The Meadowlands will halt the drag, at least for a while

Track president Jeff Gural spoke exclusively to HRU about their plan to go to post on time for the Championship Meet.

Meadowlands owner Jeff Gural said he will eliminate drag during the track's Championship Meet.

Meadowlands president/chief executive officer Jeff Gural told HRU that post-time drag will be suspended for the track's Championship Meet that starts on May 2.

Gural explained why this particular meet was chosen.

"That's the time we have the best product," he said. "And I'm tired of everyone criticizing track owners for not eliminating the drag. I think everyone agrees that the drag is terrible, and I really don't understand why any track that's subsidized by slot machines would have a drag, since the amount of revenue they get from their export is relatively small."

Episode 5

Welcome to the revamped Creekside Chat!

Hosted by Adam Bowden and Shaun Laungani, Creekside Chat returns with a brand new format, talking about all things on the farm and in the industry.

Episode 5 live now on YouTube

“I’m tired of everyone criticizing track owners for not eliminating the drag. I think everyone agrees that the drag is terrible, and I really don’t understand why any track that’s subsidized by slot machines would have a drag, since the amount of revenue they get from their export is relatively small.”

~ Jeff Gural

Gural said relying on the drag makes it hard to get people to come to watch the races in person, including himself.

“When I was younger, and the sport actually had customers [on track], I remember going to Roosevelt and Yonkers, and they would have 10 races that took three hours. Now, we have 14 races that take over five hours. And with the exception of the Hambletonian, I never stay past the ninth or 10th race.

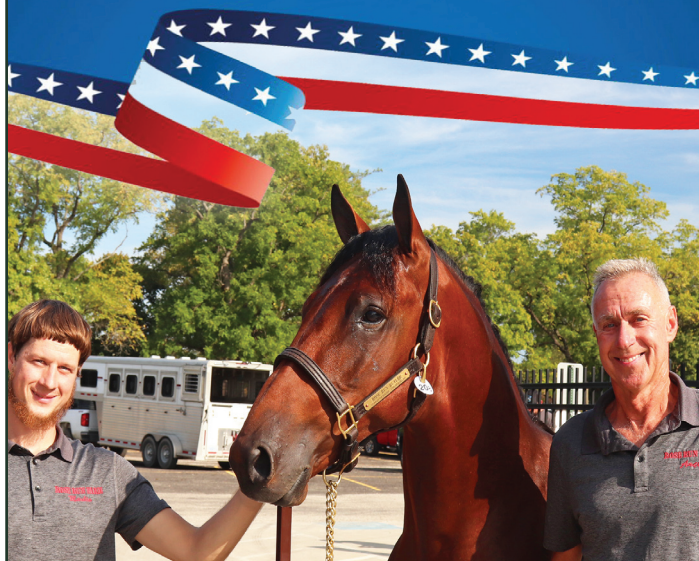

“Obviously, we’re in a bind, because we’re essentially catering to the off-track customers and ignoring the on-track customers, which is the exact opposite of what other sports are doing. As we’ve seen, Major League Baseball makes the games go quicker. And it’s worked for them, but, obviously, they have a product that people actually want to watch.

“During the Championship Meet, a lot of those nights we have stakes races, and if I’m ever going to get people who actually care about the product, it’s the Championship Meet. I assume it will cost me money, but nobody else seems willing to join with us, so we continue to put out a terrible product [because of the drag].”

In the Jan. 19 issue of HRU, editor Dave Briggs — a vocal hater of the drag — presented a slightly tongue-in-cheek suggestion for The Meadowlands to send out races every 10 minutes. In HRU’s Feb. 2 edition, Hambletonian Society president/chief executive officer John Campbell had a spirited debate with Briggs about, among other things, eliminating the drag and the negative effect it could have if The Meadowlands tries to do it alone.

“While Campbell believes eliminating drag would be handle suicide, I believe failing to eliminate drag is suicide for the entire sport,” Briggs wrote.

“ I think that [WEG] would be interested [in joining The Meadowlands in eliminating drag], but again, I think it has to be more than just the two tracks. I think it has to be everybody, and I’m not sure we would ever get everybody on the same page to do it. ”

~ Bill McLinchey

Campbell said to Briggs, “Until – and this will never happen unfortunately – you could get all of the tracks to go on post or within a minute of post, you’re never going to eliminate drag and it’s a terrible detriment to the future of wagering on horse racing.”

Gural has said, on more than one occasion, that The Meadowlands has entertained dropping the post-time drag in the past, but, to Campbell’s point, they couldn’t get most tracks to join them.

Woodbine Mohawk Park was the one place that did entertain the possibility.

HRU reached out to Bill McLinchey, the vice president, standardbred racing for Woodbine Entertainment Group (WEG), to see how those conversations went in the past.

“Well, I think Jason [Settlemoir of The Meadowlands] and I actually met with tracks, I’m going to say five or six years ago, and asked, ‘Hey, if we all do this together, are you interested?’ And I think Mohawk and The Meadowlands were the only two tracks that were interested,” McLinchey said.

When asked if The Meadowlands planned to reach out to other tracks to see if anyone would join them this time around, Meadowlands chief operating officer/general manager Settlemoir said, “We asked a couple of times and we were told ‘no thanks’ by several racetracks. I figure we will go it alone like most things we do and see if others jump on board. My guess is they won’t, but maybe I will be pleasantly surprised.”

Since The Meadowlands had not formally announced their intention to suspend the drag, HRU did not tip their hand to WEG, but did tell McLinchey that there are rumors that The Meadowlands is planning something.

“I think that I would be interested, but again, I think it has to be more than just the two tracks,” McLinchey said. “I think it has to be everybody, and I’m not sure we would ever get everybody on the same page to do it.”

McLinchey also said that eliminating the drag, although a good thing, might not make everyone happy.

“If we decided that there’s no drag tomorrow, but we started putting up 18 minutes on the board in between races, I don’t think they’d like that either,” he said.

In that conversation with Briggs, Campbell said that past attempts to reduce the drag had been detrimental to handle.

“It’s been tried and it’s failed every time they shorten the time in between races or eliminate drag,” Campbell said. “It doesn’t work for the off-track. [Though the current] system doesn’t work for the on-track. I think the on-track [experience] would be better with the time in between races if they went on post. I think that is such a turn-off, to look at some tracks and see ‘1 minute to post’ and the horses aren’t even on the track. It’s an insult to their intelligence, but, at the same time, in the current system, that generates handle.”

The Meadowlands tried a modified drag back in January of 2022, where the time was cut in half, but it was scrapped after six weeks and there was handle loss.

Gural said he thinks Campbell is right and this drag experiment might, again, be added to the loss column.

"I assume that's what will happen, so it'll cost me money," Gural said. "It's cost me millions of dollars already in losses to keep The Meadowlands afloat. Unfortunately, the breeders don't appreciate it and neither do most of the horsemen, especially the drivers."

When asked why tracks with slot machines would even care about a drag since they are not handle dependent like The Meadowlands and Mohawk, McLinchey said, "Well, I think there's a certain amount of pride that comes with trying to bet as much as you can with some of these tracks.

"I think that it's no secret that if you want to bet more, you drag a little more, right? And John was 100 per cent right that if you cut it off, you're putting some of your revenue at extreme risk, and I know for us, we're not in a place right now where we can take on that risk."

As for what Mohawk would do if The Meadowlands reached out and said we're going to drop the drag, McLinchey said, "I think we would want to make sure that there were more than just the two of us involved.

"Handle definitely matters and we would definitely have to be very careful that we wouldn't do anything that would disrupt handle. Anytime that there would be less revenue coming in, there's going to be some questions asked."

Gural said he hopes other tracks will get on board and join The Meadowlands with dropping their post-time drag, but thinks it's unlikely to happen.

"I doubt it," Gural said. "I don't think they have any interest in promoting racing because they would like racing to disappear as quickly as possible as we've seen in Florida. You never know. Maybe if we make enough of a splash, they will. I don't know.

"But, you know, I depend on wagering, so if by some miracle, I could get more people to come and sample the on-track experience, that would help, because it was designed to try to get people to come.

"We created [the dining club] Trotters for owners. It's what people told me we needed to get owners, but the reality is, most owners would just as soon watch at home, which I understand, because I do it. But it's so much more fun to be at the racetrack if you're an owner and go in the paddock, and if you win, go down and get your picture taken. But I think, maybe if we eliminate the drag, we'll get more owners to come because it wouldn't be an ordeal and they could spend a couple of hours and then go home without having it dragged out the way we do.

"I'm just tired of seeing people criticize all of us for the drag, because we all know it's the wrong thing to do. Why would you go out of your way to present a product that is not well received by your on-track customers? I want to try to see if we can get on-track customers.

"Plus, we have a couple of 3-year-olds coming back at 4... so we'll see if maybe actually having horses that the public is used to watching will bring them out the way Bulldog Hanover did."

USTA response to NY Times opinion column

by the USTA communications department

The New York Times on Sunday (March 2) published a windy, one-sided opinion piece by former Rolling Stone editor Noah Shachtman entitled “Last Call for Horse Racing.” Below the title and photo of several thoroughbreds in full stride, was a subheading. “Why are we paying billions for a sport that fans have lost interest in?”

It was meant to be a hit piece and, in that, Mr. Shachtman succeeded. It surely will be used politically by those groups and individuals dedicated to seeing harness racing eliminated.

The Times regularly takes aim at standardbred and thoroughbred racing, and Sunday’s essay followed the paper’s usual playbook of distortions, half-truths, and omissions when it comes to the industry. Mr. Shachtman’s lack of understanding of even the most rudimentary concepts of harness racing — did you know that our horses pull “single-seat chariots”? — is revealing, and the sarcasm present throughout his critique shines through. At one point, he mentions the horsemen, but not without signaling his derision and elitism. “Yes,” he snidely adds, “that’s what they still call themselves.”

Mr. Shachtman says a lot of things to fit his agenda. What he ignores pokes holes in it.

- In the United States, horse racing contributes $36.4 billion annually and supports 491,000 jobs across agriculture, tourism, and veterinary services. In New York, alone, horse racing generates over $3 billion in economic activity.
- Referring to the revenue-sharing agreements between racing associations and horsemen as “handouts” or “subsidies” is erroneous. These monies allow racing to reinvest in jobs, breeding, and rural economies. Taxpayers benefit from the revenue and employment horse racing generates. Were the sport to shut down, jobs, tax revenue, and economic activity all would be lost.

We Accept

- The piece fails in several spots to differentiate between thoroughbred and standardbred racing, particularly in the area of catastrophic breakdowns and equine fatalities. These incidents are, thankfully, exceedingly rare in harness racing because of the standardbred's gait and physical constitution. Mr. Shachtman at one point reluctantly acknowledges this but goes on to cast aspersions on racing's use of Lasix, of all things, a legal, preemptive medication that prevents incidences of Exercise Induced Pulmonary Hemorrhage in racehorses. The medication is therapeutic and helpful to the horse, and its regulated usage has been standard in North American racing for decades. Mr. Shachtman either does not know or does not care about this, and is content instead to fire off a cheap shot innuendo and walk away from the topic.

- Racing gets no public money, so the comparison is not analogous, but Mr. Shachtman raises the issue of publicly funded sports stadiums, defending these huge subsidies by citing venues' high onsite attendance figures. He just conveniently omits the costs. The "new" Yankee Stadium received $1.2 billion in public monies when it broke ground in 2006. Across town, Citi Field received funding for $650 million of its $850 million total cost. In Buffalo, the Bills' new stadium was provided with $850 million in taxpayer funding. In contrast, horse racing contributes more in tax revenue than it receives in revenue-sharing incentives while often providing higher economic returns and generating more jobs.

- The piece asserts that "they pay their workers... with our money." This is a falsehood. Horse racing is not a zero-sum game, and the government does not "own" the sport. Horsemen and caretakers are paid through private investment and not taxpayer dollars. Trainers are compensated by owners, and, in turn, pay their staff. This money comes from purses, training fees, and private investments, not state funding. Mr. Shachtman also fails to mention that public education in New York State already benefits from casino revenues, having realized more than $4 billion in funding since 2011.

Make no mistake. The U.S. Trotting Association stands firmly on the side of the owners, trainers, caretakers, officials, and, especially, the racehorses that deserve significantly more respect than the New York Times and Noah Shachtman have given them. The Association will continue to work with horsemen's groups and legislatures to spotlight the truths about standardbreds and the standardbred racing industry.

BETWEEN THE LINES

with BRETT STURMAN

With Prewitt at the helm, new Harrah's Hoosier Park season set to kick off

by Brett Sturman

One week from today on Friday (March 14), Harrah's Hoosier Park will begin season number 32 of live harness racing. With that, followers, and bettors of the racing program at the Harrah's property will have reasons to be more optimistic than ever as it was announced over the past week that Gabe Prewitt assumed duties of vice president and general manager of racing there.

Prewitt's experience and success to this point has been well documented which is what's elevated him to this role, and it's his understanding and bond with those who wager on the sport that's made him so popular amongst that group. Prewitt's new position will enable him to exert much more influence on the product than a prior role as director of racing for Caesar's Entertainment.

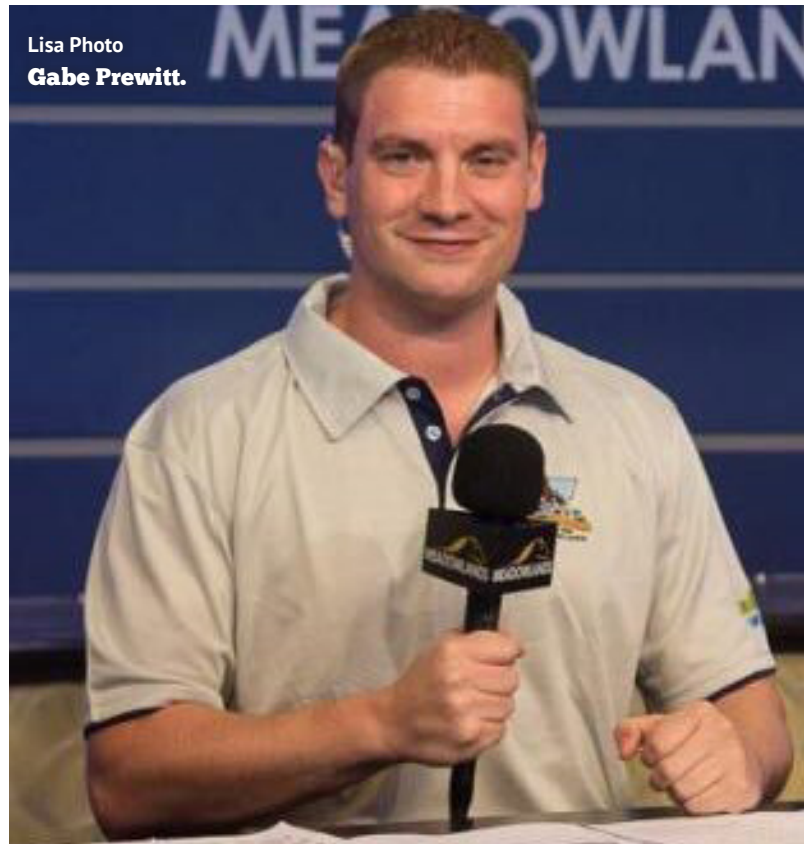

"This role is dedicated to the Hoosier property," said Prewitt. "In the Caesar's role before, I was sort of at a 30,000-foot level and across multiple properties. Joe Morris who is the senior VP of racing for Caesars had been working hard and had to go through a lot of work with the commission to get the deal done and bring Indiana into the merger between Caesar's and El Dorado, and so he was really driving that in Indiana. In that role, I was more involved with Scioto and Harrah's Philly, but Indiana wasn't quite as much on my radar as it was the work of Joe Morris."

As Prewitt mentioned Scioto, it's hard to believe it's already been five years now, but it brought back memories to the COVID-19 season of 2020 when Prewitt was working at the Columbus, OH track. Then, Scioto was the first harness track (and one of the first of any racing track, anywhere), to resume racing in the spring of that year, and it saw record handle after record handle, all of which were the highest in the track's 60+ year history. Like Prewitt's predecessor track Pompano, Scioto went from handling maybe a couple hundred thousand dollars a card to routinely over $1 million and in rarer cases, over $2 million.

The formula for success that Prewitt has implemented elsewhere are staples for what can be expected at Hoosier.

"I think a lot of the things that people could easily guess will be things we're going to be looking at," said Prewitt. "Whether it be the wagering menu, takeout rates, coordination of post times is something that I've been immersed in and will be hands-on with that, and those types of areas. We'll look to freshen up the broadcast in time with a fresh look and just everything as far as how we present the product."

What's different for Prewitt in this role compared to some of his prior ones – notably Pompano – is that he's not coming in with a product to be built from scratch.

"[Hoosier] has already done a tremendously good job," said Prewitt. "Many of the things that I've looked at in the past are already in place. That includes things like offering free programs and video qualifiers with replays – they're already there. They've got a great signature wager with the Hoosier High Five [low 12 per cent takeout] and we'll grow on that. It's a first-class facility, great state, solid horsemen, and it's a lot further along than most places I've had the opportunity to have any influence over."

"It's going to be cool to see if we can be quite as effective when we have this kind of head start. My one concern is maybe with being able to maintain the horse population, where it can be difficult as we all know to fill five days a week for over 160 days of racing throughout the year. Hoosier's been sort of known for big fields and competitive racing and usually 14 races a night, so those are the things I want to be able to maintain – field sizes and things along those lines that at least give us a fair shake to keep rolling."

I've felt myself that Hoosier has been one of those tracks with even more potential than it's yet realized in terms of handle. It's one of the few larger-sized tracks in North America, and I also remain a proponent of the track’s passing lane. The track is set up in a way that gives more horses the potential to have a fair chance to win than anywhere else – and that, combined with Prewitt’s bettor-friendly initiatives – could elevate the track to unprecedented wagering volume.

“It may be a little bit of trial by error early on, but I think we’ve got a good thing, and we’ll continue to roll out different wagering opportunities as we get a few weeks into the meet,” said Prewitt. “I hope that we can become a place that’s known for one of the great tracks to wager at in harness racing. Like I said, it’s a much different scenario than other things I’ve come into before where we’re already well down the field, and so I think this will be a lot of fun and I’m looking forward to it. We’ll try to put our touch on it as much as we can.”

In honor of International Women's Day, these ladies deserve the spotlight

by Bob Heyden

It took a while and much didn't even happen until the 21st century, but ladies are making a full/more visible impact in the sport in every aspect. In honor of The Meadowlands celebration of International Women's Day, every single one of these young ladies should be remembered/honored.

1. It's 40 years since Linda McNatt (now MacDonald) romped in the 1985 New Jersey Sire Stakes with Go Nancy Isle in the sophomore pacing filly division in a stake's record 1:55.1.
2. It's now 39 years since Jacqueline Ingrassia scored in 1:54.4 with Followme Holly in July 1986, the unprecedented first sub 1:55 mile in the industry.
3. It's 36 years since the 1989 $907,000 Wilson won by Sam Francisco Ben. Ingrassia was fourth in there with Southern Raider, still the richest race/cash in Meadowlands' history for a female driver.
4. You have to go back 33 years to 1992 when Andrea Chadwick and Lord Willing made the Meadowlands Pace final (no check). Another female first.
5. Anna-lena Ljunggren and Baltic Baby became a part of Hambletonian history in the 1993 eliminations, as you guessed it, the first female to start in the Classic. The horse was sixth in the elimination, not making the final.
6. It's the 30th anniversary of Caroline Lyon taking the Little Brown Jug with Nicks Fantasy in the 50th edition. Casie Coleman added three of her own in 2012, 2013 and 2016 and Linda Toscano doubled up two years ago in both the Jug and Jugette.
7. It's the 25th anniversary of Jacqueline Ingrassia taking the 2000 Yonkers Trot with Goalfish; still the only Triple Crown race won by a female driver.
8. JoAnn Looney and Ingrassia are the first two ladies to drive to The Meadowlands winner's circle in the 1970s, with Beau Yankee and Bird Of Paradise.
9. It was the 18th year of the Breeders Crown in 2002 when Toscano said "enough" and won with Molly Can Do It, thus opening the floodgates for future Breeders Crowns for the female set.

10. It was 2017 when Margareta Wallenius-Kleberg kicked down the door of the Hall of Fame and paved the way for Toscano just two years later.

FEMALE HORSES TOO

1. It's been 44 years since Fan Hanover won the Jug and was named Horse of the Year (HOY).
2. It's been 65 years since Countess Adios beat the boys in both the Cane and Messenger, not duplicated since.
3. Moni Maker is still the last repeat HOY (1998-99).
4. Females going 1-2 in the HOY in 2024 after going 1-2-3-4 in 2017 (Hannelore Hanover, Ariana G, Manchego, and Youaremycandygirl).
5. Manchego and Atlanta staging the sports best rivalry in years from 2017-22.

JERSEY GIRLS

The Meadowlands has been a starting point for so many through the years, and at some point this weekend all should be mentioned: Bonnie Butler, Linda Gentile, Gail Coppersmith, Diane/Flo Browne, Maria Reid, Helen Looney, Liz Waples, Nancy

DID THIS REALLY HAPPEN?

As the countdown continues to the 100th Hambletonian, here are some more fun facts you may not know.

LIGHTWEIGHT

Henry Thomas won the 1944 Hambletonian with Yankee Maid N, his third. The ad in The Horse Review the next month read, "He ranks as one of America's foremost light harness horsemen and drivers." Light? Really? Can I see the portly list please?

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON

Name the father-and-son who appeared in their final Hambletonian final together. Carl and Rod Allen with CR Commando last and CR Renegade next to last in 1999. Unusual right? How about both horses being Breeders Crown winners!

BACK FOR MORE

Marit Haugen was the 1986 caretaker for winner Nuclear Kosmos. The prior winner, Prakas (1985), was also hers early in his freshman year of 1984, even driving him to victory in just his second lifetime start.

OAKS AND MORE

Did Glen Garnsey really win three of the first four Hambletonian Oaks and hit the board in the Hambletonian in the other year? Yes! In 1971 he had Gay Blossom (Oaks), in the 1972 Hambletonian he was third with Flush, then he had Colonial Charm and Berna Hanover in the 1973 and 1974 Oaks.

GELDING GREEN

Five geldings have won the Hambletonian and none were favored. To be fair, there was no wagering on Greyhound in 1935. Flirth won it 38 years later in 1973 but was a rank outsider with just $17,835 in nine starts going in. Shiaway St Pat was the second choice in 1981 in the race-off and was not favored all day. Vivid Photo paid $16.40 in 2005 and the most recent Cool Papa Bell paid $106 in 2022.

EAST COAST HAMBLETONIANS

There have been 44 at The Meadowlands, 26 at Goshen, two at Syracuse and one at Empire City.

NEW YORK BOY

Did Hambletonian, the horse, spend his entire life in New York? Yes, from 1849-76.

RACING INTO THE FUTURE

with BOB DUFF

Is it time to revamp the harness racing betting handbook?

by Bob Duff

There was a time, before the advent of the internet and the legalization of online sports betting, that harness racing was a trendsetter when it came to betting innovation.

Think about the late 1980s and early 1990s, when simulcasting was taking the sport on a whirlwind ride. Suddenly, there was a virtual smorgasbord of betting opportunities, a veritable all-day menu of racing ready to be handicapped. Off-track betting, telephone wagering and advanced deposit wagering were all on the scene years before anyone would've even dreamed of the possibility of the existence of today's massive sports betting landscape.

That was then. This is now.

Today, it is the online sports betting sites that are setting the trends when it comes to novel methods for placing wagers. The latest innovations include same-game parlays, which is wagering on multiple outcomes taking place during the same event. Another sports betting innovation is live betting. Also known as in-play wagering, with this style of betting, you are putting down bets on outcomes within a game. This can include who scores the next goal in a hockey game, the next touchdown in a football game, or hits the next home run in a baseball game.

Just as horse racing was always seeking methods to add more action to the table for bettors, sports betting sites are also doing what they can to increase wagering opportunities on an event. In a digital age, when we live with one eye always on the screen of our mobile device, seeking the next distraction or viral moment, it's more necessary than ever for betting sites to find ways to keep their customers engaged.

HARNESS RACING NEEDS TO TAP INTO THIS ENERGY

Just as the betting sites are constantly seeking ways to remain relevant, horse tracks need to be traveling down this road on a similar journey. A revamping of the way we bet on horse racing isn't merely long overdue, it might very well be necessary for the survival of the sport.

How can the sport do that? What steps should harness racing take to try and input some of that sports betting energy into wagering on the sport of kings? Let's look into that. And, as it just so happens, we've got some ideas to introduce.

LIVE BETTING ON HARNESS RACING

The purpose of live betting was to keep bettors involved and engaged. Traditional sports betting saw you make a wager on a game and then wait for the outcome. Today, there are countless opportunities to wager on that game through in-play wagering.

There's no reason why harness racing can't tap into this energy. Why can't there be wagers on which horse in a race will win each quarter? You could even set over/under totals for each quarter-mile of a race, for both the overall race and each individual horse.

A horse that likes to leave would be an ideal bet to win the first quarter, but that same horse might not be a factor in the race by the time the field is reaching the finish line.

SAME RACE PARLAYS

Let's be honest. The sports betting parlay owes its existence to the horse racing trifecta. In reality, these two bets are one in the same. We've come up with some methods to incorporate the same-game parlay mentality into a horse race.

Just as there are restrictions as to what bets you can combine in a same-game parlay, our horse racing version is also going to have specific rules to go with our unique betting opportunities. First of all, along with wagering on horses, you can also make specific bets on drivers and trainers.

Here's the catch, though. You can only include one of each of the three in a parlay combination. Thus, if you include a horse

There's no reason why harness racing can't tap into this [live betting] energy. Why can't there be wagers on which horse in a race will win each quarter? You could even set over/under totals for each quarter-mile of a race, for both the overall race and each individual horse.

We're going to let you bet on driver and trainer win totals for a race card. For example, let's say David Miller has 12 mounts on a 14-race card at The Meadowlands. Odds will be set on him to win no races that night, right up to going 12-for-12. You'll be able to make an exact win total bet, or play an over/under on a predetermined number of total wins by Miller on the race card.

in your same-race parlay play, you can't use that horse's driver or trainer in your ticket. And you can also bet a horse, driver, or trainer to wind up in any finishing position. So instead of just betting on who is going to be in the top three, go ahead and bet a horse to finish seventh in a race.

HORSE RACING FUTURE BOOK WAGERING

Know what else we're going to do? We're going to let you bet on driver and trainer win totals for a race card.

For example, let's say David Miller has 12 mounts on a 14-race card at The Meadowlands. Odds will be set on him to win no races that night, right up to going 12-for-12. You'll be able to make an exact win total bet, or play an over/under on a predetermined number of total wins by Miller on the race card.

In sports betting, future book wagering is an extremely popular play for the patient bettor. You can bet on a team to win the Super Bowl in the offseason and get fairly long odds. If that team comes through for you, it will pay out handsomely.

Why not set future book odds on drivers and trainers heading into a race meet? There could be one market on which driver and trainer is going to be the top winner during the meet. At the same time, there could also be markets for total wins, through which you'd bet on the driver or trainer to go over or under that predetermined number.

THE DOWN UNDER DIARY

with ADAM HAMILTON

Breeder Paul Kahlefeldt has two rooting interests in Saturday's Miracle Mile

Leap To Fame and half-brother Swayzee are the top two choices in a stacked field.

by Adam Hamilton

Little did Paul Kahlefeldt know what he was really buying when he paid $50,000 for an Art Major filly at the 2010 Australian Gold Yearling Sales in Melbourne.

That filly, who he later named Lettucereason, is now a two-time Australian Broodmare of the Year and the only Australian mare in Australia to produce two pacers to win more than $2 million in prize money.

Those two pacers are the two best Down Under: Leap To Fame (by Bettors Delight) and Swayzee (by Rock N Roll Heaven).

Remarkably, the pair are from just three foals Lettucereason has had to make it to the racetrack.

Six-year-old Leap To Fame and 7-year-old Swayzee have raced a combined 123 times for 74 wins, 24 placings and banked $5,480,628.

Leap To Fame is already considered by many as one of the all-time greatest pacers Australia has seen.

And Swayzee, who seems to have gone to a new level this year, isn't far behind with two New Zealand Cup wins, a Hunter Cup, a Victoria Cup and a Blacks A Fake.

The siblings have locked horns five times.

Swayzee won the first clash in the 2023 Blacks A Fake, but Leap To Fame then won the next three.

“It's unbelievable to have bred two incredibly talented siblings [Leap To Fame and Swayzee]. When you breed foals, you hope they go on to be successful and have good racing careers, but not in your wildest dreams would you expect one or both to go on and win over $2 million for their owners.”

~ Paul Kahlefeldt

Courtesy of Jackie Gibson/Success Stud
Super mare Lettucereason with Swayzee while in-foal with Leap To Fame.

“Both [Leap To Fame and Swayzee] are now proven at staying and sprint distances and both are now very much of equal abilities. I’m sure we are in for one hell of a Miracle Mile on Saturday night and they look like the two best chances. They are in great hands with their talented trainers and drivers.”

~ Paul Kahlefeldt

Swayzee then struck back, winning their latest and most epic clash yet in the Group 1 Hunter Cup at Melton on Feb. 1.

They clash for the sixth time in Saturday (March 8) night’s $1 million Miracle Mile at Menangle.

Leap To Fame, the defending champion, is $2.20 (for a $1 bet) favorite, while Swayzee is $4.20.

Leap To Fame, who created history by winning from the wide barrier 7 last year, will have to do it again from the same gate but in an even harder field this week.

“On paper, it looks like his biggest challenge yet,” trainer/driver Grant Dixon said.

Kahlefeldt will be watching on proudly from Redbank Lodge Standardbreds in Wagga, about five hours south-west of Menangle.

“It’s unbelievable to have bred two incredibly talented siblings,” he said. “When you breed foals, you hope they go on to be successful and have good racing careers, but not in your wildest dreams would you expect one or both to go on and win over $2 million for their owners.

“It’s quite an amazing milestone for the siblings, to both win over $2 million in a relatively short period of time. If they can race on for another year or two, they could both crack $3 million. Leap To Fame [$3,427,525] is on target to top $4 million.”

While Leap To Fame is the defending Miracle Mile champion and has won 22 of his 26 sprint races (1,720 meters or shorter), many doubted Swayzee’s sprinting capabilities because he is such a supreme stayer.

But he silenced those doubters with a powerhouse display of speed and strength to win his Miracle Mile qualifier last Saturday night.

Kahlefeldt watched with interest.

“Both are now proven at staying and sprint distances and both are now very much of equal abilities,” he said. “I’m sure we are in for one hell of a Miracle Mile on Saturday night and they look like the two best chances. They are in great hands with their talented trainers and drivers.

“I’ll be watching with great interest and, as I usually do, wishing their owners and connections all the best.”

Back to Lettucereason, who also showed plenty of talent on the track before becoming the toast of Down Under breeding.

She raced 51 starts for 17 wins, 22 placings and earnings of $180,073.

“I trained her to start with,” Kahlefeldt said. “She won her first start at Wagga and finished third in Bathurst Gold Tiara [at 2].

“Then I sent her to Luke McCarthy where she was placed in a couple of Group One’s. She was actually unlucky not to have a Group One next to her name.”

At 2 with McCarthy, Lettucereason also won a semi-final of the NSW Breeders Challenge before running second in the Group 1 final.

Then at 3, she ran fifth in the NSW Oaks, fourth in the Group 1 Australian Gold final and third in the Group 1 NSW Breeders Challenge final.

Aside from the two champions of today, Lettucereason’s only other foal to race was her first, a son of American Ideal called Maximus Red.

The gelding showed the family’s early talent with a third in the Group 1 Bathurst Gold final in just his fourth start.

Maximus Red was a consistent performer in Australia before continuing his career in the U.S. where he took his career wins to 37 with another 74 placings and earnings of $448,117.

Lettucereason, who has only had six foals from 16 attempts, has an unraced 2-year-old American Ideal filly called Senses, who is yet to be seen at the trials. She also foaled a full sister to Leap To Fame, by Bettors Delight, on Sept. 22, last year.

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Minnesota Caretaker of the Year, Abby Olsen, found her future at home

by Chris Lomon

It was, of all things, a direct message that put Abby Olsen on the fast track to a life in standardbred racing.

There were no family or friendship ties to standardbred racing or anything otherwise that would have suggested a career in racing was in her future.

Geographically speaking, a possible opportunity for work in the industry was not too far down the road – literally.

“I live 10 minutes away from Running Aces [Columbus, MN], so that’s how I discovered the sport,” Olsen said. “I went with my parents a few times, and I thought, ‘Wow, this is fun.’ I didn’t have any clue about what it was, but I knew that I liked it.”

Those visits to Running Aces, along with the accompanying array of sights, sounds and the adrenaline rush of live racing, sparked something in Olsen.

One day, it motivated her to open her laptop.

“It was in my college freshman year when I reached out to [driver/trainer] Nick [Roland] and Jess [Johnson] through Facebook and asked if they were looking for help over the summer at Running Aces,” Olsen said.

She liked the response.

“When they said they did need help, it was very exciting,” she said.

For the past five-plus years, Olsen has worked as a groom for Roland Racing Stable.

It didn’t take her long, perhaps a few days at most, for her to realize the racing world is vastly different from a typical 9-5, Monday to Friday job.

“You learn very fast that it is a lot of long hours,” Olsen said. “On race nights, you can be there until 2 in the morning, depending on how many of your horses are racing, and what races they are in.”

After a couple weeks in the barn, Olsen fully embraced the demands of the role, a result of who she was working for and who she was working with.

Horses, the ones she would watch race at Running Aces, were becoming like family.

Courtesy Abby Olsen
Abby Olsen and Giggle Monster.

“Winning the Little Brown Jug would be great, but the most important part is that I enjoy what I do. I want to work hard and be the best I can be. There are a lot of ups and downs in racing, and there isn’t much of a social life, but I am happy to be where I am.”

~ Abby Olsen

“ I live 10 minutes away from Running Aces [Columbus, MN], so that’s how I discovered the sport. I went with my parents a few times, and I thought, ‘Wow, this is fun.’ I didn’t have any clue about what it was, but I knew that I liked it. ”

~ Abby Olsen

“It took me a little bit of time to figure out what I was doing and getting into a routine where I felt comfortable,” she said. “But right from the start, you get connected to the horses – they draw you in pretty quickly.

“I have been fortunate to work with some very nice horses, ones like Teachmehowtotory, MD Magic and Giggle Monster.”

The latter would slot into the category of “heart horse” for Olsen.

A Minnesota-sired son of Wind Me Up, out of the Sportsmaster mare Sportstal, Giggle Monster was a force throughout his decorated career.

In 2017, he was named Harness Horse of the Year in Minnesota when, as a freshman, he won seven of nine races accompanied by a pair of seconds in his other two starts, with a mark of 1:55.2 for the year.

Second in his final start, on June 11, 2023, at Running Aces, the bay gelding went 35-23-14 from 128 starts and recorded $198,377 in lifetime purse earnings.

The classy pacer was also a hit in the classroom.

“He is with me now,” said Olsen, who graduated from UM Crookston in May of 2024. “He’s on stall rest and he’s going to become a trail horse. I brought him to college with me for a class on retraining racehorses. Everyone loved him. He was a sweetheart in the barn and somewhat crazy on the track – I just loved that personality.”

That unbridled fondness for standardbreds was one reason, a big one, why she decided to delve into horse ownership, albeit on a small scale.

“Jeremy’s Alibi is the first racehorse I owned,” she said. “I own 25 per cent of him with Jess and one of her partners. He didn’t do that well last year, but it was fun to co-own a horse.”

Soon enough, Olsen, who also jogs horses, paddocks, and oversees the horses on the Roland Stable farm, might expand her role in racing.

It was during her second year as a groom when she first thought about becoming a trainer. While she put that goal on the back burner for a few years, she has pondered it more often in recent times.

“I would like to become a trainer one day,” Olsen said. “In my second year, it was a dream and now, it feels more like a reality. Ideally, I would like a smaller stable, around five, 10 max.”

When it comes to fruition, the way she currently watches her horses compete will come along for the ride.

“I try to keep it all inside when I am watching them race, but it’s hard to watch sometimes – you do get nervous,” she said. “But seeing them win is a great feeling.”

For now, there is much to celebrate.

Olsen was named the 2024 MHRI (Minnesota Harness Racing Inc.) Caretaker of the Year. The annual award recognizes caretakers/grooms who have made a significant contribution to Minnesota harness racing.

She received the honor at the MHRI annual meeting and awards banquet held at Running Aces on Feb. 22.

“It was a big surprise,” Olsen said. “I was overwhelmed by all the Facebook posts and messages.”

Before the start of the 2025 Running Aces season – the first card is set for May 18 – Olsen will be on the U.S. west coast, specifically, Cal-Expo, to help with the string of Roland Stable horses.

After the curtain closes on her time at Cal-Expo, she will make the 1,914-mile trek back to Minnesota and the familiar sights and sounds of Running Aces.

“Since I started, I’ve seen horse racing grow a lot in Minnesota, which is great,” Olsen said. “People here love their racing and the horses. I hope it continues to grow.”

Which is precisely how she speaks of her involvement in racing.

Just like her contemporaries, she allows herself to dream big.

“Winning the Little Brown Jug would be great, but the most important part is that I enjoy what I do,” Olsen said. “I want to work hard and be the best I can be. There are a lot of ups and downs in racing, and there isn’t much of a social life, but I am happy to be where I am.”

A place where a simple approach to her craft is always in style.

“I would say that hard work is what makes everything work,” Olsen said.

International Women's Day Race Saturday at Woodbine Mohawk Park

Woodbine Mohawk Park will host an all-women drivers race in celebration of International Women's Day on Saturday (March 8).

In last year's International Women's Day race, Julie Walker guided Prince Of Sussex up the inside and pulled away late to win by 3¾ lengths in 1:55.4 as the 2-1 second choice.

An accomplished trainer in Ontario since 2008, Walker has 368 lifetime wins and sent out starters earning over $4.5 million.

"I got my [driving] license to help with the horses I train, not to be a driver," Walker said. "I think if I started driving when I was 19 or 20 like most of the guys do, I would've driven more, but I was intimidated. Once I was in my 30s I didn't care, but it's harder to get started then."

This year's race is the fourth edition of the International Women's Day race. The tradition began in order to recognize the participation of women in harness racing, something that was rare in the past.

"Growing up in Owen Sound I was kind of isolated," Walker said. "But I remember going on a trip with my dad to Hawkinsville, GA, and seeing two women who could do it all; Rebecca Titus and Sally Foxworth. Their success, and the success of my mom, Lori Thomson, Vicki Gregg, and Susan Walker, to name a few, has been inspiring."

Alongside Walker driving in Saturday's race will be Marie Claude Auger, Jesse Turnenne, Anita Ouellette, Anne Marie Turnenne, Maggie Jones, Marielle Enberg, and Natasha Day.

"Maybe some of us in this race don't want to be catch drivers, but any opportunities we have to drive, we should take, to increase opportunities for women in the future," Walker said.

The reigning Women's Day champ has no nerves, only excitement for Saturday's race.

"You only get nervous when you haven't done it in a while, and I've been training my own horses enough that I'm ready," she said. "I'm looking forward to it."

As for her bustling stable, Walker hinted that racing fans can be on the lookout for some strong Ontario-sired 3-year-olds coming from her barn this upcoming season.

Horse racing is unique in the way that men and women compete alongside one another at the highest level of the sport. Woodbine

Mohawk Park is proud to celebrate the women of standardbred racing with the upcoming International Women's Day Race, and in their vast accomplishments throughout the year.

Post time on Saturday is 6:30 p.m.

The International Women's Day Race will be race 3 (7:26 p.m.).

Super-sized Hi-5's to be offered on Tuesday and Wednesday nights at MGM Northfield Park

On Tuesday night (March 4), MGM Northfield Park debuted its "Super-Sized" Super High 5's – by offering four 10-horse fields per card every Tuesday and Wednesday evening – with 20-cent Super High 5 wagering offered on all four of the events (races 1, 7, 10 and 13 each night).

In cooperation with the Ohio Harness Horsemen's Association and local horsemen, Northfield changed its wagering menu nightly (starting on March 4). The popular 20-cent Super High 5 wager will now be offered four times per card, on races 1, 7, 10 and 13. Full 10-horse fields will be slotted in those races on Tuesday and Wednesday nights whenever the horse population permits. Northfield will pay every starter in the race if all 10 go to the gate.

The 20-cent Super High 5 (also known as a pentafecta) requires the player to select the top five finishers in a given race in order. If no one selects all five correctly, Northfield pays a 25 per cent consolation payoff to patrons with the highest number of correct selections, and the other 75 per cent of the pool will be carried over to the next Super High 5 race. Along with the possibility of huge payouts, Northfield's Super High 5 has a low 14 per cent takeout rate, which makes it even more attractive to horseplayers across the simulcast world.

"Our horsemen wanted to know what they could do to increase handle and visibility for Northfield," said Northfield's director of racing Dave Bianconi. "We told them there is nothing more popular than full fields and carryovers. Hopefully the full-field High 5's will produce some carryovers and sizeable payouts. We are excited that our local horsemen and the OHHA are eager to partner with us on this promotion."

Northfield's March racing schedule is every Sunday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday with a 6 p.m. post. The new wagering menu (adding Super High 5's and dropping superfectas on races 7 and 10) went into effect on Tuesday (March 4). The 10-horse "Super-Sized" fields will only be drawn for Tuesdays and Wednesdays, but even Saturday and Sunday nights will feature the same wagering format with nine-horse fields in those four High 5 races.

Lauren Harmon, ladies in limelight on IWD at Big M

The women are taking over The Meadowlands this Saturday (March 8) on International Women's Day, and Lauren Harmon is excited to be a part of things.

The 24-year-old horsewoman will participate Saturday in an all-female driver's race on a night that will showcase the ladies of the sport.

International Women's Day is a global day celebrating women's social, economic, cultural and political achievements. It also calls for action to accelerate women's equality.

"This is such a male-dominated sport," said Harmon. "It's a great thing that The Meadowlands is doing for us women, who aren't always recognized or seen as much as the male drivers, trainers and grooms."

"So, it's great for not only the people inside the business, but also those watching and looking from the outside in. It's a great spotlight for us women."

Some of harness racing's most visible ladies will be at the track that night covering the action from every angle and location as The Big M celebrates IWD with Jessica Otten of Meadowlands TV serving as the host of the live simulcast presentation.

Otten is the sport's leading national TV presence with her many appearances over the last several years on FOX Sports' broadcasts of some of the biggest events in the game, such as the Meadowlands Pace and Hambletonian.

Joining her on the Sam McKee Memorial Broadcast Set will be Emily Ratcliff, who is the director of sponsorships and marketing partnerships at The Red Mile. In addition, she is the co-host of the Hambletonian broadcast on the CBS Sports Network and is still part of the on-air talent team at Harrah's Hoosier Park.

Jenna Otten, the TV presence from Scioto Downs who has done several FOX broadcasts with her sister, Jessica, will conduct interviews from the back paddock.

The final member of the female broadcast team is Melissa Keith, the track announcer at Canada's Rideau-Carleton Raceway, who will be on the microphone calling some races during the course of the night. Keith is the only full-time female race caller in harness racing.

Finally, Jessica Hallet, an award-winning photographer who is also currently a columnist at DRF Harness, will be on-site capturing the night's event with her talented pictorial eye.

"We have stacked the deck with many of the major female players in our sport," said Meadowlands chief operating officer/general manager Jason Settlemyre. "We have a field of 10 for the all-female drivers' race, and have all broadcast bases covered as well. All of us at The Meadowlands are pleased to have a night like this, because we realize how major a role women play in our sport."

In addition to Harmon, the nine drivers who will be participating in the fifth race are Christina Grubich, Leslie Joyce, Marianna Monaco, Vicky Gill, Alexandra Sarkine, McKenzie Sowers, Vicki Stratton, Sarah Svanstedt and another Lauren, Tritton.

Harmon said it's a tough field.

"Someone like Lauren Tritton, she is a great driver, but she doesn't get as much recognition for what she does," said Harmon. "She was the first woman driver to be in the Battle of Lake Erie [at Northfield Park] and win it."

Harmon, who has 43 career driving wins, including one against the "regular drivers" last month at Northfield with 3-2 favorite Solidazabrickhouse, who is trained by her stepmom, will depart from the rail in Saturday's fifth race.

She will pilot the Ron Burke-trained Oakwoodjusiasnob IR, who will be making her second start on North American soil.

"I took a quick look," Harmon said. "I was a little nervous to look at the draw, but at The Meadowlands, even having the outside, you still have an opportunity [to win]. But it's always better to draw inside. I'm excited to drive for Ron. I haven't looked too much into the horse but I'm sure he'll be ready to go. Whatever Ronnie says, we'll do."

IN ADDITION: The evening will include sizzle videos – short promotional videos also known as demo reels, highlight reels, show reels, promo videos, pitch tapes or teasers – and interviews with the industry's top female trainers, drivers and grooms.

The Meadowlands sends a huge thank you to the event sponsors, Clinton Tractor, Mackenzie Strange with Mackenzie Made (providing gifts for the ladies), Terry Taufner from Corporate Images (winner's circle blanket) and Oradell Family Dental.

CATCH THE SHOW: Check out the live "Racing from The Meadowlands" pregame show at 5:45 p.m. every Friday and Saturday when track announcer Ken Warkentin opens up the mic with a scene set and program changes.

Tonight, Big M TV's Dave Little and Jessica Otten will be on the Sam McKee Memorial Broadcast Set, from where the duo will provide news, notes, selections and a look at the night's featured races.

"THE KID" IN THE SULKY: During tonight's pregame show, Little will interview 22-year-old driver Brett Beckwith on the next installment of "In the Sully."

Beckwith, the 2024 Dan Patch Rising Star Award winner, has won 12 Meadowlands races over the last four race cards.

The segment will begin at approximately 5:50 p.m.

FREE PPs: To show appreciation to its loyal fan base, The Meadowlands offers free program pages for every race of every race card on its website.

Go to playmeadowlands.com, then click on the "news" dropdown to get the past performances at absolutely no cost.

THE SCHEDULE: During the month of March, live racing at The Big M will be conducted every Friday and Saturday with a first-race post-time of 6:20 p.m.

THE BILL OF FARE: Every night, The Meadowlands offers a marvelous menu of popular wagers that offer a low 15 per cent takeout.

CELEBRATE ST. PATRICK'S DAY: On Saturday (March 15), come to the track and meet a pair of legendary Irish athletes when former New York Jets quarterback Ray Lucas and heavyweight boxing great Gerry Cooney will be on hand to say hello to fans.

Ask them about touchdowns and knockouts when a meet and greet takes place from 5:30-6:30 p.m. in the Clubhouse Lobby.

There will also be a celebratory St. Patrick's Day race on the card, sponsored by Mary and Peter Grandich.

Overthemoonforyou in Cal Expo spotlight

Overthemoonforyou, who is having an outstanding meet for Qks Racing, trainer Quentin Schneider and pilot Aaron Lehman, has top billing in tonight's $20,000 California Sire Stakes for the 4-year-old pacing fillies.

Watch and Wager LLC will present nine races with first post at 6:45 p.m.

The daughter of Karpathian Kid has captured eight of her first nine starts at this meeting, including victories in the Jack Williams final, the first Sire Stakes of the season on Feb. 8 and a game overnight score last week over arch-rival Over Ice.

In the Sire Stakes, Overthemoonforyou was dispatched as the 7-5 second choice and won in a romp after sitting a pocket journey to the lane for Lehman.

Over Ice was the odds-on choice in that affair but lost her chance when she suffered an interference break early on, rushed up to the lead and then tired.

The JJJ Stables homebred takes her lessons from Gordie Graham and Nick Roland will be in the sulky. She is an 11-time winner from her 25 trips to the post with a 1:53.3 mark that was set last year at Century Downs.

Taking on the pair will be Heart Of Art, Apple Juice, Little Miss Boss, TJB Secreharriet, Another Tuff Woman and Senorita Draco.
