Paying all starters at The Meadowlands is a controversial conundrum

Trying to ensure full fields to drive handle is a noble goal, but perhaps The Big M and the SBOANJ got the percentages wrong in the interest of increasing full effort.

by Brett Sturman

BETWEEN THE LINES

with BRETT STURMAN

Beginning with races last weekend, The Meadowlands has worked with the Standardbred Breeders and Owners Association of NJ (SBOANJ), and has started a pilot exercise that will pay all starters in overnight races. Deviating from the tradition of paying only the first five starters in a race, all starters will now come away with no worse than three per cent of the total purse. The trial is initially expected to last until June 1.

The distribution changes based on the number of starters, but let's go with the example of 10-horse fields, since attracting full fields is one of the aims of the program. With 10 horses, the purse distribution will change from the standard 50-25-12-8-5, to 46-21-9-6 and then three per cent all the way down to the 10th. In this model, fifth place would earn the same as 10th.

The incentive to finish first and get paid accordingly for doing so should take priority over what to pay all other finishers. This way, all owners, trainers, drivers, and bettors are equally aligned in an objective.

Debate seen online since the initiative was first announced has been fierce. At one end is the thought that the winners now supplement the losers. At the other end is the feeling that a broader sharing of the purse is for the greater good.

I have no issue with all starters receiving at least something for showing up and contributing to a full field, which helps handle. And like many reading this right now, we know firsthand the increasingly high expenses associated with racehorses; even more-so on race days. I'm empathetic to those in favor of wanting a small piece of the purse regardless of the outcome.

Then there is the question of whether guaranteeing money to everyone will lessen the quality of the racing product. Meaning, if you're going to get the same amount for 10th as you are for fifth, where is the incentive to try harder than necessary? I don't buy this one, either.

By its very nature, of horses racing week in and week out as it is, there's already a mentality of not overusing a horse and waiting another week for an easier spot. Offering three per cent to those towards the back isn't going to incentivize them any more than usual to not provide an aggressive effort if they weren't going to do so anyway.

Where the issue does come in is where the 15 per cent (three per cent for horses six through 10) is coming from, which is from the share of the top finishers.

The incentive to finish first and get paid accordingly for doing so should take priority over what to pay all other finishers. This way, all owners, trainers, drivers, and bettors are equally aligned in an objective.

Diluting the winning percentage from 50 per cent to 46 per cent doesn't particularly take away an incentive to win, but at that rate the winners aren't being compensated as much as they should. Let me give you an example.

A different model for sure, but in thoroughbred racing the purse distribution is more top heavy. Generally speaking, 60 per cent goes to the winner and 20 per cent goes to second and in some cases, it could swing even further. The percentages continue downward from there with eventually all starters leaving with something, same as what The Meadowlands has started doing. But the difference is that in this model, there is a massive premium put on winning. Anything less than a second — and even that is basically breaking even — isn't going to pay the bills for the month. On the other hand, if you win here or there then you're set for a while. The idea being that there is a clear emphasis on the need to win. Not to hit the board, not to collect a check, not to get them next time, but to actually win.

Winning and collecting 46 per cent of the purse at The Meadowlands may still seem "fair," but is it? After factoring in all the shipping expenses already cited as reason enough why everyone needs at least three per cent on top of all the other race day expenses and commissions, you're not left with as much as you'd think.

The irony is that The Meadowlands is taking 15 per cent from the top finishers to pay for places six through 10 in order to attract 10-horse fields as tracks like Harrah's Philadelphia opens, but now, you'll get only 46 per cent for winning a race with 10 horses at The Meadowlands as opposed to simply going to Philly anyway where you can get 50 per cent for racing with eight horses. If The Meadowlands wants to try this route, I'd at minimum have kept the winner at 50 per cent and reduced gradually from other placings.

I don't think the experimental purse distribution model is a net positive for the horsepeople for the reasons above, but there is something to be said for doing what's necessary to ensure full

In last Monday's first Borgata legs, there were 24 horses spread out across four divisions of six horses each when there could have easily been and should have been three full fields of eight horses each. fields for wagering and handle, things of utmost importance at The Meadowlands. The same thing can't be said for other places. Take Yonkers, which in the example of the Borgata series has clearly prioritized distributing purses to as many participants as possible more than compiling full race fields.

In last Monday's first Borgata legs, there were 24 horses spread out across four divisions of six horses each when there could have easily been and should have been three full fields of eight horses each. In a time when other tracks are doing what's necessary to make full fields, here's an example of dismantling full fields for smaller ones.

The point being, there's already a lot going on of distributing purses to as many participants as possible. That's all fine and good and again, maybe even necessary to keep things going for many operations; no problem there. But at some point, there needs to be a focus on returning the highest amount possible of the purse to the winners. The entire idea of even being in a race in the first place should be to win.

The Meadowlands is trying to thread a needle between ensuring full fields needed for wagering as competing tracks reopen while at the same time making it worthwhile to not only race there, but to win there. For now, I think they are more right than wrong in the approach.

MEADOWLANDS

with DEBBIE LITTLE

Old man Miller keeps rolling along

At age 59, David Miller is leading The Meadowlands' drivers' standings by a wide margin.

by Debbie Little

Winter at The Meadowlands is supposed to be the time when the 'Young Guns' shine, but David Miller didn't get the memo.

Miller, 59, sits atop The Big M drivers' standings for the current winter meet – which ends on March 30 – with 41 wins, 14 better than his closest rival, Andy McCarthy.

"I haven't been leading driver since back in the Luc Ouellette days, you know," Miller said. "I was always one of the top five or six but I haven't led since back in like, 2003, at The Meadowlands, anyway."

In 2003, Miller tied with Ouellette as The Meadowlands' January-August meet-leading driver. But, since The Big M doesn't typically keep track of the leaders of the different shorter meets and chooses instead to track the statistics from the beginning of January until Hambletonian Day, it's impossible to know for certain if Miller has won a winter or spring meet in the past. What is certain, is that he is on top now and is appreciating the circumstances that put him there.

Miller pointed out that since so many of the top Meadowlands' drivers take off for much of the winter meet, he's been busy.

"I have a lot of horses to choose from," Miller said. "That's always a big help as far as winning all the time. I'm getting a lot of opportunities for every race."

Of the seven Meadowlands drivers with at least 10 wins this year, Miller – who is second on the all-time money earnings list with $282,397,481 – is the only one who qualifies for AARP, and is 17 years older than the next oldest, Jason Bartlett (42).

When it was pointed out to him that winter is supposed to be the time when young drivers make a name for themselves, Miller laughed and said, "Now they have to deal with this old fart."

At age 59, David Miller still excels in the sulky.

Miller, who has only started at The Meadowlands in 2024, had driving triples on both cards last weekend, and is hitting the board in almost half of his starts this year. His followers have been on a TGIF end of the night bandwagon since he has brought home the winner in five of the last seven Big M Friday night race-14 finales. The average age of the five drivers, other than Miller, that won on Friday night (March 15) — not including the MADC races — was 32, while on Saturday night the average age of the six winning drivers, not including Miller or the MADC, was 36.

Like many of his fellow Big M drivers, in the past, Miller chose to leave the cold behind in New Jersey, and for six-straight years spent time in warm, sunny Florida.

"I spent four winters [in Florida] just training and that was nice," Miller said. "Then I got to spend two winters racing at Pompano, and that was nice."

Following the closing of Pompano in April of 2022, Miller started spending winters again at The Meadowlands.

"I haven't been leading driver since back in the Luc Ouellette days, you know. I was always one of the top five or six but I haven't led since back in like, 2003, at The Meadowlands, anyway."

~ David Miller

"I have a horse that I own myself and it kind of keeps me working," Miller said. "I bought him in Lexington last year. When I would go to Florida the first four years, I always had a horse or two and I would do them myself and the weather down there was so nice. The only thing I'm really missing is the warm weather, I mean, everything else is the same."

"I get to race on the weekends and I get to go to the barn every day and it was just a lot nicer [in Florida] but the winters haven't been bad here. I mean, they usually hang around 20 to 30 degrees at night, and that's not that bad and we don't get much snow. This year, I do have a new set of winter colors that are really warm, so, I haven't had a problem. My hands don't get cold, my feet don't get cold, I'm still handling it. It was just a lot nicer in February going to the track when it was 80 degrees out."

More than the warm weather, there's something more important that Miller is missing, since one of the biggest draws for him to spend time in Florida in the past was his family. His daughter, Leigha, and grandson, Callen, live in the Sunshine State, and his daughter, Devan, worked there in the winter for trainer Ron Burke.

David spent the last two weeks of 2023 in Florida visiting his family and plans to do the same at the end of March.

"I'll miss that Friday and Saturday at the end of the month [at The Big M], the 29th and 30th," David said. "I'm going to go down and spend the holiday with my daughter and grandson.

[Callen] plays T-ball and doesn't have school Friday and I'll go down [on Thursday] to start the weekend early and then the following week I'll be back to race."

David recently spent time with Devan in the winner's circle at The Meadowlands, but he wasn't the one in the bike.

Devan was one of the 18 female competitors for The Meadowlands International Women's Day event on March 9 and she won one of the two IWD races.

“ I have a lot of horses to choose from [at The Meadowlands]. That’s always a big help as far as winning all the time. I’m getting a lot of opportunities [this winter] for every race. ”

~ David Miller

“It was a good ride home,” David said with a laugh. “That was a great high to get to watch her race and she won and I couldn’t have been prouder of her. She’s always handled a horse very well. It’s nice to see her get to win.”

At this time, it’s impossible to know where David — who was elected to the Hall of Fame in 2013 — will sit in the standings at the conclusion of The Meadowlands’ Championship Meet on Hambletonian Day (Aug. 3). However, with a little luck and the right horses, maybe he can pick up another meet title.

“I had a decent group of 2-year-olds,” David said. “Hopefully, they all come back good. Probably the best horse that I have to look forward to is T C I, the trotting colt I drove last year. I would say he’s the main horse that I think about. So, hopefully, he lives up to what our expectations are.

“I haven’t really asked much about him, but I did hear that he grew some and is training back good, so, hopefully, we’ll be having a great day in August.”

Trace Tetrick aiming for 13th Hoosier driving title

by James Platz

As Harrah's Hoosier Park Racing & Casino lifts the curtain on the 2024 harness meet tonight (March 22), Trace Tetrick finds himself in a familiar position: defending leading driver at the Anderson oval. With 160 days slated for the track's 31st season, Tetrick looks to add a 13th Hoosier driving title to his resume. He has topped the standings in each of the last 10 seasons.

"My main goal when I show up is to be competitive on a nightly basis and be competitive with what I have," Tetrick said. "I've been very fortunate to get to drive some great horses and have some great opportunities. But those only come if you put your head down and you show up every day and you work hard, you're present and polite."

Hard work and making the most of the opportunities presented has allowed the reinsman to pile up wins, purses and titles at Hoosier Park. Last season he steered 368 winners over the track's seven-eighths mile configuration, reaching the winner's circle at a nearly 22 per cent clip. With a UDRS of .337, Tetrick's purse earnings topped $4.8 million. Nationally, he ranked fifth in wins with 531, one more than his brother, Tim. He finished the year with over $6.8 million in purses.

Drivers need power to reach the winner's circle, and Trace is aligned with some of the top outfits racing in Indiana, including defending leading trainer Tyler George and Erv Miller, runner-up in the standings last season.

"You have to be at the right spot at the right time and do your job when you have those opportunities; try to excel at those," Trace said. "I've been fortunate that I have a couple of really good stables to drive for that have a little bit of everything, from claimers to conditioned horses, which helps out a lot. Tyler George has a really good barn that's very competitive. I drive some for Erv still. Those are good clients to have anywhere you go."

Those outfits provided Trace with some of his top horses. He piloted Coach Stefanos for Miller, scoring nine wins and hitting the board in 15 of 17 starts. The sophomore pacer was named Indiana Pacer of the Year. He also steered Rollin Rosie, a top Indiana Sires Stakes filly conditioned by George that finished second in the Super Final after winning multiple legs.

Trace picked up his first victory at Hoosier Park in 2006. Two seasons later he collected his first leading driver title, becoming the youngest to do so. Now 37, he has won more races at the track – over 4,200 and counting – than any other driver.

Once the newcomer, Trace – closing in on 7,500 career wins – is now one of the veteran catch drivers competing nightly at the oval. The colony is ever-changing, with many of the current top drivers arriving after he picked up his first title.

“There are a lot of new guys,” he said. “For drivers, the only original guard left is Ricky [Macomber], Mike Peterson was here when I showed up. Doug Rideout is still here. John [DeLong] is new. [Mike] Oosting is new. [Kyle] Wilfong is new. Marvin Luna and Jordan Ross are new. Brandon [Bates] is new. Walter [Haynes] was here when I first came. We have a lot of young guys that are very aggressive and they handle a horse really well.”

This winter, Trace, as he has done the last several years, competed in the Buckeye State. Currently he ranks third in the standings at Miami Valley, with 84 winners and just over $1.1 million in purses. He likes racing in Ohio as the commute from Anderson is reasonable and keeps him close to home.

“It’s great,” he said. “It gives me an opportunity to race two hours from home. I can still sleep in my bed at night and see my family every day. I don’t have to pick up my whole tack and go somewhere all winter. It is a great privilege to have that opportunity.”

Trace begins his title defense tonight with drives in 13 of the 15 races carded on Hoosier Park’s opening night program. He is listed on horses in nine of 13 races on Saturday.

“I’m looking forward to getting back,” he said. “It’s a lot closer than Ohio. I can be at the track in eight minutes compared to two hours. That means a lot. It’s a great place to race and it’s very competitive on a nightly basis. It’s just good to be back home.”

Harrah’s Hoosier Park kicks off live racing today with a 6:15 p.m. first post. Saturday’s program begins at 7 p.m.

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

At just 22, Carter Gimblett wears several harness racing hats

by Chris Lomon

It was fitting that Carter Gimblett's first driving win ended in a photo finish.

Typically, the 22-year-old Gimblett is the one looking through the lens at the finish line at Flamboro Downs.

But on the night of March 10 at the half-mile oval in southwestern Ontario, he was the one who came into focus at the end of the third race.

In rein to Always Been Crazy, a 6-year-old son of Sunshine Beach—Notable Beauty whom he also owns, Gimblett, in his pari-mutuel debut, and the bay crossed the wire neck winners in a time of 2:00.4.

As far as compelling milestone wins go, this was one for the ages.

The race featured a little bit of everything: front-end tactics, late-stage dramatics, a disqualification, and a few minutes to sort out all that had transpired.

"There were a lot of interesting parts to it," Gimblett said.

Gimblett, fully aware that Always Been Crazy had solid early gate speed, put his charge on the front end soon after the starter car sped away.

Holding a four-length advantage on the backstretch, the pair reached the open quarter in :29.1. The duo was still in front through a half-mile in 1:00.1, as pocket-sitter Carson Star Choice sat 2 lengths behind the pacesetter.

"I wouldn't say that I exactly had a shot to win, but I knew that my horse was good off the gate, so I wanted to get him out of there quickly and at least get him in a good spot early," Gimblett said.

Carson Star Choice upped the pressure soon after, but Gimblett and Always Been Crazy responded to hold a length lead through three-quarters in 1:29.4.

Then things started to get interesting.

A length clear straightening for home, Always Been Crazy left a seam open on the rail for any later comers. Just A Poor Boy took advantage and stuck a head in front, but Gimblett and the gelding dug down and re-rallied.

In the final steps before the wire, Just A Poor Boy broke stride, which opened the door for a neck victory.

Just A Poor Boy was subsequently disqualified to fourth after the lapped-on break at the wire, which elevated Boots N Brian to second and Shadow Warrior to third.

The race, which unfolded like a high-octane action thriller, had finally reached its conclusion.

And, not unlike a big-budget Hollywood whodunnit, Gimblett had to wait until the final scene to see if he had come out on top.

Afterward, Gimblett was the recipient of the traditional first-win bath.

"I wasn't sure if we got it or not," he said. "It was as close as the line reads. Being my first pari-mutuel drive, it was hard to tell if we did get there. But when I heard our name, it was a very exciting moment."

Always Been Crazy, who paid $20.20 to win, also delivered Gimblett with his second career training triumph. His first came in 2022 with Wine Tyme at Kawartha Downs.

Fittingly, it was his father, longtime harness racing photographer Todd Gimblett, who was taking the photos that night.

"You only get that first win once and I am going to cherish it my whole life," Carter said. "It does give you a boost of confidence in knowing that you can get the job done."

When he returned to the paddock, Carter, in a familiar scene after a driver's first win, was doused with water by his contemporaries.

"I was sort of expecting that, but I didn't expect that so many people would be there with the water buckets," he said. "[Drivers] Travis Cullen and Austin Sorrie came up behind me and got me with the water. As cold as it was, it is something I will never forget."

As for how that victory came to be, it is a story in itself, one that is equally, perhaps even more compelling, than the dramatic score. No stranger to the standardbred world – racing is in his DNA – Carter grew up around the sport.

*“Some of my earliest memories were at the barns.
Even after my grandfather and dad got out of owning horses, I would go to the racetrack, and I always loved being there.”*

~ Carter Gimblett

"Harness racing runs in my family, four generations, to be exact," he said. "It started with my great-grandfather and then my grandfather and father owned a bunch of horses in the early 2000s."

"They got out of the horse business and my father became the track photographer at a bunch of racetracks, through his racehorsephoto.com. He started doing Flamboro, Kawartha Downs, Georgian Downs, a little bit at Pocono at one point; so, he has always been involved with harness racing.”

Like father, like son.

Throughout his childhood and teens, Carter would tag along whenever his father went to the racetrack.

He never needed to be asked twice if he wanted to hop in the passenger seat.

“Some of my earliest memories were at the barns,” Carter said. “Even after my grandfather and dad got out of owning horses, I would go to the racetrack, and I always loved being there.

Around eight years ago, the younger Gimblett added another role to his racing repertoire.

“I want to say it was around 2016 or 2017 when I bought a few shares in horses through theStable.ca,” he said of the fractional ownership group created by Anthony MacDonald and his wife Amy in 2015. “It gave me a great introduction to what the business was all about.

“Following that, I started my undergraduate studies [Sporting and Event Management] at the University of Guelph. It was around then that I started helping a friend of mine, Nick Boyd, at a training center. I knew Nick through Kawartha Downs, where he was one of the leading drivers.”

Under the tutelage of Boyd, Carter expanded his knowledge of the sport.

“Nick, he really took me under his wing and taught me a lot; training, equipment, and so much more,” Carter said.

“I have had plenty of great opportunities, including being able to look after Ron, who we got to race in the 2022 North America Cup final,” Carter said. “We partnered on a couple horses together, including his now 3-year-old sister Dontmesswithmolly.”

Ownership eventually led to Carter attaining his trainer’s license.

“It has all been great,” he said. “I consider myself lucky to be able to wear so many hats with racing.”

Where all of it leads, Carter isn’t quite certain.

Balancing a busy life between the classroom and the racetrack keeps the horseman on his toes, something he doesn’t regard as a negative.

“The last three or four years have gone by in no time,” he said. “But it is an amazing feeling. You never know what the future has in store, but I’m optimistic and excited for what’s to come.”

On this day, Carter has completed his work in the barn, finished his studies for the day, and is in the car, headed to Western Fair for a 10-race card.

He’ll take up residence in his usual spot, just across from the finish line, camera in hand.

“ I would help my dad shoot the races and that’s when I learned to read a program and picked up things here and there about racing. ”

~ Carter Gimblett

For a few hours, his focus, literally and figuratively, will be on the drivers and their horses.

When he heads home, Carter will likely take some time to ponder his future, at the racetrack and after he graduates.

In his final semester at Guelph, he will soon have some big life decisions to make.

Whatever those happen to be and wherever it may lead him, racing will always remain a big part of his life.

“Getting the chance to drive, let alone win a race, was something I have always dreamed of,” he said.

A picture-perfect moment in every sense.

Down Under harness racing resurgence driven by slot races and equine stars

by Adam Hamilton

Three things are driving a resurgence in Down Under harness racing.

Two of them are equine and the other is innovation, and just as importantly, the embracement of it.

We are blessed to have not just two stars, but a pair of potentially all-time greats on the equine front in the trotter Just Believe and pacer Leap To Fame.

I have written plenty about them before and I will update you on them again later, but let's get to the third "driver" of positivity Down Under.

They are slot races.

It shouldn't come as a surprise because, although slot races have mixed success globally, they work Down Under – and big time.

The single greatest global example is The Everest in thoroughbred racing.

Since its inception in 2017, The Everest has become a phenomenon. Prize money is up to $20 million, the Royal Randwick track is packed to the rafters with almost 50,000 fans and momentum is still building.

Hunger for one of the 12 slots is utterly off the grid.

New South Wales racing officials are exploring ways to activate the infield of Randwick – Sydney's home of racing – to allow for a larger crowd to satisfy the growing masses wanting to be part of the day.

It is not just a racing event; it's almost instantly become a must attend on the Sydney social calendar.

And, perhaps, it's greatest success of all... The Everest has engaged a new, younger generation of racegoers and fans.

Any racing administrator will tell you that is the golden ticket in a sport so often considered a bit tired and traditional.

Courtesy Cambridge HRC

It is well documented Cambridge chief Dave Branch went out on a limb, with very little support from the sport's controlling body Harness Racing NZ, to bring the Race By Grins to life in 2022.

“Just Believe has shown our trotters are right there on an international level. Then you’ve got Callmethebreeze, who was a European Group 1 winner and has slotted right in Down Under so well, and the best of the Kiwis in the seriously talented Muscle Mountain... But it’s so good for the sport to have a new race like this TAB Trot which has tapped into and drawn together the terrific pool of trotting talent we’ve got in Australia and NZ at the moment.”

~ Jess Tubbs

Remarkably, The Everest is now genuinely rivalling the Melbourne Cup – a race first run in 1861 and dubbed “The Race that Stops a Nation” – as the most talked-about and promoted race Down Under.

It took harness racing a little while to look at the rapid and stunning success of The Everest and jump on the bandwagon with marquee slot races of its own.

But, thankfully, it did.

We now have six slot races across Australia and New Zealand and, combined, they drive the vast majority of the PR and media coverage harness racing gets Down Under.

We are right in the midst of it now with three of the biggest slot races just around the corner. Cambridge in NZ hosts the $1mil Race By Grins for pacers and the first edition of the $575,000 TAB Trot on April 12.

Just a week later we have the $1.25mil Group 1 Nullarbor for pacers at Perth’s Gloucester Park.

The banter, media coverage and social content around which horses will race where and who’s slot has been building for months. It is now at fever pitch with the races just weeks away.

Our biggest slot race of all and the world’s richest pacing race, the $2.1mil TAB Eureka, is still six months away, but hype and interest is already building. One slot is already locked-in for buzz worthy Western Australian 4-year-old Never Ending. He will become the first competitor for his state in the race on Sept. 7.

Never Ending also landed a slot for his hometown Nullarbor and the inter-twined interest of that race into the TAB Eureka is a chapter in itself.

But back to what is just around the corner.

There were dozens of stories about which race – Cambridge or Gloucester Park – the great Leap To Fame would go to. In the end, he is missing both and having a rest at home with some mega targets later in the year.

While it is not ideal the Race By Grins and Nullarbor are so close because they absolutely cannibalize each other to at least some extent, both drive great publicity in their respective countries.

It is well documented Cambridge chief Dave Branch went out on a limb, with very little support from the sport’s controlling body Harness Racing NZ, to bring the Race By Grins to life in 2022.

Buoyed by its success, Branch dared to “go again” and pitched hard for a trotting equivalent.

In his own words it was a “mad scramble,” but he got there.

“I’m so glad we did,” he said. “It is going to be an amazing race; some say the best trotting race in this part of the world for 25 years or so. It could not have happened without the great support of the many people we had to lean on to support it, take slots and sponsor the race.”

~ Cambridge chief Dave Branch

“Hopefully they can all take pride in the sort of race we’ve been able to pull together. Getting at least four Aussies across for it is beyond our wildest dreams and, of course, Just Believe being one of them is so special. It will be his first race in NZ and he might even stay here after it for a few other races.”

While Leap To Fame has hogged the headlines in recent times with his historic Triple Crown of pacing and record-breaking Miracle Mile win to cap it off, Just Believe is still the biggest global act in Down Under harness racing.

And that is evidenced by the fact the Swedes are still reportedly doing everything they can to try and lure Just Believe back for another tilt at the famed Elitloppet at Solvalla in May.

The world has seen what Just Believe can do in the flesh, they have only been able to admire Leap To Fame from afar.

As great as Just Believe has been with 10 wins and a whisker second in 11 starts since returning from his Swedish raid last year, trainer Jess Tubbs concedes the depth and quality of the TAB Trot will make it one of his greatest challenges.

“No doubt about that,” she said. “Just Believe has shown our trotters are right there on an international level. Then you’ve got Callmethebreeze, who was a European Group 1 winner and has slotted right in Down Under so well, and the best of the Kiwis in the seriously talented Muscle Mountain.

“We know he’s going to have to be right at the top of his game as well as hopefully getting a good barrier and luck in running.

“But it’s so good for the sport to have a new race like this TAB Trot which has tapped into and drawn together the terrific pool of trotting talent we’ve got in Australia and NZ at the moment.”

Dream duel to be expected at Solvalla

by Thomas Hedlund

French star Idao de Tillard became the first horse invited to Elitloppet 2024 and two weeks later, on Saturday (March 16), Solvalla announced that Francesco Zet will be the second horse entering the big event in late May.

Six-year-old Francesco Zet (Father Patrick) is undefeated since August 2021 and has 17-consecutive wins before this season. Daniel Redén's trotter tried the older elite on one occasion as a 5-year-old and he then won $200,000 Norrbottens Stora Pris in Boden.

The best trotter from France and one of the most interesting horses from Sweden makes the temperature of Elitloppet hot, to say the least.

SOCCKER BOY MILLER

In 2010, the U.S. was supposed to get the win in Elitloppet. That was at least what many guessed when it was clear that Lucky Jim, the best older trotter in America at that time, would cross the Atlantic Ocean, participating in Solvalla's biggest event of the year.

This was very suitable, especially for me. The year before, I had the opportunity to write a pretty nice feature on Lucky Jim's driver Andy Miller, for Travronden magazine's annual review and I felt some kind of connection to him, the trainer Julie Miller and the horse, even if I never had seen the horse in person.

Anyway, as it turned out, by a coincidence I met the Millers at a hotel in Stockholm early in the week of Elitloppet. Andy and Julie had arrived at a great time to Stockholm and I had a meeting with colleagues at the hotel, making plans for an upcoming soccer tournament in conjunction with the weekend at Solvalla. So, when I noticed that the Millers were at the same place as me that evening, I stepped forward, presented myself as the reporter who had called during last fall and asked, a little jokingly, if Andy would think about getting to the soccer arena on the Thursday before all the seriousness would begin at Solvalla on the Friday. There were 12 teams, mixed with harness racing professionals, soccer stars, former professional players and it all was a Thursday show where everyone waited for the real party to begin at Solvalla.

Andy and Julie showed up, unexpectedly from my part, but it made me glad and Andy even agreed on participating on the soccer team that we called "The International Team." This is a side story to Lucky Jim and Elitloppet, obviously. His Elitloppet story didn't end very well. Lucky Jim was not at his best level, but the memory of 2010's version of Elitloppet is not about races. For me, it was all about the solidarity at the soccer field where a slightly misplaced American harness racing driver tried to figure out what the sport of soccer really was about. That was a good day and Andy got the highest grades for effort. I hope he remembers this with joy. I do.

Driver Carson Conrad.

Conrad ready for Hoosier's Friday night lights

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

Carson Conrad has driven at Harrah's Hoosier Park in the past, but today will be a little different for the 19-year-old. The fifth-generation horseman will compete at the central Indiana oval for the first time on opening night.

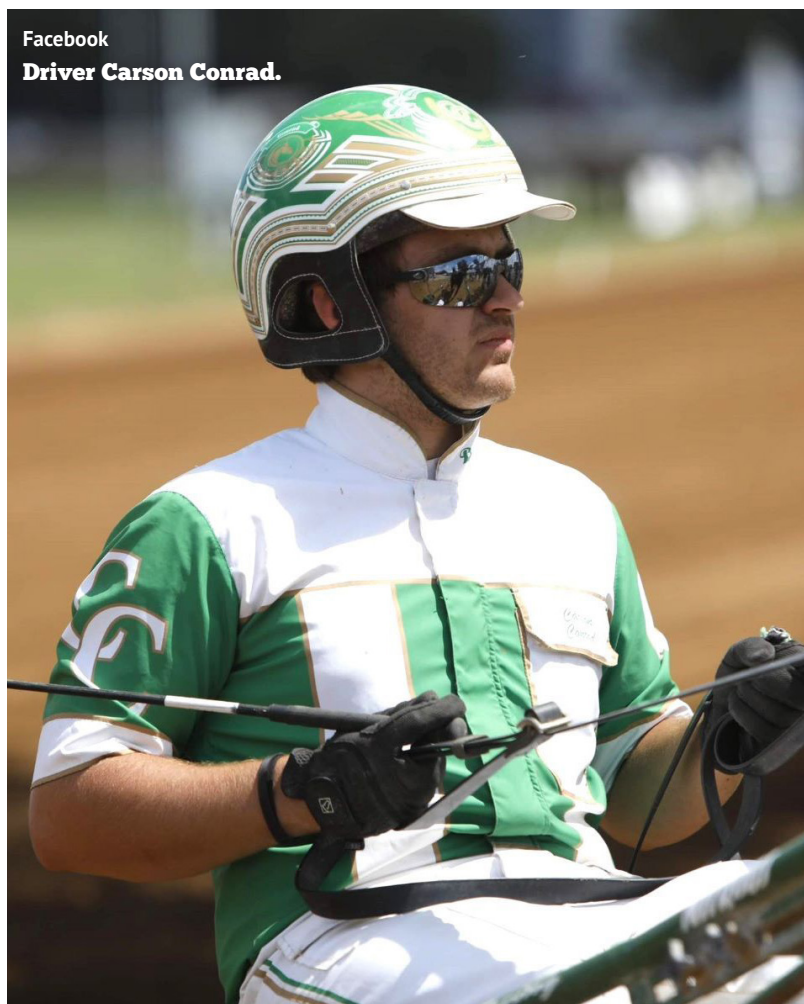

"It's awesome," said Conrad, an Indianapolis native who has four drives on tonight's 15-race card at Hoosier Park. "Obviously, I'm excited because I've been waiting all winter. It's different driving on the first night than just coming in during the middle of the year. A bunch of people are going to be watching, but you can't let that affect you. You just have to pay attention and do your thing.

"I'm driving with some great drivers; we're going to be back all together again and get started up."

Conrad, the son of trainer/driver Charlie Conrad, notched four of his 25 wins in 2023 at Hoosier Park. He had 13 victories at the Indiana fairs – good for a top 10 finish among drivers on the circuit – and added eight triumphs competing in Kentucky. His horses hit the board in 88 of his 242 starts and earned $214,808.

In 2022, Carson drove 121 times, had five wins, and $75,842 in purses. He began his career in 2021, racing 13 times and getting his first win at the Fayette County Fairgrounds in Connersville.

"I've never even had a hint of doing anything else," Carson said about working with the horses. "To see myself improve in the three years of driving, and the amount of success I had last year, has been amazing. I was lucky to sit behind some really good horses last year, at least they're good in my eyes, and it seemed I was always in the right spot at the right time to make the right move.

"My dad has helped me learn a lot of patience. Patience is a big key in this game. If you don't have patience, if you get over antsy, it doesn't go so well. I've learned to feel the race and when to make my moves."

Carson enjoys racing at the fairs and hopes to participate on the circuit even more in 2024.

RETIRE RETRAIN REHOME

518-669-2715

"I love the fairs," he said. "I guess it goes back to when I was young, I was at every county fair with my dad. It brings back good memories. And I like the people I'm around, I like driving with everybody at the fairs."

"Hopefully, I can drive at the fairs a little more this year. That's where you start. You start doing good at the fairs and you move your way up."

Carson's four drives tonight at Hoosier Park include sitting behind 3-year-old male pacers Hereisthedesire and Rockin Cosette in separate $15,000 divisions of the Jarrod Duncan Memorial and with 3-year-old female pacer Rockinwithdave in a $15,000 division of the Rosie Harness Memorial. The races are conditioned events for Indiana-sired horses.

Rockinwithdave won six times at the fairs last season and finished second in the Governor's Cup Series championship. Hereisthedesire and Rockin Cosette also won multiple races on the fair circuit. All three are trained by Carson's father.

"Hereisthedesire is just a shifty horse," Carson said. "He can do everything. He can leave, he can duck. He can do it on the front, he can do it from behind. I've never had a horse with this much raw speed before. He just has to put his mind to it."

"I liked Rockin Cosette a lot at 2 and he never got rolling, and when he did get rolling, the next start he would draw bad. I like him even more this year. He trained down awesome and qualified really good. I think he has the potential to be a good horse for us, and another horse for me to learn from and be successful with."

"Rockinwithdave had some issues about halfway through the year and went off her winning ways, but she still had a good year. I think she is going to learn a bunch in her first few starts this year."

In addition to working with his dad and younger brother Carder with their own eight-horse stable, Carson helps at the stable of Amy and Kyle Husted.

"I can't put into words how excited I am for this year," Carson said. "Me and my dad and my brother have an amazing group of horses, I think. I want to be as busy. I don't want to lose any ground. I'll be all right if these horses are as good as I think they are."

Racing begins at 6:15 p.m. (EDT) tonight at Hoosier Park. For more about the start of Hoosier Park's season, click here. For free daily Hoosier Park programs, visit the track's website here.

Rideau Carleton Raceway's Melissa Keith is harness racing's first full-time female race announcer

Rideau Carleton Raceway 62nd season starts on Sunday (March 24) and is proud to welcome HRU columnist Melissa Keith as its new race announcer, replacing long-time announcer John MacMillan, who is stepping down for personal reasons. Keith is well-known across the country as a guest announcer, handicapper, and harness racing journalist.

"An opportunity like this doesn't come along very often, so I am thrilled," said Keith. "I have fond memories of visiting the Rideau Carleton Raceway with my father when I was a university student. Watching and betting on harness racing has always been part of our family, and of my life. Taking on the role of full-time announcer at this racetrack brings it full-circle for me."

In addition to her announcing duties, race enthusiasts will be happy to know that Keith will continue to provide analysis as Rideau Carleton Raceway handicapper.

"Hard Rock is recognized globally as one of the best employers for women," said Rideau Carleton Casino, Future Hard Rock president Christine Crump. "It's fitting we now have the honor of being the first raceway in Canada to hire a female full-time announcer. We are excited to introduce Melissa to the community and know that she'll enthusiastically carry on the tradition of exceptional racing insights that our racing fans have come to expect during John's remarkable tenure."

Desperate Man now a millionaire after Borgata Series triumph

Desperate Man, the 2021 Horse of the Year in Canada, became a millionaire in U.S. dollars after taking the first of four $50,000 flights of the opening leg of the MGM Borgata Pacing Series for older horses and geldings on Monday night (March 18) at MGM Yonkers Raceway. Also taking victories were Rocknroll Runa A, Covered Bridge and Linedrive Hanover.

Driven by Matt Kakaley for trainer Travis Alexander, Desperate Man left from post 5 and worked his way past Sumomentsomwhere A (driven by Yannick Gingras) for the top spot approaching the :27 opening quarter. Desperate Man was unchallenged from there, which allowed Kakaley to back down the middle-half fractions to :56 and 1:24.2, and a :27.2 final kicker got Desperate Man to the wire a length and a half ahead of Sumomentsomwhere A in a 1:51.4 mile. Venturesome Arden N (Brent Holland) was the third-place finisher.

A 6-year-old Shadow Play gelding, Desperate Man is owned by Kathy Cecchin and was bred by Winbak Farm. This was his 17th career victory; he has now banked $1,014,439 and he paid $3.00 to win as the 1-2 favorite. The exacta was $6.60 and the trifecta $32.00.

In the second test Rocknroll Runa A (driven by Mark MacDonald) tracked defending MGM Borgata Pacing Series champion Hellabalou (Gingras) from the pocket through fractions of :27.3, :56.3 and 1:24.1. MacDonald tipped Rocknroll Runa A to the outside coming off the final bend, paced by Hellabalou midway through the stretch and held safe over Whats Stanley Got A (George Brennan), who also swung out after a 3-hole journey, by a length and a quarter in 1:52.1. Pleaseletmeknow (Kakaley) also got by a fading Hellabalou for third.

Rocknroll Runa A, owned by trainer Larry Stalbaum, is a 7-year-old gelding by Rock N Roll Heaven. He made his 28th trip to the winner's circle, sent his earnings to $379,012 and returned $13.20 to win as a 5-1 offering. He led a $178.00 exacta and a $448.00 trifecta.

Covered Bridge (piloted by Jordan Stratton), who was third as the favorite in last year's championship, got the job done in 1:52.3 in the third section. Starting from post 5, Covered Bridge pressed on two-wide to get past 2021 MGM Borgata Pacing Series hero This Is The Plan (Gingras) coming off the opening bend and then controlled a sensible tempo of :27.3, :56.3 and 1:24.3. In the lane Gingras swung This Is The Plan to the outside, and while he did make up some ground, it wasn't enough as Covered Bridge prevailed by a half-length. Naturally Gifted A (Todd McCarthy), who tried a first-over attack out of fourth in the final quarter, got up for third.

Trained by Jeff Gillis for owner Mark Ford, Covered Bridge is an 8-year-old gelded son of American Ideal and was bred by Winbak Farm. He has a record of 48-19-23 from 142 lifetime efforts, has pocketed $1,228,055 and paid $2.50 to win as the 1-5 choice. He keyed an $11.40 exacta and an $18.40 trifecta.

Linedrive Hanover, with Scott Zeron in the bike, won the fastest Borgata battle of the night after taking the finale in 1:51.2. Idealsomemagic A (Brennan) set a crisp pace of :26.4, :55.2 and 1:23.1, but Zeron wheeled Linedrive Hanover out of the pocket approaching three-quarters and swept past Idealsomemagic A on the last turn. Linedrive Hanover would kick away from the rest of the horses from there, taking a 2 3/4 length decision over Coaches Corner (Jason Bartlett), who was left uncovered when Linedrive Hanover cleared to the top. Dunkin' (Tetrack) tracked Coaches Corner and ended up third.

Linda Toscano sent out Linedrive Hanover, a 6-year-old Betting Line gelding, for owners West Wins Stable, McKinlay & Fielding and Mac Nichol. Linedrive Hanover is now a 15-time winner from 36 starts and has now stashed away $522,277. The 3-5 favorite, Linedrive Hanover returned $3.50 to win while the exacta and trifecta were worth $16.40 and $180.50, respectively.

On Tuesday (March 19), the draw for the second leg of the MGM Borgata Pacing Series took place.

each night, provided there are at least seven entrants. If there are no winning tickets sold, the net money wagered that day will be carried over to the next day's Hoosier High-5 pool. It's tournaments time at Big M

This weekend, patrons at The Meadowlands will be in a tournament tizzy, as The Big M brings back a competition that's an old favorite.

After a brief hiatus, The Meadowlands is bringing back a live money handicapping contest on Saturday (March 23) night.

There is no entry fee ($100 live money bankroll required) for players and the prize pool is a guaranteed $5,000, which will be fully funded by The Big M. The night of the contest, players must register/check-in at the Clubhouse Lobby by 6:20 p.m., and a $100 betting card must be purchased to participate, as this is a live money/wagering contest.

The contest format:

- Contestants must bet a minimum of 10 Meadowlands races
- $10 minimum bet per race; no maximum bet
- Win, Place, Show and/or Exacta wagers only
- One horse per race
- Unlimited entries allowed per person
- Players keep all pari-mutuel winnings

For complete contest rules and regulations, go here.

ANOTHER WILD WEEKEND: Last weekend (March 15-16) was yet another of extraordinary action at the industry's handle leader, as total betting over the two race cards came less than $100,00 short of becoming the second $7-million weekend of 2024.

The Saturday program saw $3,644,648 pushed through the windows on the 14-race program after Friday business was $3,265,089.

There have been 21 cards contested at The Big M during 2024, with 18 of them seeing wagering bust the $3-million barrier.

BET A LITTLE, WIN A LOT: The possibility of making a big score is a big reason for wagering being what it is at The Meadowlands, and last weekend saw a handful of prolific payoffs.

Friday's big hits came in the 20-cent Pick-6 ($29,854, aided by a carryover) and 20-cent Survivor Pick-7 ($7,590) while Saturday's huge payouts came in the 20-cent Pick-8 ($12,926 after a five-day carryover) and Pick-6 ($11,499).

"Our wagering menu creates plenty of opportunities for all kinds of horseplayers to make scores," said Meadowlands' chief operating officer and general manager Jason Settlemyer. "Our lower takeouts return more to the players and that plays a crucial role in our success. The extra money is the fuel that keeps the players in action."

"Full competitive fields on a mile track can generate big pools that make those large payouts possible. You saw that all weekend, as bettors at The Big M pushed the weekend handle to almost $7 million."

BET WITH LITTLE, WIN A LOT: Big M TV's Dave Little was on target Saturday night, selecting eight winners, which included Sunshine's Finest ($16.20) in the first race and Mask On Mask Off ($10.40) in the eighth. In addition, Little tabbed the 50-cent Early Pick-4 cold ($41.20).

On Friday night, Little had four on top, including Hockey Hanover, who returned $26.40 to win as a 12-1 outsider.

FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD ON A ROLL: The remarkable Mariner Seelster won again Friday (March 15) night, upping his win streak to four, in a Meadowlands Amateur Driving Club 2 event on the pace.

The 15-year-old gelded son of Camluck—MT Freedom, permitted to race only because horses beyond the age of 14 are eligible to perform in fair or amateur dashes in New Jersey, was roughed up four-wide into the first turn, finally made the top while parked at the half in a sizzling :54.3, then drew clear of his foes at the head of the stretch before going on to a sparkling 1:52.3 score.

"He's as sound and happy as he's ever been," said winning trainer Travis Alexander of 'Mariner,' who made the 440th start of his career. "You can see his ears up during the mile and we couldn't be more amazed by him than we are. He loves his job, that's for sure."

Mariner Seelster now has 74 lifetime wins and paid $4.20 as the even-money favorite despite leaving from post nine in the nine-horse field. Unfortunately, for his many fans, he will be taking this week off.

DRIVE OF THE WEEK: On Friday night, John Calabrese was named the first recipient of the track's weekly "Drive of the Week" award for his handling of Allindotime, who won on Friday (March 8), after superbly timed piloting from the 2023 Dan Patch Amateur Driver of the Year.

Want to get involved?

Each Monday, following the weekend of racing, The Meadowlands will post a poll on X (the platform formerly known as Twitter) asking fans to vote for their favorite drive of the past weekend. The poll will run for 24 hours, allowing one vote per X handle.

Meadowlands TV and management will select at least two outstanding drives from the weekend to include in the poll. Fans can suggest a drive to be included in the poll via X. If that drive is included in the poll, the fan will receive a $25 betting voucher valid at The Meadowlands (for those 18+, random drawing used if multiple fans suggest the same drive).

The winning drive will be announced every Tuesday afternoon and the winning driver will receive a $500 donation to the charity of their choice, courtesy of Jeff Gural and the Meadowlands.

CHECK OUT THE SHOW: The Big M's live "Racing from The Meadowlands" pregame show takes place before every live race card from the Sam McKee Memorial Broadcast Set.

The broadcast begins at 5:45 p.m. on both Friday and Saturday, before the live racing kicks off at 6:20 p.m.

Tonight, Michael Carter will be in town from Northfield Park and sit alongside Jessica Otten on set before the Big M's "A"-team of Otten and Dave Little will be on the desk Saturday.

For fans who follow the races on FanDuel TV, Little will be providing commentary tonight before Carter sits in that chair Saturday.

Longtime Illinois trotting queen retires

Longtime Illinois trotting queen Annas Lucky Star has abdicated her throne at the age of 10.

"She's now retired from racing," said her owner and breeder Danny Graham. "She's in Kentucky at Judy and Henry Lunford's farm where we're trying to get her in foal this breeding season to the stallion Rebuff. He's in his second season standing in Indiana."

Rebuff was a Breeders Crown champion at the age of 2 and as a 3-year-old was the fastest sophomore trotter in the country with a 1:49.4 mile. A multiple stakes champion, the son of Muscle Hill had career purse earnings of $962,490.

"Annas Lucky Star is a once in a lifetime horse," said the 69-year-old native of Salem, IL. "She never lost a race at Du Quoin and was a seven-time Illinois-bred stakes champion at Springfield."

"She was all business on the racetrack. Every time she went postward she wanted to finish first. Off the track, she was a sweetheart to be around."

In a little more than eight years of competition, Annas Lucky Star won 63 races in her brilliant career and never picked up easy ones on the County Fair circuit. In fact, she never raced on a half-mile oval.

The mare spent most of her career competing in state-bred stakes, and in open company events, winning the top overnights events in Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio.

Annas Lucky Star ended up winning an impressive 41 per cent of her 155 lifetime starts and finished third or better a dazzling 70 per cent of the time.

Even with less-than-desirable purses over the last decade in Illinois, the Cassis trotter, out of Graham's late broodmare Queen Jamie, hauled in $686,694 in her career.

Throughout her superb career Annas Lucky Star has been under the care of veteran trainer Nelson Willis.

Annas Lucky Star was named by Graham after his granddaughter Anna Rolla when she was 7.

"She's 18 now and in junior college," said the proud grandfather. "Anna plays second base on the West Frankfort baseball team and her younger sister is the shortstop."

"Any chance I get I drive the 50-mile trip south to West Frankfort to watch them play. I was there recently when Anna singled the first three times she batted and since I wasn't feeling very good, I left. It was just my luck that I missed Anna's home run in her next at bat."

Graham did leave a slight opening concerning Annas Lucky Star's retirement from racing.

"Of course, you never can say never," he said. "If my mare doesn't get in foal this breeding season, there's an outside chance that I would bring her back this year to race. She may not be as good as she was a few years ago, but she's still good, and she loves to compete."

So, stay tuned.
