Caretaker of the Year Joseph 'Jo Jo' Tosies gets dream season from Lexus Kody

by Debbie Little

Jessica Hallett
Caretaker of the Year Joseph "Jo Jo" Tosies with Lexus Kody after winning the Yonkers International Trot.

MEADOWLANDS MATTERS
with DEBBIE LITTLE

For Joseph "Jo Jo" Tosies, being chosen to receive the 2025 Fair Island Farm Caretaker of the Year was more about his horses than himself, especially Lexus Kody.

Owned by Burke Racing Stable LLC, Weaver Bruscelli LLC, and Phil Collura, Lexus Kody, trained by Ron Burke and driven by Yannick Gingras, had an incredible season in 2025, which according to members of the Burke Brigade, was due in no small part to Tosies calming effect.

Owner Larry Karr, who's been with the Burkes since 2002, said "Kody" wouldn't have been the same horse in 2025 without Tosies.

"There's really no question in my mind about that," Karr said. "So, you know, to get that recognition is so great, especially a guy like this, such a humble person. If you know Jo Jo at all, he's so mild mannered and he loves his horses so much. I think we're all so thankful that the committee recognized the strength of that nomination."

Tosies, 60, discovered harness racing as a teenager when he and his brother Ricky and their childhood friends, John and Kevin McDermott, used to take the bus from Kearny, NJ to The Meadowlands.

“I’ve been chasing Kody my whole life and to come where he came from, I mean, because, let’s be honest, nobody ever expected this year from him, and he’s that horse, he was that horse.”

~ Joseph “Jo Jo” Tosies

Jo Jo was also named the 2025 Caretaker of the Year at The Meadowlands, the place where his love for horses began.

That devotion Jo Jo has for his horses is obvious to his owners.

“He’s a different breed, he’s old school, just wears his heart on his sleeve,” said owner Mark Weaver. “I enjoy his reaction to these types of things as much as actually seeing the horse win. To me, that’s kind of what’s the most enjoyable part of the business, seeing people that love working with the horses, and he’s so appreciative. He thanks us all the time for, you know, a great place to work, and how he loves being part of the team, and it makes it extra special to know how much he appreciates it and to see him be rewarded for everything that he does.”

According to Collura, Jo Jo gets really attached to his horses.

“Hillexotic was one of our trotters, and when we sold Hillexotic, he was devastated,” Collura said of Jo Jo. “And I remember Ronnie saying, ‘I don’t want to tell him.’ He didn’t want to tell him he sold him because he was going to be devastated.”

Hillexotic being sold was difficult for Jo Jo, but luckily Kody was there waiting in the wings.

“I’m a dreamer, and when I lost Hillexotic, it was the worst day of my life because I thought he was taking me to the mountain top... he wasn’t staked really heavy, but he made almost a million dollars just in overnights,” Jo Jo said. “It gets me emotional so I try not to think about it, because just now I almost started crying. It’s your whole life. I’ve always loved what I do. I’m passionate. I throw myself into it, and when you get Kody that dream comes true.”

In total, the Burke Brigade is connected to nine awards, both human and equine, that will be presented at the Dan Patch Awards banquet on Sunday (Feb. 22), but for both Collura and Karr, Jo Jo being honored stands out the most.

“If you told me I could have Horse of the Year or Jo Jo wins Groom of the Year, it’s not even a contest, I would have picked Jo Jo to win Groom of the Year,” Collura said. “To be honest with you, I don’t really go to the awards. I think the last awards I went to was in 2012 when [Sweet] Lou got Pacer of the Year; I didn’t go for Louprint last year. I love to win them, but I’m just not big on going, but this year I’m going because Jo Jo got Groom of the Year. That’s the reason I’m going. I really want to see him get that, like that means a lot to me. He loves his work and he’s such a humble guy, too.”

Karr, who wrote one of the letters nominating Jo Jo for Caretaker of the Year, said, “We’ve got so many good people who are part of the team, especially the caretakers. I mean, as good a year as it was for us, I mean this award for Jo Jo, I’m so happy. I’m going to be so happy to be there to have him accept that award. It’s just fantastic.”

Jo Jo has been a member of the Burke Brigade for eight years now, working at their New Jersey stable under the guidance of second trainer Murph Murphy, who Jo Jo said is “one of the best in the business.”

The now 8-year-old Lexus Kody came under Jo Jo’s care when he was 4, and he’d be the first to tell you that gelded son of Archangel—Lexus Helios had some breaking issues, but for the most part, things were different in 2025.

“ I went through the toughest point in my life, physically. I was worried about losing a foot, maybe even losing my life, and I was laying in the hospital bed; when I think of all [Lexus Kody] did for me, not enough people realize what they do for us... forget about what I do for him. I couldn't repay him in a million lifetimes. ”

~ Joseph “Jo Jo” Tosies

“Early last year I was joking with Ronnie when he was going out to train [Lexus Kody], and I said, ‘You’re going to sit behind the Aged Trotter of the Year, save me a seat in Florida next January so I can be there to accept his award for Aged Trotter of the Year,’” Jo Jo said with a laugh. “And Ronnie just smiled at me and said, ‘Jo Jo, you’re always the optimist. That’s a long way off, buddy.’”

Even when others would tell Jo Jo, “He’s fast, but...” he never lost faith that Lexus Kody was a good horse.

“That’s what drives me, because I love horses that are underdogs,” Jo Jo said. “I know it’s probably not a good way, but it was like me and Kody against the world, we’ll show you. And usually, nine times out of 10 it doesn’t work out. But in his case, boy did it work out.”

Jo Jo and Kody against the world is exactly what it was when the invitation to the million-dollar Yonkers International Trot came. The only problem was that Jo Jo ended up in the hospital a few days before the race.

“I had a big sore on my foot, and I went to the hospital and it was infected,” Jo Jo said. “So, when they admitted me, the first thing I said was, ‘How long am I going to be in here?’”

Jo Jo told everyone on the hospital staff that his godson’s wedding was that Saturday and it was a once-in-a-lifetime situation.

“I really wasn’t lying, because the Trot was a once in a lifetime deal,” Jo Jo said with a laugh. “They took X-rays, and I asked the doctor, ‘Why did you guys take X-rays of my foot?’ He said, ‘We were preparing if the infection didn’t heal, I was afraid I was going to have to take your foot.’ And I just started crying.”

After taking multiple cultures and testing his blood several times a day, Jo Jo was cleared to go to “the wedding” provided he followed all of their instructions and was back in the hospital on Tuesday so they could do surgery to remove a small bone from his foot.

Seeing Lexus Kody win the International Trot was something that Jo Jo will never forget.

“Honestly, I’m getting chills thinking about it,” he said. “It’s something that I would have regretted the rest of my life. I’d have been happy that he won, but it would have killed me if I wasn’t there and he is very calm when I’m around.

“I love what I do, but it’s not an easy job, and that’s why I respect every caretaker that cares. It helps keep me kind of young, to be honest with you, because the years go by, but I still have the same passion and feel the same. Kody’s mellowed out and I’ve mellowed out each year.

“In the hospital, it’s weird, you start to reflect, and you start to realize you’re not invincible. And one of the things that went through my mind is, if I couldn’t look after horses, it would break my heart, because I truly love what I do, and it gave me an appreciation, and kind of reinvigorated me, and gave me back that sense of why I do it. When you get older, you have experiences like that, and it kind of was like a wake-up call. I love what I do. I really do.”

~ Phil Collura

It’s perhaps no surprise that Jo Jo was raring to get back to work as soon as possible after his surgery.

“When I was out [after the surgery], I was in a hurry to get back because of Kody, and Ronnie [Burke] was the first person to say to me, ‘Jo Jo, your health’s more important,’” Jo Jo said. “So, he cares about me. I know that. And when he mentioned on FanDuel Day, ‘I want to give all the credit in the world to his groom,’ that meant more to me than anything, because I have so much respect for him. He’s not only a great trainer, he’s a great man.”

In regard to this weekend’s O’Brien Awards and the fact that Lexus Kody, despite being Ontario-sired and Ontario-bred, is not eligible, Jo Jo didn’t have much to say except how badly he felt for breeder Norm Dunstan.

“This man was going to be there to accept the award... how do you do that?” Jo Jo said. “I mean, all of a sudden there’s a rule that the Breeders Crown doesn’t count if it’s on Canadian soil? Isn’t that even more special?”

“Here’s a guy that’s old. He just sold his farm. The mare just passed, who he had forever, and he’s looking forward to watching a horse that he bred receive an O’Brien award, and it’s taken away from him. It just broke the guy’s heart. Shannon [Henry] told me, it broke his heart.”

There is expected to be a large Burke Brigade contingent at the Dan Patch Awards to celebrate with Jo Jo.

“The most special thing that somebody can do is have somebody’s respect, and I respect those guys so much,” Jo Jo said. “They’re the best group of owners in the world. I mean, these guys will win a million-dollar race, and they’re not happy for themselves, they’re happy for me. And that’s why I want to do good; it’s for people like that.”

“Yannick’s wife Vicki sent me a text and she said, ‘We’re so happy for you. You and Kody gave us a reason to be at the Dan Patch Awards this year.’ So, supposedly, Yannick and Vicky are going because of Kody, and that’s so cool.”

Jo Jo said he’s honored to follow in the footsteps of fellow Burke caretaker Margaret Gillon who was recognized as the Fair Island Farm Caretaker of the Year in 2023.

“Margaret won it two years ago and she does a great job,” Jo Jo said. “I respect her very much as a caretaker, and she deserved it 100 per cent that year.”

Jo Jo also mentioned Alex Peralta who looked out for Lexus Kody while he was in the hospital and after surgery.

“Alex is a great caretaker,” Jo Jo said. “I don’t think he knows and I almost come to tears thinking about how much it meant to me. He had my back when I was out. He told me he looked after Kody because he knew how much he meant to me.”

“So here is a friend that picked me up, and I’ll never forget that. You know, guys like him, are guys that go unnoticed.”

Jo Jo didn’t want to jinx Lexus Kody going into this year, but he said that the combination of the horse’s maturity and the phenomenal job that Yannick does driving him, gives him hope.

“I’ve been chasing Kody my whole life and to come where he came from, I mean, because, let’s be honest, nobody ever expected this year from him, and he’s that horse, he was that horse,” Jo Jo said. “And I went through the toughest point in my life, physically. I was worried about losing a foot, maybe even losing my life, and I was laying in the hospital bed; when I think of all he did for me, not enough people realize what they do for us, not what I do for him, forget about what I do for him. I couldn’t repay him in a million lifetimes.”

ADVENTURES IN ILLINOIS

Racing in Chicago faces permanent shutdown as Hawthorne's license suspended

Hawthorne president Tim Carey failed to show at an Illinois Racing Board meeting this week investigating the track's financial problems.

by Neil Milbert

Confronted with the greatest crisis in Illinois racing history, the Illinois Racing Board (IRB) on Jan. 28 heard testimony from leaders of the Illinois Harness Horsemen's Association (IHHA), the Illinois Thoroughbred Racing Association (ITHA), and Hawthorne Race Course's assistant general manager.

Two days earlier, the IRB announced that it had suspended the organizational license of Hawthorne's harness racing branch "for failure to provide documentation demonstrating its financial integrity and proof that they can meet the minimum standards outlined in the Horse Racing Act and rules."

Hawthorne has yet to race in 2026 – the Jan. 3-Feb. 15 Saturday and Sunday harness programs that were scheduled to be a continuation of the meeting that began on Nov. 7 were canceled, first because the Chicago metropolitan area's only track had failed to submit the required surety bonds for this year of racing and then because of an epidemic of bouncing checks dating back to December.

The thoroughbreds are scheduled to take over the track for a March 25-Nov. 1 meeting after which the standardbreds are scheduled to return for a Nov. 6-Dec. 27 meeting.

But both of those meetings are shrouded with uncertainty as a consequence of the unresolved financial crisis.

"There's a very good chance that the last horse race [in the Chicago metropolitan area] has been raced," said ITHA executive director Dave McCaffrey, expressing the worst-case scenario.

“We’ve lost an estimated $36 million in [racino] revenue and the state has lost about $150 million. And now after six years of promises Hawthorne can’t clear a $400 check to a trainer.”

~ Jeff Davis

IRB executive director Domenic DiCera, in announcing the suspension, said: "On Jan. 15, the IRB requested bank statements that reflect the operating fund, and any fund related to racing operations at Suburban Downs. Unfortunately, their financial difficulties, including failure to provide financial documents showing their ability to operate assigned 2026 race dates, have led us to suspend their license.

"The board will consider reinstating the licenses of Suburban Downs, Inc. should they cure the violations and provide documentation, demonstrating they meet the minimum standards, including but not limited to its financial integrity under the Act and rules."

The first item on the published Jan. 28 agenda called for Tim Carey, president and general manager of the family-owned track, to provide an update but he was a no-show and assistant general manager John Walsh acted as a substitute.

"The horsemen who depend on Hawthorne for their livelihood and have not been paid deserve to hear directly from the person who is responsible," said IHHA president Jeff Davis, expressing his displeasure. "I think that is disrespectful not only to the horsemen but also the Racing Board.

"Ten of 14 scheduled winter harness dates have been lost. Horsemen have not had access to their earnings since before Christmas. Funds from the Department of Agriculture remain inaccessible.

"I want to emphasize that the Board's decision to suspend Suburban Downs' racing license was not an easy decision but it was the right one.

"We also learned this morning that Churchill Downs [Inc.] obtained a judgement in December based on unpaid simulcast fees. That judgement appeared three days before the $1.1 million in purses for the Night of Champions were to be available. We were not notified.”

IHHA executive director Tony Somone elaborated on the consequences of the bounced checks in the daily lives of his organization’s constituents:

“This is how we pay our bills, not only the feed man and the veterinarian but how we pay our mortgages and our car payments. This is how horse racing works. It’s very important to understand that this money is our paycheck. We don’t work for Hawthorne; we are not employees of Hawthorne. We’re simply trying to get access to our own money. They kind of act as a custodian of our money.

“What makes this even more egregious that they’re bouncing these checks is that so much of this money is not even money that is coming from betting dollars – $267,000 came from the Department of Agriculture for our Night of Champions [a $1.1 million program for Illinois-breds that is the biggest night in Illinois racing]. That money was received by Hawthorne.

“We also made stakes payments of $500, $1,000, $1,500, and so on to get eligible. That’s almost $700,000 in Hawthorne’s pockets back in March and April.

“When we speak with Tim [Carey] it’s not very fruitful. It’s ‘yes’ and ‘no’ answers.”

Compounding Hawthorne’s financial woes in addition to the simulcast bill is a $5 million lien from contractors for unpaid 2020 teardown work in the grandstand and clubhouse for the proposed casino addition made possible by a massive gambling expansion bill in 2019.

Despite repeated assurances from Carey every year that Hawthorne was on the brink of receiving racino financing nothing has been done.

“We’ve lost an estimated $36 million in [racino] revenue and the state has lost about $150 million,” Davis testified. “And now after six years of promises Hawthorne can’t clear a $400 check to a trainer.”

Walsh began his testimony by saying, “I want to assure all the horsemen that Hawthorne, its employees, and the Carey family are disgusted by this unexpected turn of events [that produced the bank crisis]. I don’t know the inner workings of the bank. It’s shocking to us.

“Getting a racino up and running is a long and tedious process. We’re working with a new partner, someone nearby. Right now, Tim is somewhere downtown working with professionals on getting this resolved. Whatever is going to happen is going to happen in the next two or three months. We have a few options on loss of opportunities for horsemen. We’ll work everything out once we get everything fixed.”

“There’s a very good chance that the last horse race [in the Chicago metropolitan area] has been raced.”

BETWEEN THE LINES

with BRETT STURMAN

Earlier and faster Meadowlands' card produces a season high handle – but what does it mean?

Was $3.3 million in wagering last Saturday at The Meadowlands simply a one-time circumstance of favorable conditions, or does it prove races can be run faster and still produce high handle.

by Brett Sturman

Last Saturday (Jan. 24), The Meadowlands ran their card at a slightly modified time and pace than usual. With a winter storm oncoming that forced the cancellation of the next-day Sunday card, the track announced that Saturday racing would go on, but with that result in mind to complete the racing card in advance of inclement weather.

Though forced to change the flow of the race card due to weather more so than a natural policy, The Meadowlands conducted a highly successful set of 14 races where the posted handle was $3,379,086. That number was the first $3 million total since Nov. 29, and highest since Nov. 15 of last year.

Instead of the standard announced post time of 6:20 p.m., the adjusted post time for Saturday was moved up to 6 p.m. But to a pleasant surprise, the race actually did go off close to the stated post time. Typically, a 6:20 post time comes with a 6:37 off-time, nearly 20 minutes after the advertised post. On this special Saturday, however, the first race went off at 6:02, right on schedule for all intents and purposes.

From there, the second race went off just 16 minutes later at 6:18, and the third race went off 18 minutes after that at 6:36. By that time, The Meadowlands had already conducted three races whereas on a typical night, even the first race would not have yet gone off. It also goes to show that it's entirely physically possible to run races spaced apart by 16-18 minutes.

As the program went on, perhaps feeling a little "too ahead" of schedule, the races did become more spaced out with about an average of 25 minutes in between each race through the middle section of the card, which included 28 minutes between races 4 and 5. Towards the latter stages, the time in between races once again picked up where races went off somewhere between 17 and 19 minutes.

In the end, the card that started at 6:02 ended at 10:47, which in looking at the total duration of four hours and 45 minutes still seems long, but was still an improvement on the usual. The prior Saturday card began at 6:37 and ended at 11:42, or looking at it another way, 20 minutes longer than the most recent Saturday card.

The question is then: What drove the substantial handle increase if the two race cards were completed only by a difference of 20 minutes?

The least complicated part of the explanation is that The Meadowlands was one of the only signals – thoroughbred or harness – running that night. Thoroughbred cancellations included Charles Town, Turfway, and almost all the Delta Downs card. The only other harness track running that night in the U.S. was Northfield Park, with Woodbine Mohawk Park in Canada.

Though forced to change the flow of the race card due to weather more so than a natural policy, The Meadowlands conducted a highly successful set of 14 races where the posted handle was $3,379,086. That number was the first $3 million total since Nov. 29, and highest since Nov. 15 of last year.

There just aren't many people around to bet on harness racing at close to midnight, but wrap things up an hour earlier and then maybe you have something.

What's interesting is that you can't say The Meadowlands increase was due entirely to lack of competition, because if that was the case you would have expected Mohawk to have a similar bump in their handle too, but that didn't happen.

Before The Meadowlands handle of $3.3 million a week ago, the prior three Saturday's there were $2.6, $2.6, and $2.8 million. Mohawk, on the other hand, remained flat. Starting from the first Saturday of January, their Saturday handles have been $2.1, $1.6, and $1.7 million. Last Saturday, they produced the same $1.7 million as they did the week prior.

What may also have contributed to the high Meadowlands increase could have been simply starting earlier and ending earlier. This is something that, as discussed in a recent column, Hoosier Park did this past meet, and had success with this formula too.

Essentially, there is more to gain in handle by shifting the later races earlier. Put it this way, are there going to be more eyes on the product between the hours of 6 to 6:45 or between 11 to 11:45? The answer is the former, and that's based on The Meadowlands last week and on what Hoosier Park found in last year's season. Indeed, the handle at The Meadowlands last Saturday during the 10 o'clock hour far exceeded the same race handle from the week prior in the 11:00 hour.

There just aren't many people around to bet on harness racing at close to midnight, but wrap things up an hour earlier and then maybe you have something.

To the opposing point, you could say that The Meadowlands tried once again to eliminate post drag in a highly publicized effort last year, and it resulted in a disaster. However, that initiative also coincided with a concurrent policy to put restrictions on certain computer assisted wagering (CAW) action. With that, it's impossible to say how much handle was lost last year during the drag-reduction experiment or to CAWs temporarily pulling back.

Another thing is that post drag issues and the amount of time between races are actually two separate things. You could still have post drag and at the same time have fewer minutes between races – which is, whether intentional or not – sort of how things played out a week ago Saturday for The Meadowlands.

At minimum, last week's Meadowlands $3.3 million handle shows that racing doesn't have to suffer because of what should be normally run race cards. Was just that one successful night enough for the track to consider another card that follows the same timing?

A look back at the life and career of Carmine Abbatiello

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

Hall of Fame driver Carmine Abbatiello, one of harness racing's most successful and popular drivers throughout a career that spanned more than four decades, died Tuesday (Jan. 27), his family announced. He was 89.

Abbatiello, who drove in his first race in 1956, was a fixture on the New York-New Jersey circuits, and over the years captured numerous driving titles in the region – most notably a combined total of nearly 20 at Roosevelt and Yonkers. He attended high school on Staten Island and from there worked eight years with his brother Anthony, another Hall of Famer, before going on his own in 1964.

In 1959, Carmine tied for the driving title at Freehold Raceway before winning multiple crowns there in the early 1960s. He also was a driving champion at Monticello Raceway during the early days of his career.

Carmine enjoyed his first top-25 finish in the national driver standings in 1962, with his 83 victories ranking No. 21. He ranked in the top 20 the next four seasons before breaking out in 1968 with 237 triumphs and $854,482 in purses to finish No. 3 and No. 6, respectively, in those categories in the national standings.

Carmine led the sport in purses in 1975 ($2.27 million) and again in 1978 ($3.34 million), when he shared Harness Tracks of America's Driver of the Year Award with Herve Filion. In addition, Carmine ranked among the top five in purses on 11 other occasions. He had a total of nine years among the top-five winningest drivers, including second-place finishes in 1970 (with 294 victories), 1978 (387), and 1979 (393).

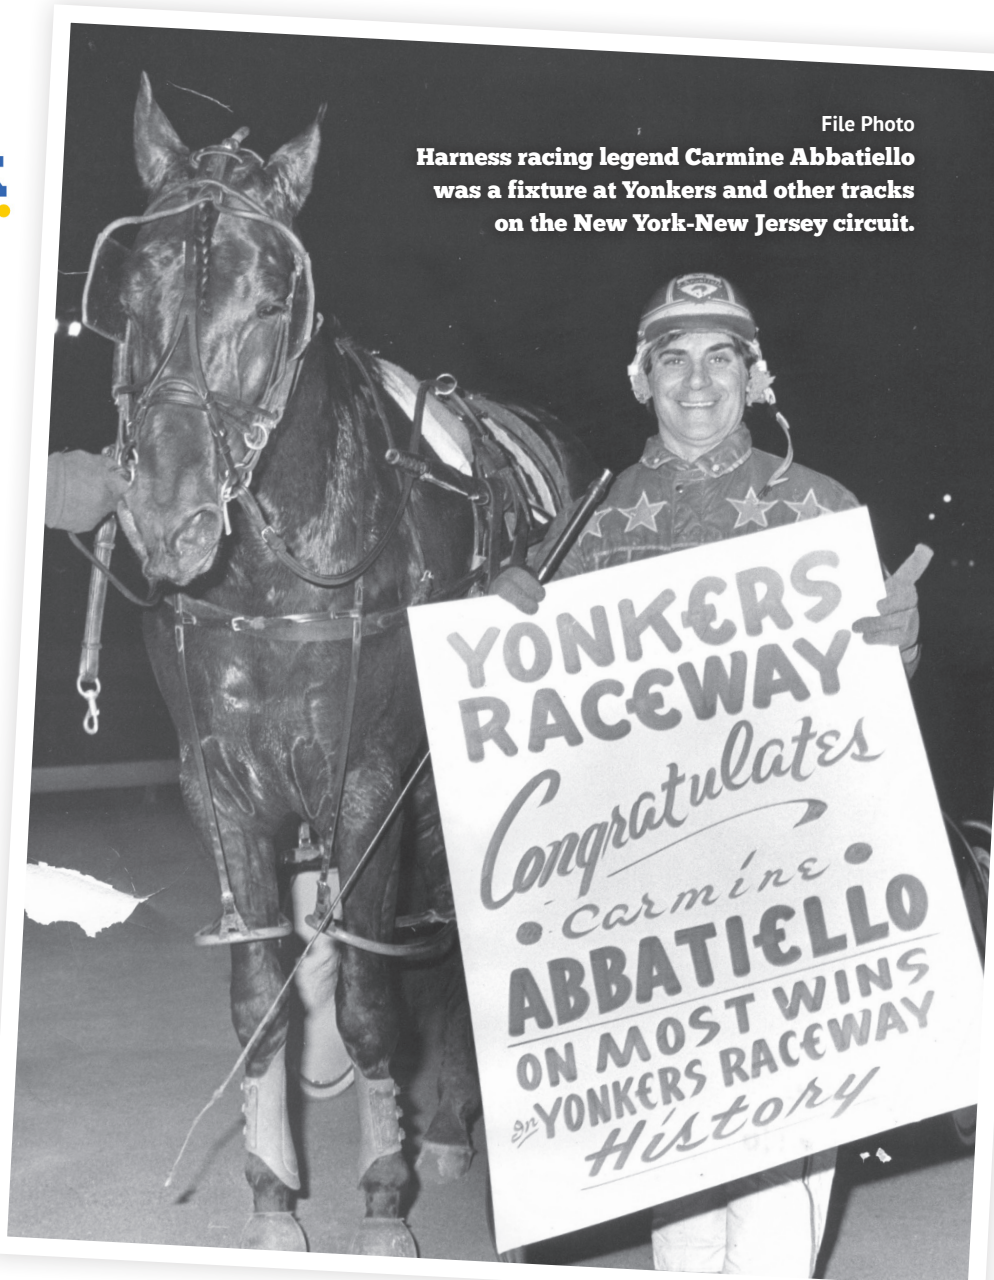

His final year with more than 1,000 drives came in 1989. At the end of that season, Carmine ranked No. 2 all-time in wins, with 6,944, and No. 4 in purses, with nearly $47.7 million. He ended his career with 7,170 victories and $50.3 million in purses.

Known as "The Red Man" because of his bright red driving colors, Carmine was elected to the Harness Racing Hall of Fame in 1985. Among other accolades, he received Harness Horsemen International's Man of the Year Award in 1982, the same year he was feted with Carmine Abbatiello Night at Roosevelt Raceway – only the second driver, after Billy Haughton – to receive the honor.

Such was Carmine's popularity that he appeared in a beer commercial and had a restaurant – the famed Carmine's in New York City, launched by Arthur J. Cutler – named in his honor.

Further details will be announced when available.

The one, the only, Carmine Abbatiello

by Bob Heyden

Harness racing lost Carmine Abbatiello this week at the age of 89 after a long illness.

Before remembering “Cah-mine” — a true legendary figure — let’s give many who didn’t know him the basics, the facts, the numbers.

- Born on May 23, 1936 in Staten Island. He became the first native New Yorker to lead the drivers’ standings at Roosevelt and Yonkers.
- Graduated from Port Richmond High School and went right into racing.
- Eight years younger than his brother Anthony Abbatiello who he spent eight years working for him. They are the first brothers to both enter the Hall of Fame.
- First driving win was with Hensleys Mac at Freehold in 1953.
- First $100G season was 1963 ($146,391).
- First million $ season was 1969 ($1,243,917).
- First $2 million season was 1975 ($2,375,093). This was the first of two times he led the entire sport.
- First $3 million season was 1978 ($3,344,457), which also led all in North America.
- No. 5 in the Driver Standings in Year One (1976) at The Meadowlands with 55 wins despite 182, more less drives, than any of the top four: Buddy Gilmour, Mike Gagliardi, Greg Wright, and Benny Webster.
- 15 straight $1 million seasons and 27 straight 100-win years.
- $50,326,268 career earnings which was fifth all-time when he retired.
- Known, even outside the industry, as “The Red Man” because of his instantly recognizable driving colors.

“ I don’t take much hold of a horse. I would rather get beat in a horse’s best time than racing from behind and slowing them up during the mile. ”

“ I try never to get behind my horse or even a catch drive until we are called for the race. I don’t even take the last warmup. I study the program before the races according to the past performance charts and find the horse I feel I have to beat. I try and stay with that one.”

~ Carmine Abbatiello

- Was a star in Schaefer Beer commercials four/five decades back.
- Some of the standouts he drove included Big Towner, Seatrain, Ombre Rose, Manfred Hanover, Newt Lobell, and Haunted House.
- On Hambletonian Day 1996, he made his final appearance on a major stakes card in East Rutherford with Bob Siegelman’s and Cheyenne Gang’s Haunted House.
- Four times he was second nationally in victories: 1970 with 285, 1977 with 417, 1978 with 389, and 1979 with 393.
- In 1973 he finished with 175 points to capture the first Driving Championships vs. the best Chicago drivers.
- He’s been referred to as, “The King of New York,” which was very true for a couple of decades into the 1980s.

Carmine was the ultimate catch driver, and one of the very first, with the emphasis being on “driver.” He often said, “Training? I don’t train horses. I have good assistants for that.”

Carmine was best known for his front-end style of racing.

“I don’t take much hold of a horse,” he said. “I would rather get beat in a horse’s best time than racing from behind and slowing them up during the mile.”

He was also known not to warm up or even score down his horses.

“I try never to get behind my horse or even a catch drive until we are called for the race,” he said. “I don’t even take the last warmup. I study the program before the races according to the past performance charts and find the horse I feel I have to beat. I try and stay with that one.”

Carmine was one who friended me right away 42 years ago when I started at The Meadowlands. A huge thrill for a 26-, 27-year-old guy with no family representation in the industry.

I remember watching a Meadowlands Pace with him, and he commented about a young fella named John Campbell. “He’ll win nine or 10 of these before he’s done,” Carmine said. Campbell’s actual number ended up being seven.

I remember in the late 1990s talking to Carmine about still driving or not. He was 62 at the time.

“I can still drive every bit as good as ever,” he said. “But I can’t take the chance at my age of hitting the deck.”

Carmine was a showMAN, not a showOFF. He never had to call the photographer or cameraman over, they seemed to be heading towards him anyway.

He loved his Roosevelt reunions with his son Eric, a multiple leading driver at Freehold, and his beloved wife Marie, right there by his side.

Another huge chunk of a bygone era is now missing.

Billy Haughton, Stanley Dancer, Benny Webster, Loosh Fontaine, Chappie Chapman, and now Carmine, are all gone.

Until right now we’ve never lived in a world without Carmine. It always just felt right.

Will there ever be another Carmine? Not a chance. His place is secure in harness racing lore – right in front of the pack.

GUEST COLUMN

with JOHN CIRILLO

A tribute to the remarkable Red Man

by John Cirillo

Back in the day in the early 1970s, my best friend Vinnie Olivieri and I had a trusted, tried-and-true motto: “When in doubt, bet Carmine!”

That would be “The Red Man,” the Colt’s Neck Crusader himself, Carmine Abbatiello.

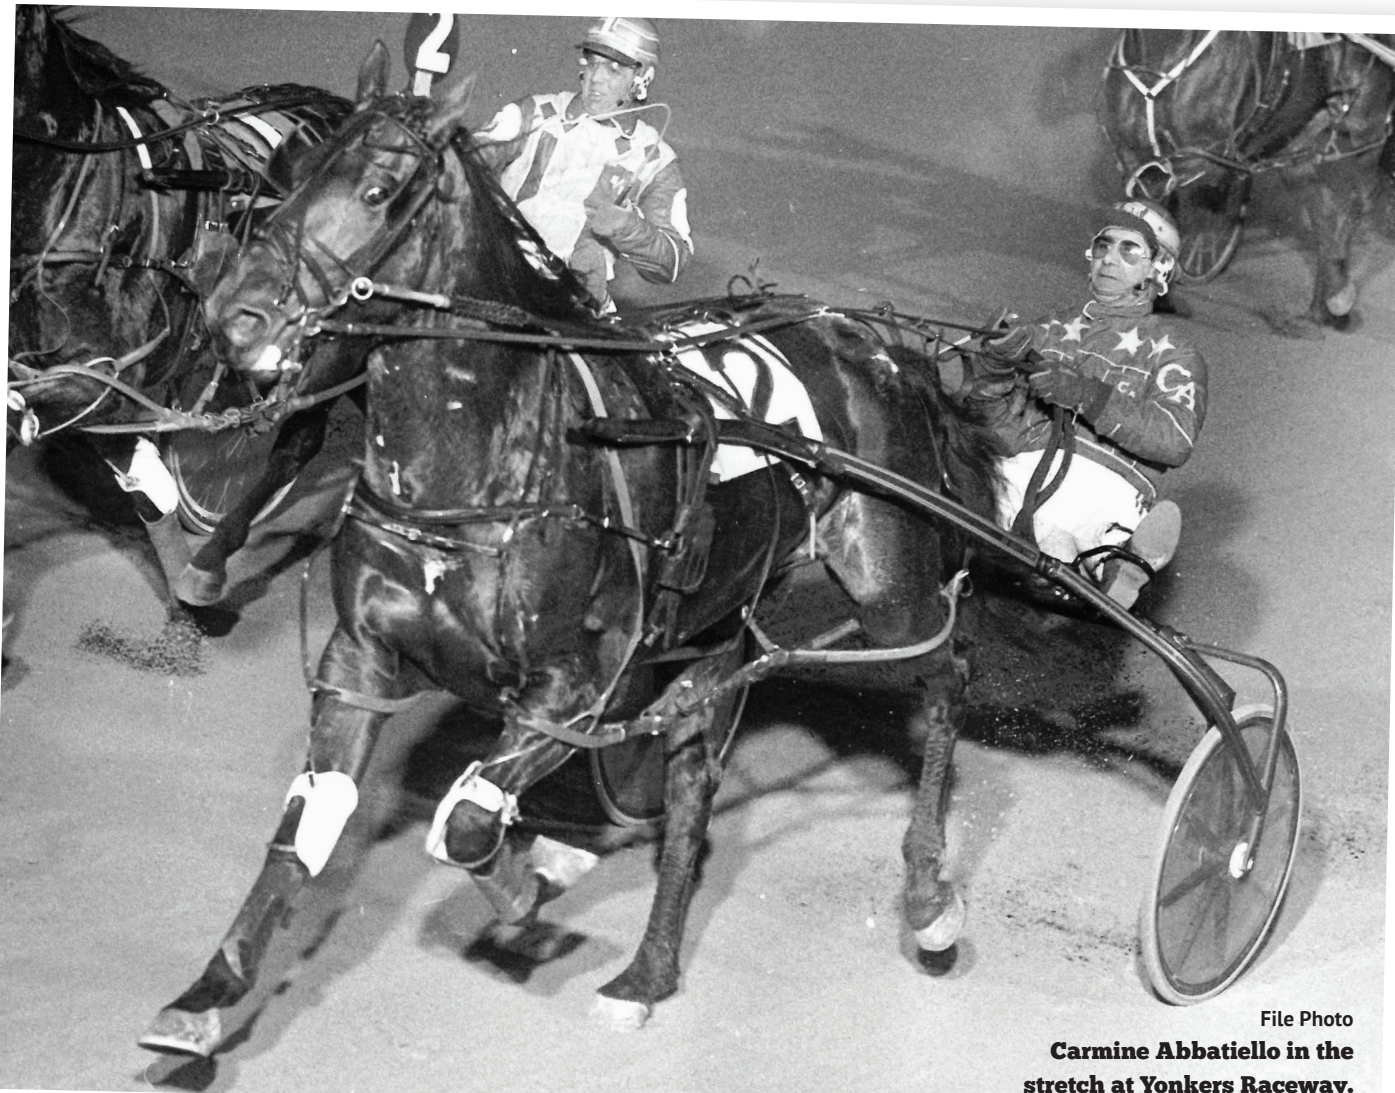

We were railbirds at Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceways, cutting our teeth in betting the trotters and pacers. Vinnie’s brother Johnny, uncle Ralphie Morelli and his pal Stanley were always there, too.

We were young and smart and it worked. Carmine was the full package: he had the hands, the feel, the timing. Oh, my goodness! Those crimson red colors with appropriately gold stars. Abbatiello was the gold standard. We were painting the town red and we loved it.

Another motto here: Don’t get caught red-handed by not including Carmine in your bets.

He could take them wire-to-window, on the engine, down the road. But he was equally adept coming from behind. Carmine was the best damn catch driver in the ’60s and ’70s – yes, better than Herve – and remains so today 50 years later.

He was the perennial driving champion at the New York harness tracks, winning nearly 20 titles on the strength of 7,000 dash wins and $50 million in purses. He was enshrined in the Hall of Fame in 1985.

File Photo
Carmine Abbatiello in the stretch at Yonkers Raceway.

Big Towner, Newt Lobell, and Taurus Romeo were among the standout pacers he reined to the winner's circle, the latter two trained by his elder brother Anthony.

Carmine was so good, so wildly popular, that he did a very cool television commercial for Schaefer beer: "Come into the Schaefer Circle," said The Red Man. I sure did. Good God, it looked frosty and delicious in Carmine's mug.

The spot concludes like this: "Tonight, Carmine won the daily double, the feature, the eighth, the ninth and the check."

Guess who the famed NYC restaurant Carmine's is named for? You guessed it. Owner Arthur J. Cutler named it in Abbatiello's honor.

I remember one night at Yonkers, Carmine happened to have drives behind two Australian pacers in the daily double. Unknown on American shores, they could not be backed with confidence in the wagering. Both paid in the 6-1 range, and a daily double return of close to $100. I'll take $500 for a $10 wager any time, thank you very much. Another evening at Roosevelt, The Red Man drove Soky's Atom to victory in the George Morton Levy. When interviewed after the race, Stan Bergstein pointed out that the colt was the only horse sired by Albatross in the race. Carmine laughed when replying "and the only Abbatiello."

When I was a senior at Fordham, I'd commission my pal Jim Donaghy to drive me up to Yonkers for a daily double wager in his metallic green Impala. I'd invariably return to campus with a wad of cash, most times thanks to The Red Man.

And my roommate Joe Casino and I would take a walk up Fordham Road to the OTB parlor to plunk down our wagers on Carmine. We didn't have to work part time jobs because of our successful bets.

In the past year, Carmine's son Eric had been posting Abbatiello updates on Facebook, some of which were pops celebrating Christmas Eve, mommy bear listens to Dean Martin, pops crabmeat over linguine, pops kidney chicken, pops looking for home in FL, pops at Collingwood Flea Market and – on Aug. 6 – pops at Peking Pavilion. I said to myself, "I have to get to Manalapan for lunch with Carmine and Eric."

Don't put off until tomorrow what you can do today. Sadly, the little reunion never happened. I wonder if he used chopsticks?

Six months later, Carmine has joined the special angels in paradise. Born on May 23, 1939 in Staten Island, passed Jan. 27, 2026. May he rest in eternal peace.

Editor's note: John Cirillo is a lifelong harness racing zealot, who admired Carmine Abbatiello from the rail, and later from the paddock and press box as Yonkers Raceway's PR director from 1981 to '84.

with MATTHEW LOMON

Harness racing feeds Emily Veinot's soul

by Matthew Lomon

Balancing full-time groom duties with part-time post-secondary studies leaves Emily Veinot with little time to call her own, but the devoted horsewoman feels like she has all the time in the world.

"It's just my happy place being at the barn," Veinot said. "I always enjoy it and am never in a rush to leave to go home or anything. It doesn't feel like work when you love what you're doing."

The Ottawa, ON native's tireless work ethic and palpable passion for equine care left an immediate and lasting impression on the people around her.

Among those moved by the venerable Veinot is her boss, trainer Dave Menary, who nominated his dedicated employee for the 2025 Outstanding Groom Awards.

Established in 2015, the prestigious award recognizes grooms who place their horses first and treat them with the utmost kindness and respect, regardless of status or ability, while also demonstrating a strong work ethic and consummate sportsmanship.

Veinot, who was named a finalist for the distinct accolade on Jan. 11, checked all the boxes.

"I wasn't really sure what to think in the beginning when I first heard the news," she said. "I was very, very excited and I was also very honored that Dave, my boss, had thought of nominating me. He said that I'm the first person he's ever nominated in all his years of being a trainer. That alone is a tremendous honor."

Before Veinot joins Menary, a finalist in the Trainer of the Year category, as well as her fellow outstanding groom nominees Nancy Gredig and Joe Tulino at the O'Brien Awards Black Tie Gala on Saturday (Jan. 31), she took pause to reflect on her journey to this point.

"I've been really into the riding horses since I was 12 or 13," she said. "Then, in 2017, I moved to Guelph right out of high school to go to the University of Guelph. I started looking for a summer job and had applied to a couple student positions at the university but hadn't heard anything back."

Instead of waiting around, a proactive Veinot shifted her focus to horse-related work. In doing so, she came across a summer groom posting from five-time O'Brien Award-winning trainer, Casie Coleman.

"I messaged her and asked if she was still looking for work," Veinot said. "I had never worked with standardbreds before that, but I always had an interest in them. Growing up in Ottawa, we would watch the races at Rideau [Carleton]."

While Coleman needed someone with standardbred experience, the noted conditioner countered by putting Veinot in contact with her parents.

"This was around February 2018, and Casie's horses were supposed to come up from Florida in April," Veinot said. "So, in the couple of months between, I went and saw her mom and dad and they trained me a little bit on the couple of horses they had so that I'd be ready for when they came up from Florida. That was sort of my first job in the business."

After breaking into the standardbred sphere with the Colemans in 2018, Veinot put her studies on hold and turned to grooming full-time.

The hiatus from pursuing a degree in Animal Biology ultimately proved brief, as Veinot resumed her post-secondary education in an abbreviated capacity when COVID-19 hit in 2020.

"From that time on, I took a lot of online classes but the last couple of credits I need to finish my degree are all in-person courses," she said. "So, in January 2025, I moved back to Guelph to do that."

Veinot is set to graduate as an Animal Biology major in one year's time.

Her academic work has led her across a variety of disciplines, including animal nutrition, for which she developed a particular fascination.

Whether it be a focus on equine, ruminant, or cat and dog nutrition, Veinot has seemingly found her calling.

"I'm hoping to do something in equine nutrition or for a feed company when I graduate," she said

Even as her future takes shape in the back of her mind, Veinot remains committed to the present.

Her responsibilities in the Menary barn, which began at the same time she returned to Guelph to continue her studies, have her caring for several horses in numerous capacities.

"Right now, I look after four at put-away time, but during the day we kind of all do it all together as teamwork," Veinot said. "That's how Dave likes to run it."

Horses under Veinot's care in 2025 included Parkavenuejanet, Dragononthebeach, Blue Pacific, Talk Curdy To Me, Whoa Black Betty, Chic Choc Rose, Shes Gone, In The Spotlight N, and Its Saturday Night.

Tending to multiple horses, each with distinct needs, requires both patience and diligence.

“ I wasn’t really sure what to think in the beginning when I first heard the news [about being nominated for the 2025 Outstanding Groom Award]. I was very, very excited and I was also very honored that Dave [Menary], my boss, had thought of nominating me. He said that I’m the first person he’s ever nominated in all his years of being a trainer. That alone is a tremendous honor. ”

~ Emily Veinot

“Dave’s really good about being hands on when we get a new horse,” Veinot said. “I’ll pay close attention to what he tells me – for example, ‘This one needs to have their feet worked on, or this one it’s their hocks.’ Whatever we sort of noticed in the beginning, I’ll try and work on that.

“Then I just try to pay attention to their personalities and work with each individual horse. We just try and keep them all happy.”

Veinot formed a special bond with Parkavenuejanet, a 4-year-old pacer who now resides with trainer Meg Crone and driver Anthony Haughan.

“She just got there a couple of days ago, but I want to go up and visit her if they’re okay with that,” Veinot said with a laugh. “She was probably one of my favorites and one of the highlights of my year, even though she probably didn’t win as many big races as some of the other horses I looked after.”

Veinot spent countless early mornings and late nights – both on and off the track – with the mare she described as an “absolute sweetheart.”

“I originally started looking after her because she had a [Ontario Sires Stakes] Grassroots race at Rideau Carleton, and I wanted to go home for that trip,” Veinot said. “She ended up being the only one of ours that had a race that weekend at Rideau, so we shipped up together, just me and her.”

Veinot, who warmed up the kind-hearted bay the occasional night at Woodbine Mohawk Park, even put her Christmas plans on hold to attend Parkavenuejanet’s final start for Menary in the Niagara Series final on Dec. 26, 2025.

“I knew that it was going to be her last start with us, so I thought, ‘I’ll just go home on the weekend after her race is over,’ because I really didn’t want to miss her last start with us,” Veinot said. “I was excited about it and wanted to have her go out with a bang and give her the best effort I could.”

Unfortunately, due to inclement weather, the race was postponed. That, however, didn’t prevent Veinot from enjoying the holidays – her way.

“I was there on Christmas Day; I jogged Janet and put her away and everything,” she said, adding with a laugh, “We had the same kind of thing the next week. It was New Year’s Day and Dave said we didn’t have to work if we didn’t want to, but I was like, ‘Oh, I’m going to come in and jog Janet, put her away.’ He was good with it.”

To Menary, that unwavering display may very well have sealed the nomination. To Veinot, she was simply doing her job.

Ahead of the ceremony on Saturday, Veinot isn’t doing anything different.

She will still take care of her first racehorse, De Chairman, whom she collected her first training win with and later retired in 2024 to explore a second career in the riding world.

She will still be grateful to the Colemans, Menary, and Ted McDonald – the friend and mentor who connected her with Menary – as well as the countless others standing in her corner.

She will still, most importantly, savor every moment.

“I’ve been thinking about what it would mean to win this week because everyone’s asking, ‘Are you getting excited? Are you getting excited?’” Veinot said. “My answer is, ‘Yeah, I’m excited, but I’m definitely really, really nervous.’

“I think it would just be so amazing. I’m already so incredibly honored to be nominated. I never imagined that this would happen in my year that I moved up here. But if I were to win, that would just be the cherry on top.”

LES GRANGES DE L'HIPPODROME AVEC GORDON

with GORDON WATERSTONE

Viva La Paris!

by Gordon Waterstone

After breaking my Prix d'Amérique maiden last year and realizing I was eligible to non-winners of two this year, I embarked on my journey to Paris on Wednesday (Jan. 21). I arrived in Paris at 5 a.m. local time on Thursday, an amazing 75 minutes early. There must have been a strong tailwind as all the planes landing from the U.S. were arriving early, which made my wait for Moira Fanning and her daughter Caroline shorter than planned.

We were all riding to the hotel together so I had to make my way from Terminal 2E to Terminal 1, and after being a bit confused finding the tram, I made it in 45 minutes. And that included a slight delay as I had a slight stalemate with a security officer as he kept insisting I wish him a good morning before he gave me directions. I was able to find the Fannings and after finding our driver we made it to hotel. I was lucky as my room was ready despite it being only 8 a.m.

Let me give you my core group for this trip so I don't have to repeat myself. The group included: John Campbell, Moira and Caroline Fanning, Tom Charters, Gunjan Patel, Elizabeth Caldwell, Tina Brauti, Callie Davies-Gooch, Henrik Lundell, Justin Fisher, Ryan Macedonio, and Chris and Michele McErlean. We were joined in part by Chris and Natalie Tully and Dave and Les Offenberg. Thank goodness that we had a fine leader and general in Moira as somehow, she was able to keep us all in line.

Thursday was spent leisurely but on Friday I made the trip to Vincennes with Henrik Lundell and Gunjan Patel for the track's media day. I was told this was the first year the media day was held, and there were a lot of people gathered around for the press conference when we arrived. When we walked in the door, we were greeted by Norwegian journalist Kristin Odegard, who gave me a nice hug and kisses on my cheeks. I met Kristin a couple years ago at The Red Mile when she was there for the Kentucky Futurity.

I wish the horsemen in the U.S. would take notice of how things are done in France as I believe it would really enhance everything greatly. A video presentation was shown and then the trainers and drivers of all 18 scheduled Prix d'Amérique starters were interviewed. Two or three horses did not have representatives on hand, but the trainer had a taped video where they apologized for not being present, but they had racing obligations elsewhere.

There was a festival of sorts inside the grandstand on Friday, so I walked around a bit looking at all the vendors. I was looking around and I heard someone say, "Aren't you going to say hello?" I had been standing next to Joe Faraldo and didn't even realize it. Joe and I talked for a few minutes before I continued on my walkaround.

Friday night a group of nine of us went to the famous Moulin Rouge for the show, and it was outstanding. The showroom holds 850 and there wasn't an empty seat. The place is like the old days at the Las Vegas showrooms as people were seated at tables. While a dinner package was offered, we ate elsewhere before and our tickets only included many bottles of champagne. My glass never got empty as Chris made sure to keep it full.

On Saturday I again made my way to Vincennes with a group for the afternoon races, and after having lunch, I joined Moira, Ryan, Justin, and Henrik to head to the paddock area. Horses are not assembled by race but by stable, so the area was huge, I had a chance to meet and talk a bit with renowned Swedish horseman Daniel Redén. While my group was walking around a pigeon scared the bejabbers out of me as it flew by and clipped me with a wing. Thankfully, I emerged unscathed by the minor collision. Not even a hint of internal bleeding.

We also ran into famed Swedish photographer Adam Strom during our paddock travels. I got a nice greeting from Adam and history was made in sorts as he asked someone to take a photo of us together. Adam usually takes photos only with females, so for me to be asked was indeed special.

At the races I had a chance to catch up with Swedish owner Anders Strom. When I walked over to Anders' table, I saw Ron Burke sitting there. Ron was in Paris with his son Brad, nephew Kevin and a friend of theirs, with the latter three going on for a skiing trip. When we were leaving, Swedish agent Robert Lindstrom saw me and came over to say hello, which I thought was a very nice gesture.

Saturday night was again an outstanding dinner. I'm not sure I'll be allowed to go back to the restaurant though as I got in trouble with the owner. When we arrived, we were greeted by a cute, small white dog. The dog was at my feet while I was eating, so I snuck a little food to the dog. Next thing we knew the dog was tied up in the other room, and when I asked the owner why, I was told because he could tell the dog had been given food, which was a no-no.

After a day of sun, we woke up Sunday – Prix d'Amérique Day – to clouds. And as predicted, it began to rain shortly after the start of the race card. My entourage in the massive dining room was divided into groups of 12 and five, and I was in the latter. I sat with Elizabeth, Tina, Judy, and Callie.

There was a two-hour gap between races 2 and 3, when the 18 Prix d'Amérique drivers were introduced to the enormous crowd. There was music and a choreographed horse dressage, which was moved just off the racetrack due to the wet conditions as rain had begun to fall.

To read the full story about the famed trotting race, please read Thomas Hedlund's recap in last Monday's HRU. Congratulations to the connections of the winning Hokkaido Jiel, who won his first race since June of 2023 at odds of 37-1.

As I noted earlier, it was a humungous crowd. Emmanuelle Morvillers, Vincennes head of international department, later told me the attendance was more than 36,000. There was also an attendance of 19,000 at Saturday's races, making the grand total more than 55,000. While it was tough to move around on Saturday, it was virtually impossible on Sunday.

In addition to Emmanuelle, I also have to thank director of marketing and communications Marianne Simonnot for all her help.

We all left the track shortly after the Prix d'Amérique was over, but our caravan was delayed slightly as one of the group – who asked (demanded) I keep their identity a secret – lost their phone and wallet. A frantic search turned up nothing, but then Justin jumped into a phone booth, came out wearing a cape, and took off in search of the property.

I told everyone that there was no chance Justin would find anything, but after 15 minutes he came back and had the phone and wallet – missing only the cash – in his hand. Somehow the property landed in a lounge and somebody answered the phone as Justin had called the number 17 times in his quest to find it.

The Hambletonian Society once again had a restaurant reserved Saturday night for about 75 people. What a spread that was, with the food offerings including chicken, lamb, salad, and snails. Unlike last year when I needed help opening the snail shells, I had no trouble this time around.

There were several toasts made through the evening, with John making one to celebrate the fabulous career of Moira, who is slowly making her way toward retirement. The exact date seems to keep being pushed back, but I believe it will be in the near future.

While I wanted to walk back to the hotel so I could walk off the food, we took an Uber. Being a bit tired from the long day I went back to my room to give myself ample time to recover as a small group of us were scheduled to have lunch at the Eiffel Tower. Which we did, and it was fabulous.

Once again, I need to thank my agents Nick Salvi and Amy Hollar for negotiating my deal with Dave Briggs for this special edition of Backstretch. While technically not my sponsors for this column, I did have a chance to see Hunterton Farms' Steve and Cindy Stewart in my Sunday travels at Vincennes as they were seated on the main level of the dining room.

And it's as if this column writes itself as our van driver on the way back from Vincennes on Sunday had to stop for gas. With Henrik's help, the conversion pretty much translates to more than $7 a gallon. That's a lot more than the $2.59 I paid before leaving for this trip.

Until we meet again, hopefully in the fall in Lexington, let me once again say thanks for reading.

EUROPEAN REPORT

with THOMAS HEDLUND

Rain, drama and a masterclass from Nivard in a thrilling Prix d'Amérique

Hokkaido Jiel, a 37-1 longshot, gave driver Franck Nivard his sixth victory in France's biggest race after he narrowly defeated a sea of horses at the wire in Paris.

by Thomas Hedlund

It started under sunny skies, but rain soon took over the stage as the $1,100,000 Prix d'Amérique was contested at Vincennes in Paris on Sunday afternoon (Jan. 25). The build-up was complete. Warm-ups were over, and even there the contenders seemed to compete over who made the most commanding impression.

Ahead of the race, I questioned why Iroise de la Noe was expected to be so heavily backed by bettors – and after watching her warm up, I immediately regretted that question. The chestnut mare looked sensational for Eric Raffin, but as we know, warm-ups and race are two very different things. Iroise de la Noe was eliminated early, breaking stride after just 300 meters.

Gerard Forni

Hokkaido Jiel (Franck Nivard) found a seam along the rail and held off a wall of horses to win the Prix d'Amérique on Sunday at Vincennes in Paris.

A week earlier, Franck Nivard did not have a drive in the Prix d'Amérique. But when owner Jean Luck and trainer Jean-Luc Dersoir suddenly found themselves without a driver behind Hokkaido Jiel, Nivard was asked to step in.

And, as the master of tight situations that he is, Nivard once again found the right path to victory and recorded his sixth career win in the Prix d'Amérique. This edition turned into one of the most thrilling renewals of the race in recent memory, at least by 21st-century standards.

Francesco Zet fired off the gate for Benjamin Rochard and took the lead without undue pressure. But Mathieu Mottier was unhappy sitting three-wide with Epic Kronos while Keep Going was first-over. Rochard chose to yield, allowing Keep Going to take over the lead after 800 meters.

Epic Kronos was left first-over in the second lane, and as Paul-Philippe Ploquin was on his way to challenge for the front, Kocstel du Dain joined the fray. Ploquin, always razor-sharp, refused to be drawn into a trap. He stayed put in the second lane behind the Redén runner, letting Josh Power slide up to first-over while Kocstel du Dain briefly took command.

But only momentarily.

With 1,100 meters to go, Romain Derieux launched Go On Boy in a violent move that carried him straight to the lead. At that point, Josh Power was parked first-over, with Epic Kronos perfectly positioned on his back.

Inmarosa was tasked with the thankless job of grinding three-wide for Léo Abrivard, with Frank Gio, Immortal Doc, and Harmony du Rabutin tracking behind. Midway through the final

Adam Ström staltz

connections in the Prix
d'Amérique winner's

turn, Inmarosa waved the white flag, Josh Power latched onto Go On Boy, and suddenly the seam opened for Epic Kronos.

What followed down the stretch was almost surreal.

Horses were charging in every lane, seemingly all with a chance. When Go On Boy broke stride in resignation mid-stretch, Nivard and Hokkaido Jiel suddenly appeared along the rail. With Koctel du Dain fading 500 meters from home, Nivard – alone among the drivers – was able to drop to the inside and simply guide Hokkaido Jiel straight to the wire.

Victory came narrowly, in a mile rate of 1:54.4 over 2,700 meters. Hokkaido Jiel was sent off at 37-1.

Watch the race replay here.

Josh Power held bravely for second, just ahead of Epic Kronos, Frank Gio, and Harmony du Rabutin, the latter disqualified for a late break.

Epic Kronos finished third, with Frank Gio a nose back in fourth ahead of Just Love You. Immortal Doc closed strongly for sixth, while the performance everyone will be talking about afterward belongs to Francesco Zet – dragged to the back in the final turn, yet somehow right behind the leaders at the finish after a truly astonishing stretch run from the Father Patrick colt.

Nivard has now won the Prix d'Amérique with Meaulnes du Corta (2009), Ready Cash (2011, 2012), and Bold Eagle (2016, 2017) – and with this victory, he once again cemented his place among the legends of the race.

LONGSHOTS STEAL THE SHOW IN SATURDAY'S FEATURE RACES

Several household names were entered on Saturday's (Jan. 24) card at Vincennes, but it was the outsiders who ended up stealing the spotlight from the headline favorites.

That said, 5-year-old Liberte de Choisel was no upset winner in the prestigious $330,000 Prix Bold Eagle, as she went wire-to-wire from 1,900 meters out.

Driven confidently by Anthony Barrier, the Sylvain Dupont-trained mare marched to the front after 800 meters, taking over from Phantom Express, and was never seriously threatened thereafter.

Well-regarded Lombok Jiel put in a strong effort first-over without quite getting to the leader, while favorite Liza Josselyn lacked her usual punch from the second-over position with Nicolas Bazire.

Liberte de Choisel held firm to score in a 1:56 mile rate over 2,700 meters, with Lombok Jiel and Liza Josselyn filling out the placings.

A true bomb landed in the $330,000 Group 1 Prix Ourasi for 4-year-olds, as Maestro Vrie delivered a stunning upset after finding room along the rail in the stretch when leader Magic Night drifted outward.

Mathieu Mottier had Maestro Vrie positioned second-over into the final turn, then tipped inside turning for home. Once the rail opened, the Louis Baudron trainee surged through to score decisively at 42-1, stopping the clock in 1:57.1 over 2,700 meters.

Guglielmo Jet finished a game second on the same time after a wide rally on the far turn, while Magic Night held third after setting the pace. Heavy favorite Golden Gio made an early break, and second choice Ginostrabliggi also went off stride while tracking the leader in the final turn.

Another massive price came in the $165,000 Prix Paul Viel, where Belgian-bred Us Darby unleashed a furious late rally for Christophe Martens, returning 50-1.

At the top of the stretch, favorite Nob Hill had taken command from Nuevo Cash, but Us Darby was flying widest of all and nailed them late to win in a 1:58.4 mile rate over 2,700 meters. Nob Hill was second on equal time, with Nuevo Cash third.

Trained by Vincent Martens, Us Darby was making his second start of the year after finishing fourth in the Prix Maurice de Gheest, where he had several of Saturday's rivals in front of him.

There were no surprises in the $165,000 Prix Roquepine, as Normandie Niemen proved far too good for her rivals. Trained by Philippe Allaire and driven by David Thomain, the 3-year-old filly controlled matters from the front, steadily increasing the tempo down the backstretch.

When Thomain asked for more turning for home, no one could respond, and Normandie Niemen drew off with ease in 1:58.2 over 2,700 meters.

Nord Americaine finished second from the pocket, with Nymphe d'Elle third after tracking the leader. Favorite Nocive du Choquel was parked first-over but retreated in the final turn and finished out of the money.

The older elite – many of them horses that failed to qualify for the Prix d'Amérique—clashed in the traditional $110,000 Prix du Luxembourg, where Executiv Ek narrowly denied a courageous Horchestro.

Executiv Ek and Alessandro Gocciadoro fired off the gate, but yielded early to Horchestro and Eric Raffin, who carved out blistering fractions – :52.3 for the first 800 meters and 1:22.1 at 1,200 meters.

The pocket opened late, and Executiv Ek shot through inside the final 200 meters, catching Horchestro right on the line to win in a new stakes record 1:52.4 mile rate over 2,100 meters. Horchestro was timed the same in defeat, while Hulyse Digeo closed for third in 1:53.2.

HARNESS RACING PRESS RELEASES, NOTES & ANNOUNCEMENTS

Meadowlands cancels weekend racing due to cold

Due to extremely low and potentially hazardous cold temperatures forecast for the Garden State this weekend, The Meadowlands is canceling live racing for today (Jan. 30), Saturday (Jan. 31), and Sunday (Feb. 1).

Qualifiers, scheduled for Saturday at 4 p.m., are also canceled.

"I spoke with Mark Ford, president of the SBOANJ, at length today regarding the weather," said Big M chief operating officer/general manager Jason Settlemoir. "Many of the horsemen expressed to Ford their concern with the negative temperatures our area would be feeling. Both the track and the SBOANJ want to ensure the health and wellness of our horsemen, women, and equine athletes. Based upon the feedback we were receiving, the decision was made to cancel live racing."

The Meadowlands, the FanDuel Sportsbook, and Winners Bayonne will remain open for simulcasting and sports wagering.

When racing resumes next Friday (Feb. 6), there will be a $7,802 Pick 6 carryover. As always, check The Meadowlands' website, playmeadowlands.com, for all racing, dining, event, and wagering information.

Western Montana dies at 22

Writing these soliloquies is never easy, but this one comes harder than others. Hall of Fame broodmare and matriarch of Diamond Creek, Western Montana, has passed away. No words can really fully encompass the impact "Montana" has had on Diamond Creek, but we tried our best in a letter to her.

You were truly one of a kind. From the very beginning, you made it clear that you would always do things your way – and in doing so, you left an imprint that will never fade. You challenged everyone around you to rise to a higher standard of horsemanship, patience, and understanding. Those challenges became lessons, and those lessons became part of who we are.

You were integral to the growth and success of Diamond Creek Farm. Through your strength, presence, and remarkable ability to pass on quality, you helped shape generations of stallions, racehorses, broodmares, and foals. Your influence extends far beyond pedigrees or records; it lives on in the standards we uphold, the decisions we make, and the confidence with which we look toward the future. You arrived before the farm had a history – before there was momentum, before success was assured – and what followed helped define who we would become.

Your legacy is extraordinary. Time and again, your descendants have carried forward your substance, your determination, and your unmistakable character. Few mares leave such a lasting mark on both a farm and the people behind it. You taught us how to breed with purpose, how to be patient, and how to recognize true value long before it becomes obvious to the world.

You were never ordinary, never easy, and you will never be forgotten. You are the cornerstone because you helped build something enduring – something strong, respected, and meaningful. Success in this business is never built overnight, and it is never built alone.

Thank you, Western Montana, for everything you gave – and for everything you continue to give through the generations that follow.

Woodbine releases details for 2026 Mohawk Million

Woodbine Entertainment is now accepting entries to purchase a slot in the 2026 Mohawk Million (G1) at Woodbine Mohawk Park.

The price to purchase a slot in this year's Mohawk Million has been increased from $50,000 to $60,000 (CAD). A total of 10 slots (each priced at $60,000) are available once again.

The Mohawk Million for 2-year-old trotters is scheduled for Sept. 26 at Woodbine Mohawk Park.

The deadline to submit a slot purchase contract for the Mohawk Million is Tuesday (Feb. 17). The contract must be accompanied by $30,000.

Should more than 10 parties submit to purchase a slot, a draw will be held to determine the 10 slot owners. Those selected in the draw will then have until June 1 to submit the remaining $30,000 of the slot fee.

Each slot is an entity that may be sold, traded or leased. Slot owners must declare a horse to race in their slot by Sept. 21 at noon.

The conditions for the Mohawk Million will again limit an owner and/or trainer to declaring a maximum of three horses to the event.

Any interested parties or those seeking more information on the Mohawk Million can contact Bill McLinchey, vice president of standardbred racing, at bmclinchey@woodbine.com.

Dan Patch weekend room deadline Jan. 30

The U.S. Harness Writers Association's (USHWA) annual Dan Patch Awards banquet, presented by Caesars Entertainment, is set for Sunday night (Feb. 22), at Rosen Shingle Creek in Orlando, FL. The deadline to make room reservations is today (Jan. 30), and can be made by using the USHWA link to the hotel's reservations page.

The Dan Patch Awards banquet annually honors the best and brightest performers, both human and equine, of the previous season. The award winners are selected by USHWA, with all winners already having been announced except for Pacer of the Year, Trotter of the Year, and Horse of the Year, which will be revealed the night of the banquet.

There will also be a two-hour Diamond Creek Farm outdoor welcome reception on Saturday night (Feb. 21), with the second half featuring country singer Mitch Rossell, presented by Team Beau Jangles. Also, USHWA will hold its annual directors' meeting on Saturday (Feb. 21), and its general membership meeting the morning of the banquet.

Tickets for the Dan Patch Awards banquet are $230. There is also a reduced-priced menu option for children 12 and under. Dinner tickets can be ordered until Feb. 16 by contacting Judy Davis-Wilson at zoe8874@aol.com or 302-359-3630 or Elizabeth Lewis-House at elizabeth.lewis.house@winbakfarm.com or 409-707-2915. Click here for an order form.

All standard rooms under the USHWA block are $209 nightly (plus applicable taxes). For room reservations, please click here for USHWA's dedicated hotel link. After the Jan. 30 deadline, attendees must contact Rosen Shingle Creek directly at 866-996-6338 or 407-996-6338 and ask for the Dan Patch rate.

Also, the deadline to place an ad in the Dan Patch Awards Journal is today (Jan. 30). Contact Kim Rinker at trotrink@aol.com.

Bulldog Hanover, Cattlewash breedings featured in New Vocations stallion auction Feb. 3-5

Breedings to Bulldog Hanover, Cattlewash, and Muscle Hill will be offered as no guarantee in New Vocations' 28th annual stallion auction, held via onGait.com from Feb. 3-5. All other breedings, including closed-book Summa Cum Laude, will be sold on a live foal basis. These include Greenshoe, JK Endofanera, Rebuff, Stay Hungry, Bettor's Wish, Volume Eight, and Tall Dark Stranger. Mares must be optimal breeding candidates and are subject to approval.

"The stallion auction is crucial to funding our standardbred division," said New Vocations founder Dot Morgan. "We are incredibly grateful to the breeders who have generously supported it over the years."

Additional breedings may be added to the auction through Monday (Feb. 2). Any unsold breedings and post-auction donations will be offered throughout the season. All proceeds support the rehabilitation, transitional training, and adoption of retired standardbred racehorses and broodmares.
