The Meadowlands will make history on Saturday night (March 7) when, for the first time, an all-female broadcast team will take to the airwaves with a celebration of International Women's Day (IWD), presented by Clinton Tractor.

Announcer Melissa Keith will be making history of her own that night, becoming the first female to call an entire Meadowlands card, while Meadow Twaddle will once again be in the co-host seat on the Sam McKee Memorial Broadcast Set, with Heather Wilder doing paddock interviews and Kiara Morgan offering her analysis on FanDuel TV. Morgan, Twaddle, and Wilder will be at those posts at The Meadowlands tonight (March 6) as well, prepping for Saturday. Keith will call four races tonight alongside the Hall of Fame voice of The Big M, Ken Warkentin.

Joining that core four will be trainer Annie Stoebe, who will be sharing content on Facebook Live to give everyone a behind-the-scenes look at Races 2 and 5, which that night will consist of all female drivers. Stoebe is no stranger to The Meadowlands TV team, as she just co-hosted again on the broadcast last Friday (Feb. 27).

International Women's Day is observed on March 8 as part of Women's History Month.

When asked about this history-making production, Keith said, "Being part of an all-female team that night is a good sign about women's progress in harness racing being recognized."

As the track announcer at Ottawa, ON's Rideau Carleton Raceway, Keith, the only full-time female harness race caller in North America, is used to being behind the mic and, in fact, called three races at The Meadowlands last year for their IWD celebration.

"Calling races at The Meadowlands is a real privilege," Keith said. "Calling an entire card is a surreal experience. This will be the first races I've called since December."

"This will be my third year at Rideau Carleton. [Former announcer] John MacMillan is being inducted into the Kingston Sports Hall of Fame this year, and he has left me big shoes to fill.

"As an intermittent announcer since 2018 at various tracks, many in the industry have helped me find those opportunities. Sugar Doyle at Western Fair, Steve Fitzsimmons at Truro Raceway, Gabe Prewitt at Pompano, Ken Warkentin and Dave Little at The Meadowlands, Ian Fleming and Jessica Carnochan at Clinton Raceway, and especially, John MacMillan and Peter Andrusek at Rideau Carleton, have all been supportive."

Co-hosting at The Big M is becoming old hat for Twaddle, who will be doing her eighth and ninth shows, respectively, this weekend.

"I feel incredibly proud to be part of an all-female team at The Meadowlands, especially on International Women's Day," Twaddle said. "The Meadowlands is such a premier stage in our sport, and to have women leading the conversation, analyzing the races, and being front and center on a night like that is really meaningful. It speaks to how far racing has come and the opportunities that are continuing to open up."

"I'm grateful to be alongside such talented, hard working women, and I hope it inspires the next generation to see that there's a place for them in this industry."

Wilder, who has conducted interviews from many venues across North America, as well as Ireland and Wales, will be making her Big M paddock debut and said she's really looking forward to this weekend.

"I can't wait, I think it's wonderful that The Meadowlands is hosting such an event, and I'm honored to be a part of it," Wilder said. "I have watched it consistently for years. I don't watch a lot of racing when we're [stabled] in Florida [for the winter], but I never miss an International Women's Day event from The Big M."

Meadow Twaddle (left) and Debbie Little will serve as co-host and host, respectively, of The Meadowlands live TV presentation Saturday night.

Wilder is a well-respected horsewoman who is currently down in Florida as part of a team with her husband, Mike Wilder, and her father, Dan Altmeyer. She is also a correspondent for Harness Racing Update's Twos In Training.

"Of course, every interview is different, but talking to horsemen and women is what I truly enjoy," Heather said. "I find that I can learn something new every day, and I gravitate towards the different ways that people go about competing in our sport. I believe that you can never know everything, and it's important to listen to everyone's point of view. There are so many different ways to get to the winner's circle, and I'm interested in all the various ways horsepeople complete those tasks and put their best product on the track."

As the paddock reporter, it will be Heather's job to interview some of the 18 women – Marie-Claude Auger, Candace Brandstatter, Doreen Dailey, Julia Eaton, Helene Engblom, Cristina Grubich, Lauren Harmon, Jackie Ingrassia, Christina Johnson, Leslie Joyce, Veronica Merton, Marianna Monaco, Shannon O'Sullivan, Tasmyn Potter, Alexandra Sarkine, Elizabeth Snyder, McKenzie Sowers, and Lauren Tritton – competing in the two IWD races, and possibly other women working in the sport. There should be no shortage of ladies for Heather to speak with on camera since, in addition to those competing that night, The Big M has quite a few in operations and as racing officials.

"These are women I am friends with, a fan of, work with, and have known for years in various career capacities," Heather said. "Two of the women that are part of the broadcast, Meadow Twaddle and Kiara Morgan, I have known since they were babies, and I'm incredibly proud and impressed by their multi-faceted careers."

As the face of FanDuel TV this weekend, Morgan will be making her Meadowlands debut remotely from her home base in Ohio.

"I love that The Meadowlands puts together this night to spotlight the women in our sport," she said. "I'm excited to be a part of it this year and represent our industry as a female, as I know it really shows the public just how much women are and can be involved in harness racing."

"I'm excited for my debut at The Big M. It's definitely a new adventure for myself as I'm normally hands-on with the horses – training, driving, in the barn – but this is giving me the opportunity to try new things in the business. I know I can take my knowledge from being on the track and transfer it to analyzing and handicapping races.”

Morgan, currently best known as a driver/trainer and daughter of respected horseman Virgil Morgan, Jr., said she is looking forward to the challenge of being an analyst for FanDuel TV.

“In my own opinion, I would have to say ultimately driving in a race is harder than talking about a race, although after sitting behind these horses so much it has become my second nature,” she said. “I’ve dedicated a lot of my life to these horses and there’s not many things I would rather do than grab the lines and sit down in the bike, and I know a lot of people can agree with me on that.

“Handicapping a race can be time consuming at times for me but that’s only because I try to research each horse as much as I can to get the best information on him/her. As with anything, I know that talking about horses in each race will become easier with time.”

Stoebe, who has quite the following on social media, said she is looking forward to sharing the excitement of the IWD races with the fans.

“I am thrilled to be involved in what could be one of the most female run events in the sport,” she said. “It’s going to be fun to give people a true live inside view of all the behind-the-scenes things that happen and all the excitement to come.”

Note: It will be my great honor to anchor the IWD broadcast as the host on set with Meadow Twaddle. I would like to thank The Meadowlands’ Jeff Gural and Jason Settlemoir for continuing to raise the bar each year and make their celebration of International Women’s Day so special.

ADVENTURES IN ILLINOIS

with NEIL MILBERT

Hawthorne bankruptcy hearings underway

by Neil Milbert

Leaders of the Illinois Harness Horsemen's Association (IHHA) are cautiously optimistic heading into the Tuesday (March 10) third round of Hawthorne Race Course bankruptcy hearings scheduled to be held before Judge Timothy Barnes in U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Illinois Eastern Division.

The hearings began with a 6½-hour session on March 3 followed by a second session the following day.

"I hope that the horsemen can be encouraged that the court is looking after them," Judge Barnes said. "I'm motivated to get the horsemen paid."

The judge believes the owners, trainers, and drivers who are owed purse money dating back to last fall qualify as a "critical vendor" as do Hawthorne's employees.

"This is a very encouraging development and an important step toward ensuring horsemen will be paid," the IHHA said on its website.

With Judge Barnes' approval Hawthorne is hoping to tap into a $16 million debtor-in-funding line of credit from the private equity lender JDI Loans.

The budget Hawthorne is proposing in bankruptcy court calls for the track to pay $1.4 million in returned checks to horsemen and another $2.4 million in unpaid purse money.

The Illinois Racing Board suspended the license of Hawthorne's Suburban Downs harness meeting on Jan. 26 as a consequence of bounced checks in December and January. This year's 14 programs at the Suburban Downs meeting that began last November all had to be cancelled.

Although both harness and thoroughbred racing are operated by the track that has been owned by the Carey family since 1909 the thoroughbred meeting is considered a separate entity by the Racing Board so it is unaffected by the Suburban Downs suspension.

Prior to the Feb. 27 bankruptcy filing it was generally believed Hawthorne had a sprinkling of creditors: members of the IHHA, the Illinois Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association (ITHA), Churchill Downs, Inc. and a few other simulcast outlets and two Chicago area contractors for 2020 demolition work on a portion of the grandstand for conversion of the track into a racino.

But the bankruptcy filing reveals that diversified creditors stretch from coast to coast and the amount they are owed is staggering.

The filing showed assets of between $50 million and $100 million and debts between $100 million and $500 million.

The track's real estate is estimated to be worth $95 million. The property and racetrack are owned by Carey Heirs Properties, LLC, 77 family members who are descendants of Thomas Carey, who bought the track in 1909 (18 years after it was built).

"Astounding!" said IHHA executive director Tony Somone, expressing the consensus after the extent of Hawthorne's indebtedness came out in bankruptcy court.

The top 20 unsecured creditors are owed in excess of $37 million, of which more than $16 million is claimed by horse racing entities.

Hawthorne's largest unsecured creditor is its former sports betting partner, Fanatics, which is owed in the neighborhood of $9 million.

Ariza Group Architects has a claim of more than $5.6 million and W.E. O'Neil Construction has one for nearly $5.1 million (that Hawthorne is disputing). Both are Chicago area firms that were employed to prepare for the proposed $44 million racino project that stalled after the teardowns.

Hawthorne also owes the Horse Racing Integrity and Safety Authority $971,208.

Included on the list of simulcast-related creditors are:

- Monarch Content Management (the Stronach group's simulcast company) claim for $7.1 million
- Roberts Communications Network (expenses related to sending and receiving simulcast signals) claim for $1.5 million
- Woodbine claim for $1.2 million

"I hope that the horsemen can be encouraged that the court is looking after them. I'm motivated to get the horsemen paid."

~ Judge Timothy Barnes

If and when the harness owners, trainers, and drivers are made whole it is expected the Racing Board will lift its Suburban Downs suspension, enabling the track to conduct its Nov. 6-Dec. 27 standardbred meeting.

- Churchill Downs, Inc. claim for $974,770
- Laurel claim for $875,287
- Caesar's claim for $750,891
- The Meadowlands claim for $590,760
- Del Mar Thoroughbred Club claim for $509,442
- New York Racing Association claim for $502,500
- Penn National claim for $491,828
- Parx Racing claim for $448,268
- Tampa Bay Downs claim for $413,079

According to Somone, the IHHA is in jeopardy of "running out of money by August or September" unless it receives the funds legally earmarked for administrative and office expense.

"It cost us $6,000 to have legal representation at the hearings," he said. "The non-payments go back to last year and the expenses keep mounting."

Hawthorne's Signature Bank account was frozen in December and January because of the bounced checks and its monthly simulcast revenue has fallen from $5 million to less than $1 million because in the last 18 months many unpaid tracks have stopped sending their signals for wagering.

Members of the ITHA also have approximately $1.6 million in purse accounts they can't access.

The start of the March 29-Nov. 1 thoroughbred meeting at the Chicago metropolitan area's only remaining track will be delayed because of the lack of funds to start the conversion of the racing surface.

Last week, Judge Barnes approved a release of funds to convert the track surface and ITHA president Chris Block anticipates the meeting will begin in early April.

If and when the harness owners, trainers, and drivers are made whole it is expected the Racing Board will lift its Suburban Downs suspension, enabling the track to conduct its Nov. 6-Dec. 27 standardbred meeting.

In addition to the thoroughbred and harness meetings, Post Time Catering, Inc. and 13 off-track betting locations in Illinois fall under Hawthorne's financial umbrellas.

Hawthorne is the only track in the state conducting pari-mutuel harness racing and is the only dual-purpose track in the U.S. Downstate Fairmount Park, across the Mississippi River from St. Louis, is limited to thoroughbred racing.

MANE ATTRACTION

with JOHN BERRY

Our BDHC brethren on the future of harness racing

by John Berry

While members of the BDHC (Broken Down Horseplayers Club) aren't particularly known for having a Harvard education, most have a "street smarts" education as their individual experiences in life over the last half century or more are worth the price of a Harvard education, itself, and maybe even more.

They all have one commonality – their love for any kind of horse racing where a $2 wager on a steed's nose keeps the heart pumping and the blood flowing.

Some of their stories are legendary – like the one about the guy who kept betting $10 daily double wheels at his favorite track with the longest shot in the first race with everything in the second race.

Of course, he lost night after night after night, until, one night, a 60-1 long-shot popped in the first race with his probable daily double payoffs announced ranging from a low of $5,300 and change to over $45,800.

About three minutes to post, with his throat drying up and needing a drink, he wandered up to get one and, just steps from the bar, collapsed.

A large crowd gathered around, along with the medics, and one person rushed up, peeked over the crowd and yelled, "Is he alive?"

The medic turned and replied, "Only in the Double."

It's a joke, folks, IT'S A JOKE!

And there are countless other tails – make that tales – that make our sport the grand and iconic one it has become over the past 200 plus years.

But what's not a joke is the crossroads at which harness racing has arrived as competition from lotteries has been joined by the proliferation of casinos, bingo halls, prop betting, bookmaking, internet gaming and, even, stock market trading.

And jai alai is making a comeback in some arenas.

But many BDHC members view the sport much differently than, say, 40-to-50 years ago when the 2:00 mile was sacred and a

“The casinos don't care one iota about the fans anymore, or the horses. They could care less about us... and I understand that the world has changed, we're getting ready to 'clock out,' and they want us replaced with the young who will sit at a slot machine and play for a few hours. I get it, but don't like it.”

– Smitty

1:50 mile was hardly on anyone's radar until Niatross broke that beam at The Red Mile in a time-trial back 45 years ago.

There is still a lot right about harness racing, but there is a lot not-so-right, as some of our BDHC brethren have brought their thoughts to light in this Mane Attraction.

One such person is Smitty, a long-time retired school principal, who has been a fan of harness racing for over 60 years.

Smitty said, "The days of sitting in the stands at Sportsman's Park 60 years ago were really great, and Roosevelt, as well. The [betting] pools were strong and provided value to us punters.

"We had an early daily double, win, place, and show betting and maybe a perfecta or quinella sprinkled in and some kind of exotic [perfecta, Big Quinella or trifecta] to lock things up.

"All the pools were really strong, $100,000 or more in the double with huge pools to wrap things up.

"Even when we traveled to New York in its heyday, we had great crowds on weekdays with the stands packed and, if I remember correctly, maybe a quinella here and there, an exacta here and there, and the big triple in the last race."

This leads to yet another point that Smitty made, "The casinos don't care one iota about the fans anymore, or the horses.

"They could care less about us... and I understand that the world has changed, we're getting ready to 'clock out,' and they want us replaced with the young who will sit at a slot machine and play for a few hours. I get it, but don't like it.

“Today, there are just too many choices and the pools are spread so thin that the only value we can find [at the track] is if a pool is guaranteed.”

~ Smitty

“Today, there are just too many choices and the pools are spread so thin that the only value we can find is if a pool is guaranteed.”

(On that point, as was succinctly pointed out by HRU editor Dave Briggs in a recent article, Gabe Prewitt was the master of that art and, also, squeezing the ultimate benefit with perfectly timed off times against all other tracks racing that evening.)

The World Wide Web has become a meeting place for those with viable ideas now that harness racing has arrived at those aforementioned crossroads with sites such as HRU considered among the elite.

As on-track attendance in harness racing has evaporated over the years, there are those that still care enough to come up with viable suggestions to keep our sport alive in print, including Briggs, Derick Givner, and Ray Paulick, as well as those that contribute their talent on the air, for harness racing, such as Dave Little, Jason Settlemaier, Heather Vitale, and Tim Bojarski; just a few of the many others.

In recent times, others like Dan Kazmaier, Tim Finley, Steve Wolf, and a few others, have aired their views, but, sadly, their views have, too, fallen on deaf ears.

Kazmaier, the presiding judge at several eastern harness racing tracks, recently made a case for “clean racing,” and why our horses should race on hay, oats, and water.

Kazmaier insists that performance enhancing drugs “tarnish the spirit of fair competition and jeopardize the very lives of the horses we cherish.”

Finley has been on a crusade on this very subject seemingly forever but the problem is two-fold – money and money.

First, with the deals that the casinos, coupled with the legislative interests formed, the purse money was just too good to pass up for the horsemen, and that’s understandable, after all, money is king.

But money, being the root of all evil, invites corruption, and that’s understandable, too, and has infiltrated our sport, to what extent, we have no idea.

In just about every walk of life, if money is involved, corruption will follow and that was the case when the casino/legislative way of life invaded the purity of our sport.

With the tote board odds exceeding the typical 99 on the board, the performance enhancing drupes (PEDs) invaded with a vengeance with a likelihood that only a small percentage would be caught handheld accountable.

And that’s what has happened, because the second problem is, also, money.

The amount of money to clean up this mess is, quite probably, incalculable, with the cost of testing, surveillance, and personnel covering our industry – on and off the track.

It doesn’t seem like the casinos care about their tracks too much, either.

They do pour in millions of dollars to spruce up the casino to the nth degree, but little is done to the backstretch areas or to welcome any new guests with an inkling to come to a track.

Oh, there are a few exceptions but, by and large, outside of Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio, not much is done to enhance one’s visit to the local racetrack, and they have their problems, too.

Over just the last year or so, the following suggestions have been made in an attempt to improve things in our sport – some trivial and some requiring huge undertaking and commitment – but none have taken a single stride forward, not one.

Among suggestions on HRU have been:

1. The “Fill It or Kill It” proposal
2. Time trials between 25 race minute intervals with prop betting (showing the horse’s true grit instead of the fastest time in a race while drafting)
3. Fixed Odds Betting (eliminating huge shifts in odds on final board updates)
4. Cut the number of races while increasing purses and number of starters enhancing pari-mutuel value and eliminating close-to-midnight post times
5. Mega-8 Jackpot featuring a $1 million jackpot
6. On-track pari-mutuel takeout reduced to same percentage as slot machines, i.e., 6 per cent-to-7 per cent
7. Futures betting on harness racing’s biggest races and prop betting on driver seasonal wins and dozens of other possibilities

8. Our own television network – 24 hours a day – covering harness racing around the world – North America, Europe, Australia, New Zealand
9. New saddle pad designs with added, padded length solving whipping problem
10. Redraws, taking the unfairness away from these rare events
11. Open draws for best drivers
12. “Doorbell” style cameras installed every 16th of a mile on pylons assisting judges during inquiries
13. Universal rules covering all U.S. tracks and, possibly Canada, as well
14. Just like March Madness, create Hambletonian Madness, Breeders Crown Madness or North America Cup Madness
15. Accelerated post times by region, i.e., an Ohio-Kentucky circuit, Ohio-Indiana, Indiana-Kentucky, New York-Massachusetts, Massachusetts-Maine, Ohio-Pennsylvania, etc., and, of course
16. A commissioner!

Wolf chimed in with the first of a six-part series on getting the young set interested in our sport, a very important item with less than 2 per cent of harness participants under the age of 25.

Finley has been fighting the fight of our equine athletes who can only “neigh” their aches and pains with some paying the ultimate price as illicit medications take a toll on their well-being as the wars of racing rage against their building fragility.

Some say we’ve made progress over the past years, but, in reality, the progress might be like taking a diseased splinter from the world’s largest tree, a giant Sequoia.

De-coupling has become, yet, a continual looming threat to our industry over the past few years – not only to harness racing, either.

Calder Race Course is history. Arlington Park is history, and, adding insult to injury, not even history is sacred anymore as stakes are being re-monikered to keep up with the times.

After the Florida fiasco, along with what has happened in Illinois, what if the casinos and their legislative “partners” get in cahoots again and rule that casinos don’t have to fund racing anymore and legislatures say they have more important things to fund?

Many track purses would suffer un-imaginable purse drops if/when this happens.

Earlier this week, at one eastern track, with total purses for the night being $145,000, the nightly handle was around $480,000, which would support total purse payments of, roughly $43,000, an average purse of $4,800 for the nine-race card.

We cannot ignore the perils of the future and the few of us old-timers that are left to fight are getting tired – in age and of seeing viable ideas falling on deaf ears or, even more inexcusably, just plain ignored.

May The Horse Be With You!

David Miller shows remarkable staying power en route to $300 million

by Brett Sturman

It's been close to three weeks since the six-day February span in which Hall of Fame driver David Miller broke fellow legendary driver John Campbell's all-time earnings record, and then subsequently surpassed the $300 million North American earnings milestone.

Now into March, Miller hasn't missed a beat. Back in his native Ohio and racing now at Miami Valley, Miller began the month on March 1 by having one of his multiple winners on the card pay $36, and then the very next day drove winners that somehow included another overlooked $35 winner. No matter age or scenery, Miller continues to exude consistency that's enabled him to earn his place as harness racing's top money earner.

Going back to 2001, which was the first time Miller posted more than $10 million in seasonal earnings, he's hit that number 18 times in the 25 years. Even the years below $10 million were still ultra-consistent with most of those years coming in at around the $9.9, $9.8, and $9.7 million ranges.

Over the past couple of years, it became inevitable that Miller would eventually reach both Campbell and $300 million but going back a few years prior I'm not sure it was such a foregone conclusion. Even as he approached the age of 60 and faced younger and fresher new competitors such as the emergence of Dexter Dunn at the end of the prior decade, Miller's performance amazingly didn't waver a bit. If there had been a drop-off even a little, who knows where he'd be today numbers-wise.

For how much longer Miller intends to go at fast and high levels remains to be seen but there hasn't been any sign yet of him slowing.

Going back to 2001, which was the first time Miller posted more than $10 million in seasonal earnings, he's hit that number 18 times in the 25 years. Even the years below $10 million were still ultra-consistent with most of those years coming in at around the $9.9, $9.8, and $9.7 million ranges.

I like using the example of Dunn. Coming to North America in 2019, he immediately changed the driving landscape and has been a top earner ever since. In that time, other drivers have seen their purse share drop naturally as a result. But not Miller.

The year of Dunn's arrival, as well as the year before, Miller was at $9.1 and $9.9 million, respectively. Excluding the pandemic year in which everyone's numbers were skewed due to fewer starts, Miller's performance increased rather than decreased in the years that followed. He went back over $10 million in three out of the next four years, just missed that mark in 2022, and his $10.9 million in 2023 was his highest since 2017, two years prior to Dunn.

Even against guys like Tim Tetrick, Miller has held his own in recent years. When all is said and done, it's quite possible and even likely that the younger Tetrick will eventually surpass $300 million himself, but Miller has done all he can to make it harder on the others chasing him.

Miller kept the earnings gap between him and Tetrick to the $4-5 million range in 2022 and 2023, and in 2024, Miller actually bested Tetrick by over a $1 million. Last year was closer too, with Miller being within $2.5 million in 2025 earnings. So far in the super early going and non-stakes portion of the year, Miller leads all North American drivers in earnings having already gone over $1 million. What will be telling is Miller's involvement in Grand Circuit racing as the year picks up.

Of course, Miller's numbers have been in part a function of the number of races he's driven in, but it hasn't been just a matter of quantity. The fact that Miller's talent and knack for getting the most out of horses hasn't diminished even slightly, is what has enabled him to still drive top quality stock.

Miller was instrumental last year in the powerhouse that Elista Hanover became and his win with her in the 2025 Hambletonian Maturity stands out as one of his more recently memorable wins. Speaking of memorable, Miller's win with T C I in the 2023 Mohawk Million when that horse rallied to win after breaking stride exemplifies Miller's craft and expertise as a reinsman.

With plenty of opportunities today in Ohio racing and possibly a nice niche for himself there even now at age 61, Miller can continue to build on his milestones.

The earnings record was a massive number both statistically and symbolically, but Miller has been steadily gaining too in the career wins department. As of this moment, Miller sits just 77 wins shy of 15,000, and once he reaches that number, would need only another 183 wins to meet Herve Filion for fourth on the all-time winning dash list. One can debate the changed structures in racing in sire stakes, purses, and overnights between when Filion drove or even more recently when Campbell drove, but Miller has seen it all and has been consistently one of the very best now throughout many decades.

For how much longer Miller intends to go at fast and high levels remains to be seen but there hasn't been any sign yet of him slowing.

Congratulations to David Miller for not only his records, but for yet what is still to come.

THE DOWN UNDER DIARY

with ADAM HAMILTON

Miracle Mile qualifiers should be epic

by Adam Hamilton

This has all the makings of the best Miracle Mile in more than a decade.

Just making the elite eight-horse field for the March 14 event will be daunting and the stars who will miss out could comfortably make-up a hot secondary race in its own right.

The change of heart from the connection of Down Under's champion pacer Leap To Fame (Bettors Delight–Lettucereason) means he will headline a mouth-watering array of contenders. Leap To Fame's older sibling Swayzee (Rock N Roll Heaven–Lettucereason), a dual New Zealand and Hunter Cup winner, will be there.

So, too, will new sensation Kingman (Always B Miki–Gotta Go Dali), winner of the Victoria and New Zealand Cups late last year, and his stablemate Don Hugo (Art Major–Cinco Amigos), who returns to try and defend his Miracle Mile crown from last year.

Former Kiwi pacer Rakero Rocket (Rock N Roll Heaven–Motu Pocket O'Jewels), the fastest southern hemisphere pacer for the past seven years, is chasing a spot, along with high-class stablemate Hi Manameisjeff (Art Major–Honour Lady). Their trainer Jason Grimson also has huge hopes for recent Kiwi import Chase A Dream (Captaintreacherous–Secret Lotion).

Then there is emerging Queensland star The Janitor (Always B Miki–Weka Lass) and proven Group 1 performer Captains Knock (Captaintreacherous–Scarlett Finn).

Given that even the greatest horses like Leap To Fame and Swayzee have to qualify to gain a Miracle Mile start, the only certain starter ahead of this weekend is the remarkable Victorian veteran Bulletproof Boy (Art Official–My Riviera Girl).

The 11-year-old stormed home from last to win last Friday night's $100,000 Group 2 Newcastle Mile, which carried the first golden ticket into the $1 million Miracle Mile.

Bulletproof Boy is trying to become the second-oldest Miracle Mile winner behind 12-year-old Double Agent in 1984.

For context, the next closest to them is former sprinting great Smoken Up, who won his second Miracle Mile as a 9-year-old in 2011.

Amazingly, considering the stellar list of contenders, it is the potential "baby" of the field who is stirring the most talk around this Miracle Mile.

Captains Mistress (Cam Hart winning the Paleface Adios) is looking to become the first 4-year-old mare to win the Miracle Mile in its 59-year history.

Captains Mistress (Captaintreacheraus—Imaginary Bet) is aiming to create history.

Since the race started in 1967, no 4-year-old mare has won it. In fact, just three mares have won, full stop. Robin Dundee was an 8-year-old in the inaugural running, Norms Daughter as a 5-year-old in 1996, and Baby Bling was also 5 in 2013.

While everything says Captains Mistress is trying to climb Mount Everest, her trainer Jason Grimson and driver Cam Hart think otherwise.

But to get her crack at the race, she has to land a golden ticket in by winning Saturday night's (March 7) $250,000 Group 1 Chariots Of Fire – Australia's premier 4-year-old race – at Menangle.

To win that, she will need to step into rarefied air. Only three other mares have beaten the boys in the Chariots. They were Innocent Eyes (2005), Oaxaca Lass (2003), and Lombo Rapida (2000).

Such has been Captains Mistress' impact in five Australian runs – for five scintillating wins – she is expected to toy with her rivals on Saturday.

Drawn ideally in gate 3, she is a $1.10 favorite (for a $1 bet). That's about as short as it gets in a feature race.

Captains Mistress' five Aussie wins have been by a remarkable aggregate of 89.2 meters.

The biggest of them was thrashing Australia's best mares in the $150,000 Group 1 Queen of the Pacific at Melton on Feb. 14 by 24.6 meters in a scorching 1:54.2 mile rate for the long 2,760-meter trip.

In the words of Hart: "She won with plenty in reserve."

On the same night Hart won the iconic Hunter Cup on stablemate Swayzee and was asked to compare the two.

"Swayzee is the most remarkable and special horse I've driven, this mare [Captains Mistress] is the most exciting," he said.

Pressed further as to whether she could have won the Hunter Cup, Hart said: "If she had the run of Republican Party (behind the leader and on Swayzee's back), she'd have won by a length."

Grimson, who could have as many as four of the eight Miracle Mile runners if results go his way in the qualifiers this week, didn't hold back when asked to rate Captains Mistress.

“All three [of mine, Don Hugo, Kingman, and Eye Keep Smiling] are right where I want them going into this week. They'll need to be because this is a heck of a charge to get a spot in the [Miracle] Mile. The strongest group I've seen for years. It was already strong enough before they decided to bring Leap To Fame down, too.”

~ Luke McCarthy

“I’m lucky to have a terrific team of horses at the moment, but [Captains Mistress is] the best of them. If she gets into the Miracle Mile, she’ll win it. I wouldn’t hesitate to run her if she got an invite. She’s that good.”

~ Jason Grimson

“I’m lucky to have a terrific team of horses at the moment, but she’s the best of them,” he said. “If she gets into the Miracle Mile, she’ll win it.

“I wouldn’t hesitate to run her if she got an invite. She’s that good.”

Ironically, Grimson’s great stayer Swayzee is the one really up against it trying to qualify for his second shot at a Miracle Mile.

He will start from the outside [gate 10] in a cracking field over a mile, which is well short of his pet distance for a stayer.

Swayzee needs a top two finish to land a golden ticket, although he could snare one of the two “discretionary” spots with a top three finish.

But can enforce himself enough from that draw in a field boasting Kingman, emerging Queensland star The Janitor, talented Kiwi pacer Pinseeker (Downbytheseaside—Nickys Power), star mare Eye Keep Smiling (Sweet Lou—Oh Eye See) and his own exciting stablemate Rakero Rocket.

While Grimson and Hart are chasing their first Miracle Mile win, champion trainer/driver Luke McCarthy has three contenders to try and build on his record driving wins in Australasia’s premier speed test.

After trying so hard to win it for so long, McCarthy has driven four of the past six winners. A record three in a row with King Of Swing (2020, ’21, and ’22) and then Don Hugo last year.

Don Hugo is back chasing a spot to defend his crown, Kingman is favored to win his qualifier, and Eye Keep Smiling is drawn well enough to push for a spot in the big dance from gate 3 in the same qualifier as Kingman.

“All three are right where I want them going into this week,” McCarthy said. “They’ll need to be because this is a heck of a charge to get a spot in the [Miracle] Mile. The strongest group I’ve seen for years.

“It was already strong enough before they decided to bring Leap To Fame down, too.

“I love the fact he’s coming. Yes, it’s another great horse for us to have to beat, but you want all the very best horses together in these great races.

“Don Hugo’s got the draw and is going at least as well as when he won [beating Leap To Fame] last year.

“Kingman has freshened up beautifully after his long stint in Melbourne. I can’t wait to get him back to Menangle where he loves it.

“And don’t be surprised if the mare [Eye Keep Smiling] runs a huge race. She just wasn’t quite herself in Melbourne, but the turnaround since coming back home has been amazing. She’s raring to go.”

The Miracle Mile is still over a week away, but this weekend is anything but the calm before the storm.

This is the storm before the storm.

And whatever the final make-up of the eight-horse Miracle Mile field, we’re in for an epic.

Jerry Riordan is leaving Sweden and returning to Italy.

There he will take on a role as private trainer for Mauro Biasuzzi, while also keeping a small number of horses in training for other owners.

"I will move soon," Riordan told Swedish media. "On March 16 I'm scheduled to be in Italy, so there's a lot to organize right now. I have always been able to return, either to Italy or to the United States. But the situation and the atmosphere in Sweden became such that I feel this is the right decision."

Riordan was recently cleared to return after serving a six-month suspension, but he has now decided to shut down his training operation at Halmstad Racetrack and relocate to Italy.

HARNESS RACING PRESS RELEASES, NOTES & ANNOUNCEMENTS

Wanda Polisseni named USTA President's Award recipient

U.S. Trotting Association president Russell Williams announced on Tuesday (March 3) that Wanda Polisseni is the recipient of the 2026 USTA President's Award.

Polisseni, an 86-year-old resident of Upstate New York, is well known for her harness racing successes on the track but perhaps even more so for her work to help ensure standardbreds find second careers after being retired. Her Purple Haze Standardbred Adoption Program, located on a 105-acre farm purchased in November 2018, has placed more than 100 former harness racehorses in well-matched new homes.

Williams will recognize Polisseni during a luncheon on Saturday (March 7) as part of the USTA board of directors' meetings (March 6-8) at the Hilton Columbus at Easton, in Columbus, OH. He said the award was in appreciation of "a lifetime of extraordinary dedication to the standardbred and to the welfare of retired racehorses.

"Through her leadership, philanthropy, and the creation of the Purple Haze Standardbred Adoption Program, Wanda has transformed countless lives, both human and equine, and exemplifies the highest level of service, compassion, and stewardship for our entire industry."

Polisseni, who got started as a harness racing horse owner 23 years ago, launched the Purple Haze Standardbred Adoption Program with the mission to rehabilitate and retrain standardbreds so they can find new opportunities in the equestrian community, as well as to offer educational and training services to those who adopt horses. The PHSAP is accredited by the Standardbred Transition Alliance.

Polisseni is unable to attend the luncheon, but Purple Haze Standardbred Adoption Program executive director Betty Holt will accept the President's Award on her behalf.

"I don't do these things looking for accolades, but I'm really very, very thankful and humbled by it," Polisseni said about being the USTA President's Award recipient. "I appreciate everybody thinking of me. I haven't done it alone, I've had help from people along the way with these horses, and I'm thankful and appreciative of them too.

"I'm proud of our organizations and what we do for our beloved equines, and I hope that as time goes by, we will grow even more. It doesn't take a lot to save a horse, it just seems like it does. It doesn't have to be hundreds of thousands of dollars. Ten dollars, $25, goes a long way. Every little bit counts. I wish everyone would think that way; we'd be so much better off."

Polisseni also was a founding supporter of the Finger Lakes Thoroughbred Adoption Program. Beyond her efforts in racing, her many philanthropic endeavors include the Polisseni Foundation, which assists Upstate New York organizations working in the areas of education, human services, and civic improvement.

"I love what I do, and I'm going to continue to do it," she said.

Polisseni's successes on the track under her Purple Haze Stables banner include Breeders Crown champion Windevie, millionaire Dejambro, Hambletonian Oaks runners-up Phaetosive and Walspea, and numerous New York Sire Stakes stars (such as 2025 NYSS 2-year-old filly trot champ Sharp Seven). The stable has ranked among the Top 50 owners in purses on multiple occasions.

"I'm 86 years old and still buying horses and racing," Polisseni said with a laugh. "It's the one thing I've done for myself. I don't have much to do with it, other than paying the bills, but I love to watch them grow and mature and become what they are, whether they are stakes horses or just overnight horses. They don't have to win for me to be happy. I just love them."

International Women's Day race set for March 8 at Woodbine Mohawk Park

Woodbine Mohawk Park will once again celebrate women in harness racing with its annual International Women's Day race on Sunday (March 8).

First introduced in 2022, the International Women's Day race features an all-women driving field.

"This event is a special opportunity to celebrate the many women who significantly contribute to our industry," said Megan Walker, director of standardbred racing operations at Woodbine Entertainment. "We are proud to keep this tradition going and look forward to another exciting race."

Previous winners of the International Women's Day race include Natasha Day (2022), Anita Ouellette (2023), Marie-Claude Auger (2023), Julie Walker (2024), and Maggie Jones (2025).

In last year's edition of the all-women driving race, Jones piloted 4-year-old trotter Veracruz to capture her first Woodbine Mohawk Park victory and ninth career win.

"I always love promoting the sport and trying to get more women involved, especially the next generation," said Jones, who has participated in the International Women's Day race every year. "Last year was incredibly special, and I'm so lucky to have had that experience and know that I can win. I'm really looking forward to seeing what happens this year."

Born and raised in the harness racing world, Jones feels comfortable in the sulky.

"My dad [Don Wilcox] had a small stable and raced at Georgian Downs, so I always kind of tagged around after him, because I loved the horses," Jones said. "I went a little bit sideways and got into show jumping and eventing, and through eventing, I learned I really liked to go fast. One day, I just asked my dad if I could do a schooler, and I did, and I loved it. I was hooked ever since."

"When I was young, there really wasn't any female representation. There was Clare MacDonald, but there was no one around here, and I remember my dad saying to me, 'you can go out there and race against the men. There's no reason why not,' but it was very rare to see a female driver."

Now teaching Sciences at Georgian College, Jones spends her weekends and summers working with her husband, trainer Keith Jones. As an occasional driver, she takes pride in being part of an event that continues to grow in impact.

"It's really nice to see it paying off, because we're starting to see some new faces and some new girls coming out and it's just wonderful to see the involvement increase," Maggie said. "I love to be someone out there trying to inspire other [women] to keep going, and to show that we can do it too."

Can 'Yankee' be stellar again?

Stellar Yankee seeks his third straight win in the weekly high-end claiming feature Saturday night (March 7) for trainer Cory Stratton and his brother, driver Jordan.

The gelded son of Always B Miki—Somethinginawater has been on a form spree for some time now, as the 8-year-old has emerged victorious in four of his last 11 starts beginning with a win at the non-winners of $2,500 level in November.

His rise in class ever since has been as steady as it's been impressive.

Stellar Yankee will depart from post 9 in the nine-horse field as the only entrant in the race sporting the maximum tag of $60,000. His career earnings are just $40,000 short of $500,000.

CARRYOVER REPORT: There were a pair of carryovers awaiting players Saturday (Feb. 28) night, and one of them took a monstrous amount of action.

The 20-cent Pick-5 sported a carryover of $26,400 that motivated players to bet an amazing $188,943 of "new money" into the pool, for a grand total of $215,343. Winner's odds for the sequence were 1-2, 28-1, 1-1, 4-5, and 7-5. William Carter guided long shot Dance It Out to victory in the second race to take down plenty of tickets, but those who did use him and cashed, collected a payoff of $1,464.02.

The $1 PK-8 continued to provide a challenge too great for punters, going unhit for a fourth consecutive offering, upping the carryover to $72,337. Winner's odds for the sequence were 1-1, 4-5, 7-5, 6-1, 5-1, 2-1, 12-1, and 3-5. Those with six correct collected $63.50.

Virginia Harness Horse Association announces scholarship opportunity

Due to a generous bequest by longtime Virginia harness horsewoman Jan Nofsinger, the Virginia Harness Horse Association (VHHA) has established a $1,000 scholarship for family members of the Virginia racing community.

Guidelines and the application can be found on the scholarship tab on the VHHA.net website. Completed applications must be returned to the VHHA office by May 15, 2026. They can be emailed to info@vhha.net, faxed to 804-655-6161 or mailed to the VHHA - P.O. Box 1603 - Saluda, VA. 23149.

To be eligible for a Jan Nofsinger Scholarship Program grant, an individual must be the child, grandchild or other family member of an owner, trainer, or driver who has participated in harness racing in the Commonwealth of Virginia on a regular basis over the two years preceding the application and is a member of the VHHA, or can be such qualifying owner, trainer, or driver that is pursuing a higher education. Family members of deceased VHHA members are also eligible. VHHA board members and officers and their family members are not eligible for a scholarship grant.

Applicants are required to submit a completed application form, official high school and/or college transcripts, a personal statement that describes their educational and career goals and details their involvement in standardbred racing and/or breeding within the Commonwealth of Virginia. Applicants may include any additional information they consider relevant.

When a scholarship is granted, the VHHA will mail the grant check directly to the educational institution. All applications will be reviewed by the VHHA scholarship committee and awarded at its discretion. Extracurricular activities, community involvement, scholarship, citizenship, leadership, and evidence of character will all be taken into account in the assessment of merit. Enrollment in a curriculum related to or that could benefit Virginia's harness racing and/or breeding industry will receive special consideration.

Jan Nofsinger of Warsaw, VA passed away at her home on Oct. 26, 2022 at the age of 67. Nofsinger owned horses for decades and officially trained from 1999-2017. She will be remembered for her love of standardbred horses and harness racing. She was a longtime member of the VHHA and served as a board member for many years.
