David Miller breaks purse record Wednesday at Miami Valley

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

Brad Conrad

On Wednesday, David Miller became the leading money-winning driver in North American history after finishing third with My Next Chapter at Miami Valley.

Ohio

David Miller on Wednesday (Feb. 11) at Miami Valley Raceway became harness racing's all-time leading driver for North American purses, topping the previous record of $299.89 million established by Hall of Famer John Campbell, who retired in 2017.

Miller entered the day needing $2,895 to eclipse Campbell's mark. Miller broke the record when trotter My Next Chapter finished third in the second race on Wednesday, pushing Miller's purse earnings $1,066 ahead, at $299,893,207.

"It means quite a bit," Miller said in an interview with the USTA's Wendy Ross on Tuesday (Feb. 10) as he reflected on approaching the record. "It's quite an accomplishment. I never would have dreamt I would be in this situation.

"It's very fulfilling. It's a big milestone and I'm proud to do it."

Campbell, now the president/chief executive officer of the Hambletonian Society, congratulated Miller in a video message after the race.

"I've always had tremendous respect for you as a driver, a person, and a friend," Campbell said. "Here's to many more millions for you David. Congrats."

The 61-year-old Miller, who was inducted into the Harness Racing Hall of Fame in 2014, got his first career win in 1981. The Columbus, OH, native finished that year with four victories and $1,891 in purses.

Miller driving My Next Chapter at Miami Valley on Wednesday, the horse that made the driver the leading money-winning driver in North American history, surpassing John Campbell.

After a string of six top-25 finishes in the North American purse standings from 1993-98, Miller moved to the East Coast and finished in the top five in 25 of the ensuing 27 seasons before returning to Ohio at the end of last year. He has topped $10 million in purses in a season a record 18 times, including in 2003, when he guided Horse of the Year No Pan Intended to the Pacing Triple Crown and finished the campaign with a North American-leading $11.49 million.

"It makes it special," Miller said about being back home in Ohio. "Twenty minutes up the road was the track I started out at. To break it here, it's pretty sweet."

Miller, who entered Wednesday with nearly 14,900 lifetime wins, ranking No. 5 among all drivers in North American history, has been honored by the U.S. Harness Writers Association as its Driver of the Year on three occasions: 2003, 2015, and 2016.

Among his numerous career highlights, Miller has won the Little Brown Jug five times, tied for the most in history; and captured 30 Breeders Crown finals, tied for third best in the series.

"I've been blessed so much," Miller said. "I've been very fortunate. I couldn't be happier with the way things went in my career."

Twin Spires resumes accepting ADW players in Texas

by Bob Duff

For Twin Spires, the battle was all about keeping a door from closing. Little did they know that they'd be opening up another potentially lucrative door in the process.

This month, Twin Spires is once again accepting ADW customers in Texas. It's the first time that's happened since a September 2013 court ruling led to Twin Spires exiting the Lone Star State.

Horse-racing bettors in Texas can thank Michigan for this newfound opportunity to place bets on horse racing from around the world via the internet.

A year-long court battle in Michigan was designed to prevent the Michigan Gaming Control Board (MGCB) from shuttering advance deposit wagering on horse racing in the state. The argument from the MGCB was that when Northville Downs ceased live racing in 2024, it left Michigan without any live racing in the state. According to Michigan horse racing rules, ADW could only be offered in conjunction with a track offering a live racing product.

A suit filed by Twin Spires in United States District Court, Western District of Michigan, Southern Division, argued that the MGCB was violating the United States Constitution through their enforcement of licensing provisions in the Michigan Horse Racing Law.

Lawyers for TwinSpires claimed that the federal Interstate Horseracing Act preempts the state law's requirement to partner with in-state institutions, and that this requirement conflicts with the exclusive powers of the U.S. Congress over interstate commerce.

Twin Spires was awarded a temporary injunction, and when the MGCB appealed the ruling, Chief District Judge Hala Y. Jarbou sided with Twin Spires, making the temporary injunction permanent.

The argument put forth by Judge Jarbou in ruling in favor of Twin Spires is that with ADW wagers, the hub that is the site at which the online wagers are placed, is considered to be the state in which the wagering is regulated. In this instance, those states are North Dakota and Oregon.

In making this ruling, the judge also created an opening for Twin Spires to reenter the Texas market.

> There's been no public announcement that [Twin Spires] are now taking customers from the Lone Star State. However, if you contact a Twin Spires account representative, they will confirm that Texas is now a market in which they offer their ADW services.

TEXAS WITHOUT ADW SINCE 2013

Twin Spires ceased to offer ADW wagering in Texas on Sept. 24, 2013, after the Texas Racing Commission (TRC) began enforcing a state law requiring all wagering on horse races by Texas residents to be placed in person. This law went into effect in Texas in 1986. It was amended in 2011 to include all forms of telephone and online wagering.

In 2012, the TRC issued a subpoena to Twin Spires, ordering that its ADW operation be shut down in Texas. The following year, a lawsuit filed by Twin Spires in Texas failed to convince a judge that they had a right to offer ADW wagering in the state. At that juncture, Twin Spires ceased to offer ADW wagering in Texas.

Texas doesn't allow any form of online gambling in the state. Several attempts to legalize online gambling in Texas have met with failure in the state legislature.

Judge Jarbou's ruling trumped the TRC's regulation demanding in-person wagering. She ruled that Michigan has no right to regulate interstate wagering because federal law always overrides state law.

"If a state decides to allow pari-mutuel wagering, it cannot invade the Interstate Horseracing Act's exclusive regulatory scheme for accepting interstate off-track wagers," reads Jarbou's ruling. "Once a state decides that pari-mutuel wagering is permissible within its borders, the federal field covers interstate off-track pari-mutuel wagers in that state."

The same legal precedent could then be applied in Texas.

The reason why Texas is such an attractive market is twofold. Firstly, there is a thriving live horse racing product active in the state, so there are already plenty of horseplayers. Secondly, the 31.7 million people who reside in Texas make it the second-most populous state in the union.

Twin Spires is now offering the opportunity for Texas customers to sign up and access internet wagering on more than 300 tracks.

Twin Spires is undertaking this action in Texas on the down low. There's been no public announcement that they are now taking customers from the Lone Star State. However, if you contact a Twin Spires account representative, they will confirm that Texas is now a market in which they offer their ADW services.

As well, Texas horseplayers have been posting on social media sites that they are no longer blocked from opening an account with Twin Spires.

It's unclear at this stage whether Texas lawmakers are preparing to renew their previous battle with Twin Spires over the legality of ADW. Notably, unlike the majority of U.S. states, Texas has stayed quiet on the status of sweepstakes casinos and prediction markets operating in the state.

Attorneys general in many states have issued cease-and-desist orders to operators of sweepstakes casinos and prediction market sites, seeking to have them exit the state.

Perhaps Texas is looking at the Michigan ruling and accepting that this is a fight that they cannot win.

MEADOWLANDS MATTERS

Lillie Brown is unsung no more

by Debbie Little

One word rarely used to describe Lillie Brown is speechless, but that's exactly what she was when she found out that she was chosen to receive the 2025 LeeAnne Pooler Unsung Hero Award.

In fact, when she got the voicemail from Michael Carter, president of the U.S. Harness Writers Association (USHWA), she thought it was a scam.

"I was like, I don't know who this is, and he doesn't know me, so, you know, I just deleted it," Brown said. "I had no idea."

According to Brown, in that deleted voicemail, Carter did not say why he was calling, just that he wanted her to call him back.

It was David Reid, president of Preferred Equine, for whom Brown has worked since 1999, that convinced her she needed to call Carter back.

Brown said Reid did not prepare her for the news she would receive from Carter.

"Michael Carter said, 'Well, you have been chosen as the Unsung Hero.' I was like, 'Excuse me?'

"It's a rare occasion that I am speechless, but I was totally speechless. I didn't even know I had been nominated or anything. And it just came as a complete shock. So, I said, 'Why?' and he started laughing."

Brown said that Carter read her part of the submission letter nominating her for Unsung Hero.

> "Honest to God, it filled my heart with joy, just to know that I was really thought of in that manner; that people really appreciate what I do. And it still gives me goosebumps to even think about it, because I've been doing this for so long, and it just never entered my mind about being an Unsung Hero. I'm still in awe, I really am."

Lillie Brown and Preferred's David Reid.

"Honest to God, it filled my heart with joy, just to know that I was really thought of in that manner; that people really appreciate what I do," Brown said. "And it still gives me goosebumps to even think about it, because I've been doing this for so long, and it just never entered my mind about being an Unsung Hero. I'm still in awe, I really am."

After working for 12 years in the publicity department at The Meadowlands (from 1987-99), Brown joined Reid and his partner, Geoff Stein, at Preferred Equine.

Although Reid had nothing to do with nominating Brown for Unsung Hero, he said he can understand why the three USHWA chapters that nominated her chose to do so, especially since Brown was a finalist for the Unsung Hero Award in 2024 that deservingly went to the United States Trotting Association's (USTA) Anne Chunko.

"I've dealt with Anne at the USTA for a long, long time, and she was a worthy winner," Reid said. "Obviously, our history with Lillie has been for a long time as well. I've seen what she's done not only for customers of Preferred Equine, but I saw her do it at The Meadowlands in the publicity department before she transitioned over to Geoff and myself at Preferred.

"She does a lot of things behind the scenes that people probably don't even realize she does, that helped Preferred Equine be successful. So, I'm a little biased, because with Anne at the USTA and Lillie at Preferred Equine, I've had a firsthand look at their contribution to the industry that does go unrecognized and thus the Unsung Hero Award."

Brown stepped down from her full-time gig at Preferred Equine — where she became affectionately known in the industry as "Sales Office Lillie" — in 2018 during her second bout with cancer, but to this day, she remains an important part of the team.

"She's got a lovely soul, she's got a beautiful personality, very caring individual, very family oriented, and very committed to her work when she's with us," Reid said of Brown. "She's been a blessing to have in our life... and she's still an integral part of the Preferred family, for sure."

Reid is not the only one in the industry who feels blessed to be associated with Brown.

"She is a beautiful lady, always smiling and gives me a big hug every time she sees me with a Perrier in her hand," said owner Ken Jacobs, who has known Brown for 25 years. "I can't wait to see her at all the yearling sales. She is special."

Bob "Hollywood" Heyden was already working at The Meadowlands when Brown joined the staff.

"I've known her since 1987," Heyden said. "She's a very good person, principled, a no-nonsense type... I'm so happy she transitioned from The Meadowlands to Preferred. Her people skills and comfort level in the industry was put to good use working with David Reid and Geoff Stein."

Brown said she will do her best to keep it together when accepting her award, but when it comes to talking about Reid and Stein, that might be difficult.

As with other Dan Patch honorees, Brown has been asked to keep her speech to 90 seconds, which shouldn't be a problem she said because she's planning to be a team player since Reid will also be honored that night for being elected to the Hall of Fame in Goshen, NY.

"I will be cutting mine shorter so Dave will have that little extra time that he needs," Brown said, adding with a laugh, "I'll just slide right out, and the rest of this time is the Dave Reid moment.

"I don't want to get emotional, because I will cry when I start talking about Dave and Geoff, and our relationships, so I'm just going to limit it.

"I'm just so thrilled and amazed that I am actually going to be there as an honoree. I would have been honored for the nomination even without winning just to know that people were thinking of me… a thing like this, it really touches my heart."

Reid, who will be inducted into the Hall of Fame on July 5, joining Stein, who went in as an Immortal in 2021, said it's more special for him to be recognized at the Dan Patch Awards that are also honoring Brown.

"There are plenty of nominees, I'm sure that are in her category, but I'm thrilled to see she's being recognized," Reid said. "And it's not about me, it's about her, but going into the Hall of Fame, and Geoff, going in as an Immortal of the Hall of Fame, and representing so many Hall of Fame people with Preferred Equine, is a testament to Lillie Brown, who's been part of our organization — and there have been other people that have contributed as well — but she was a very, very big part of Preferred Equine's success over a long amount of years. And a lot of the credit has to go to her for sure."

with JOHN BERRY

Is pari-mutuel betting becoming a bit obsolete?

by John Berry

Betting on the outcome of a horse race has been around for thousands of years with proof going back as many as 5,000 years, with dice found in an Egyptian tomb.

There was betting at the Olympic Games around 2,500-3,000 years ago in Ancient Greece and was conducted in Ancient Rome spreading into China and the Middle East.

The "modern" era of betting was in the 17th and 18th centuries with England's Newmarket becoming the center of English racing.

This was an era where bookmakers first appeared offering fixed odds, instead of simple matched wagers.

As racing exploded in popularity in the 19th century, the racing scene was dominated with match races pitting one steed against another and tracks — some, eventually becoming iconic — emerging, some examples being Saratoga, Belmont, Pimlico, and Churchill Downs.

During the 1860s, Frenchman Joseph Oller invented pari-mutuel betting, which began to take the place of bookmakers.

Pari-mutuel betting was introduced in the United States in the 1870s — Jerome Park in 1871 and Churchill Downs in 1878 — but it took some 40 years when the totalizator came into play.

Actually, after legalization in Kentucky, the 1908 Kentucky Derby used machines, in essence to save the sport from scandal.

In 1913, George Julius, an engineer from Australia, invented the tote system, which, of course, automated the calculations, which were, initially, used in New Zealand.

In 1927, the tote system came to Arlington Park and, from there, expanded.

That system insured reliable calculated payoffs to winners, as well as tax revenue for the many states that offer pari-mutuel racing.

But times have changed, and many of our BDHC (Broken Down Horseplayers Club) members have noticed it and are complaining about things, compared to when the tracks were packed with fans with only win, place, show, and a daily double to kick things off with the occasional quinella and exacta mixed in the betting menu.

> "I am one guy that has seen a bet of, even, $20 knock a horse's odds down from 5-1 to 8-5 in the last flash... To lock in a price early off, maybe, a big morning line, would be great for us bettors, especially at the smaller handle places."
> ~ Billy The Drummer

Longtime player Smitty, a longtime retired school principal from the Midwest, offered his assessment saying, "The win pools were healthy back then and a bet of, even, $50 or $100 would hardly budge the [odds] board at Roosevelt, Yonkers, and Hollywood Park; Chicago, too.

"Today, I hear about times when a horse is 15-1 a minute from post time and the last [odds] flash after the bell [the start of the race], it's 6-1.

"The [win] pools at most other tracks have become so weak that any sizable bet can destroy the odds."

Smitty has a point, but there's another side of this coin.

It is true that there are only a handful of tracks left that have enough of a win pool to support any sizable wager — The Meadowlands, Woodbine Mohawk Park, and Indiana's Hoosier Park among them — but, as Chi-town Phil retorted back, "Whenever a horse goes from [odds of] 15 to 6 on the board, the other horses' odds tend to go up, so it all depends on which side of the fence you are on; someone always wins.

"I made a bet — just $10, so, not a big one — and when one horse got 'hit' in the final flash, mine went up from 9-2 to 5-1, so it actually helped me because my horse won."

BDHC member Slats said, "Everybody is looking for the big score and the tris [trifectas] and supers [superfectas] provide the chance to do that.

> "Today, I hear about times when a horse is 15-1 a minute from post time and the last [odds] flash after the bell [the start of the race], it's 6-1. The [win] pools at most other tracks have become so weak that any sizable bet can destroy the odds."
> ~ Smitty

"It's like a lottery at the track and guaranteed pools feed that chance to chase them."

But Freddie Haazaa said the exotics have "stretched the other pools way too thin and that's why the value on the normal win pools have become so weak.

"The tracks want you to chase these because the payoffs can become headlines, while a $4.20 win ticket doesn't get anything."

But longtime BDHC member Luke said that anytime an exotic wager comes into play, the "churn money lost is substantial."

An example of this would be if there is a pentafecta with a guaranteed pool of, say, $20,000 and the takeout is reduced to 12 per cent or 15 per cent and the wagering covers the guarantee, the number of winners will, of course, be low sharing that $17,000 net pool and that is $17,000 of churn coming off the following races.

Yes, the few winner's may bet a bit more — and maybe take their new found fortunes and run like bandits — but the simple win bets keep the money flowing much further.

But Adolph A. retorts, "You can't blame it all on the multi-horse races.

"Heck, if a 15-1 shot wins in a race, a lot of that money going to a $32 winner takes churn money away, too.

"It won't affect as many bettors, but chalk keeps people alive in this game."

Adolph had valid points, so there has to be a better solution.

Stan The Pinochle Man thinks that solution is in fixed odds.

"I think that's where we might be headed," he said, "or should be!" Fixed odds betting is a situation where the odds are locked in at the time of the wager, which ensures the potential payoff of the winner.

It has become common in sports betting these days and the winning bettor is paid based on the time of the wager — regardless of late fluctuations.

Just as there are lines or odds set when the betting opens, those odds are also adjusted — sometimes in a few seconds — but those that have captured the opening odds are protected from those changes.

Stan brought us back in time remembering, "At Sportsman's Park, they had betting windows with lines that were long, especially for the $2 bettor and it took the teller several seconds to make a trifecta ticket when they were first available way back in the [19]70s.

"But there were always a few books [bookies] in the stands and they'd give us fixed odds.

"So, we'd get something in at 5-1 — locked in — and we still had the option of making another bet if we wanted, sometimes at higher odds and sometimes at adjusted lower odds but we were locked in on all of them.

"I usually bet $20 so, if I was in [guaranteed] at 6-1 and the winner paid, say, $14.60, he'd give me the $140 and keep the $6 for booking the bet.

"If I lost, he had the $20 in his pocket."

Billy The Drummer chimed in with his thoughts on the smaller tracks benefiting from fixed odds saying, "Being from the great State of Kentucky, we have some of the best racing in the country and a lot of great horses come here. In fact, there are times that the purses are much more than the betting.

"I am one guy that has seen a bet of, even, $20 knock a horse's odds down from 5-1 to 8-5 in the last flash.

"Of course, my bet wasn't the only one, but along with others, it would knock the hell out of the price.

"To lock in a price early off, maybe, a big morning line, would be great for us bettors, especially at the smaller handle places."

Since I was a morning-line odds maker and author on the subject matter, professional morning-line odds makers would create accurate morning lines for every track with these lines available for betting when the action begins.

They would, then, as time goes, adjust those up or down until the bell, when the betting would end, with everyone locked in as frequently as necessary as betting progresses – the same way that the odds change in sports betting or any type of betting, whether it be politics or economic issues on which the public can wager today, i.e., picking a winner, point spreads, or futures.

So, instead of the pool volume, fixed odds would be accepted and become set-in-stone permanent once the bet is made.

With the technology available today, fixed odds could be available with the bettor's option to make additional wagers before the bell on their phones or computers, knowing it will not change the odds on earlier bets.

None of this would even have to go through the track reducing their costs and they would get a cut of the pie as the host track, but to those who find change difficult to accept, tracks and simulcast outlets would still be available.

As Marsh The Barber said, "Since most tracks now rely on political help and casinos to fund the sport, they haven't given a damn about us players.

"I'm not so sure that racing has any real long-term future, especially when the trend seems to be letting casinos get out of their deals with tracks [decoupling] and states that support racing with funding always seem to have more important things to worry about to put racing in a bind.

"But the possibilities are endless, especially in today's AI world and we see it in just about everything in our world today, so I am hoping racing will hop on board to bring it up to our times."

So, in conclusion, simplifying a bit, pari-mutuel betting is against other bettors while fixed betting is against the house.

In this day and age, probably less than 10 per cent of wagers are made on track at the host facility while the vast majority is done through simulcasting venues, advance depositing apps on telephones, and a few OTB outlets.

The availability of fixed odds wagering could, very well, give wagering the vaccination it needs to bring itself into the modern age of racing, if there is such a thing.

Iroise de la Noe strikes back in Prix de France

by Thomas Hedlund

Thomas Levesque's mare Iroise de la Noe emerged as one of the favorites for the Prix d'Amérique three weeks ago, but with top driver Eric Raffin aboard, the big race turned into a disaster early on.

Sunday's $440,000 Prix de France (Feb. 8) therefore carried the scent of redemption for Levesque and his chestnut mare.

Connections were far from subtle in their criticism of Raffin following the Prix d'Amérique. Disappointment was understandable after the veteran reinsman made a costly early mistake, driving up into a rival's sulky shortly after the start of the prestigious event.

This time, trainer Thomas Levesque took matters into his own hands and climbed into the bike himself.

By the first turn, Levesque had already moved three-wide, and Iroise de la Noe (Tornado Bello—Pollenza de la Noe) advanced to sit parked outside leader Epic Kronos with 900 meters to go. Turning for home, the 8-year-old mare had worn down Epic Kronos and Alexandre Abrivard.

Favorite Go On Boy (Password) tried to mount a challenge in the stretch but never managed to get on even terms. Iroise de la Noe powered clear to win in a blistering 1:51.3 mile rate over 2,100 meters, equaling Idao de Tillard's stakes record from 2024.

But this was more than a race-record performance — it was the fastest mile rate ever recorded by a mare over the actual distance.

Under saddle, both Ina du Rib and Hanna des Molles have clocked 1:52 over 2,175 meters. In sulky competition, the previous benchmark belonged to Delia du Pommereux, who recorded 1:52.2 over 2,100 meters at Vincennes in both 2021 and 2023.

Daniel Redén had to settle for third and fourth with Francesco Zet (Father Patrick) and Epic Kronos (Muscle Hill), respectively. Francesco Zet never truly got into the race and had far too much ground to make up when the sprint developed. The plan is now to target next weekend's 4,000-meter Prix de Paris, a race Iroise de la Noe will skip.

L'AS DESBOIS EXPLODES LATE

A late opening was all L'As Desbois and Matthieu Abrivard needed to land the $125,000 Prix Ovide Moulinet at Vincennes on Sunday.

It looked nearly impossible for L'As Desbois (Booster Winner—Doria Desbois) when he was locked in along the rail in third on the inside. Not until deep stretch did the 5-year-old finally see daylight in the semi-classic event.

Brave Liberte de Choisel (Captain Sparrow) couldn't fend him off in the final strides but went down fighting after grinding first-over for the final 900 meters.

Favorite Lovino Bello (Village Mystic) had cover in the outer flow over the last 1,200 meters but never seriously threatened, while Liza Josselyn (Ready Cash) led for much of the way before tiring in the final 100 meters and finishing fifth. The winning time was a mile rate of 1:56 over 2,700 meters.

MAITRE JACQUES IMPRESSES FROM THE DEATH SEAT

Maitre Jacques delivered a powerhouse performance when capturing the semi-classic $125,000 Prix Ephrem Houel for 4-year-olds, winning first-over for Alexandre Abrivard in a new race record 1:52.4 mile rate over 2,100 meters.

Monzon Normand took the lead before the first turn and set a demanding tempo — the first 1,200 meters were covered in 1:22.2, with Maitre Jacques (Rolling d'Heripre—Adelie) parked on the outside.

Favorite Magic Night (Helgafell) and David Thomain launched a three-wide move with 950 meters remaining, took over in the final turn, but drifted out mid-stretch. The early exertions caught up with him, and he faded late, also surrendering ground to Midway Lady (Royal Dream) and Madrid Haufour (Real de Lou), eventually finishing fourth.

Maitre Jacques enjoyed a strong 2025 season with victories in the $220,000 Criterium des Jeunes and the semi-classic $125,000 Prix Paul Karle.

ALL OVER ONTARIO

with MATTHEW LOMON

Jason Ryan is a nomad no more

by Matthew Lomon

Jason Ryan has aced just about every test thrown his way over 18 memorable years on the Ontario harness racing circuit.

The Charlottetown, PEI native has routinely etched his name atop driving leaderboards at racetracks around the province, cementing himself as one of the sport's most reliable reinsmen.

But before he could leave home to pursue his dream of a career in the race bike, Ryan faced a test with stakes higher than anything he's ever encountered.

"As I got through high school, I wanted to pursue horses more than school work – like most of us," Ryan said. "I made a deal with my parents that if I got my grade 12, they would fly me wherever I wanted to work with horses."

With his sights set on the future, a determined Ryan did it his way.

"I called it grade 12 and a half," he said with a laugh. "I had to go back for half a year for a course or two. Once I had that final exam, my teacher knew what was on the line for me, so she marked it right away, called me and said, 'You can pack your bags, you're going somewhere.'"

While the initial plan involved heading south to Florida, Ryan, open to other possibilities, set his course for Ontario.

After arriving in Canada's most populous province at the close of 2007, a wide-eyed Ryan moved in with fellow islander and accomplished reinsman, Robert Shepherd.

The winner of nearly 4,440 races and $31 million in prizes helped Ryan settle into his new surroundings before moving on to work with several prominent horsepeople, including driver Nick Boyd, and trainers Anthony MacDonald, Herb Holland, George and Brenda Teague, and Blake MacIntosh.

Though plenty grateful for his time with all, Ryan credited MacIntosh for urging him to take his first leap.

"Blake put it in my ear that I should go to Sudbury because I had just got my license to drive," Ryan said. "I wasn't getting a whole lot of drives or anything at the time, I was just working."

Ryan had good reason to trust MacIntosh's instincts, as it was the trainer with just shy of $25 million on his resume who supplied the mare that delivered Ryan's first driving win one year prior – even if the memory is faint.

> "I was kind of like a nomad before. I was always here, there, every which way, and then I found out if you just stay at one spot, make yourself available at the spot, people will know you're there. They're more likely to start using you and relying on you. Showing up is a big thing – always being there."
> ~ Jason Ryan

"Today, I don't remember a whole lot from that race," Ryan said, adding with a laugh. "I remember Blake wasn't too high on that mare, so he said, 'You can ship, paddock, and drive her.' So, that's what I did: I shipped, paddocked, and drove her that night at Western Fair."

Sent off at 19-1, the second longest shot on the board, Northern Luck pacer Lena's Luck ($41.90) found the winner's circle with Ryan in tow on Oct. 10, 2009.

While the result may not have sat well with most handicappers, it certainly did for the East Coast kid.

"She made me happy anyway, and Blake, I'm sure," Ryan said.

Eager to continue his ascent and make a name of his own, Ryan took MacIntosh's advice to heart.

"He said, 'Why don't you go to Sudbury? It'd be a great spot for you to learn,'" Ryan said. "After that, he actually shipped me up to Sudbury with my couple of horses, and he sent me one, too. I went out on my own from there."

Ryan debuted at the now defunct Sudbury Downs on May 1, 2010, finishing fifth with his personal trainee Minniewin.

The bay daughter of Astreos—Armbrow Vow regrouped to supply Ryan's first triumph at the Chelmsford, ON oval exactly one week later.

To this day, he remains eternally grateful for Sudbury Downs and the pivotal role it played in his racing journey.

"Once I really got in at Sudbury, I felt like part of their colony and that I was on the right path," Ryan said. "The people were great and once things started rolling a bit, that's when I started to pick up catch drives in bunches instead of just one or two."

Ryan parlayed his success at Sudbury into leading driver honors in 2012.

The distinction propelled him further forward.

"Owners and trainers were starting to send me better quality horses and list me in finals down there if I didn't already have my own in it," he said. "You got a lot more work that way."

In the years that followed, Ryan continued his steady rise up the ranks, both in Ontario and abroad.

Alongside the local grassroots tour, his travel itinerary included stops at Running Aces in Minnesota, Monticello Raceway in Upstate New York, and a trip home to Charlottetown Driving Park.

"Now that I look back at it, I'd say I'm pretty well-traveled," Ryan said. "I went to Sudbury, knew very few people there, and made a name for myself. I then went to Minnesota despite never being in the [United] States before – Running Aces is still one of my favorite places that I've ever been.

"I had just missed the leading driver title the first year I was there, but I had gone to PEI for two weeks for Old Home Week to drive in the Gold Cup [& Saucer] that year.

"Then I did Monticello that winter and then went back to Minnesota because I wanted that driving title and got it in 2014."

For his efforts, the Monticello-Goshen chapter of the United States Harness Writers Association named Ryan its Rising Star Award recipient in 2014.

His stock has only soared since.

The star reinsman has exceeded 200 wins in four straight seasons, registering a career-high 244 tallies in 2024.

Ryan has generated over $1.5 million in purse earnings three times during that span, hitting a watermark of $1,851,294, also in 2024.

Reaching a new stratum, though, hasn't followed the path of his early career.

"I was kind of like a nomad before," Ryan said. "I was always here, there, every which way, and then I found out if you just stay at one spot, make yourself available at the spot, people will know you're there. They're more likely to start using you and relying on you.

"Showing up is a big thing – always being there."

The simplified approach has undoubtedly done wonders for Ryan's career.

Last June at Georgian Downs, the proven pilot crossed the 2,000-win threshold with headstrong colt That Dude.

"Dougie [trainer Doug Bowins] said the colt had some talent, but he had a little bit of an attitude problem, so just keep him quiet and go from there and everything just worked out," Ryan said.

While not initially aware the half-length score in a personal best 1:57 did the trick, Ryan wouldn't have it any other way.

"I didn't even know at the time that it was my 2,000th win," he said with a laugh. "I knew I was close, but when you get counting, that's all you can think about, and I find they don't come.

"Once I got maybe 10 to 15 away, I just didn't look again. Then I had a pretty big week or two and it just happened to work out that it was 2,000."

Whether during early mornings in the barn or while donning his signature forest green and white colors in the sulky — the same combo he first wore warming up horses for Kenny Arsenault back home — Ryan has forged a path that is uniquely his.

It hasn't always been easy. A torn anterior talofibular ligament two years ago and broken ribs last year tested him, but Ryan refused to be slowed.

Having already upheld his end of the deal made with his parents decades ago, Ryan remains driven to achieve even more.

"Last year, I was really, really happy with my overall year, especially after being out for an extended period," he said. "This year, it's about trying to build on it, staying busy, healthy, and hopefully the work follows.

"Keep trainers happy, grooms happy, owners happy."

Talented fields in Saturday season's opener at Pocono

Pocono Downs at Mohegan Pennsylvania starts off its 2026 season with a 1 p.m. program on Saturday (Feb. 14), and it is as solid a racing card as may have been presented during any of the previous 60 Pocono curtain raisers.

There is a $27,500 fast-class feature for seasoned veterans on both gaits. The sixth race trot is a handicap affair, with the four outermost starters in the field of seven showing a victory on their top lines. The Brodster, starting from the far outside for trainer Per Engblom, will be going for his fifth straight victory; his stablemate Ultion Face N, a wire-to-wire winner at Yonkers last Thursday, starts just inside him, and it will be interesting to see which horse Jason Bartlett, named on both and another starter in the race, will be handling.

Engblom also has a pair in the $27,500 pacing headliner. Pinny Tiger A had won five straight starts before ending his 2025 with a head defeat at the hands of Lou Hill – the other Engblom trainee, and away from the races since that Dec. 27 triumph. Pinny Tiger A opened his 2026 campaign with a rallying win in 1:50.4 at The Meadows on Jan. 31, and will start from post 3 in this seven-horse field, with Lou Hill beginning from the five slot.

The inaugural card will also feature five $15,000 divisions of the first preliminary leg of the popular Game Of Claims Pacing Series, the fields in for a base tag of $25,000 this week. Brandon Presto, the leading trainer at The Meadows, will load up a truck with six GOC series horses for an eastern invasion, and the sextet show 11 wins among their past performance lines. Paul Blumenfeld, Cory Stratton, and Darren Taneyhill will have starters from their respective barns in four of the five divisions of the GOC series, which culminates in a $35,000 Championship on Saturday (March 7).

Tuesday (Feb. 10) also was the second consecutive day that Pocono hosted qualifying races for horses prepping for this campaign; weekly qualifiers will shift to Wednesday after this week. On Tuesday, with the temperatures "balmy" as elevating from 26 degrees to 31 degrees during the session, there were three sub-1:55 times turned in, the fastest of 1:54.2 turned in by Expedited Service, one of four winners George Napolitano, Jr. drove. Mindtrip (1:54.3) and Dandy's Mercy (1:54.4) clocked the other swift clockings. On the trot, trainer Jill Roland had the fastest two winners, Te Amo Lindy (1:57.2) and Robbie Pev (1:57.4).

Both Monday's and Tuesday's qualifiers are viewable on the PHHA website, www.phha.org.

NAADA donates $2,500 to Purple Haze, disabled American veterans

The North American Amateur Drivers Association (NAADA) made a pair of donations the week of Feb. 9 to support racehorse aftercare and America's veterans.

Wanda Polisseni's Purple Haze Standardbred Adoption Program received a $2,500 donation from NAADA.

An accredited aftercare program by the Standardbred Transition Alliance, PHSAP is a 501(c)3 organization focused on retraining and rehoming standardbreds after they've retired from racing. Polisseni founded the organization, which is the only aftercare program solely dedicated to standardbreds in the state of New York, in late 2018.

NAADA also made a $2,500 donation to Disabled American Veterans (DAV), a nonprofit organization that provides resources and services to help veterans hurt in the line of duty ranging from assistance with benefits to volunteers giving free rides for medical appointments while also supporting veterans' transition back to civilian life. In 2025 alone, DAV helped veterans access nearly $30 billion in earned benefits.

"For a long time, our club has been steadfast in supporting many valuable causes including racehorse aftercare and in giving back to our service members who gave an awful lot," said Joe Faraldo, president of NAADA. "These donations are of course close to our heart. Aftercare is a vital piece of our industry's ecosystem, and some of our own club members have made the great sacrifice to serve our country. We're proud that we can continue to support these great causes."

An amateur driving club, NAADA's members compete in pursed races but do not retain the driver's share of earnings. The driver's keep typically around five per cent of purse earnings, which instead pools into various charitable donations made by the club throughout the year.

15 stallions scheduled to stand in Virginia for 2026 breeding season

The Virginia Harness Horse Association (VHHA), which added a lucrative Sired Stakes initiative to their portfolio of incentive programs in 2022, announced that 15 stallions will be standing in the state for the 2026 breeding season.

Ten trotting stallions and five pacing stallions, including several new ones, will stand at Virginia farms this year located mainly in the central and southwest part of the Commonwealth.

In the Central Virginia region, trotter Dusty Winner, based at Charlie Dunavant's Woodhill Farm in Victoria, has sired 38 starters that have earned a combined $2.9 million and include a number of former Virginia Breeder's champions. New to the mix this year is pacer Iammrbrightside N, a winner of $726,957 whose wins include a trio of Grade 3 stakes in Australia. He will stand his first season at Cristy Yoder's Farm in Nathalie along with Secular (trotter). Armed Dangerously (trotter), winner of the Fall Harvest Stakes at Yonkers as a freshman, will stand at Joe Coblentz's Farm in Nathalie. Other stallions based in that area include trotter Dancer Hall — a winner of $432,452 — at Ivan Byler's farm in Halifax, and Primo Vomo, at Memo Hershberger's farm in Crystal Hill.

Another nine stallions will stand in the Southwest portion of the state including pacers Artzina and Jeneral Patton — who are again based at Michael Viars' Farm in Pilgrim Knob. The former bankrolled $780,063 during an impressive racing career and in stud, has sired 57 starters that have earned $3.8 million. The latter bankrolled $470,404 from 29 wins. Trotter Love Hunter, who sired last year's Virginia Sire Stakes 2-Year-Old Filly Trot winner Talehia, will be based at the Cedar Bluff Farm in Jonesville. Trotter Winning Fireworks, a proven sire of 52 starters that have earned over $2.4 million, will stand at Tracy Bradshaw's TNT Racing Stable in Bland. Pacer Mr Julian will stand at the Charles Viers Farm in Pilgrim Knob and trotter Wishbone, a son of Gregory Pecs, will be based at Adam Akers' Round Mountain Stable in Bastian. The Jarrell Farm in Dugspur will also host a pair of trotters — Diplomatsaw'spanco and MB Fireworks Hall — who are both standing their first season in 2026. Finally, Neptune, who won eight different New York County Fair stakes as a freshman, will stand at Joe Chinando's Farm in Long Island, VA.

Sired Stake races will be run based on age, sex, and gait as 2- and 3-year-olds. Elimination races feature a $6,000 purse and finals go for $60,000. Sired foals are also eligible to compete in the Breeder's Fund races during the same years, which feature $8,000 eliminations and $80,000 finals.

The Sired Stakes program also offers bonus payments to stallion owners and breeders. They will each receive 15 per cent of the Sire Stakes purse winnings their foals earn in the 2- and 3-year-old preps and finals at Shenandoah Downs.

More details, contact information, and pricing for each is available at vhha.net or by calling Debbie Warnick at 443-463-0917. The Sired Stakes initiative will complement other VHHA incentive programs like Breeder›s Fund races and the Certified Residency program.

The 2026 racing schedule at Shenandoah Downs will again feature a pair of seven-week meets. The spring session will run from April 11 - May 24 and the fall meet will run from Sept. 19 – Nov. 1. Race days are Saturday and Sunday afternoons with a 1:05 p.m. post. A four-day non-wagering meet will also be conducted during the Shenandoah County Fair from Sept. 2-5. Racing applications are currently available online at shenandoahdowns.com.
