The Breeders Crown Charity Challenge (BCCC) has the best 1-2 punch in the business as Adam Bowden joins creator Marvin Katz as co-chair for 2024.

Katz and Bowden contacted HRU earlier this week to share the good news.

“I would like to advise the world that Adam Bowden is going to become the head of the Breeders Crown Charity Challenge,” Katz said. “We’re going to do it together this year, co-chairing at The Meadowlands, and then beginning next year, Adam Bowden will take over the mantle and I’m thrilled, proud, pleased, and excited that someone of Adam’s stature and abilities is going to be taking it over. I think it’s time.”

The Charity Challenge, which has donated over $1.5 million to 24 different charities, is the brainchild of Katz, and even though he has presided over it from the beginning in 2019, he told HRU prior to The Meadowlands hosting the Breeders Crown and Charity Challenge in 2021, that he was looking to step down and pass the torch.

“John Campbell coined a phrase that I really like,” said Katz. “I would tell John my pink slip’s in the mail and he said to me ‘Marvin, the mail ain’t what it used to be.’ So, he keeps telling me he hasn’t received my resignation. I’ve already tendered my resignation, but he’s got a hearing problem and a mail problem.”

According to Katz, Bowden is the perfect person to move his vision forward.

“I think it’s appropriate that it’s someone who’s young and who’s as involved in the business as Adam, and is one of the leading principles in the business,” Katz said. “It will be in good hands with him.”

Back in 2021, Moira Fanning, chief operating officer of the Hambletonian Society, told HRU why the involvement of Katz made the BCCC such a success.

“People don’t say ‘no’ to Marvin because he’s Marvin and because of his position in the industry, his commitment in the industry,” said Fanning. “It never was supposed to be a Marvin initiative. Our host tracks were supposed to take over because it really does benefit them. It’s their charities. It is supposed to benefit the long-term relationship of these host tracks with [their community].”

As someone who has supported the Charity Challenge from its inception, Bowden knows how big the shoes are that he’s attempting to fill, however, when Katz called to ask him to eventually take over, he only had one answer.

“You already know the answer,” Bowden said, adding with a laugh, “Marvin called and asked and you can’t say no to him, so here we are. I mean, he asked and he explained it. Like he said, I participated in the program from the beginning. I know what it’s about. I know its importance to the industry internally and externally, and I think that that’s the key piece. We continue to recycle our own money all the time, and I think this shows the sport and the outside world what we can do when we put our heads together.

“And I think it’s four wonderful causes and I’m very happy that he asked me. I’m honored and hopefully I can live up to it.”

Katz has worked hard for the BCCC to continue to evolve.

Even though they are still finalizing the details for some of this year’s events, Katz and Bowden are delighted with the stallion lineup – Walner, Chapter Seven, Tactical Landing and Karl – that they already have committed to this year’s Charity Auction.

In the past, the four Charity Challenge teams have each consisted of a driver and trainer, however, in 2024, each team will also have an owner. This year’s drivers are Dexter Dunn, Yannick Gingras, David Miller and Tim Tetrick, with trainers Tony Alagna, Marcus Melander, Ake Svanstedt and Nancy Takter, and inaugural owners Brad Grant, Mark Weaver, Bill Pollock and Anders Strom. The team lineups will be announced at a later date.

They also plan to bring back the extremely popular Charity Dash at The Red Mile and Bowden will lead a group that will expand their social media footprint.

“I think I would say most people are very happy to contribute, but at the same time, I think regular people aren’t exposed to what we’re doing and I think that’s the next evolution of this, to introduce it to the casual fan,” Bowden said. “So like Marvin said, we’re going to put together a social media/marketing team to sell it to the public, basically to teach them what we’re doing, so that during the Breeders Crown, when we’re presenting all this money to the different charities, people understand and have, hopefully, bought into what we’re doing.”

Katz added, “There used to be a saying that if you weren’t on TV, you didn’t exist. Well, I think today if you’re not on social media, you don’t exist and we need to be on social media in a real way, not just by happenstance, but in a real way. And part of this year’s program is to make that the case.”

According to Katz, one new event that they are perhaps most looking forward to involves a day trip for children to Alagna’s farm in central New Jersey.

“Tony Alagna has a new farm in New Jersey and Tony was excited to join in with the kids’ day at the farm,” Katz said.

Bowden added, “I think Marvin and I, and probably everybody else, agree that Tony might be the best person in the entire sport to host something like that. I just think his personality and his openness and willingness to speak to the public and the kids and everybody else, he is the perfect person.”

Katz said the plan calls for some food trucks and possibly a t-shirt and a baseball cap for the kids and the TV crew from The Meadowlands will be there to record it.

“We’re going to have an experience that we haven’t had before,” Katz said. “And it’s a way of exposing children who would never be at a horse farm or never able to pet a horse or have that type of experience and again, it’s all a part of the Breeders Crown celebration.”

Meadowlands chief operating officer/general manager Jason Settlemoir is happy to have The Meadowlands once again play host to the Breeders Crown and the Charity Challenge. The Crown finals are on Friday and Saturday (Oct. 25-26).

“I love the Breeders Crown Charity Challenge,” Settlemoir said. “This is a way our sport can give back to those in need. It’s always a pleasure to work with Katz and Bowden, so I’m really looking forward to this again in 2024.

“We really put our hearts and souls into trying to help those less fortunate than us. That was something instilled in me as a young child growing up by my family and Jeff [Gural] has never told me no or passed up an opportunity to help someone or those in need. It’s been impressive to watch our industry rally around this cause. It really does bring a smile to both mine and Jeff’s faces.”

According to Katz, many people have supported the Charity Challenge from Day 1. In addition to Bowden, he wanted to give a tip of the cap to Alagna, Brittany Farms, Dunn, Gingras, Tom Grossman, Kentuckiana Farms, Mike Klau, Melander, Miller, David Reid, Takter and Tetrick. He also apologized to those that he knows he failed to mention.

“These people have been constant contributors to it and they deserve to be acknowledged,” Katz said. “I’ve said this numerous times that it’s the industry that should be celebrated; they’re the real champions here because they realize the importance of what we’ve created. They realize that this is now a real thing that is an important part of our business and it’s getting bigger and better. I’m sure I’ve missed a few and I apologize for that.

“Adam’s been one of the staunchest supporters of the concept from its beginnings. I cannot say enough about him, and that’s what led me to believe he would be the best source for taking over the reins.”

Katz and Bowden have been dividing up the work so far this year, and although no one has said no to him yet, Bowden plans to keep an ace up his sleeve.

“And that’s why Marvin will probably never actually get to step away because I’ll have to lean on him because people have no problem telling me no,” Bowden said with a laugh. “So, I’m going to have to be like ‘You either say yes or I’m going to get Marvin on the phone.’”

Katz is proud of how the sport has and continues to support the Charity Challenge.

“I think that people quickly recognized what we were doing was to give back to every community that was hosting the Breeders Crown,” Katz said. “We’ve now raised over $1.5 million and I’m hopeful that we’re going to get up near $2 million this year or darn close to it, hopefully. And that’s not a casual accomplishment, that’s significant. People quickly saw what was happening and every year started to embrace it more and more.

“I’m pleased we’ve created something that’s become an integral part of the Breeders Crown celebration. Every racetrack that it’s been at, was thrilled and finds it to be an important part of hosting the Breeders Crown. I just think it does nothing but present our business in the best way possible. And I think having Adam on board will just make it bigger and better.”

Golf and horse racing both had a pandemic bump, but why has golf's kept going?

Foresight, investment and the smart engagement of new customers have all played a role in the old game's resurgence.

by Dean Towers

As millions of us watch the final round of the Masters Tournament this weekend, we'll likely learn the game of golf is pretty strong; not only within this iconic and growing championship but the entire game itself.

Only a short time ago these good vibes were not being felt. Fewer people were playing golf, courses were being closed. The game (and this may sound recognizable) was labor-intensive, expensive, and dependent on vast real estate that could be used for many other things. As Bradley Kim put it in a Wall Street Journal piece this week, "[It's] a great game but a lousy business."

However, in 2020 when the pandemic was unleashed upon the world, lobbying efforts by national golf associations and others convinced politicians that golf was safe and courses rapidly reopened. Locked down, weary folks of all ages took advantage of their new-found freedom and flocked to golf courses.

This is a not unfamiliar story, of course, because we saw the exact same growth in horse racing in 2020. For many months it was literally the only game in town, transporting us back to an era of zoot suits and gin joints.

But unlike horse racing handles, since that time golf revenues have kept chugging.

In 2023, 531 million rounds of golf were played in the U.S. which is a 10 per cent increase from 2020. This number eclipsed the Tiger Woods spike almost a quarter century ago. Participation in the sport has grown 12 per cent since 2017.

How has this been achieved? In part, because the sport understood what it was gifted. They knew they attracted a lot of new users in 2020, and they wanted to ensure these newcomers were engaged in the sport regularly, and encouraged to come back.

This was fashioned in a number of ways.

Membership was made more welcoming and was tailored to different cohorts. According to Marcie Mills, a consultant hired during the boom, clubs were now providing day care, creating in-house summer camps, and expanding offerings to make it a "club within a club."

The golf clubs themselves changed the game. They created new forward tees to make the difficult task of hitting a tiny ball more fun for new players; they built family friendly putting areas; they even constructed brand new nine-hole golf courses that provided comfort for those learning the game. This was all done in tandem with national organizations.

In addition, the entire sport embraced and pushed new outlets and technologies. Places like Topgolf and Drive Shack provided a fun place for families and couples to get better at the game together, and golf simulators are now found almost everywhere. In 2023, a whopping 32.9 million people visited these off-course businesses; channels that delivered a way to get hooked on the game without actually playing a round.

When we examine what horse racing did with its pandemic bump, it, in my view, illustrates a stark contrast.

Do you remember our business offering specific instruction to new players?

Rebates to get them more hooked on the game?

Did any track subset their new players into cohorts and when the pandemic restrictions were lifted offer them free seats or meals to experience this great sport live for perhaps the first time?

Did we embrace new technologies? Did we, for example, use programmatic advertising to remind new customers when they were near a racetrack and to come on over? Did the tracks create lookalike audiences on social media advertising mediums to target similar customers with pro-racing messages, coupons or offers?

Did we change the way we did business at all? Even a little?

In the Wall Street Journal, Klein wrote that "the knock on golf has been that it's too hard, too time consuming and too expensive." We clearly could say that about our sport, too.

Using some foresight, strategic thinking, technology, and yes, some investment, golf has lessened those encumbrances, and has found a way to both attract new users and keep them. The future indeed seems bright.

I think the sport of horse racing can learn a lot from the very old game of golf. If it ever finds itself with perfect conditions and a flat lie into a par five green, it shouldn't be laying up. Those are the times you grab the longest stick in the bag and rip it.

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Stacey Wall's horses give her something to shout about

by Chris Lomon

There is always one sure sign longtime caretaker Stacey Wall has a horse in the race.

It is abundantly clear to everyone in the grandstand, whether that happens to be at Buffalo Raceway or Batavia Downs, when a Ronald Houghtaling trainee has a big chance to cross the wire first.

In this instance, it's not only visuals that tell the story.

"I scream at them as they go by on the last turn," said Wall with a laugh. "If they are anywhere close, I'm sure they can hear me. I get nervous when they are out there because I want them to be safe and sound, but I love cheering them on."

It is, perhaps, the ideal way to define the bond between Wall and the horses under her care.

The New York native's connection with trotters and pacers dates back to her early days growing up in the Empire State.

"Both sides of my family have had a long history in racing," she said. "I have been around it my whole life. There is a track in Hemlock, NY, where the Hemlock fair is, and that's where I spent a lot of time."

A place that literally felt like home for Wall and her family.

"I had a good friend of mine there when we were kids, and we would have a little clubhouse right on the fairgrounds," Wall said. "My great grandfather, Erwin Dale, used to drive the starter car there. I have so many great memories of those days."

Wall's association with racing is found throughout her family tree.

"My dad, Richard Stoddard, who passed away a few years ago, and my aunt, Sandra – she doesn't have any racehorses of her own anymore – were involved in racing for a long time. Two of my dad's top horses were Kiwi Breeze and Carlin's Best.

"My family owned a lot of the horses who are racing in Buffalo right now."

Wall's association with the sport and its horses has had a few stops and starts over the years.

At one point, she drifted away from harness racing for another equine arena.

"When I was a teenager, I got away from the harness side of horses and I rodeoed for years," she said.

Eventually, Wall found her way back to the standardbreds.

"After I had my kids, my aunt got me back into the harness world again, so that's what I do, day in and day out; I swear I never leave the barn," she said.

That is certainly not a complaint.

Working for Houghtaling, a lifetime winner of over 150 races as a trainer and 143 as a driver, brings with it familiarity and trust.

It’s one reason why Wall always heads to and from the barn with a smile.

“Ronnie and my uncle Jeff [Dale] have been best friends their entire lives,” Wall said. “It’s cool to come back and help Ronnie now because he is family to me.

“So, I am with him every day, working with the nine horses in the barn who are racing.”

Not surprisingly, Wall has formed a close attachment to them all. Does she have one or two she is especially close with?

“In December, Ronnie brought in a yearling and I helped break him to the cart,” Wall said. “He is my baby. I love him. His name is Best Met Yet. He will start racing in the sires stakes this year.

“I don’t know why he has had that effect on me. Maybe it’s partly because I broke him to the halter and to the lead. I walked him every day, a couple of times a day. I helped break him to the harness and the cart. Sometimes, he has a little bit of an issue coming out of the barn with the cart on. I get him to come out gracefully. I unhook him from the cross ties and Ronnie is in the cart, and he follows me out. I say, ‘Come on, Little Man.’ That’s the nickname I have had for him since the day he first came into the barn.”

And then there is Sanchez Rocks.

Owned by Houghtaling’s wife, Marie, the 8-year-old trotting son of Craze—Steuben Miss Pine has 174 career starts to his name.

Bred by Houghtaling, the brown gelding has earned just shy of $180,000.

Sanchez Rocks recently won the $9,000 TrackMaster 77 for trotters, at Batavia Downs.

“He is another wonderful horse that Ronnie has,” Wall said. “He’s such a classy horse and he always tries. I’m lucky to be around so many nice ones.”

It seems the feeling is mutual.

Wall receives a warm welcome the moment she first steps into the barn each morning.

The horses have come to know when she arrives.

“My car beeps if I leave my fob in it,” she said. “They hear that beep and when I open the door and turn the lights on, every single horse has their head over the doors, and they are calling out to me.”

She isn’t the only one in her family to feel the love from the horses at the Houghtaling barn.

“My youngest son has a special bond with one of Ronnie’s horses,” Wall said. “Whenever he can make it to the barn and especially on weekends, he comes to see Jenns Girl. She is just a lovable horse and she bonded with him the first time he ever came to the barn. When he is there, he just loves on her.”

Outside of the barn life, Wall enjoys spending time with her husband and their three sons.

She also appreciates the chance to experience a different two-wheel thrill.

“My husband and I like to ride motorcycles; it’s a fun way to get away from the demands of racing for a while,” she said.

Then there is her time spent in the saddle.

Wall’s partner for trail rides comes in the form of a 16-year-old pacer who earned nearly $375,000 over his successful racing career.

Freaky Flyer, trained by Rose Russo, who co-owned with her husband Lewis, was bred by Eugene Yoder of Topeka, IN.

The Russos were the 31st owner of the nomadic Freaky Flyer, who competed at numerous tracks over his 458 lifetime starts.

He is now under the watchful eye of Wall.

“Rose and Lewis, who retired him last year, gave him to me,” Wall said. “I broke him to ride and now I’m giving him a whole new outlook on life.

“He is awesome. He wasn’t hard to break to ride. Eventually, I’d like to turn him into a barrel horse, so I can barrel race him. He has speed, endurance, and a big heart. And I am his biggest cheerleader.”

Just as Wall has been for every horse in her care over the years.

As for what she defines as a perfect day at the barn, Wall pauses momentarily before responding.

“Everybody went out and trained well, jogged well, and came back to the barn in great shape; a nice, relaxing day,” she said. “No drama.”

And something definitely worth shouting about.

Friendship and influence ambling American racetrack aprons

by Frank Cotolo

Luck played an important role when I returned from England. On the long flight back, I began writing an article titled "Betting A Horse Of A Different Colour" [sic]. It was an in-depth report on thoroughbred race wagering in Great Britain for people on the west side of the Atlantic. After a week back in the USA I completed the article in my Hollywood and Vine office while writing hours of material for syndicated radio shows.

While researching periodicals where I could submit the article, I found the magazine Gambling Times (GT). Adding to the discovery it turned out its publishing offices just so happened to be located on Highland Boulevard around the corner from my apartment. This meant I could physically deliver the article and shmooze with editors; an edge over anyone submitting articles through the mail.

Armed with the current issue of the magazine (available at Hollywood's popular streetside newspaper vendor) and a clean copy of my article I met with a GT editor.

"I cover baseball," he said, "but I'll get this it to the horse racing editor."

"What is his name?"

"Mark Cramer. He doesn't work out of this office."

"Does he live in town?"

"Yeah, in the Valley."

"Does he get a lot of article submissions?"

"He does a column but he looks at submissions."

"And he makes the decisions to publish them?"

"Yeah. He's the horse-gambling editor."

"What about the harness racing column? This Barry Meadow? Does he live in the Valley as well?"

"He does a column. Any harness-gambling articles go through him. But there aren't many harness-gambling articles. If any ever."

"There must me more than there are for betting baseball considering it's illegal to bet on baseball."

"You can bet on baseball in Nevada where you can bet on anything. You heard of Nevada? It's a state just to the west of..."

"Right."

A few days later I received a call from Mark Cramer. He was impressed with my article and told me it would be published in an upcoming issue soon and he said he was interested in my continued input to the publication. We set up a meeting at Hollywood Park.

Mark began his pari-mutuels history betting harness racing in New York but his expertise came from thoroughbred racing. My interest in the thoroughbreds was twofold when we met. I was intrigued to pursue learning more about the breed after being smitten by Andy Beyer's book, Picking Winners. Beyer's speed-rating formula was becoming a treatise among thoroughbred bettors to the point where it was creating more of them and it seemed to me a worthy path for making money.

Especially from "the breed most likely to exist" as one professional player told me.

Cramer was a transplanted New Yorker and unlike any horseplayer I knew from the east coast. He had a PhD. The hoi polloi bettors I met in New York City were lucky if they made it through high school (in all fairness others like me fumbled through four years of college merely to escape military tours in Vietnam).

Cramer was the real academic thing and that was refreshing. Intelligence counted in my book. Beyer clearly made it a component for successful gaming but Cramer added to it a heartfelt love for the game and that heightened its dreadful reputation.

I was not about to give up harness racing and replace it with thoroughbred racing but as is my nature, and thanks to meeting Cramer, I added thoroughbred knowledge to my sprawled professional agenda. My plan was simple, continue my creative jobs at Audio Stimulation (including various road trips and local performances with Wolfman Jack for TV and radio and on stage); write articles for GT and pop periodicals (some ghost-written for Wolfman Jack) and in my spare time follow Beyer's speed figures for the thoroughbred meets. I would find sometime during all that to breathe normally and care for life's many other personal chores. As for harness racing? Los Alamitos harness racing held on by a thread and though I intended solo visits. Shuffling work commitments I was off to the races with Mark Cramer.

He was full of energy at the track and we shared a natural habit of ambling the apron at Hollypark [sic] where between races I displayed my speed figures and Mark complemented them with angle-and-method-play tactics which I respected since among his handicapping observations he knew volumes about the breed and sprints versus routes and turf versus dirt and the patterns of local jockeys and trainers.

We also paired well because Mark's occupational agenda (for one as a college professor) was also stacked, and he had a wife and child. We managed it all doggedly. Like when Santa Anita opened and we could not attend a day's card we went to early-morning wagering to make bets.

It was an enriching camaraderie since he was multifarious and always up for conversations about anything but horse racing. Like art and literature and music and the assortment of figures involved. And our outside-of-racing writing. Cramer authored books on topics other than handicapping races. Fiction and non-fiction. I was grateful when he asked me to write the foreword to "Kinky Handicapping," a book with unique approaches to finding valuable bets.

Molly D'Agostino stands for standardbreds

Her MMXX Standardbreds creates opportunities for standardbred horses in their second career.

by Chris Lomon

Molly D'Agostino has plenty to show, literally and figuratively, for her advocacy of the standardbred breed.

It was a short conversation, the one that happened a handful of years ago, but the words she heard that day struck a chord with the dotting young horsewoman.

"I had a horse, Fox Valley Photog, who my family raced until he was 14 and then he was retired," said the New York-born D'Agostino, who now calls Connecticut home. "We had him in our backyard, and I remember the day that our neighbor, someone who is in the quarter horse world, watched him run around outside. She said, 'Wow, he's really fancy.' I wasn't sure what she meant by that, but she helped me break him so that I could ride him."

When she did, D'Agostino had a thought.

"After a while, I decided to take him to the National Standardbred Show," D'Agostino said.

Held in late summer in New Jersey since 1995, the show is presented jointly by the Standardbred Pleasure Horse Organization of New Jersey (SPHO-NJ), the Standardbred Breeders & Owners Association of New Jersey (SBOA-NJ) and the United States Trotting Association (USTA). Standardbreds from across the country travel to compete in over 40 classes, open only to the breed.

Fox Valley Photog's racing career produced 35 wins and $144,532 earnings in 308 starts.

The chestnut gelding, a son of Vaporize—Fancy Creek Photo, would find greater success in a vastly different setting.

And with it, D'Agostino would discover a career she had never envisioned.

"I'm kind of that stage mom, who is so happy and proud, so we started to take him to horse shows around New England," D'Agostino said. "He was doing great and when we started doing these regional shows – he was winning – people were wondering what this horse was all about. I was excited to tell him he was a standardbred and that he raced 308 times.

"People wanted to know how they could get one. And that's when the lightbulb went on... I have this connection to the racing industry and now I am starting to build connections in the riding-horse community."

The more D'Agostino ruminated, the more she believed the two worlds could be merged to create a unique initiative.

In 2020, she made it a reality.

That was the year D'Agostino started an all-standardbred horse show team (MMXX Standardbreds) to open doors and eyes for the breed.

“A lot of the [horse show] people who get a standardbred are pleasantly surprised how quick the transition is, how fast they become your best friend, and how capable they are in the show ring. That is an absolute dream for us to hear.”

~ Molly D'Agostino

“ [My dream] might be the opposite of what you think, but if my program is successful, there won't be a need for us. That's my goal, to create a platform where owners and trainers can connect with these riding-horse homes. ”

Its mission is to create a market for the equine athletes in the show ring; the largest commercial transaction pool for equines in North America.

Home to several standardbreds, either permanently or seasonally competing in several events under saddle, MMXX assists racing connections with the retraining of their horses for sale in a second career.

All transactions are done off-track, with MMXX acting as the liaison between racehorse connections and potential pleasure homes.

The results have been blue ribbon, to say the least.

“I have been involved with racing my entire life and I have always had an appreciation for horses, so when I had an opportunity to take it into a new realm, the show ring, and to see these horses beat the traditional show breeds, like quarter horses, and other warmbloods; it was fantastic,” D'Agostino said.

And deeply rewarding.

“We are in triple digits at this point, in terms of horses that are now in the show world,” she said. “Getting to follow along in their journey, seeing and reading about how they are excelling.”

A glance at the MMXX website (Fox Valley Photog's racing ID tattoo is now part of the MMXX logo) shows just how successful standardbreds have become in the ring.

Ribbons, awards, and accolades are on full display in the Hall of Fame section.

“There are a lot of stereotypes about standardbreds in the riding world that are completely untrue and unfair,” D'Agostino said. “We figured the only way to rewrite history was to go out and beat them at their own game. And that is what we are doing.

“The heart that these horses have on the racetrack and in the show ring is remarkable. They are an amazing breed.”

A breed that D'Agostino knows well.

Her love of racing and its equine participants is in her DNA.

Lon Rosenfeld, her uncle and a successful Vernon trainer and driver, was the one who got her mother Laura, and father Joe, involved in harness racing.

A young Molly cleaned stalls and helped around the barn before attaining her groom's license.

She worked for her uncle and father, as well as Frank Davis and David Dewhurst.

While racing was music to her ears, so too were other pursuits.

A record deal – Molly is an accomplished musician – led to travel and touring. Her studies, specifically, attaining a law degree, didn't allow much time for other personal interests.

Racing, however, was never far removed from her thoughts.

After earning her law degree, Molly delved into the horse ownership ranks when she purchased a yearling.

She has owned horses ever since.

“I have always felt a bond with horses, and I have always had a profound respect for their kindness, athleticism, talents, and abilities,” Molly said.

Molly has never been more invested in the sport, a tireless and passionate proponent for the health and welfare of standardbreds.

The MMXX adoption program, launched in the fall of 2023, has helped place almost 100 horses to date at tracks and centers throughout the U.S., from Bangor to Yonkers and several other racetracks.

“Our average adoption price right now is $3,500, which is phenomenal for these absolutely amazing animals,” she said. “I think more people are finding that out for themselves, that these standardbreds are first-class athletes.”

Including those in the horse-riding community.

Convincing them to consider standardbreds is becoming less of a struggle.

“The only way you can make change happen, in terms of suitable aftercare, is power in numbers,” she said. “We want to get their name out there, that standardbreds have the heart, the talent, and the smarts to walk amongst others in the show ring.

“We want to engage the horse-riding world throughout the U.S. and introduce them to the power of the standardbred.”

Molly has found a common theme in her interactions at horse shows and with those who have adopted horses through the MMXX pipeline.

“It’s always along the lines of, ‘I had no idea...’ and ‘How wonderful and easy they are to train,’” she said. “We want people in horse-riding circles to join the fun too and get yourself one of these wonderful standardbreds.

“A lot of the people who get a standardbred are pleasantly surprised how quick the transition is, how fast they become your best friend, and how capable they are in the show ring. That is an absolute dream for us to hear.”

The dream for MMXX going forward is an unexpected one.

“It might be the opposite of what you think, but if my program is successful, there won’t be a need for us,” Molly said. “That’s my goal, to create a platform where owners and trainers can connect with these riding-horse homes.

“I’m working with Charles Taylor, a standardbred breeder, to build an online portal where we can start facilitating both adoptions and sales. Hopefully, it is something where I can hand off the reins and it can be taken in the direction of a self-sustaining model.”

For now, it is business as usual at MMXX.

It remains, cliché noted, a true labor of love for Molly.

“All of what we do is off-track, which I am very proud of,” she said. “We have great people at every track connecting us to the right people. My network goes throughout New York. One of the big reasons why we have grown is Kim Martino; she is one of the representatives at the racetrack. She has done so much to build up those connections.

“I’m so proud of what we have accomplished. But I think the biggest thing is that trainers and owners are starting to come to us organically. When it comes to adoption fees, their response is, ‘That doesn’t matter. I just want to find them a good home.’”

As it is for Molly.

There are recurring reminders, pleasant ones, that MMXX is making a significant impact on behalf of former racehorses.

“Every time I get a connection from the racing world, someone who is telling us they want a better future for their horse, and that they want us to help with that, it is something we are so proud of,” Molly said.

There is also a sense of pride in a journey that is not yet complete, but already has much to show.

“Watching this idea come to fruition and people seeing value in this is wonderful,” she said. “These horses deserve that recognition. They are truly beautiful in every way.”

This year's MGM Borgata Pacing Series final will also have a "win and you're in" feature for the $125,000 Birthday Invitational Pace in May to celebrate 125 years of MGM Yonkers Raceway, the Battle of Lake Erie at MGM Northfield on June 8 and the Aria Invitational at Yonkers (scheduled for Sept. 7).

The 2024 edition of the John Brennan Trotting Series got going on Wednesday night (April 10) at MGM Yonkers Raceway with five $25,000 divisions.

Tachyon (1:54.1), a 5-year-old Muscle Hill gelding, won the fastest split with Jason Bartlett at the lines for trainer Ricky Bucci and owner Flatland Racing. Tachyon paid $2.30 to win, led an $8.10 exacta and a $29.60 trifecta, and was victorious for the 13th time in his career.

Royalty Beer (1:56.2) and Warrawee Yang (1:55.3) were also winning favorites in their respective Brennan Series sections. Royalty Beer, a 5-year-old gelded son of Royalty For Life who returned $2.80 to win and keyed an $8.60 exacta and an $18.00 trifecta, had trainer Pat Lachance in the bike for owner Jean-Francois Maguire, while Warrawee Yang, a 4-year-old son of Trixton, was sent out by trainer Mickey Burke, Jr. for owners Burke Racing Stable LLC. and Weaver BrusceMI LLC. Warrawee Yang paid $2.30 to win while the exacta kicked back $7.80 and the trifecta was worth $63.50.

Completing the first leg victors were Resolve To Win (1:56.3) and Optrix (1:56.4). Resolve To Win, trained by Jeff Cullipher for owner Pollack Racing, is a 4-year-old Resolve gelding who tallied as the 5-2 second choice and returned $7.40 to win. The exacta and trifecta were $17 and $58. Optrix, a 4-year-old gelding by Trixton, is trained by Tom Jackson, and he also co-owns him with Howard Taylor and Jenna Cornelison. Optrix was the 2-1 second choice, returning $6.50 to win. The exacta was $32.60 and the trifecta $189.50.

The John Brennan Trotting Series, which has two more prelims prior to the $55,000-added final on April 31, is named in honor of the longtime SOA of NY horsemen's representative who passed away from complications of COVID-19 in March 2020. The series is for 3-year-olds and older who were non-winners of six pari-mutuel races or $200,000 through Feb. 1, 2024, with winners over $250,000 as of that date not eligible.

Tonight's (April 12) program at MGM Yonkers Raceway will be headlined by two $40,000 splits of the last round of the Blue Chip Matchmaker Series for pacing mares. Tony's Mom (post 2) and Incaseyou didntknow (post 8) each seek their second win in the prelims in the first division (race 5), while the other section (race 9) has leg-winners Lit De Rose (post 1), Dougs Babe A (post 2), Delitfulcatherin N (post 4) and Racine Bell (post 7). Kinesiology heads trotting fillies in Weiss action Tuesday

Kinesiology was the fastest winner in the six $20,000 divisions of the first prelim of the Bobby Weiss Series on a gorgeous Tuesday afternoon (April 9) at Pocono Downs at Mohegan Pennsylvania, while Hall of Fame driver David Miller accounted for three divisions of the initial round for 3-year-old trotting fillies.

The Walner filly Kinesiology had all her muscles moving in the correct fashion as she stopped the timer in 1:55 to remain undefeated after two 2024 starts after getting blanked as a freshman. Michael Burke conditions the improved filly for Burke Racing Stable LLC, Beasty LLC, Lawrence Karr, and J&T Silva-Purnel & Libby.

Miller brought two Tactical Landing misses to lifetime bests: Tactical Lori (1:55.2) for trainer Nifty Norman and owners Melvin Hartman and Enzed Racing Stable Inc. in her second consecutive visit to Victory Lane, and Mantacular (1:56), successful in her seasonal bow for trainer Daniel Renaud and Glengate Farms. The leading money winner among active drivers added a third Weiss win with the Walner miss Elista Hanover, whose 1:55.3 matched her previous best win clocking from a qualifier, for trainer Annie Stoebe, co-owner with R. Lynn and Philomena Curry.

Braxten Boyd, who drove a winner in each series competition en route to four triumphs on the day, guided the Father Patrick miss Happy Chopper to a new mark of 1:56.1 in her first race of the year for trainer Mark Harder, co-owner with Dean Lockhart and Denna Rachel Frost.

Sire Walner picked up a second Weiss credit with Tove Palema for driver Andy Miller and trainer/wife Julie, who had won with three sophomore trotting fillies at the Philly qualifiers earlier in the day. Andy Miller Stable Inc. shares ownership of the winner in her sophomore debut with Patrick Hoopes and Mortgage Boys Stable.

The trot-heavy card also featured six $17,500 divisions of the second round of the Game Of Claims Trotting Series, with the entrants this week base-tagged at $27,500. One division produced the fastest trot mile of the year at Pocono, 1:53.1, from the rampaging Kadabra gelding Fight Song and driver Anthony Napolitano, also giving the winner a lifetime best. Fight Song was joined in changing hands post-race after remaining undefeated in two series starts by Passionate Promise (Ridge Warren, a new mark of 1:55).

Two other trotters kept their series scorecard perfect in two series starts, and they both went back to familiar surroundings: Vegas Ticket (1:55.4, giving Anthony Napolitano two GOC wins) and Kinnder Thinktwice (Simon Allard, 1:55.1). Of the eight horses claimed after the first leg, only Louscardamon (Braxten Boyd, equaling his mark of 1:54.4) won for his new connections; the other GOC trot went to Yes (George Napolitano, 1:55.1).

The pacers had their moment of glory in the trotfest as the Heston Blue Chip mare Forgot Thewallet A won her third straight, and in the process posted Pocono's quickest mile of the year at 1:51, for Braxten Boyd, trainer Maria Rice, and Team Rice Racing LLC.

On as nice a Monday afternoon (April 8) as you could want at Pocono Downs at Mohegan Pennsylvania, Four Sixes, a Six Pack colt, is undefeated in three 2024 starts after recording a 1:55 victory in one of four $20,000 first-round prelims of the Bobby Weiss Series for 3-year-old trotting males.

Four Sixes was directed to the front by driver Tyler Buter as the field passed under the wire the first time and coasted home to a 3¾-length victory for trainer Tom Loughry, Jr. and Lone Wolf Stable.

The 1:55 mile was a new mark for the winner, and it tied him for Weiss speed honors with a Chapter Seven colt also posting a lifetime best, Victor Laszlo (named after the freedom fighter in the movie Casablanca who was married to Ingrid Bergman's character Ilsa). Victor Laszlo set the pace and then held off onrushing Usain Hanover by half-a-length for driver Mark MacDonald, trainer Ray Schnittker, and the partnership of Schnittker Arnold, Paul Bordogna, Ted Gewertz, and Arden Homestead Stable.

Victor Laszlo trotted to his second victory in as many seasonal starts; so, did Blackhawk Zette, a Cantab Hall colt who recorded a lifetime best of 1:55.4 while just edging out Green Pastures by a nose for driver Matt Kakaley, trainer Robert Baggitt, Jr., and owner J L Sadowsky LLC.

The final Weiss cut was the only one not to be won by the favorite (on a Pocono card that yielded 11 chalk winners in 15 contests), and the only Weiss race where the winner did not take a mark. The race boiled down to trainees of the co-owners of 2005 Hambletonian winner Vivid Photo, Todd Schadel and Roger Hammer, and it was the Schadel trainee, the Tactical Landing gelding Shermont prevailing in 1:57.1 for Babyshine Hanover Stable LLC. Tyler Buter recorded his second Weiss win of the day behind the successful seasonal debutant.

There were also seven $9,000 divisions of the second leg of the Game Of Claims Pacing Series for horses carrying a base tag of $12,500, and only the two repeat winners, Fredneck (driver George Napolitano, Jr., new mark of 1:53.1) and My Mind Is Madeup (Braxten Boyd, 1:53.3), were claimed among the septet of horses who paraded back to Victory Lane after GOC races.

Matt Kakaley drove two series winners, adding to his Weiss win to tie him for the day's driving honors with Braxten Boyd: Seal O'Neill (1:53.4) and Cheyenne Reijane (1:53, and remarkable in that the meet's leading driver anywhere rarely pays $98.40 to win). Other Game Of Claims winners were Team Mac (Jim Pantaleano, the fastest GOC time of 1:52.3 for a new mark), Record Year (Simon Allard, 1:53.1), and Buckeye Emery (Anthony Napolitano, 1:54).

The upturn in mercury surely aided the Captaintreachurous gelding De Los Cielos Deo to tie for the fastest win at the meet with a 1:51.1 score. The 8-year-old looked like the colt who was briefly near the top of his class in his freshman campaign, pacing strongly for driver Anthony Napolitano and trainer/driver Besim Odza. And if you were really impressed with De Los Cielos Deo, he's entered right back for a $30,000 tag on the Saturday card.

The wall-to-wall action continues at Pocono on Saturday at 1 p.m. with 10 $20,000 divisions of the Weiss Series second preliminary for 3-year-old pacers, six for males and four for females. Pocono free programs are or will be available at www.ppha.org.

The 2024 season at Harrah's Philly opens today

The 19th season of live harness racing at Harrah's Philadelphia starts its 2024 stand today (April 12), with 14 races set to go postward. Top purse of the day will be the $12,500 bounty offered to distaff pacers in race 6; there will also be four contests for the highest-priced claimers on the grounds.

After Opening Day, Harrah's Philadelphia will be racing on Thursday and Friday at 12:25 p.m. and Sunday at 12:40 p.m. until June, when Wednesday 12:25 p.m. cards will be added to the mix.

Philly also held another round of qualifiers prior to its opening day, and it was dominated by Team Orange Crush and Team Tetrick/King. Driver Andy Miller and trainer/wife Julie sent out three winning 3-year-old trotting fillies, all partially owned by Andy Miller Stable Inc.: Green Mercedes (Greenshoe), a 1:54.3 winner last year, won all by herself in 1:56.2, while career debutantes All Green (Greenshoe, 1:59.4) and Vivacity (2:00.1) made their racetrack bows successful. Even the junior member of Team Orange Crush got in on the act, as Tyler Miller catch-drove older pacer Hurymiki Hanover to a 1:57.1 victory.

Harrah's defending driving champion Tim Tetrick, who won four qualifiers here on Friday, had a double Tuesday with Jim King Jr.-trained 3-year-old sons of Captaintreachurous. Both showed sharp late foot: the gelding Fig Newton, who set the pace and came home in :56 - :27.1 to stop the timer in 1:57.3, and the colt Lyons Benjamin, a Pennsylvania All-Stars winner at 2 who roared home to win in identical time, with his own back fractions :55.1 - :26.3.

Harrah's Philly programs will be available at www.ppha.org.

The winning stable will receive the grand prize of $2,000. Second place through fifth place will also receive cash prizes. Second place will receive $1,000, third will win $500, fourth will receive $250 and fifth place will win $125. Bonus prizes will be awarded for the entry whose Ohio-sired horses win the most money and for the biggest return on investment.

The league is open to any individual who has not owned a standardbred that has raced in the last two years. Fractional ownership of less than 5 per cent does not prohibit participation.

Current standardbred owners are encouraged to invite their friends and family to participate in the Fantasy Racing League.

Entries are due April 20, 2024. Visit ohha.com/fantasystable.html to see complete contest rules, horse lists, and entry forms.

Distaff Sire Stakes featured at Cal Expo

Cenalta Token, winner of the first two big-money dances for the 4-year-old pacing mares at the meet; and Made Of Mischief, who was posing following the most recent, get another chance to settle the score in tonight’s (April 12) featured $20,000 California Sire Stakes.

Watch and Wager LLC will present 10 races with things getting underway at 6:45 p.m.

The co-features on the evening are an open pace headed by A Major Omen and an open trot featuring Jack Rabbit Slims.

Cenalta Token has gone strong miles in all three of the stakes for these distaffers, capturing the first two as the favorite and then turning in a game first-over effort in the most recent while finishing third.

The homebred carries the banner of Gordon, Helen and Myrna Empey, is conditioned by Rene Goulet and will have Jake Cutting in the sulky.

Made Of Mischief was an impressive winner of that last stakes clash, finishing powerfully for the length decision for owner/breeder Lanae Hernandez, trainer Bob Johnson and pilot Luke Plano.

Made Of Mischief comes into this assignment razor sharp, having added two conditioned scores to her resume since that March 24 stakes tally.

Completing the field are Cenalta Memories, Gotyubytheshorthairs, Wild Blue Wonder, Stevies Girl and Hot N Fancy.

Looking ahead to Sunday, the Kirk Breed Pace and the 4-year-old male Sire Stakes will be decided.

Handsome Harvey gives Plano another snapshot

The driver's race here at Cal Expo was over long ago, with Jake Cutting holding a daylight lead, while Luke Plano has a bit of breathing room atop the training stands with a 40-33 advantage over Nick Roland.

One of Plano's driving and training wins last week came with Handsome Harvey in the Don and Kenny Fowler Memorial, as the hard-hitting pacer ended up on the right end of the photo with classy Allmyx'sliventexas after a 1:53.1 tour.

The victory was No. 29 from just 54 starts for the 5-year-old son of Special Forces who is owned by Plano and Dave Haness and has proven to be an excellent purchase.

"When we bought Handsome Harvey, he was racing at the fairs in Iowa and was eligible for non-winners of one," Plano said. "We like to buy horses with conditions, develop them and gradually work them up the ranks."

That plan has worked out perfectly with Handsome Harvey, who did the track and attack to perfection to get the job done in the Fowler while nailing an ultra-tough customer in Allmyx'sliventexas.

The Past Masters and Pick-6 headline The Big M weekend

Live classic rock and a much-anticipated 20-cent Pick-6 are both well worth the trip to The Meadowlands this weekend. The top venue in the sport will host 14-race programs tonight (April 12) and Saturday (April 13). Each has a first-race post time of 6:20 p.m.

Tonight, Pick-6 players will undoubtedly jump into the pool early and often, with the multi-leg puzzler offering a carryover of $8,332.

The return to bettors in scenarios such as these is extremely attractive. The amount of "new money" figures to be approximately $30,000. When you deduct the low 15 per cent takeout, that leaves $25,500. Then, you would add the carryover, which is not subject to the tariff, to give you a grand total of $33,832. What's then created is a "negative takeout," which means that as long as the bet is hit, the money paid to those with winning tickets will be 113 per cent, instead of the normal 85.

That's a negative takeout. The players actually get more back than what's wagered.

"It's for this reason that our customers like to bet into our pools," said track chief operating officer/general manager Jason Settlemoir. "The carryovers – even when on the modest side – still create a chance for a big score. In fact, we will have a second carryover on [tonight's] card, as our 20-cent Pick-8 will begin with $2,873."

The Pick-8 begins in race 4 while the Pick-6 kicks off in the eighth.

How about a night at the track that includes the best of classic rock performed by a great band live?

That's what's in store for those who go to The Big M on Saturday when The Past Masters, featuring the track's own photographer Michael Lisa on drums, make their triumphant return.

Come and enjoy live music, live racing and food and drink specials.

The show takes place in Trackside and begins at 7 p.m.

It is free to attend.
