A pillar of the Ontario harness racing community, Clinton Raceway has spent the better part of its storied existence building a reputation for punching above its weight class.

This summer, the quaint half-mile oval will step up once again – this time into uncharted territory – when the National Driving Championship (NDC) comes to town on July 26.

In 2022, Legends Day featured father-and-son legends Ron and Randy Waples.

“I think I can speak for the majority of, if not all of us, and say that it’s pretty special to be able to host an event of this magnitude [the National Driving Championship] at our little down-home track.”

~ Jessica Carnochan

“I think I can speak for the majority of, if not all of us, and say that it’s pretty special to be able to host an event of this magnitude at our little down-home track,” said Jessica Carnochan, marketing manager at Clinton Raceway.

The seeds of hope sprouted long before the official announcement from Standardbred Canada on Feb. 25, but as Carnochan noted, the mere prospect of Clinton hosting its first NDC final felt, at one time, far-fetched.

“When Ian [Fleming, Clinton Raceway general manager] had brought it to my attention last season and we began the application process, I thought it was maybe a pipe dream – we are both good at those – and the odds might not be completely in our favor to host such a prestigious event.

“In this case, I don’t mind being proven wrong.”

Now, in the wake of its reality, the significance of the moment is clear, especially for a denizen of Clinton Raceway like Carnochan.

“This track has been a part of my life for more years than it hasn’t,” she said. “I know that all of us here take pride in what we do and what we can offer to our fans. It’s so exciting to be able to show it on a national level. I am very excited to work with a fantastic group at Standardbred Canada to put on a show that won’t soon be forgotten.”

Jessica Carnochan

In 2025, Clinton Raceway opened its new grandstand which will be the base for this year's National Driving Championship and Legends Day.

The 2026 renewal marks 20 years since the inaugural National Driving Championship.

For Clinton, staging the NDC, let alone during a milestone year, was already poised to mark another proud moment in the southwestern Ontario oval's rich history.

When it was revealed the NDC would also coincide with a celebration honoring the 50th anniversary of the Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame and the 25th Anniversary of Clinton's flagship biennial event, Legends Day, anticipation for the mid-summer program only soared.

The hope, at least around Clinton, is that the supercharged event will tease a taste of the nostalgia from the track's early days.

"I really don't know how it can't," Carnochan said. "I spent a day down at the Hall of Fame a month ago doing research on our history. It runs deep with many connections of family members involved in the early days who are still coming season after season. Our first race was held here 80 years ago this August. We will no doubt be bringing some of that history into this event."

With plenty of bases to cover ahead of the big day, Carnochan and the folks at Clinton are working diligently to ensure everything goes according to plan.

The program, which in true Clinton fashion, will support its local Public Hospital Foundation. It will also feature an online auction, a drivers' meet and greet, memorabilia, and the Raceway's patented chicken barbeque following the races.

The team is also partnering with the Hall of Fame to deliver a special tribute alongside the other festivities.

"We are very excited to be working with Linda [Rainey] and the Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame as they celebrate 50 years this summer," Carnochan said. "There are plans on holding a reunion and honoring members with connections to this area leading up to the event."

Between the array of on- and off-track attractions lies the opportunity to immortalize July 26 among Clinton's most cherished race days.

Few understand the gravity of the three-pronged slate better than Carnochan, who upon the initial NDC announcement, told Standardbred Canada the combined force of these events "creates a once-in-a-generation moment."

Words she continues to stand by.

"Something like this caliber of event doesn't come along very often, and being able to bridge the past with our legends, to the present of today's drivers, and the future of the youth in attendance is truly unique, and special – it's something many people may not see again," she said.

“Something like this caliber of event doesn’t come along very often, and being able to bridge the past with our legends, to the present of today’s drivers, and the future of the youth in attendance is truly unique, and special – it’s something many people may not see again.”

~ Jessica Carnochan

“I don’t come from a harness racing background and even I can appreciate the merit of such an event, so I can just imagine how those who have been immersed in it will feel.”

No matter how the racing bug found them, the NDC epitomizes where memories are made at the racetrack.

For Carnochan, it’s James MacDonald winning the 2024 NDC at Hippodrome 3R and then going on to claim the 2025 World Driving Championship in New Zealand.

For others, it might be the “Maritime Magic Man” Gilles Barrieau capturing the 2007 NDC or Alberta’s Brandon Campbell taking the crown 2016.

What’s for certain, though, is a refreshed Clinton Raceway will provide the grounds where the next wave of NDC memories is made.

“Having the facility that we do now will make this event accessible for everyone,” Carnochan said. “Our new grandstand combined with the pavilion, tent, and patio will be the perfect stage to welcome guests from far and wide.

“This is the type of event we wanted to be able to hold, and it just wasn’t something we could see happening with the older grandstand. Having one year under our belt with it as well helps with the flow, we know how things work, and how to ensure it’s a pleasant experience for those who have never been here.”

In just over four months’ time, the harness racing world will divert its attention to the town of 3,200.

Ahead of its most anticipated race day of the season – and perhaps years – the Raceway at the center of its charming, tight-knit community, is relishing the opportunity to put on a world-class show.

“Of course, it’s a little nerve wracking, but the outside support that we’ve received so far since the announcement has been so positive and the team here on the inside works like a well-oiled machine,” Carnochan said. “We know it’s going to take a lot of work and dedication on our end, but that’s not something we’ve ever shied away from before.

“We are a proud little track located in a wonderful community with lots to offer, and we look forward to sharing it with the harness racing world and beyond.”

To reach the final at Clinton Raceway, drivers must finish first or second in their respective Regional Driving Championship.

There are four divisions, featuring fields of eight or nine drivers who will compete in a series of races and earn points based on finishing position.

Below are the dates and locations for each regional championship:

May 5 – Ontario Regional Driving Championship – The Raceway at Western Fair District, London, ON

May 23 – Western Regional Driving Championship – Century Downs, Calgary, AB

June 14 – Quebec / Eastern Ontario Regional Driving Championship – Hippodrome 3R, Trois-Rivières, QC

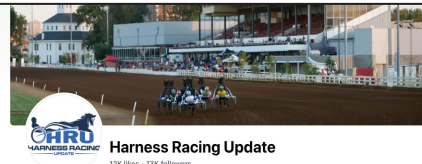

June 23 – Atlantic Regional Driving Championship – Red Shores Summerside, Summerside, PEI

ADVENTURES IN ILLINOIS

Illinois Harness Horsemen's Association's waiting game continues over Hawthorne bankruptcy

by Neil Milbert

While members of the Illinois Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association (ITHA) are getting the money Hawthorne Race Course owes them, the waiting game continues for Illinois Harness Horsemen's Association (IHHA) members following the third hearing before Judge Timothy Barnes in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Illinois Eastern Division.

Based on what Judge Barnes had said at the prior hearing the previous week harness owners, trainers, and drivers went into the March 10 hearing with reason to believe they'd be categorized as a "critical vendor" and reimbursed for bankrupt Hawthorne's bounced checks totaling between $580,000 and $700,000 and unpaid purse money in frozen bank accounts.

However, Joel Schechter, a lawyer representing one of Hawthorne's secured creditors, Latto Capital LLC, objected to the "critical vendor" designation because harness racing isn't scheduled to resume at the track until November, prompting Judge Barnes to reconsider his earlier assumption.

"After several hours the judge decided that those payments would not be approved immediately and instead would be addressed as part of the next state of the bankruptcy process," the IHHA said on its website.

"It is important for everyone to understand that this decision does not mean horsemen will not receive the money owed to them. The court is requiring additional review as part of the normal bankruptcy process before approving certain payments and financing."

Judge Barnes seemed to be on the same page.

"While my overall belief toward the horsemen hasn't changed, I'm having to work toward that goal under the law," he said. "It's the best I can do."

The next hearing is scheduled for March 27.

"After several hours the judge [Timothy Barnes] decided that those payments [to harness horsemen] would not be approved immediately and instead would be addressed as part of the next state of the bankruptcy process. It is important for everyone to understand that this decision does not mean horsemen will not receive the money owed to them."

~ Illinois Harness Horsemen's Association

The March 29 beginning of the Hawthorne thoroughbred meeting has been delayed because of the Feb. 27 Chapter 11 bankruptcy filing and the new tentative start date, pending the approval of the Illinois Racing Board, is April 19. That meeting is scheduled to run through Nov. 1 after which Hawthorne's Suburban Downs harness meeting is tentatively scheduled for Nov. 6-Dec. 27.

The reason the harness schedule is tentative is because the Racing Board suspended the Suburban Downs license in January. All 14 programs schedule for that month and February were wiped out and the suspension remains in effect.

Hawthorne's thoroughbred meeting is not impacted by the Suburban Downs suspension and, because it is scheduled to begin in April, the thoroughbred creditors fall into the "critical vendor" category as do three of Hawthorne's simulcast partners, Monarch Content Management, Penn Entertainment, and Caesars. These three control the simulcast signals from 13 tracks.

Judge Barnes said resumption of Hawthorne's incoming and outgoing simulcast signals that were pulled because of non-payment is essential for the betterment of all creditors. The cessation of the signals also impacted Hawthorne's 13 off-track

“ While my overall belief toward the [harness] horsemen hasn’t changed, I’m having to work toward that goal under the law. It’s the best I can do. ” betting outlets, the Club Hawthorne mobile wagering app and clubhawthorne.com.

~ Judge Timothy Barnes

Approval of payments to the simulcast creditors is contingent on them signing a written agreement with Hawthorne to resume sending and receiving races for wagering.

Hawthorne has received approximately $16 million from a temporary debtor-in-funding line of credit with JDI Loans, enabling the track that is owned by the Carey family to begin repaying debts estimated at between $100 million and $500,000 to a plethora of creditors. The bankruptcy hearings have revealed that the money owed members of the IHHA and ITHA is the tip of the iceberg.

At the March 10 meeting Judge Barnes approved payment to ITHA members for $1,108,733 in overdue purse money and $281,844 in checks that bounced because of insufficient funds.

Hawthorne’s loan from JDI comes with a string attached – a 120-day term limit. When the term expires Hawthorne’s president/ chief executive officer Tim Carey can ask for additional funds to keep operating. If JDI were to decline it would vault to the top of the list of creditors.

Carey said at the latest hearing that in 2025 he had an unsolicited offer of $1 million per acre for the 107-acre track property and that another group was interested in buying the property to build a data center (that would end racing at the Chicago metropolitan area’s only racetrack).

Carey and the members of the IHHA and ITHA continue to hold out hope that Hawthorne will find a partner to convert the track into a racino offering slot machines and table games in addition to horse racing. A portion of the adjusted gross revenue would be funneled to the respective purse accounts.

In 2019, Carey received approval from the Illinois Gaming Board for what he said at the time was a $400 million undertaking and the following year a portion of the grandstand was destroyed to launch the racino project.

But since then, all the teardown has produced is creditors who are among those suing for unpaid bills and an eyesore for fans at the track.

At this stage of the game the racino that would have the potential to take Hawthorne out of bankruptcy looks like a longshot.

THE DOWN UNDER DIARY

with ADAM HAMILTON

Leap To Fame takes on trainer Jason Grimson's top trio in stacked Miracle Mile

by Adam Hamilton

For Superman it was Lex Luthor and for champion pacer Leap To Fame it is rival trainer Jason Grimson.

As Leap To Fame prepares to headline the strongest race Down Under harness racing has seen in almost 20 years, his arch nemesis Grimson again looms ominously.

Grimson, the young and brash Australian training sensation, marks perhaps his greatest achievement yet with three of the eight runners – Swayzee, Captains Mistress, and Chase A Dream – in Saturday night's (March 14) $1 million Miracle Mile at Menangle in Sydney.

“I get asked if I'm excited about having the chance to win another Miracle Mile [with Leap To Fame] and of course I am, but for me now it's as much about enjoying these big races because he's getting closer to the end [of his racing career].”

~ Grant Dixon

Many feel he was robbed not to have half the field when Rakero Rocket, the fastest pacer Down Under for the past seven years, was controversially dumped from the field in favor of New Zealand and Victoria Cup winner Kingman, who tired badly to run ninth in his qualifier last Saturday night (March 7).

But three runners give Grimson his best chance yet of winning the race he most wants, being NSW-born and based at Menangle, the home of the Miracle Mile.

In just four years or so on the Grand Circuit, Grimson has won most other majors, including two Inter Dominions, two Hunter Cups, two New Zealand Cups, a Victoria Cup, a Blacks A Fake, and a Nullarbor.

Most of those have come during Leap To Fame's rein and three of them against him, all by Swayzee.

While Swayzee is still around and a major force, Grimson's stock has blossomed.

Many think it's his recent stable addition, brilliant young mare Captains Mistress, who represents Leap To Fame's biggest threat on Saturday night.

She hadn't started racing when Leap To Fame won his first Miracle Mile in 2024. He returned to run a close and brave second to Don Hugo last year.

The market has Leap To Fame $2.30 favorite (for a $1 bet) with Captains Mistress challenging strongly at $2.80. Swayzee is at $10.

That's because Leap To Fame again reminded everyone of his greatness with his 65th win in his 84th start in a $75,000 Miracle Mile qualifier last Saturday night at Menangle.

In typical style, he was three-wide early before sitting outside the leader throughout and still too strong in a 1:48.6 mile, which equaled his career-best.

Leap To Fame scorched his last half in :53.6 after sitting parked. Let that sink in.

Then, just when it seemed exciting young Kiwi import Chase A Dream would make the most of a much softer run and collar the champ, Leap To Fame lifted and was actually pulling away again on the line.

"He's always had this amazing will to win and we saw it again," trainer/driver Grant Dixon said. "He felt great in the run. I was really pleased with how he dug in when the other horse sprinted at him."

What Dixon is most in awe about is how Leap To Fame has been doing it for four years and is still going as well, if not better, than ever.

His times and the quality of opposition say he's never raced better.

"For a long time, it was really just him and Swayzee," he said. "But now there's so much depth and new horses coming through to challenge him.

"Captains Mistress has been stunning. She's so exciting and I've got huge respect for The Janitor, too. I've said for a while he's the next top pacer in Queensland.

"His [The Janitor's] run to come from last and wide to win the other night was huge.

"I get asked if I'm excited about having the chance to win another Miracle Mile and of course I am, but for me now it's as much about enjoying these big races because he's getting closer to the end [of his racing career]."

Fans should soak it up, too.

Leap To Fame's swan song could come as early as this quest for a third Inter Dominion crown in Brisbane in July.

A stud career awaits the 7-year-old, who has smashed the Down Under prize money record with almost $5.5 million so far.

Despite Leap To Fame's terrific mile record at Menangle, Dixon admits sprint racing leaves his champ more vulnerable.

"He's just such a great stayer," Dixon said. "He might not have the brilliant point-to-point speed of some, but he can hold his top speed so long and the will to win really comes into play in the longer races.

“It’s the strongest racing and best depth we’ve had [in the Miracle Mile] in my time, say for the last decade at least. As Grant [Dixon] said, it really was just [the horse I drive] Swayzee and Leap To Fame for about two years. Now you could make a case for every runner in this Miracle Mile having a winning chance.”

~ Cam Hart

“We only decided late to have another go at the Miracle Mile this time. He’d had five runs in big races in Victoria, but when he got home, he was jumping out of his skin and really made the decision for us.”

Rival driver Cam Hart, who has been aboard Swayzee for his three wins over Leap To Fame, noted something different about him last Saturday night.

“He just looked so sharp and switched-on, more so than I’ve seen him before,” Hart said. “Often Grant really has to drive him along, especially in the shorter races, but he was right on the bit and keen the other night. That’s a great sign for him going into the week.”

“He’s the horse we all have to beat again, especially on what I saw the other night. It’s a thrill to race against him and to have been able to beat him a few times.”

Hart, a 27-year-old driving sensation, agrees with Dixon on the depth of talent in this Miracle Mile.

“It’s the strongest racing and best depth we’ve had in my time, say for the last decade at least,” he said.

“As Grant said, it really was just Swayzee and Leap To Fame for about two years. Now you could make a case for every runner in this Miracle Mile having a winning chance.”

Take the defending champion Don Hugo for example. A luckless third in his qualifier and a horror draw have him a longshot at $17.

He will need to create history as the first horse to win from the extreme outside draw (gate 8) to successfully defend his title. Unsurprisingly, Leap To Fame holds the record for the widest barrier, winning from post 7 in 2024.

Don Hugo’s trainer Luke McCarthy also has Kingman in the race, who was the new nemesis to Leap To Fame just a few months back when he beat him in the huge Victoria and New Zealand Cup double.

Some mixed form this year and a mystifying flop when he led and tired for ninth in last week’s qualifier make Kingman the conundrum of the race.

Which Kingman will turn up?

“Luke will turn him around and he’s got a great draw [he will start from 2] to sit just off the speed, get a soft run, and be very dangerous,” Dixon said.

And who can discount the ageless, giant-killing marvel of Aussie pacing, 11-year-old Bulletproof Boy.

He’s a $61 outsider but part of you wonders why when you think he’s caused huge upsets beating Leap To Fame, Kingman, and Rakero Rocket in recent months.

“And he ran the quickest sectional times of his life winning the Newcastle Mile last start,” trainer Scott Ewen said. “Of course, he’s the underdog, he always is, but that’s when he runs best, when everybody has forgotten about him.”

The Miracle Mile has a rich history and has been the most colorful race of the modern era Down Under.

This field has all the ingredients to deliver one of its greatest chapters yet.

MANE ATTRACTION

with JOHN BERRY

Nobody would be better at fixing the sport than the fans

by John Berry

In a recent Mane Attraction, it was pointed out by some devout BDHC (Broken Down Horse Player) members that the most neglected participant in our sport is the fan.

That being the strong sentiment among many of them, this Mane Attraction corralled some of our most devout fans with their history, in many cases, over a half century with their thoughts and suggestions very relevant for the future of our sport.

Of course, we have the medication issues to solve, along with the “money is the root of all evil” syndrome always apparent, but, just maybe, the thoughts of some of our staunch supporters on the grandstand side of the track, will hit home with the very people that may be able to help save our future.

Smitty, a retired educator, has enjoyed the industry for well over a half century and has “relished the therapeutic value” it has afforded to him, along with many of our BDHC members.

Smitty leads us off lamenting, “First and foremost, the fan has been left at the starting gate since casinos have nuzzled their way into harness racing.

“While millions have been invested into their ‘palaces,’ little has been put forth for fan comfort and meaningful marketing programs.”

(Mane Attraction has seen major campaigns at some places, i.e., in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and, when Florida was alive, Pompano Park, however, by and large, Smitty has a valid argument, compounded with the casino folk playing “footsies” with legislatures to get de-coupling passed in recent times.)

Smitty continued, “I have pointed out that, in the [g]olden days of our sport, there were strong [wagering] pools in an era when the simplicity of the sport featured only a daily double, win, place, and show betting and, stretching into the [19]70s, an occasional quinella or twin quinella, perfecta, and trifecta.

“All pools were strong and, as the proliferation of exotics spread, pools got noticeably weaker.”

Willoughby, a nightly punter at all Chicago tracks, then added, “That is accurate but, as other forms of gambling infiltrated harness racing, the [betting] handles began to erode even more and that’s when land values became the big deal and the owners of the tracks found that the worth of the land and the money to be made far out-weighed their love and commitment for harness racing.

“Can’t really blame them. When The Meadowlands opened, that took a huge chunk out of the Roosevelt-Yonkers play.

“Yes, Yonkers survived because of being on crutches [simulcasting, casino, and political help] but, even though their purses are still decent, betting handle wouldn’t support purses being anywhere near what they are today, and who knows how long that will last.

“I’m sure they are on pins and needles every day.”

M. P. said, “I think the biggest problem is the wagering methodology, itself.

“Harness racing is racing in antiquated times – I mean today, 2026 – not in 1:52 terms. I think the whole industry has to be rebuilt from wagering to the racing, itself. They have to make it more interesting for the fan.

“First, there’s the ‘bite’ [takeout] of whatever, 18-20 per cent on win, place, show and 25-35 per cent on all those exotics. Casinos have a 6-8 per cent rake and you’re betting against the house while we still bet against the guy or gal sitting right next to you.

“Even the lottery with the 40-50 per cent rake has a huge effect because you take a shot for a couple of bucks for a million or 10,000 or 500. Who wouldn’t take a shot at that for a few bucks?

“Sports betting is huge and you’re betting against the house and you know what you’re going to win [or lose] and the offerings are, pretty much, endless, and they are inventing new things to draw you in all the time. Football is huge, then basketball and March Madness is huge, and Baseball. From touchdown scorers to rushing yards and receiving stats, even coin toss results, there’s something for everyone.”

Dixon added, “I love the baseball season coming up and there are all kinds of stuff for us from pitcher strikeouts, home runs, first inning runs, longer props on batting stats for a whole season, and 10,000 other things, you name it.

“Hockey, soccer, golf, motor sports, from the common to the not-so-common novelty like the time for the national anthem and s - - t like that.

“To tell you the truth about pari-mutuels, they are B-O-R-I-N-G. A race every 27 minutes doesn’t cut it when there’s something going on just about every second.

“How about different distances in the races to spice it up – half mile, five-eighths, seven-eighths, a mile-and-an-eighth and a mile-and-a quarter. Shorten ‘em up, lengthen ‘em out, have series to make them more interesting.”

Stan The Pinochle Man, now a longtime retired accountant, said, “The world changes and harness racing has not.

“When I first got into business, we did our journals by hand, and look what’s happened over the years. They have computer programming that does stuff in the blink-of-an-eye.

“Putting it in harness racing terms, what took 2:09.3 to do a manual task when I started now takes three strides off the gate at the start – literally a couple of seconds.

“Racing better find a way to keep up with the times.”

Luke The Pan Man says it should all be in the hands of the folk that put the races together.

“First, no short fields,” Luke said. “It kills racing for us fans, absolutely kills us. Nobody likes $2.40 winners, probably not even those holding tickets on them.

“We all know that they [race secretaries] have a very tough job keeping their trainers happy and they are under a lot of pressure but, really, they only consider the horsemen when putting together the races, not us.

“Less races and bigger purses would probably help, and less races would result in much bigger purses.

“It’s simple arithmetic that, if you have $100,000 for purses for a 15-race card that’s going to get over at midnight, the average is, well, I don’t really know, that’s over my head. (It would be $6,666 per race.)”

“If you have only 10 races, well, that’s easy, $10,000 per. A big increase [50 per cent higher]. And you’re done, maybe, two hours earlier.

HOW MUCH
YOU

#BETONHARNESS

“Most of us are old now and we don’t hang around like we used to, that’s for sure.”

Tommy Blue Eyes sees a bigger problem, and said, “Pari-mutuel racing can no longer survive.

“It was great when it started more than 100 years ago, but look what has happened to this world in the last 100 years, everything has been re-invented! And I mean everything.

“From computers and the internet to smartphones and, now artificial intelligence, vaccines, organ transplants, medical imaging, airplanes, cars running by computers, air-conditioning, literally thousands more, and harness racing still has pari-mutuel betting, over 100 years old at tracks.”

Billy The Drummer thinks he has the answer to the future.

“I think we need – and they’ve been talking about it – fixed odds betting,” Billy said. “If we could lock in a price, it would change the game. You could still make your bets through however you do it now with the option of adding to your bet before the bell rings [off time].

“The track would book the bet – no 18 per cent or 25 per cent take-out – so you’d be betting against the track and not any other person. To help pay the purses, you could have an 8 per cent or 10 per cent rate on the winning bets [remember, it’s 18 per cent on win, place, show and 25 per cent on many exotics] and I don’t think anyone would mind about that.”

Comparing this to the typical track take-out of 18 per cent, if there is 10 per cent of the money bet on an entry in a 10-horse field, the probable win price would approximate $16.40 at tote-board odds of 7-1. A 10 per cent rake on that same bet guaranteed at 10-1 after a win would be $18. That figure could also be built into the quoted odds when the wager is made.

The difference would be substantial on exotic wagers “booked” by the track with the amount shown (with the 10 per cent takeout) worked in to the quoted price, just like prop parlays or multi-bets with, for example, a winning trifecta, superfecta or pentafecta with a quoted price of $2,000, including the 10 per cent rake, would pay only $1,650 on a pari-mutuel ticket.

When asked what type of prop bets would be on a bettor’s “wish list,” a combination of replies included: driver-to-driver match-ups, the winning margin in a race, the winning time, predicting the winner will set a track record, the color of a driver’s colors or, even, the color of a horse’s coat (brown, bay, blk, white, gray), over-under on how many races a driver will win on a racing program, a week, month or entire season, time trials between races offering time predictions (a favorite of Marsh The Barber and Billy The Drummer) and which horse will finish last in any particular race.

As Harold The Lefty said, “The possibilities are endless.”

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Kayla Baxter chose the barn over the boardroom

by Chris Lomon

Stubborn, standoffish or silly standardbreds? Kayla Baxter is always eager to take on the challenge.

There is not the slightest note of conceit in the groom's voice, nor is there any want of acknowledgement for the yeoman work she takes on with the problematic-type pacers and trotters who are in her care.

Instead, there is a quiet satisfaction that comes from bringing out the best in big personality-type horses and then seeing them thrive on the racetrack.

"When I first get a horse, and they're very standoffish, I tend to bond with those ones that are flighty, and standoffish, because I take my time with them," Baxter said.

Whether the horses happen to be high-strung or low-key, each one is provided with a platinum standard of care and attention.

"The horses are absolutely everything to me," she said. "Every day, I get to come in and I get to take care of these magnificent animals. I get to make sure that they're safe, sound, and happy, and love on them, and just give them the best life I can while they're with me. Just to be able to bring them along and watch them grow and watch them get better each week; it's really the best feeling I've ever had, to be honest with you."

A third-generation horseperson – her grandfather John Baxter and father Ron Baxter were both longtime racing participants – Kayla's time in horse racing has been anything but a straight, uninterrupted path.

"I was born and raised in the industry," she said. "I came out of high school and went straight to the racetrack, and I spent three years there. I worked for Gerry Hudon, Travis Humphrey, and Kelly Ducharme."

For a time, she made the move to a world of boardrooms instead of barns, working traditional business hours from Monday to Friday.

"And then, that [horse racing] life got away from me, and I decided to go into the corporate world, and I spent a little too much time there," Kayla said.

Three years ago, Kayla found herself at a crossroads. The 9-to-5 grind had taken its toll, and she needed to make a change.

her father's colors.

She would eventually return to a familiar world and familiar faces.

"In 2023, I actually got very burnt out in the corporate world, and I just said, 'I'm not doing this anymore,'" she said. "I left, and I wasn't sure what I was going to do with my time after that. I had quite a nice little savings, so I just took my time, and then, all of a sudden, a friend, [horseman] Brandon Campbell, mentioned that he needed help at the farm, and it kind of just went from there.

"I wasn't doing anything; I love the horses and I wanted to have some fun. So, I decided to come back to racing and told myself it wasn't going to be a permanent thing."

Until it was.

"Once I was back, I was like, 'I'm not leaving,'" she said.

And she hasn't.

It has been a gratifying return.

~ Kayla Baxter

At the end of February, Kayla, who is working for trainer Nathan Sobey, was named Caretaker of the Year at the annual Alberta Standardbred Horse Association (ASHA) Awards banquet.

She thought of her contemporaries after receiving the award.

“I’m so happy to be nominated, but there are plenty of people around who are very deserving of the honor,” she said. “It’s so nice that they do that – to even have that award. I’m one of those people that believe the grooms are kind of the backbone of the industry anyway, so they deserve an award, for sure.”

Congratulatory sentiments, whether through emails, texts, phone calls or in person, were the norm in the days after the evening that recognized excellence for both humans and horses.

“We had a day off after the banquet, so now that I’m back to work, there are a whole lot of congratulations coming in,” Kayla said. “It’s quite nice to have people come by and give a little high-five, here and there.”

All of it is a pleasant reminder that she is indeed back in her happy place.

“I connect with all my horses in some way,” she said. “I love them all. I’ve got a couple of babies coming up, and I’m really close with them – they’re brand-new babies like right from the sale this September. One of the greatest feelings that you can have is working with a horse, to bring out the best in them, and then seeing them succeed on the racetrack. It is something I am very grateful to have in my life.

“The best part of my job is watching the progress of the horses for me. Nothing in my corporate world compares to that. Nothing will ever compare to just watching the horses come off the track and doing better than they did the week before and knowing that you played a part in helping them do that.”

Kayla’s biggest challenge is in finding a work-life balance – but it is not something she bristles at or dwells upon.

Early morning, late nights, or multiple trips back to the barn throughout the day are hardly an inconvenience.

“How can you be upset when you get to be around horses?” she said. “My friends and family are always, ‘Come on, Kayla! We need some time with you, too.’”

“It’s a whole lifestyle, you know? Sometimes I will make excuses to go back to the barn throughout the day. That happens quite a bit, actually. I might not need to go, but I want to.”

She knows what is waiting for her when she arrives.

“I just want to keep the horses sound and happy,” she said. “I want horses that come into my barn to look at me and nicker – that they know I am there for them.”

A serene spot where every horse – trouble-free, work-in-progress, ahead of the curve or somewhere in between – is treated in the same regard.

“I happily take flighty ones, but my goal with all of them is to make sure that I keep them happy, healthy and sound,” she said. “That is what motivates me every single day.”

Epic bad beat pushes PK-8 carryover past 80K at Big M

Everyone who has been a lifelong horseplayer has experienced something the track provides a little too often, if you ask them.

The bad beat.

If you heard a noise Saturday (March 7) night at the conclusion of the 10th race at The Meadowlands that sounded like someone groaning in great pain, it might have been the player who was, apparently, on his or her way to cashing in big on the $1 PK-8.

Only to have their big-money dreams crushed.

Had 2-1 favorite Four By Four held on for the victory, that punter would have been the lone winning-ticket holder for the track's new wager and cashed in for approximately $84,000. That player settled for seven out of eight correct and collected $1,610 when Captain Up burst onto the scene late and defeated Four By Four by the smallest of noses.

The wager was placed through 4njbets.com.

"That was a nasty beat," said Big M chief operating officer/general manager Jason Settlemaier. "And all of us who have played the horses can sympathize. But horseplayers know that's part of the game. That's the kind of excitement – or pain – that this wager can create. The PK-8 has the potential for six-figure carryovers, and interest in the PK 8 – as well as the amount of money carrying over – will increase as the PK-8 continues to go unhit."

When racing resumes tonight (March 13), the PK-8 carryover will stand at $82,301. The wager is offered on races 3 through 10 nightly.

The eight-leg puzzler is the brainchild of Peter Kleinhans, the renaissance man behind the $1 PK-8 curtain. Kleinhans wanted to find a way to create some buzz at The Big M with the PK-8, and was willing to put his money where his mouth is by seeding the pool with $50,000 of his own green.

The PK-8 debuted on Feb. 6, and was hit the second night it was offered by two players, who each cashed in for $26,543.90. Kleinhans then reached in his pockets to seed the wager again. Since then, the bet has not been hit for seven consecutive offerings.

AND THAT'S NOT ALL: The $1 PK-8 is not the only wager starting out with a significant amount of money in the hat. The 20-cent Pick-6 failed to yield a winning ticket for a second straight night on Saturday, and sports a carryover of $20,356.

The 20-cent Pick-6 is available on races 8 through 13.

THE WOMEN TOOK OVER: Last Saturday (March 7), The Meadowlands celebrated International Women's Day with a pair of races that featured all-female drivers. In addition, an all-female, five-member TV talent team brought the action to viewers.

Lauren Tritton, arguably the best female driver in North America, had her skills on display, as she guided the winners of both ladies' dashes.

"A credit to all of the ladies, they did a great job tonight," said Lauren after completing her daily double. "It's a great showcase for women in such a male-dominated sport. I absolutely love it. It's a privilege that The Meadowlands put on a showcase like this."

On the talent side, where the five-member, female-only team was almost certainly the first in harness racing history, saw Debbie Little, the associate editor at Harness Racing Update, host the show, which was co-hosted by Meadow Twaddle, the newly-named marketing director of The Meadows Standardbred Owners Association.

Heather Wilder, known for many Little Brown Jug and Breeders Crown telecasts, served as paddock interviewer, while horsewoman Kiara Morgan handled the analysis for a nationwide audience on FanDuel TV. Melissa Keith, the track announcer at Rideau Carleton Raceway, called the 14-race program.

In addition, trainer Annie Stoebe hosted a live Facebook feed, Mary McDermott was in charge of social media posts, and Jessica Hallett was on hand serving in a role she is known for, covering the happenings through a camera lens.

Tritton doubles up on IWD at The Big M

On a night just for the ladies, it was Meadowlands regular Lauren Tritton who stood in front of the class, driving the winners of both dashes that featured fields comprised of female drivers as The Big M celebrated International Women's Day (IWD) on a foggy Saturday night (March 7).

In the first ladies' race, Tritton put Lyleground on the front early by sprinting to the quarter in :27, and after reaching the half in :56.1 and three-quarters in 1:25.4, seemingly had things under control, turning for home with a 4½-length edge.

It would not prove to be a safe advantage.

Half Past Midnight, driven by Shannon O'Sullivan, a native Australian now living in Canada, rallied from four-wide with a quarter to go, and after being airborne throughout the stretch drive, came up just a nose short as the 9-5 favorite. Parklane Terror, handled by Helene Engblom, had good late energy to get third.

"My horse had really good form on the front end," said Tritton. "The horse went really well."

"I stayed out of trouble there [early]," said O'Sullivan of some traffic in the early going. "We came out really well. I wanted to look out for the horse."

Lyleground won the TrackMaster 71 pace in 1:54.1 for trainer Ned Urbanski. The 6-year-old gelded son of Artspeak—St Lads Moxie returned $6.40 as the 2-1 second choice in the wagering.

Recognized by many as the top female pilot in North America, Tritton completed her sweep of the IWD events by guiding Ayr Dave GB to a 15¼-length blowout score in a TrackMaster 74.5 pace in a lifetime-best 1:51.2.

Lew Hauber, driven by Marie Auger, finished second, with Galante A, who was guided by Christina Johnson, getting the show dough.

A total of 17 female drivers competed in the two races.

Ayr Dave GB, trained by Tritton's husband, Shane, returned $4.40 as the 6-5 public choice. The winner is a 5-year-old gelded son of Sweet Lou—Sold Out.

"Tonight, I made an equipment change and he showcased that it worked tonight," said Lauren.

The night was about racing, but Lauren reflected on what the night meant to females in the harness game.

"A credit to all of the ladies," said Lauren. "They did a great job tonight. It's a great showcase for women in such a male-dominated sport. I absolutely love it. It's a privilege that The Meadowlands put on a showcase like this."

TALENT TAKEOVER: In addition to the ladies' races, an all-female, five-member TV talent team brought the action to viewers.

Debbie Little, the associate editor at Harness Racing Update, hosted the show, which was co-hosted by Meadow Twaddle, the newly-named marketing director of The Meadows Standardbred Owners Association. Heather Wilder, known for many Little Brown Jug and Breeders Crown telecasts, served as paddock interviewer, while horsewoman Kiara Morgan handled the analysis for a nationwide audience on FanDuel TV. Melissa Keith, the track announcer at Rideau-Carleton Raceway, called the entire race card.

In addition, trainer Annie Stoebe hosted a live Facebook feed, Mary McDermott was in charge of social media posts and Jessica Hallett was on hand serving in a role she is known for, covering the happenings through a camera lens.

CARRYOVER REPORT: There will be a pair of carryovers awaiting players when racing resumes tonight (March 13).

The $1 PK-8 went unhit for a sixth consecutive offering, upping the carryover to $82,301. Winner's odds for the sequence were 8-5, 9-2, 6-5, 1-5, 6-1, 5-1, 7-2, and 6-1. Those with seven correct collected $1,610.00.

The 20-cent Pick-6 failed to yield a winning ticket for a second straight night. After a sequence where the winner's odds were 5-1, 7-2, 6-1, 9-2, 5-1, and 2-1, those with five correct collected $112.98. The carryover is $20,356.

The $1 PK-8 is available on races 3 through 10 while the 20-cent Pick-6 is offered on races 8 through 13.

A LITTLE MORE: Leading pilot Brett Beckwith led the driver colony with three victories on the night... Chris Height took three walks down victory lane to lead the trainers... All-source betting on the 14-race program totaled $2,562,100.

Rum N Raisins wins again in Pocono Series finale

The Custard The Dragon gelding Rum N Raisins, a winner of two of his three Game Of Claims Pacing Series preliminaries and claimed out of all three, continued his winning ways in the $35,000 GOC Series championship, richest race of the young campaign at Pocono Downs at Mohegan Pennsylvania, while posting a new lifetime mark of 1:51. Rum N Raisins also changed hands for the fourth straight time, as he was haltered for $30,000 out of the final, but owner Caldwell Mamia Racing LLC and trainer Cory Stratton will take Saturday's (March 7) $17,500 first money as "consolation" for losing the horse after one week.

Tyler Buter, Pocono's winningest driver in 2025 and again atop the colony early in this meet, left alertly with Rum N Raisins then yielded to Supplemental Fee after forcing that one to go to the quarter in :26.2. Rum N Raisins continued in the golden chair through mid-splits of :55.2 and 1:22.3 as no one mounted a threatening midrace two-wide challenge, then was moved outside late on the far turn before the sweepers arrived on the scene, went right to the top, then held off the strongest of the late ralliers, Twigg's Pub, by 1½ lengths.

Matt Kakaley, top winning sulkysmith at Pocono in 2022, 2023, and 2024, led all drivers with three winners Saturday, while three of Pocono's "B-Boys" had doubles: Brett Beckwith, Braxten Boyd (the last two Dan Patch Rising Star Award winners) and Tyler Buter. Darren Taneyhill was the only trainer posting a two-bagger.

Meadow Twaddle named marketing director of the Meadows Standardbred Owners Association

The Meadows Standardbred Owners Association (MSOA) is pleased to announce the hiring of Meadow Twaddle as its new marketing director.

Twaddle brings a diverse background in harness racing media, marketing, and communications to the role. She is a graduate of Washington & Jefferson College, where she studied psychology and marketing with a minor in Spanish.

Her experience within the harness racing industry spans several areas, including co-hosting the popular racing program Hot 2 Trot, serving as social media coordinator for the Pennsylvania

Harness Racing Association (PHRA), and guest co-hosting The Meadowlands broadcast. Over the past several years, Twaddle has also assisted the MSOA in a part-time capacity, helping with events, social media, and facility tours. She has also contributed written work to Standardbred Canada and has experience managing social media accounts for multiple racing stables.

Having grown up around Hollywood Casino at The Meadows, Twaddle has deep ties to the local racing community and a strong appreciation for the sport and the people behind it.

"I'm excited for the opportunity to step into this role with the MSOA," said Twaddle. "Having grown up around The Meadows, this track and the community behind it have always meant a lot to me. I'm grateful for the opportunity to help create events and marketing initiatives that showcase not only the excitement of harness racing, but also the people, horses, and hard work that drive the industry every day."

The MSOA looks forward to Twaddle's leadership in strengthening the association's marketing efforts, promoting harness racing, and continuing to build engagement with fans, horsemen, and the broader community.
