACING GAMES WORK

Although they look very much like slot machines, historical horse racing machines don't operate anything at all like a casino slot machine. When you play a slot machine, all outcomes are determined through the use of random number generators.

With historical horse racing machines, the outcome is determined by the real result of an actual race from the past.

Historical horse racing machines are programmed with up to as many as 60,000 previously-run horse races dating all the way back into the 1990s. All of the historical data from each of these many races is randomized and anonymized. Game developers have found that racing from the early 1990s is proving to be the most popular, since racing fields were much more heavily populated with horses in those days, creating better overall odds for the races.

When you approach an HHR machine and prepare to place a wager on a race, you'll be presented with the form charts and past performances for every horse entered in the race. You'll also be given access to the percentages for the jockeys/drivers and trainers.

What you won't get is the name of any of the participants or the site of the race. All aspects that might help you in identifying the past race on which you'll be wagering are cloaked in secrecy. Once you've placed your bet on the particular race, all of that data is then unveiled for the bettor.

Wagering on a race being contested on a historical horse racing machine operates in the same manner as if you were betting on an actual live race about to take place on a track. All the money is wagered into a pari-mutuel pool, and the odds will be determined by the wagers bet into that pool. You can make all of the same bets as you would on a real race - win, place, show, across the board, exacta, and trifecta.

HHR machines pay out 91 per cent of all money wagered. That's a lower return to player (RTP) than you'd get from slot machines, which generally offer RTPs in the 94-96 per cent range. There's a good reason for the lower payout rate, though.

A portion of that 9 per cent takeout ends up being invested in the state's horse racing industry. Contributions also go to breeding, sires stake programs, and purses.

BETWEEN THE LINES

with BRETT STURMAN

A shakeup in the driving colony has produced big payouts and an interesting dynamic at Northfield

The Noble Effect is having a profound impact in racing at the home of the flying turns.

by Brett Sturman

The last race conducted from this past Wednesday's (Jan. 14) weather-shortened card at Northfield Park encapsulates the shape that racing has taken there early in the new year. Raced in the backdrop of a Northfield blizzard setting like the old days, here's how that race went:

Top drivers Dan Noble and Aaron Merriman both had even-money contenders in the race, with Noble's being the marginal favorite. After Noble brushed strongly from fourth to first for the lead, he was soon pressed by Merriman nearing the half-mile marker who kept on from a parked trip from an outside post. Unable to clear before the third turn, Merriman and Noble continued their battle down the backside where they sped away by close to five lengths from anyone else. But the duel got the better of both, and in the end the race was won by a horse with odds of 8-1 by a head over the 23-1 second finisher.

The injection of Noble into the Northfield Park driving colony since the closing months of last year has changed the racing dynamic and in the process will put a very serious threat for this year into Merriman's streak as the top dash winner at the track.

Merriman has dominated at Northfield Park where he has been the leading driver in wins every year going back to 2016. In 2025, he won his ninth consecutive track driving title and was miles clear of anyone else. You could even add the wins together of the second- and third-ranked drivers and it still would be 48 wins shy of Merriman's total of 578 wins at Northfield.

But times are changing, and fast.

Noble has been driving at Northfield on a full-time basis since the end of last September and has taken the track by storm since that time. It must be noted, too, that Noble's more steady arrival at Northfield followed the conclusion of the Scioto Downs meet, where on that track's final night he drove four different 1:47.2 or faster eye-catching winners.

Between that time and the end of the calendar year, Noble has bested Merriman. Noble won 188 times to Merriman's 148 and in the process did so with 53 fewer starts. Through that period, Working backwards, the Jan. 13 card produced winners of $28, $25, and $23. The Jan. 11 card prior produced winners of $85, $60, $37, $23, and $22. And it goes onwards to every card this year where there hasn't been a single completed night of racing that hasn't produced at least a $20 or more winner.

where he won at a rate of 32 per cent, Noble's UDR was 0.445. As part of that run, Noble had two separate record-tying cards of 10 wins.

Into 2026, those trends have accelerated dramatically. Through nine cards this new year including the shortened one from Wednesday, Noble has won 50 times from 123 starts, good for a UDR to 0.545, and an average of almost six wins every card.

At the same time, Merriman has begun the new year uncustomarily slow. He's won just eight times from 107 starts, and for the time being sits in fourth in the driver standings behind not only Noble, but also Justin Irvine and Braiden Rhoades.

All of that said, the season is still in its infancy. Whether or not Noble can keep going at a 40 per cent win clip and continue to bring back flashbacks of Walter Case, Jr. from this track 25 years ago remains to be seen, but surely Merriman will wind up winning more than 7 per cent.

Coming back to the race example from the beginning of this column, what will continue to change is how the races are handicapped. Despite most times driving short-priced favorites, Noble is still close to producing a positive return on investment (ROI) for bettors. His ROI is currently at just -4 per cent, which isn't bad at all for top catch drivers. On Wednesday, for example, one of Noble's winners somehow paid $19. Last Sunday, Noble had a $22 winner too. Merriman, on the other hand, obviously still attracts a large share of wagering dollars but with only eight wins on the year thus far, his ROI is at -71 per cent.

What it all means is that even if Noble is winning six races a night and with Merriman off to a slower start, there could be decent opportunities for bettors in eight or nine of the other races throughout a given card. That's been seen throughout the races in the first half of January where a plethora of longshots have continued to come in throughout every full card.

Here's just some examples. Working backwards, the Jan. 13 card produced winners of $28, $25, and $23. The Jan. 11 card prior produced winners of $85, $60, $37, $23, and $22. And it goes onwards to every card this year where there hasn't been a single completed night of racing that hasn't produced at least a $20 or more winner.

It's not impossible for other drivers to bring in the longer shots as well. Just the other night Ronnie Wrenn, Jr. brought home $20 and $30-type winners in the same card. Irvine has won with $30 and $60-type winners – ditto Kurt Sugg. Whose brought home the highest prices so far? Keith Kash, Jr. has produced winners of $99, $89, and $21 already this month, and the list goes on. Despite being a half-mile track, one thing you can't say about Northfield is that the racing is dull – far from it.

The season is still brand new but it will be interesting to see if these observations are just short-term blips or the start of a larger, continuing trend. Between Noble, Merriman, and other hungry drivers right in the mix of things, racing at Northfield is a solid product right now.

MEADOWLANDS MATTERS

with DEBBIE LITTLE

Martin Luther King Remembrance Race featured on Saturday at Big M

by Debbie Little

Winters at The Meadowlands are a time when young driving stars shine and some competitors in Saturday night's (Jan. 17) Martin Luther King Remembrance Race are hoping to see that trend continue.

Half of the drivers in the field paying tribute to the Civil Rights icon are 25 years old or younger, and a few are making their Big M debuts.

Zyler Maxwell, 19, who doesn't turn 20 until the end of May, is the youngest in the group, with OD Johnson, also 19, Jalen Gray, 21, William Carter, 21, and Adarryl Gates, 25.

Carter is the veteran in the bunch, having won the first MLK race he ever competed in at the age of 18 in 2023, which was also his first drive at The Meadowlands. He has competed in this event every year since. Gates, Gray, and Johnson are all making their Meadowlands debuts on Saturday, so Maxwell has a slight leg up on them at least, since he did compete in a race at the mile oval last year.

In his Big M debut at the end of August of 2025, Maxwell drove the Peter Kleinhans-owned Gazoo to a sixth-place finish.

"It was fun," Maxwell said of his first Meadowlands drive. "I really enjoyed it out there. I'm excited to come back. I knew after the race was over, I wanted to drive again up there. It was a really nice place; I liked the track, I liked the paddock, I liked the people there. I think [driving in the MLK Remembrance Race is] a very, very good opportunity to come back up there."

Maxwell, a native of Macon, MS, where he currently resides, met Kleinhans at Oak Grove where Kleinhans is the track announcer as well as being an amateur driver.

“ It means a lot to me since going to school and learning about Dr. King. Knowing how much he went through to help with our freedom, it means a lot. So, I hope to be able to do good in this race, and, hopefully, it could give me more opportunities. ”

~ Zyler Maxwell

“I just thought [Zyler Maxwell] looked great in the bike the first couple times I saw him drive. You could tell he put a lot of thought into the drives and he obviously loves it. I drove against him a few times in amateur races.”

~ Peter Kleinhans

“I just thought he looked great in the bike the first couple times I saw him drive,” Kleinhans said of Maxwell. “You could tell he put a lot of thought into the drives and he obviously loves it. I drove against him a few times in amateur races. My hope was to sponsor him at The Meadowlands over this winter to drive all my horses, especially the amateur horses, but he lost his amateur status, so it didn’t make sense.

“But I still wanted to give him a chance to shine. He gave Gazoo an absolutely perfect drive; horse just came up a little short.

“I already told him he’s driving everything for me at Oak Grove next meet aside from the amateurs I’m driving.”

Kleinhans, 60, who has been in the business over 40 years, got his start calling races as an 18-year-old, and said he can see some of his younger self in Maxwell.

“The first thing that struck me was how he had his whip color coded with blue and red in his colors, which is exactly what I did with the first whip I ever had,” Kleinhans said. “I can just tell he lives for it.

“[He’s the] first person in all my years of racing that I’ve been willing to stick my neck out for like this. Not that it’s really costing me anything. But I really want to see him succeed.”

Although Maxwell has always liked horses, his initial involvement as a child centered on riding and roping until someone introduced him to harness racing around the age of 10.

“After [seeing horses jogging for the first time] I started watching races on YouTube,” Maxwell said. “And by that time, Lather Up was racing, and Lather Up was my favorite horse, him and Wiggle It Jiggleit. I liked those two and Always B Miki.

“I liked watching Montrell Teague a lot and [Tim] Tetrick. Tetrick is one of my favorites. Watching those guys drive, I was kind of like, that’s what I want to do.”

In 2022, his first year in a bike, Maxwell had 29 starts with four wins, followed up the next year by 19 wins in 49 starts. In 2024, Maxwell drove a lot on the Kentucky circuit with a record of 21-20-33 in 156 attempts and $126,853 in earnings. His starts nearly doubled to 300 in 2025 with a tally of 30-30-43 with $296,049 banked.

“2025 was my first year going to The Meadows in Pennsylvania, where I started working for [trainer] Rob Laffoon,” Maxwell said.

In addition to The Meadows, Maxwell drove horses for Laffoon at Northfield, Oak Grove, The Red Mile and Cumberland Run, where the most opportunities came his way.

“I had a pretty good year at Cumberland last year... but I could handle more drives, I think,” Maxwell said. “I would probably want to drive during the winter this year to keep driving and get more opportunities and see different tracks. So, I’m thinking about going back to Pennsylvania with Rob this year, if he allowed me to just go back and forth from [The Meadows] to Northfield.”

Maxwell, who drives Abel De Vie (post 6, 5-1 morning line third choice) in Saturday’s fourth race, is driving 15 hours each way from Mississippi with Gates, Gray, and Johnson, for that single drive at The Meadowlands because competing at the Mecca of harness racing is special, but doing so in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King increases that exponentially.

“It means a lot to me since going to school and learning about Dr. King,” Maxwell said. “Knowing how much he went through to help with our freedom, it means a lot. So, I hope to be able to do good in this race, and, hopefully, it could give me more opportunities.”

Lexus Kody and the power of sweet memories

Despite selling his Caledon, ON farm and exiting the horse business, 84-year-old small Ontario breeder Norm Dunstan is celebrating the incredible success of the best horse he ever produced.

by Dave Briggs / Ontario Racing

Norm Dunstan is 84, his health isn't the best and his memory isn't what it used to be, but ask him about breeding Lexus Kody and his voice dances over the phone.

Last September, Lexus Kody – a horse Dunstan foaled himself out of the final mare he has owned – became the first Ontario-sired horse to win the Yonkers International Trot in its 45-year history and only the second Ontario-bred winner after Armbro Flight's victory in 1966 (the race was on hiatus from 1996 to 2015).

"It was the highlight of my life," the small Ontario breeder said of watching Lexus Kody win the International. "That meant a lot to me."

In 2025, Lexus Kody led all North American horses in earnings with $1,317,651.

The International triumph, against top older horses from Europe and the United States, was the second of five major stakes victories in six events in the 11 weeks from Aug. 30 to Nov. 15.

Lexus Kody and driver Yannick Gingras started the streak by posting the fastest trotting mile on Canadian soil while winning the $459,900 Maple Leaf Trot on Aug. 30 at Woodbine Mohawk Park in 1:49.1. The pair then traveled to Yonkers Raceway near New York City and won the $1 million International on Sept. 13.

“ [Lexus Kody] was the best horse I ever had. ”

~ Norm Dunstan

Courtesy Shannon Henry

In October, breeder Norm Dunstan (left) was invited by caretaker Joseph "Jo Jo" Tosies to reunite with Lexus Kody in Ontario.

Mark Hall / USTA
Lexus Kody (Yannick Gingras) winning the $1 million Yonkers International in September.

They followed that up with wins in the $200,000 Ceasars Trotting Classic on Sept. 19 at Harrah's Hoosier Park, the $250,000 Dayton Trotting Derby at Dayton Raceway on Sept. 27, finished third in the $600,000 Breeders Crown final back at Woodbine Mohawk Park on Oct. 25, and then ended the run with a win in the $350,000 FanDuel Open Trot on Nov. 15 at The Meadowlands.

In those six stakes events in five jurisdictions, Lexus Kody earned $1,168,300 to post one of the most prolific runs in recent harness racing history.

It has already earned the 8-year-old gelded son of Archangel out of Dunstan's mare Lexus Helios the U.S. Dan Patch Award as the Older Trotter of the Year. The overall Trotter of the Year Award is still to be announced on Feb. 22.

However, Lexus Kody is ineligible for an O'Brien Award in his home country of Canada for reasons previously explained in HRU.

Asked what it would mean to have Lexus Kody be voted the Dan Patch Trotter of the Year, Dunstan said, "Oh, the world. It would be the world."

His wife, Helen, said, "It would be a good way to end" that chapter of their lives.

At the end of November, shortly after Lexus Kody won the FanDuel Open Trot, Norm and Helen sold the beautiful farm in Caledon, ON they had owned since 1998; the farm where Norm tended to virtually everything himself.

Shannon Henry, who trained Lexus Kody for Norm at ages 2, 3, and most of the trotter's 4-year-old season, said the sale of the farm where Lexus Kody was raised has been hard on Norm. So, too, was losing Lexus Helios in 2022 a few weeks after she foaled the final of her five foals that collectively have earned over $3.1 million.

For Norm's sake, Henry said she is thankful Lexus Kody had a year for the ages in 2025.

"The big picture is we are still very close with Norm," Henry said. "We are just so happy... he got one where he's getting [some attention]. His health is declining. He's out of the business now... but he always talked about this horse, even before he became what he is now. It's almost like he knew he had something special, and he was just quietly going to ride the wave until it happened. And now it's happened."

GRANDSON OF DUNSTAN'S OAKS AND CROWN COMPETITOR

Lexus Kody is the second foal out of Lexus Helios, who earned over $230,000 on the track.

"She was a very good mare," Norm said.

He raced Lexus Helios' dam, Lexus Hall, in the Breeders Crown in 2002 and 2003 and the Hambletonian Oaks in '03, finishing fifth in a race won by Pizza Dolce.

"It was the first time [at The Meadowlands] for me, a farm guy," Norm said. "I had about 30 horses at the time, but was small in the horse business."

Returning to The Meadowlands for the Breeders Crown that November, Lexus Hall and driver Mike Lachance looked to be winners as they turned for home.

"Coming home, she was leading, and then she got caught, and she finished third, and I was as happy as could be," said Norm, who trained the winners of more than $1.4 million in his career.

Fifteen years after Lexus Hall's sophomore season, along came her grandson, Lexus Kody, who was turned over to Shannon and Trevor Henry to condition and race.

Lexus Kody didn't race at 2 after tearing the skin off his legs, "like a banana," Shannon said. "We were lucky enough that he didn't get the tendon. We rushed him to the vet and we had to get him all sewn up. It was quite a thing.

"Trevor knew he was fast, but it was either start him back up or leave him. We opted to leave him until his 3-year-old season."

Besides, Lexus Kody wasn't the easiest to train.

"He has that leg that he always throws," Shannon said. "He's still tough. [His caretaker] says he hasn't changed at all. Sometimes, the more they mature, the more they settle. But [Lexus Kody is] the same."

As a sophomore in 2021, Lexus Kody didn't miss the board in Ontario Sires Stakes (OSS) action, but had to battle tough competitors in both Fashion Frenzie and Logan Park, who finished first and second, respectively, in that year's Super Final, with Lexus Kody third.

"[Lexus Kody] was a good horse then, but a little off his rocker," Shannon said. "He would get so worked up in the paddock that he'd wash himself out. [It was tough to] keep him calm enough to not wash himself out. His trouble was that he just wouldn't settle."

In August of Lexus Kody's 4-year-old year, the trotter was sold privately to his current connections – Burke Racing Stable LLC, Weaver Brussemi LLC, and Phil Collura – and transferred to the Ron Burke Stable in the U.S. that orchestrated his outstanding 2025 season.

"We usually don't keep aged horses," Shannon said. "We're in it for the babies, and we usually sell them all... and [the Burke Brigade] came with good money.

"We're so happy for [the current owners]. It's the nicest bunch of people... everybody's been so good with Norm."

In October, when Lexus Kody returned to Ontario to contest the Breeders Crown at Woodbine Mohawk Park, Lexus Kody's caretaker, Joseph "Jo Jo" Tosies, invited Shannon to bring Norm and Helen to visit Lexus Kody at the Classy Lane Stables in Puslinch, ON.

"I asked Norm if he wanted to go and it took him one second to say yes," Shannon said. "I picked him up and he spent the day with Lexus Kody.

"I asked Norm [Dunstan] if he wanted to go [see Lexus Kody before the Breeders Crown] and it took him one second to say yes. I picked him up and he spent the day with Lexus Kody. It was one of the biggest highlights. It was so, so good."

~ Shannon Henry

"It was one of the biggest highlights. It was so, so good."

Norm, who said he simply "got lucky" with Lexus Kody, still talks about that day with considerable fondness.

"He is a gem of a man," Norm said of Tosies, who was recently named the 2025 Fair Island Farm Caretaker of the Year. "He was so gentle with the horses, not just our horse, but three other horses there that he was caring for."

These days, Shannon said Lexus Kody is one of the few bright lights that shines through Norm's memory.

"This is the one thing that he does remember," she said.

After all, Lexus Kody was definitely memorable.

"He was the best horse I ever had," Norm said.

MANE ATTRACTION

with JOHN BERRY

The other wall of silence

by John Berry

Surely, you have heard of the “blue wall of silence.”

It's an unofficial code among law enforcement officers to not report misconduct among their peers regarding crimes and cover-ups.

Of course, that creates an invisible fence against those who profess innocence but only have the word of law enforcement — mind you, under oath — against them when standing in front of the court.

These cover-ups hinder investigations and perpetuates the damage it can cause to innocent individuals, and, in our case, spread to an entire industry now given the moniker of having a “backstretch wall of silence.”

Yes, the entire equine industry quite possibly — and quite probably — suffers from a backstretch wall of silence, with the recent revelations that have exploded in the media in recent weeks.

First, of course, the hugely vast majority of those wearing the “blue” protecting the public are honest to the nth degree and serve their communities extremely well.

But even one in a thousand bad apples can have disastrous consequences regarding public trust.

There are close to 18,000 police agencies in the United States and they employ some 600,000 officers; even one per cent equals 6,000 individuals protected by the blue wall.

When caught, they make most of the headlines and can do much damage to the entire law enforcement population.

But there is a huge difference between walls of silence said one Hall of Fame veteran.

“In the case of the blue wall, those one per cent still receive their weekly or bi-weekly paychecks,” he said.

Compare that to the “Silent Majority” — (p, 2, 2:00:2; 3, 1:56.3 ($362,369) in the early 1970s when that was really something — to the “silent majority” that are on the backstretch these days afraid to utter a single word, fearing consequences.

The damage done on the backstretch to those (hopefully) 95 per cent who, honestly, play by the rules is that those who are trying to stay a stride ahead of the law are taking huge amounts of purse money away from the ones trying to compete with honesty and integrity, whether that number is, naively, 95 per cent but might be much lower, as our Hall of Fame HRU guest today suggests.

“Whatever the number, the cheaters are taking purse money from the honest men and women working 12-15-hour days, and I don't believe we've even scratched the surface yet. There are not nearly enough dollars — and certainly not enough cents [or sense] to put any real dent in the problem right now.”

~ Harness Hall of Famer

“I don't know the number,” he admitted.

Maybe it's only 80 per cent or 70 per cent or 40 per cent, who knows these days?

“Whatever the number, the cheaters are taking purse money from the honest men and women working 12-15-hour days, and I don't believe we've even scratched the surface yet,” he said. “There are not nearly enough dollars — and certainly not enough cents [or sense] to put any real dent in the problem right now.

“Maybe the only solution is to make everything legal with no oversight.”

This Mane Attraction is hoping that the this was a tongue-in-cheek statement but, the way things are progressing — or retrogressing — it's very worrisome.

Our Hall of Fame gent went on to say, “yes, cheating takes away paychecks from those honest trainers who abide by the rules and their conscience — in taking the best care of their horses — whether they be 1:52 performers [not worth much more than a ‘hill of beans’ in today's marketplace] or just plain ordinary $4,000 or $5,000 claimers.

“We are losing two of our most important commodities – owners and bettors – as the former group is getting disenchanted with losing money every year when the ‘nut’ is $30,000 or more. The latter group is getting really tired of shallow pools, late nights, short fields, and shorter odds.”

“We are losing two of our most important commodities – owners and bettors – as the former group is getting disenchanted with losing money every year when the ‘nut’ is $30,000 or more.

“The latter group is getting really tired of shallow pools, late nights, short fields, and shorter odds.”

As one BDHC (Broken Down Horseplayer Club) faithful once said, “There are only a handful of tracks these days that offer any value – The Meadowlands and the place where Gabe [Prewitt] is at [Hoosier Park] and, on some nights, Ohio tracks, but value tracks are in the single digits these days.”

How serious is the illicit medication issue?

Possibly many times – a hundred times or a 1,000 times – worse than we realize.

A recent New York Focus story reported that “hundreds of horse trainers and owners implicated in the scandal have won at least $40,000,000 in racing prizes.”

The situation is a “cancer” in our industry continuing to spread in North America and how deep it cuts is anybody’s guess.

“It’s like a ‘Mohs surgery,” said one. “Mohs surgery is a procedure for skin cancer and, after an initial cut, the tissue is examined to make sure all of the cancer is gone, and if some cancer cells survive, another cut is done until all of the cancer is obliterated.”

The pari-mutuel industry may need a whole slew of Mohs surgery cuts to level the playing field for those that continue in illegal ways.

But, as we’ve seen, money is king in any sport involving betting.

Just as a few in our industry have been caught and sentenced with fines and incarceration, the situation cannot be cured if those watching over our sport, or any sport, do not have the same objectives of cleansing.

And those watching include our state-appointed racing officials and our backstretch residents.

It’s not just our sport.

From NBA to FIFA to Major League Baseball, boxing and several other sports, those officiating must get involved in leveling the playing field, not become complicit.

It has been suggested that regulators have, largely, ignored the problem and, if the buck doesn’t stop with them, it doesn’t stop at all.

There’s no fine line between what’s right and what’s wrong.

There are those with power that have done nothing to address and solve the issues at hand and those with power that have flexed their muscles in unjust ways.

Proving that point, there have been instances where illegal meds have resulted in suspensions and fines and others where appeals have lasted for years as their purse dollars keep rolling in unencumbered.

On the other hand, is the case in Kentucky where a 2-year-old making his first start – at a fair track with no betting – was said to have a medication issue (which would be an extreme rarity) with those running the show issuing very severe penalties with many delays in serving those affected, including our most precious commodity, the owner. With respect to retesting and DNA testing to the tune of scratching in events worth several hundred thousand dollars, it’s not a good way to keep owners that have huge investments in property and horse flesh over many decades.

With every state having its own set of rules and laws, with every state having political appointees running the show, with the chaos and uncovering of illegal medication issues that have been going on for far too long, harness racing is at a crossroads right now.

Yes, it takes an indeterminate amount of funding but the fact remains that from the Vegas strip casinos in the 1940s to over 1,500 casinos today, the voters are the ones that have authorized and blessed the construction of their empires today with the assurance that racing would continue to survive and thrive.

In a growing number of instances, this is not the case.

The dollar figure from gaming was expected to be approximately $238,490,000,000 in 2025 – that is 238 billion – certainly just a bit of that would be enough to fund and dent the illicit medication issue and give players assurance that the pari-mutuel industry is played on a level track for all. Casinos have found cracks to “wiggle and jiggle it”self out of some of their commitments and will continue to use dollars earmarked for political purposes to do the same.

Now, right now, we need a universal set of rules that cover all of North America with no wiggle room for illicit activity.

Yes, give the charged due process – without appeal or participation – with a quick turn-around time for repeat testing and DNA challenges.

It’s necessary to hire, hire, hire, and have coverage at every track in, at least, America, and, even better, North America as Canada plays a huge role in our sport these days from Woodbine Mohawk Park to Charlottetown. (Maybe Western Canada could come alive again.)

Let’s get a commissioner to oversee the whole shebang.

One last note: A few columns ago, we suggested doorbell cameras installed every sixteenth-of-a-mile around the track to insure credibility for any questions that arise during a race; the reason, solidifying the integrity of the judges in all cases and insuring the correct decisions made on behalf of the owners, trainers, drivers, and remaining fans.

Of course, that hasn’t gotten out of the batter’s box, either.

Noticing that our casinos have layer upon layer upon layer upon layer of 24 hour surveillance measures in protecting their integrity, our sport should employ the same tactics regarding medication with cameras installed at every stall in every barn area and the paddock, monitored 24 hours a day, just like casinos.

Let’s show that our sport cares about everything that has made it great for over 200 years.

Harness racing is holding a “Dreamsicle” on a stick.

Let’s not let our future melt away drip by drip as the heat of these recent reports burns on the eyes in newspapers, websites, and podcasts on our sport.

Harness racing is worth it.

It really is.

May The Horse Be With You!

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

It's been smooth sailing for first generation horseman Keigan Madden

by Chris Lomon

Keigan Madden never expected to go from sitting in the grandstand to sitting in the race bike, but that is exactly where the Maritimes native ended up.

"Technically, I would be considered a first-generation horseman," said Madden, who was born in New Waterford, an urban community near the Atlantic Ocean that is bordered on one side by cliffs. "But it certainly doesn't feel that way."

Not when you have a lifelong connection to standardbred racing and to prominent local names in the industry.

Geography played a large role in those associations.

"I hung around the Leblanc family when I was a kid — I grew up right across the street from them," Madden said of his association with one of Eastern Canada's most well-known racing families. "My father, Ken, has been a handicapper of the races for as long as I can remember. I know it's a cliché, but going to the races was something my father and I both enjoyed so much."

By the time the younger Madden reached his teens, horse racing had become a fixture in his life.

"I remember my dad taking me to the races one day and I would see my friend Brett Leblanc there," Keigan said. "One day, I went from the races straight to the barn — and the rest is history, as they say. I haven't left the barn since."

Keigan's rookie season as a trainer was 2021.

His first win came in his very first start, a 5¾-length score on July 31, courtesy of Ten Mile Beach, a pacing son of Net Ten Eom. Harold Leblanc, Jr. was in the sulky for the milestone victory.

After posting a pair of wins the following year, Keigan decided to shift his focus toward driving.

Tanya Romeo

Keigan Madden in action at Northside Downs in Sydney, NS.

“My dad does all the barn work when I’m at my full-time job. I guess you can say that it’s come full circle. I never imagined our shared love of racing would turn out this way, but I’m certainly glad it did... I truly love having racing in my life.”

~ Keigan Madden

“I never planned on doing that [driving],” he said. “I owned horses with Brett, and he trained and drove them. I started training myself, but when he moved to Prince Edward Island, I ended up driving his mother’s mare in an amateur race one day.”

Holding the lines was an eye-opener for Keigan.

“I remember saying to myself, ‘I kind of like this,’” he said. “I started picking up more drives, and the training kind of went by the wayside.”

In 2023, Keigan drove 10 winners and recorded 31 top-three finishes from 65 starts.

His first driving victory came at Northside Downs in Sydney, NS — the same half-mile oval where he celebrated his first training triumph.

“It was on July 15,” Keigan said. “I was listed on two horses, but the one I was supposed to drive, Elm Grove Ocean, was scratched. I ended up picking up the drive on Howmac Napoleon.”

The bay son of Articulator held a 1½-length lead after three-quarters in 1:30.4 and extended that margin to more than two lengths turning for home.

At the wire, Howmac Napoleon and Keigan were ¾ lengths clear in a time of 2:00.1.

“I knew I wanted to put him on the front — that’s where he does his best work,” Keigan said. “We drew off after three-quarters, went good fractions, and then sprinted home.”

Keigan compared the moment to reaching the pinnacle of a professional sports championship.

“It felt like I had won the World Series,” he said. “It was a thrill of a lifetime.”

In 2024, Keigan posted 20 wins from 164 starts. During the 2025 season, he made 12 trips to the winner’s circle and recorded a career-best 59 top-three finishes.

Although the 2025 campaign did not yield early dividends, Keigan found his rhythm down the stretch.

“Things didn’t start the way I wanted, but they turned around,” he said. “I was happy with how I was able to finish the season off.”

A major contributor to his prosperous season came on the hooves of the bay pacer David Lloyd George, who Keigan co-owns with his father and Harold Leblanc, Jr.

“We bought him halfway through 2023,” Keigan said. “He was racing in Ontario at Kawartha Downs, and we found out he had developed a reputation for being hard to handle — a sweetheart in the barn, but all business on the track.

“When we got him here, we had some figuring out to do. Since then, he’s won 15 races for us.”

Seven of those victories came last season, all at Northside Downs.

In 155 career starts, David Lloyd George — whose 1:52 lifetime mark was taken at Woodbine Mohawk Park on Aug. 29, 2021 — has compiled 28 wins and $101,891 in purse earnings.

“When I set goals each year, the first one is success with the horses I own,” Keigan said. “He’s been a great one for us.”

Keigan, who works full-time for Newfoundland and Labrador Ferry, has a familiar face helping care for David Lloyd George and his other horses.

“My dad does all the barn work when I’m at my full-time job,” Keigan said. “I guess you can say that it’s come full circle. I never imagined our shared love of racing would turn out this way, but I’m certainly glad it did.”

“Harold and my dad have been best friends their entire lives, which just adds another great layer to the story. The Leblanc family has been incredible to me and has helped in so many ways. I truly love having racing in my life.”

Keigan, whose racing colors are blue and white, is already looking ahead to the 2026 season and the Northside Downs meet, which kicks off May 9.

A strong start is a top priority.

“I want to keep trending upward,” Keigan said. “I’ve had at least 10 wins each year, and I’d like to see that number grow. I’m competitive, but I don’t put too much pressure on myself.”

Which helps explain why the first-generation horseman has enjoyed every mile of the racing journey.

“I remember those days sitting in the stands, watching the races,” Keigan said. “Now I’m on the other side. In a lot of ways, I guess it was meant to be.”

THE DOWN UNDER DIARY

with ADAM HAMILTON

Hopes of Tasmania ride with Triedtotellya

by Adam Hamilton

An unfashionably-bred gelding who has broken down three times has united the hopes of a once proud Australian harness racing state.

The tiny state of Tasmania, an island off the south-west of mainland Australia, punched above its weight for so long in Down Under harness racing.

Now 6-year-old Triedtotellya, a son of Well Said out of Presidential Ball mare Ballroom Belle, has become a beacon of hope.

Back in the late 1960s, the mighty Halwes really put Tassie on the harness racing map through trips to mainland Australia and New Zealand for major races and most famously won the 1968

Miracle Mile, becoming the first Australian-bred pacer to break a two-minute mile in the process.

The 1980s and '90s saw a string of Tasmanian-bred and/or trained pacers make serious splashes in the biggest mainland races. Superstars like Thorate, Sinbad Bay, Jane Ellen, Halyer, and Almeta Boy all spring to mind.

Thorate, who won an Inter Dominion for Hall of Fame trainer Brian Hancock, won 70 races and was the 1990s Australian Horse of the Year.

Sinbad Bay could've been the best of the lot. He won 23 races and two Victoria Cups, but injuries cut him down in his prime. Champion driver Brian Gath says he's the most talented pacer he has driven in Australia.

Halyer won 32 races and would have won the 1994 Inter Dominion with any luck, while champion Jane Ellen tallied 30 wins from just 50 starts and the headstrong, erratic but gifted, Almeta Boy won 27 races and ran a monstrous second to Westburn Grant in the 1990 Miracle Mile.

Those were the glory days for Tassie.

It wasn't until Beautide appeared from relative obscurity to win the 2014 and '15 Sydney Inter Dominion finals when Tassie really made its mark again.

Most thought Beautide was an outlier and he would be the last time Tasmania produced a horse good enough to win a really big race on the mainland again.

They were right, but maybe only until now.

Many hope and some believe Triedtotellya could be the horse to defy that.

The signs are great so far with his 23 starts netting 17 wins, three seconds, a third and almost $230,000 in prize money.

But he's yet to race on the mainland.

And fans on both sides of the Bass Strait, which separates Tassie from the mainland, will have to wait a bit longer for that.

Triedtotellya has two more major targets at home before connections, the Howlett clan and trainer/driver Rohan Hillier, plot their first trip away.

It's likely to be for the biggest of big dances, the $1 million Brisbane Inter Dominion series in July.

There's a touch of venom in Hillier's voice when he mentions the Inter Dominion.

"We actually nominated him for it last year, but the handicappers obviously didn't rate him and he was too far down the rankings to think we'd even get a run in the heats," he said. "I don't think he'll have that problem this time."

No, he won't, because he's won nine of his past 10 starts and run second in the other.

As exciting as Triedtotellya has looked, it was his most recent win which really made people take notice.

He met million-dollar earner Mach Dan, from the premier mainland stable of Emma Stewart and Clayton Tonkin, in the $40,000 Hobart Cup on Jan. 11.

Granted Mach Dan is in the twilight of his career, but they smashed the clock and Triedtotellya cruised past him. The blistering 1:55.9 mile rate for 2,579 meters took 1.7 seconds off the track record.

"He's up and on his way now," Hillier said.

Those next two targets are the $40,000 Devonport Cup on Jan. 31 and Tasmania's only Group 1 race of any equine code, the $150,000 Tasmania Cup on Feb. 28.

Eliza Howlett

“Different gravy, that’s what [Triedtotellya] is. He’s easily the best and most talented horse I’ve had anything to do with. The speed he’s got is incredible, but he’s got depth, too. He’s a good stayer with a terrific heart rate. I’m sure he’ll be competitive with the good horses, it’s just a matter of whether he can take that next step and we won’t know until we try.”

~ Rohan Hillier

~ Rohan Hillier

“We’d actually love to have taken him over to Victoria for one of those big Cups they’ve got on in the next month or so, but it doesn’t make sense to leave home with those two races here just around the corner,” part-owner and former trainer Braden Howlett said.

Howlett and his family go back to 2014 with the Triedtotellya story when they went to the Melbourne Yearling Sales with one target.

They were outbid for a Santanna Blue Chip colt out of Ballroom Belle. He raced on to be Tulhurst Santanna and won 43 races and almost $470,000.

Rather than go home empty handed, the Howletts bought the mare Ballroom Belle, who was in foal to Shadow Play.

She tested their patience.

“We were lucky in the end, but the first two foals out of the mare didn’t make it to the races,” Eliza Howlett said.

In between, Ballroom Belle also missed getting in foal twice.

Finally, four years after they bought her, she produced Triedtotellya.

The ability was there from day one, even if the manners and ringcraft were not.

Triedtotellya was trained by Braden Howlett then and raced at 2. He won three races (from seven starts), including the Dandy Patch final.

“We couldn’t wait to get him back at 3, but just when he was about to resume, he did a tendon,” Braden said.

Triedtotellya missed his entire 3-year-old season. He didn’t race for 14 months.

Then, when he did return, he raced once for a win at Elwick and did the same tendon again.

When he came back and did it for a third time, the Howletts decided he literally needed a sea-change to try and salvage his career.

“I’m probably better set-up for it,” Hillier said. “I train near the beach and I’ve got a pool to swim them in, too. So far so good. Last campaign it was always in the back of my mind the issue could flare again, but this time-in he hasn’t been lame and isn’t showing any signs of a problem.”

He joined Hillier in late 2024 and Triedtotellya has only been beaten once in 10 starts since.

“Different gravy, that’s what he is,” he said. “He’s easily the best and most talented horse I’ve had anything to do with.

“The speed he’s got is incredible, but he’s got depth, too. He’s a good stayer with a terrific heart rate.

“I’m sure he’ll be competitive with the good horses, it’s just a matter of whether he can take that next step and we won’t know until we try.”

All of Tasmania will be hoping he does.

HARNESS RACING PRESS RELEASES, NOTES & ANNOUNCEMENTS

Eileen Connors passes at 74

Eileen Connors, wife of Communicators Hall of Famer Jerry Connors and office manager for Hall of Famer Max C. Hempt at Hempt Farms, passed away Jan. 13 of the inevitable ongoing complications of dementia. She was 74.

Eileen first saw harness racing when her mother Mary Jane took her and her brother David to their hometown York (PA) County Fair (both predeceased her, as did her father, World War II veteran Richard Gay).

After graduating from York Suburban High School (where she played the flute in the school band), Eileen primarily worked in retail in the York-Harrisburg area, then took a job at Harrisburg's Telegraph Press, printer of the Harness Horse magazine and other industry publications, where she worked for Hall of Famers Bowman Brown and Les Ford. She was then recommended to Hempt at Hempt Farms, "the home of the Keystones," where her knowledge of the farm's horses and the industry, combined with her inherent intelligence, helpfulness and friendliness, contributed to keeping the farm running efficiently under the direction of Hall of Famer Hempt.

Her final job combined many of these same qualities: in administration, especially as switchboard operator, for the Pennsylvania Veterinary Laboratory, part of the PA Department of Agriculture and located across the street from her husband when he worked for the State Harness Racing Commission. Eileen specialized in finding correct information and delivering it quickly and clearly to a customer or a coworker.

Eileen was an unofficial member of the Chamber of Commerce of Las Vegas, her favorite city; she was well-traveled. She enjoyed antiques, flea markets (a trait which she inherited from her parents), and police procedurals, whether in print or video form. Eileen also enjoyed all things Disney, and marveled at the great season posted by champion Miki And Minnie.

Eileen has no blood survivors. Missing her will be her husband, his family, and the many friends who enjoyed her laughter and perspective.

Her sister-in-law Theresa Connors, a teacher of anatomy at Philadelphia's Drexel University, persuaded Eileen to donate her body to science, so she will be giving to the world even after her passing, helping to instruct the doctors of tomorrow.

There will be no memorial service. Those who might want to honor her memory could donate to Capitol Rehabilitation, 4100 Linglestown Road, Harrisburg PA 17112, the nursing home where Eileen spent her two+ years and where she spread much joy into her fellow residents' lives. At her instruction, please include a note for Capitol to use any gift to staff more workers on weekends, especially people to talk to residents along with their medical treatment.

The photo on the last cover of the Harness Horse magazine, of racing at Holly Hurst Training Center (PA), was taken by Eileen Connors.

The cover had one word – "Adios."

Dan Patch weekend to include Saturday outdoor reception and country concert

The U.S. Harness Writers Association (USHWA) and Diamond Creek Farm would like to invite all attendees to the Dan Patch Awards weekend at Rosen Shingle Creek in Orlando, FL, to an outdoor cocktail reception on Saturday (Feb. 21).

USHWA is also excited to announce that Team Beau Jangles will be presenting country singer Mitch Rossell, who will be performing during the second half of the two-hour cocktail party, which gets underway on the Lake Toho Deck at Rosen Shingle Creek at 5 p.m.

Rossell performed during last year's opening Dan Patch reception, and he didn't hesitate to say yes when asked if would return for this year's festivities.

"We are elated that Adam Bowden and Diamond Creek Farm will once again be sponsoring Saturday's welcome reception, and we are equally as thrilled that Team Beau Jangles will be sponsoring the concert by Mitch Rossell, who was a huge hit last year," said USHWA president Michael Carter.

Rossell is a singer/songwriter, penning songs for country superstar Garth Brooks, including the number-one hit "Ask Me How I Know," as well as other songs such as "Dive Bar" and "That's What Cowboys Do." When Rossell performed for the first time at Nashville's Grand Ole Opry, he was surprised when Brooks came out to do the introduction.

Rossell, who was an opening act for Brooks on his 2022 Stadium Tour, also performed in 2023 on America's Got Talent, with his initial audition receiving a "yes" from all four judges and his song "Son" rocketing to the top spot on the iTunes all genres chart.

The cocktail reception is very casual attire, with an open bar and selection of light appetizers. Attendees will receive further information about the weekend's activities in a welcome envelope that will be handed out upon check-in at Rosen Shingle Creek. Any horsepeople who are wintering in the area are also invited to the Diamond Creek reception.

"The reception is very casual and the timing still allows attendees to make dinner plans," said Carter. "This will be a great start to a great weekend, culminating in the Dan Patch Awards dinner, presented by Caesars Entertainment, on Sunday night."

Tickets for the Dan Patch Awards banquet are $230. There is also a reduced-price menu option for children 12 and under. Dinner tickets can be ordered until Feb. 16 by contacting Judy Davis-Wilson at zoe8874@aol.com or 302-359-3630 or Elizabeth Lewis-House at Elizabeth.lewis-house@winbakfarm.com. Breedings to Cattlewash donated to three worthy charities

David Heffering, manager of the Cattlewash Syndicate announced today that the Syndicate is donating three breedings to Cattlewash, to three worthy non-profits. From just two crops to race, Cattlewash has sired the superstar colt and major Horse of the Year contender, Beau Jangles. His first crop dominated the New Jersey Sire Stakes and after moving to Ontario, his second crop simply overwhelmed the Sire Stakes competition there, earning more purse monies than the 2-year-old foals of all other Ontario pacing stallions combined. Cattlewash's 2026 book was opened in November and within days was pronounced "Full and closed." He stands at Tara Hills Stud in Port Perry, ON, for an advertised fee of USD $10,000. Those breeders who were shut out now have an opportunity to secure a breeding from one of the three donated bookings. The donations were made to:

The Harness Horse Youth Foundation (HHYF)

HHYF's mission is to provide young people and their families information and experiences with harness horses in order to foster the next generation of fans and participants. Their initiatives include hands-on summer programs as well as educational literature/video development and distribution. In addition, HHYF offers racing-related scholarships. Since 1976 (thus celebrating its golden anniversary this year), HHYF has been building the future of harness racing - connecting talent to opportunity and passion to purpose.

The breeding donated to HHYF will be sold compliments of Preferred Equine Online at their auction site Jan. 26, 2026. Further info available at: preferredequineonline.com.

New Vocations Racehorse Adoption Program

New Vocations has grown from a single horse farm in Ohio to become the oldest and largest racehorse adoption program in the country. New Vocations is dedicated to rehabilitating, retraining and rehoming racehorses. The program has served over 9,000 thoroughbred and standardbred racehorses since 1992 and currently helps find new careers and homes for 600+ horses each year. The program's mission is to serve the racing industry by providing retired racehorses a quality life and career after racing.

Each year, through the generosity of "onGait," New Vocations offers an auction for donated stallion breedings. The donated breeding for Cattlewash will be sold online on Tuesday (Feb. 3, 2026). Watch for the listing to be posted soon at ongait.com.

The Standardbred Breeders of Ontario (SBOA)

The SBOA is an organization dedicated to supporting the growth of a sustainable breeding industry for standardbred horses in Ontario. Its mission includes advocating for breeders' interests, providing resources for communication and education, and representing the breeders position on major issues facing the industry. The SBOA provides a leadership role as an advocate of breeders' priorities and interests with the government, regulators, and other industry participants.

Annually, the SBOA sponsors an auction for donated stud services by Ontario stallions. Once again, Preferred Equine Online graciously accommodates the sale of these breedings on their online site. In 2026, the auction will be held Feb. 9 at preferredequineonline.com.

Food4Kids Halton shares the impact of the Breeders Crown Charity Challenge

In the short time since Food4Kids Halton took home the winning check in Woodbine Mohawk Park's Breeders Crown Charity Challenge, the donation has already been put to work.

Represented in the charity challenge by Team Millar (owner Millar Farms and driver James MacDonald), Food4Kids Halton received a total donation of $95,000.

Jennifer Sully-Ferraro, executive director of Food4kids Halton, was out of the country for the check presentation, but she was following along with excitement.

"I literally screamed; I couldn't believe it," Sully-Ferraro said. "For us, as a small grassroots agency, this is huge."

Spearheaded by prominent owner Marvin Katz, the Breeders Crown Charity Challenge began in 2019 and has annually raised funds within the racing community for charities in the Breeders Crown host surrounding area.

Each of 2025's four charities partnered with a leading owner and driver, whose performance on the racetrack (in addition to other metrics) helped determine the donation received. In addition to Food4Kids Halton, Kids Help Phone, the Milton District Hospital Foundation, and the Peter Munk Cardiac Centre were also participants.

"I've seen how much money Marvin Katz and this challenge has raised over the past few years," said George Millar of Millar Farms. "It's substantial and I'm sure has helped a lot of people, so kudos to him, and I was pretty happy to be a part of it this year with Food4Kids Halton."

Food4Kids Halton partners with local public elementary schools to identify families facing food insecurity, then volunteers discretely provide children with bags of food to take home. In the summers, the organization supports families with grocery gift cards. As Sully-Ferraro shared, the need for this service remains strong.

"Our program continues to grow, which is unfortunate, because it means more kids in our community are facing food insecurity," she said. "Our big goal is to keep going without a wait list so that every time a school calls us, we can say yes to another child in need."

Despite the affluence in the area, the Halton Region is seeing an increase in poverty.

"Last school year we saw an 18 per cent increase in the number of kids we were serving from the previous year, and we gave out 46,048 bags of food," Sully-Ferraro said. "Looking at the current year and how trends are going, we're likely to see a similar increase this year."

Food4Kids Halton reminded owner Millar of another charity close to his heart.

"My daughter runs a charity in South Africa called the Protea Project that I donate to. It's all to do with feeding children and making sure they get health care and dental work," Millar said. "I've always supported organizations that help children. I was really surprised, at first, that kids here at home needed a food program."

Food4Kids Halton gives families experiencing unexpected circumstances a little extra help.

"We find people are on our program for an average of two years," Sully-Ferraro said. "The majority of people we help would much rather be able to buy their own groceries. We're grateful to be there to support them in their time of need, and then we always celebrate when people exit the program because of financial stability. That's always the best."

There are 4,500 children in Ontario in a Food4Kids program, and over 1,200 of them are in Halton, making Food4Kids Halton one of the largest chapters. Funding comes directly from individuals and businesses in the community.

"We were just so blown away by all of you folks and the way you brought the community together," Sully-Ferraro said. "It's been a really special experience for all of us."

The 2025 Breeders Crown Charity Challenge at Woodbine Mohawk Park raised a total of $450,000 for local causes. Over $2.4 million has been donated since the initiative's inception in 2019.

Marvin Katz has recently been recognized with the Cam Fella Award, a high industry honor, for his creation and leadership of the Breeders Crown Charity Challenge and its meaningful impact on the communities of Breeders Crown host tracks.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. to be honored Saturday at Big M

Saturday (Jan. 17) night's fourth race at The Meadowlands is, by racetrack standards, ordinary. But the man the race honors was anything but.

The TrackMaster 74.5 pace is the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Remembrance Race, named for the slain civil rights leader. It is a dash that features all African-American drivers.

According to the Encyclopedia Britannica, Martin Luther King, Jr. was born Jan. 15, 1929, and died April 4, 1968. He was a Baptist minister and social activist who led the civil rights movement in the United States from the mid-1950s until his death by assassination.

His leadership was fundamental to that movement's success in ending the legal segregation of African-Americans in the South and other parts of the United States. King rose to national prominence as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which promoted non-violent tactics, such as the massive March on Washington (in 1963) to achieve civil rights.

Dr. King was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964.

Despite the fact that Dr. King was killed almost 40 years ago, his legacy lives on, even with young African-Americans.

William Carter is a driver who has distinguished himself on the Maryland circuit. He won 170 races during 2023 and added another 181 victories a year ago. Pretty good for someone who won't turn 22 until this summer.

He's a harness racing lifer, who won the MLK Pace at The Big M at age 18.

And he is well aware of the history associated with Dr. King.

"He's had a lot of significance [on my life]," said Carter. "He wanted everyone to be equal. [With regard to race relations in this country], it's getting better. We try to treat everyone the way we want to be treated."

His father, Billy, got William interested in the game at a very early age.

"I always wanted to be a driver from Day One," said William.

William will go for his second MLK win with Warrawee Xceed, who has been performing steadily of late at Harrah's Philadelphia.

The young pilot is optimistic that more African-American drivers will be seen in the sulky down the road. "There are a lot of black drivers in Mississippi that are coming up and they have as much talent as anybody else," said William. "What it takes is opportunity. There are also several drivers that are doing well in Kentucky."

There's little doubt, though, that whoever lines up alongside him Saturday, William will be trying his best to win another MLK Pace.

"There was so much going through my mind [in deep stretch with Maddox Hanover]," said William. "It was my first drive at The Meadowlands. That was a great feeling."

WHO'S DOING THE SHOW? This weekend, John Rallis, who divides his on-camera time between The Big M and Woodbine Mohawk Park when not serving as an editor and columnist at TROT Magazine, will sit alongside Dave Little on the Sam McKee Memorial Broadcast Set and serve as co-host for all three shows.

In several weeks, Rallis will be at the Dan Patch Awards dinner to receive the 2025 Breakthrough Award from the United States Harness Writers Association.

Ken Warkentin will be in his usual spot atop the stands calling the action. Joe Romanelli will handle back-paddock interviews and FanDuel TV (FDTV) commentary and selections tonight and Saturday while Gary DiLeo will handle those chores on Sunday.

KERN TOP'CAPPER: Del Kern hit the 20-cent Pick-5 and that was the catalyst in him taking the first of 11 monthly installments of the 2026 Meadowlands Monthly Handicapping Contest on Saturday (Jan. 10) night.

He finished the evening with a bankroll of $934.01 to not only take that money home, but also the $500 first prize in the $1,000 competition. Stefan Ferrara's final tally of $840.76 was good for second and $250 in prize money.

By finishing 1-2, Kern and Ferrara earned spots in the end-of-the-year, $10,000 invitation-only contest final, where only the 11 monthly top-two finishers will be eligible to participate.

The next $1,000 qualifier is on Friday (Feb. 20).

POTENT PICK-5 POOL: A carryover of $29,637 motivated players Saturday (Jan. 10) night to go deep and bet $173,075 of new money into the 20-cent Pick-5 pool, for a grand total of $202,712.

Because of the prolific carryover, players who had winning tickets were getting a return of 102 per cent, a rare but popular negative takeout.

After a sequence that saw winner's odds of 4-1, 1-5, 5-2, 7-1 and 5-1, winning tickets were exchanged for $877.76.

THE SCHEDULE: During the month of January, live racing will be conducted on a Friday-Saturday-Sunday basis.

Post time on Fridays and Saturdays is 6:20 p.m., while Sunday racing will begin at 12:30 p.m.

The final Sunday race card takes place on Feb. 1.
