Lederman was the best race caller of all-time

Remembering the always-memorable Larry Lederman, who died this week at the age of 67.

BETWEEN THE LINES

with BRETT STURMAN

by Brett Sturman

With the passing this week of Larry Lederman so goes, in my estimation, the greatest racetrack announcer that the sport of harness racing has ever known.

Lederman mastered all the characteristics that make for great race callers. His race calls were bold, decisive, descriptive and told in a storytelling fashion with a tremendous amount of wit, charm, and of course, humor.

Lederman transcended the traditional duties of track announcing. He had a booming voice and the same could be said for his presence. His personality shone throughout all his race calls and he established a bond with all those listening to his calls from Freehold, Garden State Park, or any other harness or thoroughbred race track that he called at in his career. He connected with the fans and it's why he's been endeared by so many people, even by those who never met him personally.

“ We decided to try Equilume for the 2024 breeding season after hearing a lot of rave about them from some of our friends.

We tested
Equilume on 2
of our mares, both of which were noticeably cycling a month and a half into wearing their Light Masks.

As of February 28th 2024, one mare is confirmed in foal and the other has been bred & awaiting a pregnancy check in the days to come.

We will definitely be using them again in the future.

Lederman will be remembered in many casual circles for being an entertainer as much as a race caller. A separate column could be dedicated entirely to all of his catch phrases used in races throughout his career. He used his famous ultra-tight finish 'whoaaaaa' when a horse won for my father as his first win as an owner at Garden State. And sure, providing live updates from a Yankees game weaved seamlessly together with his calls during a race at Freehold was part of his shtick, you could say, but Lederman was far more than that. He was one of the few announcers in history who could take any race and immediately improve the quality of it simply by being on the microphone for it.

Lederman was an undeniable natural talent, and I was amazed by his ability the first time I met him.

It must have been around the year 2000 when announcing at Garden State Park. Lederman allowed me to visit him in the announcer's booth and experience, up close, what it's like to call a race. He let me do the honors of announcing the 'starter calls the pacers' but what struck me most about that experience is that aside from taking a moment to do the post-parade, Lederman chatted with me right up to seconds before the race started.

Most other track announcers I've seen have some semblance of color-coded aids or notes to help with horse memorization for their calls of the races, and rightfully so – it's a difficult job. That night, though, Lederman had none of that. He picked up the program right as the horses were approaching the start, glanced down at it a couple of times in the early race stages and then never needed it again. He was truly gifted.

Lederman will be remembered in many casual circles for being an entertainer as much as a race caller. A separate column could be dedicated entirely to all of his catch phrases used in races throughout his career. He used his famous ultra-tight finish 'whoaaaaa' when a horse won for my father as his first win as an owner at Garden State. And sure, providing live updates from a Yankees game weaved seamlessly together with his calls during a race at Freehold was part of his shtick, you could say, but Lederman was far more than that.

He was one of the few announcers in history who could take any race and immediately improve the quality of it simply by being on the microphone for it. You could listen to races he called for pure enjoyment.

Lederman had on-demand creativity with a relatable and self-deprecating personality that can be re-lived through any of his calls on the Internet.

One example is a Garden State Park track record performance from 1997 won by Gee Gee Digger in a race that included Hot Lead. Another typically brilliant call, you can't help but listen and smile when following Lederman. Off a slow :57 half mile, the final race time was 1:50.4 and at the conclusion of the call Lederman says while laughing to himself at the impossibility of it, "Last half in... I can't even comprehend it." There's simply nothing today in compares to it.

And when it came time for the more serious stakes races, he was all business and took his announcing to an even higher level.

One of those personal favorites that comes to mind was the 2007 Shady Daisy at Freehold. And when I ran into Lederman years following that race during a day at Harrah's Chester and mentioned it, he knew precisely what made that call so memorable.

He referred to it as his 'goal line stand' call. In the race, Southwind Tempo was guided by a newer and emerging driver named Tim Tetrick, and was parked past an opening quarter of :25.3. Nearly at a rare loss for words, Lederman said during his call that he'd never called a quarter that fast before and that the opening quarter might have been the fastest one ever on a half-mile track. As he continued the call of the horses going "almost at thoroughbred speed," the race was capped off by Southwind Tempo putting together a goal line stand, as Lederman described it, to gut out a win in which he said that Shady Daisy herself would have been so proud of the performance.

Of his many catch phrases, Lederman would often famously refer to horses entering into the home stretch as coming into "heartbreak lane" or the "boulevard of broken dreams." I always found that fascinating, as I suppose he looked at the race from not only the perspective of potential glory but also of possible defeat. Perhaps it was emblematic as to how he saw his own life.

There will never be another race announcer like him.

Larry Lederman, 67, dies

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

Larry Lederman, 67, known for his playfulness and wit during a decades-long career as a racetrack announcer, died March 5, 2024, after a lengthy battle with brain cancer.

Lederman, who began working fulltime as an announcer in the mid-1980s at Atlantic City Race Course, was diagnosed with an inoperable brain tumor in 2011. He was forced to curtail his workload in the ensuing years, but still made occasional guest race-calling appearances at numerous tracks and remained a popular presence in the sport.

Despite his illness, Lederman maintained a positive outlook.

"You've got to fight the fight; you don't give up," he said in a 2018 video interview with the U.S. Trotting Association. "I've always said it's better to have 16 in a blackjack game than 22 because once you're out of the game, that's it. You've got to stay in it."

"I never felt sorry for myself, ever. You could say this is no way to live, but you accept it and say let me look at what I do have instead of what I don't have. It can really beat you down and get very depressing, but you can't let it happen."

Lederman, a native New Yorker, was introduced to harness racing by his father, who had a business in Manhattan and enjoyed going to Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceways. Before getting his start in racing, Lederman worked as a cab driver and did standup comedy at Catch A Rising Star, even appearing on the same bill as Robin Williams.

In 1977, he began working at the Daily Racing Form taking chart calls, but being an announcer was his ambition. He got his first fulltime job at Atlantic City in 1987 and two years later added Garden State Park to his credentials. He continued to work for the Daily Racing Form until 1990. In 1998, he became the announcer at Freehold Raceway.

Over the years, Lederman became recognized for the wordplay, impressions, and observations he would mix into race calls. He called races nationally on both network and cable television and was the race-caller in Robert DeNiro's 1993 film "A Bronx Tale."

In 2011, Lederman received the Good Guy Award from the U.S. Harness Writers Association.

Lederman, who resided in East Windsor, NJ, not far from Freehold, realized his style was not to everybody's taste but often emphasized that accuracy when calling a race was his primary concern.

"The game is first and foremost," Lederman said in an interview soon after becoming the announcer at Freehold. "It can go on without me. I just try to help it along."

"I try to put a lot of preparation into my work. You're signing your name to it. You're the last bridge between the track and the public. There is a time and a place for everything. I try to keep the races interesting enough to watch. I understand my style is a little different, but I think it helps the game."

In his 2018 interview with the USTA, Lederman said, "I threw a changeup when everybody would just throw fastballs. I would say for the most part, I thought it worked. I thought I was adding something to the game, not hurting it."

Lederman was preceded in death by his wife, Jodi, and their daughter, Leslie. He is survived by his brother, Alan; son, Scott; and grandson, Cayden LoBianco.

Services are private.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Christian Harness Horsemen's Association or a cancer- or hospice-related charity.

It's 'Ladies' Night' at The Big M on Saturday

The track's International Women's Day celebration kicks it up a notch for 2024.

by Debbie Little

The Meadowlands is taking their celebration of International Women's Day (IWD) up a notch by including more women off the track.

The festivities, sponsored by Clinton Tractor, are bigger and better for 2024, thanks to the hard work of Jessica Otten, the marketing coordinator and TV host for The Meadowlands and Fox Sports.

Otten has assembled a team of ladies to bring the big bash together, including Dawnelle Mock, Jenna Otten, and some women-owned businesses. Terry Tauffner's Corporate Images, Inc. will be supplying the blankets, Mary McDermott's Mary Mac's Design will do the flowers and Mackenzie Strange's Mackenzie Made will be doing some gifts for the competitors as well as photo frames for the winners.

Photographer Jessica Hallett will be on site taking photos, driver Lauren Harmon will be the guest for "In The Sully" the Big M's live pre-game show segment, and Moira Fanning, Marianne Rotella and Rachel Ryan will be making the winner's circle presentations.

"I am very excited to have two full races with all female drivers again this year," Jessica said. "Last year's event was great and this year should be even better. I can't thank everyone enough for all of their contributions to make Saturday night happen. I'm really looking forward to having my sister, Dawnelle and Mary here that night to host and cover the night."

Jessica's attempt to grow the festivities each year has not gone unnoticed by this year's broadcast team.

"[Jessica] definitely put a lot of thought and time into all this," Mock said. "I think they're doing a great job, and they've done a great job advertising, too. You keep scrolling on Facebook or Twitter and you see that The Meadowlands on March 9th is having an International Women's Day celebration."

While sisters Jessica and Jenna Otten will co-host The Meadowlands' simulcast show, Mock will be in the paddock for live and social media interviews.

For Mock, Saturday night will be a Meadowlands' homecoming of sorts, as she was a summer intern there in 2016.

"I pretty much was Rachel Ryan's shadow," Mock said with a laugh. "She was so great. She taught me a lot. So, I did the promotions on the weekends, anything they needed help with, and marketing."

Mock is currently the digital content director for the Pennsylvania Horse Racing Association, where she does all their social media.

Mock, like the Otten sisters, grew up in the business.

"My dad always had horses, so I was born into it," Mock said. "I was really glad when Jessica texted me and asked me if I would want to come out and do interviews. I'm happy to be a part of it this year."

Saturday will mark Jenna's fourth time as co-host on The Meadowlands' Sam McKee Memorial Broadcast Set this winter. And despite the fact that Jenna paid her dues on air at Scioto in 2023, she said nowhere else is as big as The Meadowlands.

"Oh, man, the first time I sat there, I kid you not, I looked at Jessica and said, 'Don't tell them to turn the cameras on,'" Jenna said. "I was so nervous. It's everything; it's the mecca, right?"

"Everyone's watching it whether it is a Friday night during the winter or not, but it's definitely nerve-wracking. But once you get over the initial 30 seconds, it's fine. It's where everyone typically wants to be, but it's definitely fun to be a part of that team for sure."

The Big M's IWD's races for all female drivers are carded as the fifth and seventh dashes and although Jenna said she wants to see everyone do well on Saturday night, it's hard for her not to hope some good luck lands on her fellow Wolverines.

"I mean, Mariah [Wright] has grown up in Michigan and we've been friends forever," Jenna said. "And then another Michigan girl, Lauren Harmon. Obviously, I want the home team Michiganders to pull through."

Mock is also looking for good, competitive races and hasn't chosen a rooting interest just yet.

"I don't have a favorite as of right now, but we'll see come the day who I think is going to come out on top," Mock said. "I think it's amazing that they pulled all these women to come out here and drive."

"I feel like every year you see more and more female drivers, especially for things like this. I mean, I remember when we used to do a breast cancer awareness race at The Meadows and you got your seven or eight girls. I just feel like there's a lot more ladies out there willing to participate and drive in these races now, which is great."

Although Jenna was not a part of the 2023 IWD event at The Meadowlands, she believes that it set a high bar.

"I know last year it was a huge success, which obviously made them bring it back this year," Jenna said. "I know last year they had 20 women drivers. It's cool to have two races just full of women drivers because this is a sport where when you're coming up, it's not that people don't say you can make it, but it didn't used to be full of women."

"So, it used to be all-guy trainers, all-guy drivers. So, the fact that we can get 20 women out there proving that women can do what men can do – sometimes even better – is amazing. And I'm glad that I can be a part of it and promote it."

“I know last year it was a huge success, which obviously made them bring it back this year. I know last year they had 20 women drivers. It’s cool to have two races just full of women drivers because this is a sport where when you’re coming up, it’s not that people don’t say you can make it, but it didn’t used to be full of women.”

Mock said it’s good to show women in the industry both on and off the track.

“You always see female talent [in broadcasting] and even on the horse side of things, you have a bunch of trainers,” Mock said. “Linda Toscano and Nancy Takter have been winning the big races, so I think the female presence is just really well recognized now. So, to me, I don’t think it’s as male dominated as it was. I think the girls are really out there and showing that we’re just as good.”

“You really get questions sometimes where people are like, ‘Oh, do women drive?’ And yes, they sure do. And they do it well. So, I think it’s nice to showcase that.”

HOLLYWOOD'S HITS

with BOB HEYDEN

Some facts and figures in honor of International Women's Day

by Bob Heyden

Let's take a look at the impact that females have had at The Meadowlands and on the industry through the years. Let's begin with the first ladies to start or get money in the Hambletonian; all doing so at The Meadowlands.

1. Anna-Lena Ljunggren was the very first female to train a Hambletonian starter. In 1993, Baltic Baby finished sixth in a seven-horse elimination field for owner Oleg Cassini at odds of 11-1 with driver Jack Moiseyev. The colt didn't make the final.

2. Brooke Nickells trained and drove Lavecster in 2001 up until and after the Hambletonian, but Mike Lachance got the call on the big day and finished fourth. Nickells did drive him in the Kentucky Futurity that year finishing second at 77-1 and third at 23-1. To this day, no female driver has competed in the Hambletonian.

3. Paula Wellwood in 2007 was the first female conditioner to hit the board in the Hambletonian with Laddie finishing third with Paul MacDonell driving.

4. Julie Miller debuted in the Hambletonian in 2009 finishing fourth with The Chancellor.

5. Linda Toscano became the first female trainer to make consecutive Hambletonian finals and then the first female to win it in 2012 with Market Share. In 2011, Chapter Seven was fourth. He later sired a male and female winner of this race with Cool Papa Bell and Atlanta, respectively.

6. Nancy Takter got her feet wet in the 2014 Hambletonian getting the last check with Resolve, the same year her dad went 1-2 with Trixton and Nuncio.

7. In 2016 it was the first ever Triple Crown winner trained by a female. Marion Marauder was trained by Paula Wellwood with husband Mike Keeling.

8. Julie Miller has twice been runner up in the Hambletonian and Nancy Takter joined her dad on the Hambletonian Wall of Honor in 2023 with Tactical Approach. If Nancy can repeat in 2024 with Karl, she would join Jimmy (2014-2015) as the sixth trainer to win consecutive Hambletonians.

“ I would love to drive in all the premier races, but my only chance [to drive in the Hambletonian] is owning and training the horse myself. I have a nice Cattlewash 2-year-old this year that I bred myself. I would like to be the first to be in a few of them. I’m sure if Jacquie [Ingrassia] had a colt she would have been right there [in the Hambletonian]. ”

~ Stacy Chiodo

9. In 1920 women win the right to vote and on Aug. 18, 1926 the Hambletonian debuts. But, it would be in the 54th edition that Suzanne Tripp was the first female caretaker of a winner, Legend Hanover.

10. In 2000, Jacqueline Ingrassia’s Goalfish was not Hambletonian eligible, but did race in the Yonkers Trot and gave her the lone Triple Crown score in harness racing history for a female driver.

11. Ingrassia also appeared in the $907,000 Woodrow Wilson in 1989 and got fourth money, $77,600, with Southern Raider. That was the biggest purse check for a female driver until she got half of the $207G pot in the 2004 Goldsmith Maid with Aeronautess.

12. Linda McNatt (Macdonald today) scorched The Meadowlands mile oval the first week of May 1985 with her super filly Go Nancy Isle in the 3YO NJSS in 1:55.1, which was the standard until...

13. Followme Holly won in 1:54.4 on July 25, 1986 with Ingrassia as the first sub 1:55 winning lady at The Meadowlands.

14. Stacy Chiodo and Might Young Joe – he’s still around at 20 – was the very first sub 1:50 winner with a young lady driving going 1:49.3 at The Meadowlands.

15. In 1981, Gail Coppersmith became the first ever Meadowlands’ female driver to win consecutive races with the same horse, Yankee Legend.

16. The first sisters to each drive a Meadowlands winner were Flo and Diane Browne.

17. Susan Looney is still the youngest ever driver to win a Meadowlands race. She was 16 on July 2, 1984 with One For All. She had won her first race four months earlier with Pickle Parker. She was the only female to drive a winner that entire Meadowlands meet.

Finally...

Let’s top this off with a few comments from Stacy Chiodo.

“Mighty Young Joe turned 20 this year and is living the good life in mom’s yard,” Chiodo said. “I’m not one for publicity, but I try to do what’s right for the industry. It [the record for female drivers anywhere] was a personal goal I had set and I do realize the significance of what I accomplished.

“I won with Shezafreaklikeme in 1:51.1; her dam is a full sister to Mighty Young Joe. Training Whole Lotta Lou and Chaser Hanover has been great; both have records of 1:49.3. ‘Chaser’ one night actually finished third beaten three quarters of a length in a 1:47.3 mile with Mark MacDonald driving.”

When was the first time you ever set foot at The Meadowlands?

“It was in 1995 as a groom. I was in awe of the caliber of horses racing there.”

The very beginning?

“It was 37 years ago and I went to Monmouth to watch my mother’s horse race. I saw Julie Krone riding and thought I wanted to be a jockey growing up. Although things took a slight turn, I couldn’t be happier with the things I’ve accomplished as a driver.”

Is there any men vs women thing?

“I never look at it that way. I set my own personal goals and try to reach them.”

How about the fact that no female has ever driven in the Hambletonian?

“I would love to drive in all the premier races, but my only chance is owning and training the horse myself. I have a nice Cattlewash 2-year-old this year that I bred myself. I would like to be the first to be in a few of them. I’m sure if Jacquie [Ingrassia] had a colt she would have been right there [in the Hambletonian].”

THE DOWN UNDER DIARY

with ADAM HAMILTON

The stage is set for Saturday's potentially history-making Miracle Mile at Menangle

by Adam Hamilton

This race truly has it all.

A potential all-time great trying to defy history, a young gun out to add to the great record of 4-year-olds, two champion Kiwi brothers trying to add to their country's proud record, a small Aussie state trying to punch above its weight and a trainer unlike any other trying to build on his juggernaut of success.

That's just a snapshot of Saturday night's (March 9) $1 million Miracle Mile, Down Under's premier speed test around the spacious 1400m Menangle track, just outside of Sydney.

Let's start with the headline act, Leap To Fame. He's the potential all-time great I've mentioned with 34 wins from just 44 starts and over $2.2 million in earnings despite having only recently turned 5.

If this race was 2000m or further, he would be a dominant favorite.

The son of Bettor's Delight has already won the Inter Dominion pacing final (December) and Hunter Cup (February) and is trying to become only the second pacer to the Aussie Triple Crown in the same campaign. Hall of Famer Preux Chevalier did it back in the summer of 1985.

The key is the distance. Leap To Fame has a good record at a mile, but his most dominant displays and biggest wins have been in staying races.

He reminds many of two other Down Under champions of the past 20 years: Lazarus and Blacks A Fake. As great as they were, they tried six times between them to win the Miracle Mile but couldn't.

The challenge went up another level when Leap To Fame drew barrier 9, meaning he will start from 7 when the emergencies (or ballots) are withdrawn.

“It’s certainly not the most suitable big race for [Leap To Fame]. The distance is shorter than he likes and having to go into the [pre-race] retention barn doesn’t help him, either. If the race wasn’t worth so much and didn’t mean so much to Kevin [Seymour, owner], I’d happily keep him at home and target something else.”

~ Grant Dixon

Since the Miracle Mile field was increased from six to eight in 2009, no horse has won from barriers 7 or 8.

His trainer/driver Grant Dixon didn’t even hide the fact he’s uneasy about it all.

“It’s certainly not the most suitable big race for him,” he said. “The distance is shorter than he likes and having to go into the [pre-race] retention barn doesn’t help him, either. If the race wasn’t worth so much and didn’t mean so much to Kevin [Seymour, owner], I’d happily keep him at home and target something else.

“There’s no doubt the further they go, the more it plays to his strengths. A mile is far from his pet distance and now he’s got a wide draw to overcome, too.”

So, why is the retention barn, which is so rarely used Down Under compared to the U.S., such an issue?

“I don’t have any issue at all with the concept,” Dixon said. “Some horses handle it better than others and Leap To Fame isn’t one of them. He’s a stallion who has a mind of his own at times. He spends his time in a yard at home roaming around and then we’ve got to keep him in a box in a barn for a couple of days before one of his biggest races.

“He’s obviously been in it before and performed well, but it’s a concern to me. He hasn’t enjoyed it at all in the past and I can only hope he’s a bit more used to it now.”

“I do believe in miracles and it would be a miracle [for Leap To Fame to] win from [post] 7 because it's never been done before.”

~ Kevin Seymour

The last word goes to Seymour, who is so desperate to win the race.

“I do believe in miracles and it would be a miracle to win from [post] 7 because it's never been done before,” Seymour said.

It's a similar story with the explosive and untapped Frankie Ferocious, who is trying to add to the amazing strike rate of 4-year-olds coming through Chariots Of Fire wins (which he won last Saturday night).

The past eight Chariots winners have won or been placed in the Miracle Mile, but the one key change this year is the gap between races has been closed from two weeks to one. Most feel that will make it harder for the younger horses.

Frankie Ferocious looks a bit special and will need to be because he's drawn even wider than Leap To Fame. He'll start from the outside (post 8), another draw which is yet to produce a Miracle Mile winner.

Frankie Ferocious is the latest stable star for the remarkable trainer Jason Grimson, who has burst into the big league like no horseman we've seen before.

Grimson has won two of the past three Inter Dominion finals and finished in his “off year” with Swayzee in Brisbane last December.

He's always had his sights on the Miracle Mile at his home track, Menangle, where he trains from.

Grimson has two starters, Frankie Ferocious and the injury-riddled Hi Manameisjeff. Grimson is a remarkable advertisement for his ability to resurrect pacers from other stables.

The 7-year-old Hi Manameisjeff has battled a string of nasty tendon injuries, but in 10 starts for Grimson, he's won nine times, all at Menangle.

He stole the show with a blazing qualifying win at Menangle last Saturday night – in the fastest of the three qualifying races after having to work hard early – and has grabbed favoritism off Leap To Fame as a result at $2.80 (for a $1 bet). The fact he is a blazing beginner and the likely leader from gate 5 is a huge plus.

After the pandemic caused travel chaos and basically stopped the New Zealanders competing in our biggest races, Saturday night's race marks the return of a truly Trans-Tasman Miracle Mile with two of the eight pacers from across the ditch.

Fittingly, they are trained by champion brothers Mark (Dont Stop Dreaming) and Barry Purdon (Sooner The Bettor).

New Zealand-trained pacers have won 15 of the 56 Miracle Miles and the Purdon brothers have trained seven of those, most recently when Mark co-trained and drove Spankem to win in 2019.

But the odds say the Kiwis are up against it this year.

Dont Stop Dreaming was beaten into sixth place behind Frankie Ferocious as a commanding favorite in the Chariots Of Fire last week and has a wide draw from gate 6. He's out to $12 for a $1 bet.

Sooner The Bettor made the most of a lovely trip behind the leader to finish second in the Chariots, but hasn't drawn as well, post 4, and has won four races in his 24-start career. He's a $31 longshot.

Then comes the rare influence of Queensland – a relative minnow on the Aussie harness stage – with two of the eight pacers, including Leap To Fame in Saturday night's feature. The emerging Speak The Truth is the other from barrier 1.

Just three Queensland-trained pacers have won the Miracle Mile. Lucky Creed was the first in 1970 and then Be Good Johnny – trained by Todd and Andy McCarthy's father John – went back-to-back in 2005 and '06.

Finally, it wouldn't be fair if we didn't mention the remarkable achievement of Spirit Of St Louis to qualify for a third consecutive Miracle Mile. He's not out of it, either, from barrier 2 given his brilliant gate speed.

Spirit Of St Louis has been a mainstay of Australia's biggest races for the past three years, especially in the Miracle Mile with second placings the past two years.

All the ingredients are there, the scene is set... now we just need a contest to match the build-up.

Idao de Tillard and Bazire top winter meeting in Paris

by Thomas Hedlund

The 2023-24 meeting in Paris ended last weekend and when we sum up the intense period of high-quality races from Vincennes, it's clear that Idao de Tillard – not surprisingly – was the best trotter and that Jean-Michel Bazire – as many times before – dominated among the humans.

Thierry Duvaldestin's Idao de Tillard (Severino) banked $1,035,488, won six races, of which four were Group 1-races (the Prix d'Amérique, Prix de France, Prix de Selection and Prix Tenor de Baune).

Ready Cash continues to produce offspring that are successful at Vincennes and the late stallion tops the list for best sires during the meeting. The 331 starts ended with 32 wins and total earnings of $1,928,568 for his offspring. Two of his sons, Bird Parker and Bold Eagle, are top-five on the list. So, Ready Cash's continued importance in French harness racing is undisputed.

Bazire finished second to Eric Raffin among drivers at Vincennes, but as a trainer, Bazire proved best as his stable made 340 starts which resulted in 61 victories and $2,713,021 in earnings.

NEW SPRING FOR VIVID WISE AS?

Alessandro Gocciadoro's Vivid Wise As (Yankee Glide) likes the French Riviera quite a lot. The 10-year-old super trotter has tried his luck in Cagnes-sur-Mer eight times and seven of them have ended with victory. So, the three-time Criterium de Vitesse winner will probably be one of the favorites in Sunday's (March 10) edition of the prestigious mile race in beautiful Cagnes-sur-Mer.

Vivid Wise As won the $220,000 Criterium de Vitesse for the first time in 2020, made it back-to-back with a win in 2021 and returned to the winner's circle again last year, after being defeated by Etonnant in 2022.

The 2024 edition of the Criterium de Vitesse does not look to be one of the more interesting ones in the race's history, but there are some strong competitors as Go On Boy and Inmarosa are in the entries list two days before the definite program is official.

SWEDISH BREEDING NUMBERS ALARMING

Swedish media sulkysport.se reported some ominous news regarding harness racing breeding in Sweden on Wednesday (March 6).

The number of foals born in Sweden 2023 landed at 2,158, the lowest crop since 1968 in the Nordic European country. These are alarming figures. Breeders have struggled for many years to make profits in the business and several names in the industry have stopped their investments in breeding.

Racing in Sweden is already experiencing difficulties filling the races with horses. Subsequently, betting handle will automatically decline probably sooner than officials working for the harness racing organization understand. This is the biggest problem in Swedish harness racing right now.

The people piloting the industry lack the genuine interest and knowledge of what is required to get the ship in the right direction again and for the future of European harness racing, one hopes that other countries don't follow Sweden's lead – not now anyway.

The foal crop number is truly bad news.

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Aidan Turnage-Barney wants Virginia to be for lovers of horse racing

by Chris Lomon

Aidan Turnage-Barney always treasures the moment when he sees the smiles grow wider and wider.

It is a scene he has witnessed, first-hand, dozens of times, and will no doubt view countless times in the future. While reactions are nearly identical, Turnage-Barney will never grow tired of watching them unfold.

“My biggest enjoyment is having a new fan come to the track and see them really get it,” Turnage-Barney said. “Whether it’s at Colonial [Downs] or Shenandoah [Downs], taking people to the backside where they can see the horses up close, I find there is always a moment where they get it, they understand what makes our sport so great. To me, it’s the click of them understanding why we all love it so much and why we do it.”

The 24-year-old, who currently holds the reins of marketing and racing operations assistant for the Virginia Equine Alliance and field director for the VHBPA, can certainly relate.

He was once that kid; and still very much is.

“My journey at the racetrack started when I was little,” he said. “I have family down in Virginia and my uncle used to work at Colonial Downs as a host, taking people around for tours and things like that. I grew up going to the races — this is when Colonial had both thoroughbred and standardbred racing — and I loved it all.

“Growing up and going to school — I was a Recreation Management Major at Lock Haven University [in Pennsylvania] — I always loved going to the races. I made a point of trying to get to Colonial Downs every time I was in Virginia.”

Hired as an intern at VHBPA two years ago, Turnage-Barney’s unabashed enthusiasm for the sport is unmistakable.

He has already made significant contributions to the Virginia horse racing industry.

Turnage-Barney, who covers the nine-week summer thoroughbred meet at Colonial Downs, also helps in all departments at the spring and fall Shenandoah Downs harness meets in Woodstock.

“I started working as an intern for the VHBPA,” he said. “I worked for the thoroughbred horsemen’s group at Colonial Downs for that first summer. I fell in love with it right away. Getting to work on the backstretch and meeting so many people, seeing how people – grooms, hotwalkers, trainers – work so hard to get the horses ready to run. It was important for me to see that.

“The thing I think is so unique about Virginia horse racing is the community we have built through all of our organizations; the fluidness between the thoroughbred and standardbred horse people. The [Virginia Equine Alliance] being involved in all of it bridges all of it together and has led to great relationships with the people who play integral roles in our sport. We all come together and work as a team, to do what is best for horse racing here.”

“After I graduated, Darrell Wood offered me the opportunity to come work as a full-time VEA employee. Being involved with the racing at Shenandoah Downs and continuing my work with Colonial, and then everything in-between in the off-season; it keeps me busy.”

All the experiences helped further his passion for the sport and its equine athletes and spurred his dedication to attract more people to the racing offerings in Virginia.

Turnage-Barney would love to see more people in his demographic coming to the racetrack.

“I never understood why it was never a bigger draw for people in my age group,” Turnage-Barney said. “When I was in college, sports wagering was always such a big thing with kids my age. I got obsessed with this idea of getting younger people to go to the races and wagering.”

He would also like to see Virginia horse people earn more recognition for what they do.

“It stuns me every day that there are these people in horse racing who spend their whole lives dedicated to this sport and their craft,” he said. “What they do is magnificent.”

“To me, it’s all about spreading the awareness of what goes on in the backstretch. People don’t realize all the effort and commitment that goes into putting on great racing. I know that energy and I have been sharing that ever since.”

Turnage-Barney is also proud to share, unprompted, how he feels about his roles in racing.

What is the best part of his job?

“I tell my friends all the time that I have the best job in the world,” he said. “It’s never the same day twice. One day, I’m in Woodstock getting miniature horses ready for a special race at Shenandoah, and the next day, I am in a horsemen’s meeting.”

“I get to be all over the place and see the sport from so many different viewpoints. I soak it all in and try to be the biggest benefit I can to horse racing in Virginia.”

It means a lot of time on the road and meeting a lot of people throughout the week.

“One of the things I do for both breeds is to go around to all the farms to make sure the horses are where they are supposed to be, in order for them to be eligible for our certified programs,” Turnage-Barney said. “I have days where I hop in my pickup truck and drive around Virginia to talk to the farmers and horsemen and do whatever I can do to help them and encourage them to bring more of their horses to the racetracks in our state.”

“I love everything I do every day. I’m busy, but I like to be busy. The biggest challenge is that I am always moving, but it’s not a challenge because I enjoy it so much.”

Don’t expect his enthusiasm to wane.

“The thing I think is so unique about Virginia horse racing is the community we have built through all of our organizations; the fluidness between the thoroughbred and standardbred horse people,” he said. “The VEA being involved in all of it bridges all of it together and has led to great relationships with the people who play integral roles in our sport. We all come together and work as a team, to do what is best for horse racing here.”

Creating awareness and enjoyment of the sport remains a top priority for Turnage-Barney.

There is no doubt he has a knack for it.

“Every person I have been able to introduce to our sport, my hope is that we have crafted a life-long fan,” he said.

Kelsie Awaiting tops PEO Mixed Sale

The well-bred 3-year-old trotting filly Kelsie Awaiting, a full sister to the multiple stakes' winning Walner Payton was the sales topper in the March 4, 2024, Preferred Equine Online Mixed Sale.

Consigned by PEO as agent for Ken Jacobs, the daughter of Walner topped the auction with a purchase price of $230,000. With multiple bidders during the extended time, she was purchased by one of the sports leading breeders, Crawford Farms, LLC.

Recent Meadowlands winner Sheer Terror p,4,1:49.4-'24 was hammered down for $90,000 to Mark Howard. The Always B Miki gelding paced to a new career best on Saturday night (March 2) at The Meadowlands and should be a contender in the upcoming 4-year-old events.

Early Action was the next highest lot, selling to David Rovine Stable, LLC, Agent. The 5-year-old Huntsville gelding sold for $62,000. Both Sheer Terror and Early action were sold by PEO, agent for the partnership of Val D'or Farms and Theodore Gewertz, and Hall of Fame trainer Joe Holloway.

Sale proprietor and manager David Reid was pleased with both the results and the overall participation in this and previous sales.

"It's been two years since we launched our online sales division," he said. "First and foremost, I continue to be pleased with the continued success our sales graduates have had for their new owners, and also our customers are understanding the level of customer service the PEO staff delivers across the industry.

"There are no boundaries with our online sales. Participation in our sales platform has come from literally everywhere... Europe, Southern Hemisphere, East Coast, West Coast, Canada, and the Midwest. That was the case once again at this week's sale."

In all, 12 lots sold for $537,950, equaling a strong average of nearly $45,000 in the March 4 event.

Preferred Equine Online is currently on a every other week sale schedule, with the next auction slated for Monday (March 18).

Punchesinbunches the big winner at London awards night ceremony

Local pacing star Punchesinbunches was the big winner Saturday night (March 2) at The Raceway at the Western Fair District's annual awards night, taking home both Three-Year-Old Pacing Colt honors and winning a 'unanimous' decision as Overall Horse of the Year.

The pride of his owner/trainer Doug Schweitzer of West Lorne, ON, enjoyed a stellar 3-year-old season in which he amassed 12 wins and 25 top-three finishes from 29 starts with a mark of 1:55 taken over London's half-mile oval. The son of Dali wrapped up his 2023 campaign with more than $77,000 in seasonal earnings.

The other double winner on the night was female trotter Okeeheelee who took home both Older Trotting Mare and Claiming Trotter honors on the strength of eight wins and more than $41,000 earned during an excellent 2023 season.

Tyler Borth, who finished runner-up in Canada for wins last year was The Raceway's Driver of the Year while Cassidy Schneider, fresh off her O'Brien Award as Canada's Rising Star, took home a second consecutive Trainer of the Year title.

Two other winners were not announced until Saturday evening's celebration; those were the Ruth Hebert Horsewoman of the Year which went to Angie Carroll and the Caretaker of the Year which was given to Logan McMurren.

Seven million reasons to bet at The Big M

If all of February was fabulous, then the start of March was nothing short of magnificent at The Meadowlands, as last weekend (March 1-2), for the first time in 2024, total wagering over the course of a Friday-Saturday race week blew past the $7-million mark.

“The month of March got off to the grandest of starts,” said track chief operating officer/general manager Jason Settlemoir. “Full fields of highly competitive races on our mile track sparked a flurry of wagering action. Saturday evening was a rainy and dreary one weather-wise, but rain or shine, The Meadowlands’ faithful come to play.”

The Saturday handle of $3,568,532 pushed weekend action to $7,233,313. Big M management is hopeful that this is a sign of things to come, as during 2023, the $7-million weekend hurdle was cleared five times.

“The track crew did a magnificent job with the racing surface,” said Settlemoir. “And fast times were aplenty, including the 1:50 barrier being broken in race 8 Saturday, when Sheer Terror won in 1:49.4.”

The weekend began with a Friday handle of $3,664,781, which established a 2024 Friday-night best.

LARRY LEDERMAN PASSES: After a long battle with cancer, popular race caller Larry Lederman passed away Tuesday (March 5). He was 67.

In recent years, even while in declining health, Lederman would occasionally fill-in on the mic at The Meadowlands, where he was always welcomed by management and fans alike.

An announcer who had jobs at many racetracks during his career, Lederman is likely best remembered by fans from when he was the caller at Atlantic City Race Course, Garden State Park and Freehold Raceway.

“You never knew what Larry was going to say,” said Big M TV’s Dave Little, who knew Lederman for more than 30 years. “Once, when my best friend and I went to Garden State, we went upstairs to say hi to Larry. Next thing we know, he’s introducing my friend to the crowd as the 1936 Olympic discus champion.

“Did he say silly stuff and sometimes give baseball scores during race calls? Yes. But did he always give the fans a good account of what was going on in the race at the same time? Absolutely. That’s what made Larry great at his craft.”

“Larry was part of the family at The Meadowlands,” said Settlemoir. “And we – as well as our fan base – always loved it when he would come and fill-in every once in a while. He was a funny guy who was also a smart guy who was also a great announcer. He will be missed.”

OH YES, IT’S LADIES’ NIGHT: Following in the footsteps of music industry giants Queen Bey and Tay Tay, Saturday (March 9), will be one for women in harness racing to shine, as The Meadowlands will again host an International Women’s Day-themed broadcast, sponsored by Clinton Tractor.

Jessica and Jenna Otten will host the live in-house simulcast show, and, in addition, Dawnelle Mock will be on hand for paddock and social media interviews. The night will include interviews, features and videos.

During the pregame show, Jessica will have Lauren Harmon on set as her guest “In the Sulky.”

Harmon is a lifelong horseman who is the niece of Big M trainer Rob Harmon. The segment will begin at 5:50 p.m.

BETTING LIKE PROFESSIONALS: The Meadowlands Amateur Driving Club (MADC) is enjoying a sensational run in 2024, offering some of the biggest fields and pools in racing.

Friday (March 1) night was certainly one of their best evenings on record. The three MADC races took in a total of $826,036. Of considerable note, two of the MADC events were the top two races in terms of harness racing action in the country last weekend, with race 1 seeing $324,585 bet while race 7 saw $315,550 pushed through the windows.

“We want to thank our horsewomen and horsemen who put on the show last weekend under rainy skies,” said Settlemoir. “Their efforts, which resulted in our biggest box office weekend of the year, have to be acknowledged.

“We also continue to thank the horseplayers from around the world for their loyal support of our product. Besides low takeout, one of the ways we say thank you is by offering free programs online to our horseplayers and guests. The complimentary information is available for all Meadowlands programs on our website (playmeadowlands.com).”

‘ARDAN’ LOOKS FOR MAGNIFICENT SEVEN: Saturday (March 9) night’s 10th-race featured high-end conditioned pace will see the return of the current biggest star in harness racing, as the Robert Cleary-trained Oakwood Ardan IR will bid for his seventh straight victory since coming to North America last fall from Great Britain.

The 5-year-old Irish-bred gelded son of Sweet Lou–Trend Setter will depart from post 6 in a talented eight-horse field and will start out at 2-1 on the morning-line with regular driver Andy McCarthy at the controls.

After Oakwood Ardan IR’s win on Feb. 10, McCarthy was fired up when talking about the lifetime winner of 15 of 34 starts.

“Professional, I think that’s the perfect word for this horse,” said McCarthy, whose 24 wins are good for second in the Big M driver standings. “He does everything you want him to do. He wants to go to work. This horse, he’s pretty exciting.”

Hippodrome 3R to host the 2024 National Driving Championship

Standardbred Canada is pleased to announce the host tracks and dates for the 2024 National Driving Championship (NDC) and the Regional Driving Championships. The final will take place at Hippodrome 3R, in Trois-Rivières, QC, on Friday (July 5).

The National Driving Championship will determine Canada’s representative in the 2025 World Driving Championship set to be held in New Zealand.

“The Trois-Rivières racetrack is extremely proud to welcome such a major event to its track this summer,” said Sophie Mongeon, chair of the board for Club Jockey du Québec. “We wish the best of success to all the top drivers across the country, who will be giving their all to earn this prestigious title.”

Drivers must earn their way into the National Driving Championship by finishing first or second in their respective Regional Driving Championship.

The Western Regional will be hosted at Century Downs on April 13, The Raceway at Western Fair District will host the Ontario Regional on April 23, the Quebec / Eastern Ontario Regional will be hosted at Hippodrome 3R on May 19, and Red Shores Racetrack and Casino at Charlottetown Driving Park will host the Atlantic Regional on May 25.

“We are very excited to announce the sites for the 2024 National Driving Championship,” said Darryl Kaplan, president & CEO of Standardbred Canada. “We introduced this event 17 years ago and we are thrilled to be bringing the final to the province of Quebec for the first time. Fantastic partners at great tracks across the country have helped elevate the NDC into a highly anticipated series of events, culminating this year with the final at Hippodrome 3R on July 5. We look forward to crowning a Canadian champion who will also represent Canada at the 2025 World Driving Championship in New Zealand.”

Regional Driving Championships

- Saturday (April 13) – Western Regional Driving Championship – Century Downs; Calgary, AB.
- Tuesday (April 23) – Ontario Regional Driving Championship – The Raceway at Western Fair District; London, ON.
- Sunday (May 19) – Quebec / Eastern Ontario Regional Driving Championship – Hippodrome 3R; Trois-Rivières, QC.
- Saturday (May 25) – Atlantic Regional Driving Championship – Red Shores Racetrack and Casino at Charlottetown Driving Park; Charlottetown, PEI.

National Driving Championship

• Friday (July 5) – Hippodrome 3R; Trois-Rivières, QC.

Past winners of the NDC title include Doug McNair (2022, 2018), Brandon Campbell (2016), Jody Jamieson (2014, 2011), Brad Forward (2009) and Gilles Barrieau (2007).

Harness racing support reaches Paris, KY school

Harness racing success stories are often found throughout the standardbred industry and most recently a group of horse breeders from around the globe have found Bourbon County in Kentucky and have come forward to help the St. Mary's School in Paris.

The elementary Catholic school has been in existence for 136 years and had been hoping to be able to expand its excellent program to include a new middle school facility. In order to do that they would need to purchase the vacant building next door.

The school's need was understood by local harness racing industry leaders and the idea for the fundraising had begun nearly a year ago.

A total of 13 standardbred stallion breeding's were donated to the fundraising effort for the school. Those helping the cause hail from Kentucky, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Canada and even as far away as New Zealand.

These gentlemen are Kevin Greenfield (Hickory Lane Farm), Frank Antonacci (Lindy Farms), Duncan Taylor (Taylor Made Stallions), John Barnard, Jon Weisman (Weisman Farms), Ola Yoder (Kountry Lane Standardbreds), Steve Stewart (Hunterton Farm) and John Curtin (JC International).

According to St. Mary's School's principal, Miranda Chaplin, "The unique fundraiser seems particularly apropos for the school, where 28 per cent of the students come from families connected with the equine industry."

Chaplin herself grew up showing standardbreds at county fairs and other competitions. The school boasts an emphasis on agricultural education, and even has a club promoting agriculture.

Donated were breedings to Capt Midnight, Crazy Wow, Don't Let Em, Fiftydallarbill, Helpisontheway, In Range, International Moni, King Of The North, Lather Up, Lazarus N, Temporal Hanover, Uncle Peter and What The Hill.

Now steps in, David Reid, president and owner of Preferred Equine Online, one of the leading online auction sites in harness racing. Along with his hard-working staff, Reid featured the 13 breedings on his website, free of charge.

The conditions were 10 per cent down, and not refundable, with the balance due when the mare has a live foal.

The results of the first annual action were tremendous with $60,650 raised for St. Mary's School.

"The folks at St. Mary's do a fantastic job," Reid said. "Their school ranks among the highest scores in the state and we were happy for their success."

"It's absolutely incredible to have folks in the community who see the value of the education we're providing at St. Mary's," said principal Chaplin. "And that they want to help us serve more children and their families."

Plans are already in the works for an even bigger second annual stallion auction next year to help with the development of the new middle school. The group is hoping to get as many as 50 stallion breedings for the action in 2024.

Meadowlands outstanding drive of the weekend

Thanks to a fan suggestion, The Meadowlands has created a "Drive of the Weekend" promotion.

Each Monday, following the weekend of racing, The Meadowlands will post a poll on X (the platform formerly known as Twitter) asking fans to vote for their favorite drive of the past weekend. The poll will run for 24 hours, allowing one vote per X handle. Fans can follow @TheMeadowlands on X to vote in the poll.

Meadowlands TV and management will select at least two outstanding drives from the weekend to include in the poll. Fans can suggest a drive to be included in the poll via X. If that drive is included in the poll, the fan will receive a $25 betting voucher valid at The Meadowlands (for those 18+, random drawing used if multiple fans suggest same drive).

The winning drive will be announced every Tuesday afternoon and the winning driver will receive a $500 donation to the charity of their choice, courtesy of Jeff Gural and The Meadowlands. The promo will begin Monday (March 11).

"We encourage our fans to submit their suggestions to us via social media or emails to media@playmeadowlands.com," said COO/GM of The Meadowlands Jason Settlemyre. "We are always open to new ideas and if we can make something work, we will."

Visit PlayMeadowlands.com for all upcoming racing, event and dining information.
