To recognize Hall of Famer Ron Burke becoming the first trainer or driver to pass the $300-million plateau, HRU contacted seven members of the Burke Brigade – Mickey and Sylvia Burke, Yannick Gingras, Larry Karr, Joe Koury, Shannon “Murph” Murphy and Mark Weaver – and asked them two simple questions.

The questions were kept short and fairly basic with the hope that similar answers might make it more difficult for Ronnie. And indeed, some of the responses were somewhat generic while others were given knowing that Ronnie would smile when he heard them.

The plan was to read those responses to him to see if he could tell who said what, but Weaver suggested taking it to another level and recording Ronnie to see his reactions.

The good news is Ronnie and his Brigade were up for this innovative idea. The bad news is technology doesn't always work the way we want it to.

The interview took place in Trotters at The Meadowlands on Saturday afternoon (May 13), so that Ronnie could also watch his horses race at multiple tracks via simulcasting.

Ronnie was not made aware of the questions or names of who was contacted prior to the sit down, where each question was presented to him on a piece of paper which also contained the names of the seven participating Brigade members.

For some reason, part of one of the videos cut off after his first correct guess, so three of the responses to the first question, along with his guesses, were not recorded. However, the first guess, remainder of the interview and an additional minute of Burke reacting to the experience can be seen here.

Burke's correct guess percentage was high except when it came to his mom and Murph, neither of which he got correct, although he does deserve some credit for narrowing down one response to his mom and Murph before ultimately picking the wrong one.

Here is a list of both questions as well as the answers from the seven brigade members.

1. Did you ever think a number like $300 million was possible?

Mickey Burke: "Nobody ever did it before in the history of harness racing and I didn't think that we would do it, it just happened and probably nobody will ever do it again."

Sylvia Burke: "I never thought about it, but I am proud of the whole Burke Brigade."

Yannick Gingras: "Absolutely, there was never a doubt. It was more a matter of when than if."

Larry Karr: "Although I never dreamed $300 million in purses was possible, I think if Ronnie followed my training tips, he would have reached this milestone even sooner."

Joe Koury: "For sure. Assuming things stay constant with the state of harness racing, $500 million is attainable if he wants it."

Murph: "I definitely thought he would. When you put up numbers like he does year after year, it adds up."

Mark Weaver: "It's something I never really thought about, but with great owners, it's amazing what trainers are able to accomplish."

“It was the one I wanted, so I do like this one.”

~ Ron Burke on reaching $300 million in earnings

2. How do you think Ronnie feels about this milestone?

Yannick Gingras: “I think this is the one record he’s most proud of. Being the first one at that number means a lot.”

Mickey Burke: “You’re probably getting more excitement out of me than you’ll ever get out of Ronnie. He’ll tell you point blank, ‘the only thing that impresses me is money.’”

Sylvia Burke: “I think he thinks it’s a big deal. That’s a big milestone. $300 million. That is a lot of money.”

Larry Karr: “I don’t think he looks at reaching this milestone as being about him as an individual, but rather he will view it as recognition of a tremendous amount of effort by a fantastic team, the entire Burke Brigade. And he’s looking forward to grinding to a billion.”

Joe Koury: “I think it’s something he’s extremely proud of. However, not just for him, but his family, his partners, his employees. The Burke Brigade is truly a big family and he’s proud of that.”

Murph: “I’m sure he’s very proud of it as he should be. But Ronnie is the type of guy that doesn’t say much about records. It’s just another day at the office.”

Mark Weaver: “I think this one is probably extra special to him being that no other trainer or driver have accomplished it.”

The takeaway from this interview was that Ronnie and the involved members of the Burke Brigade understand the magnitude of this milestone. Ronnie’s name stands alone in the record book, as it should, but he didn’t get there alone and they are all very proud of the part they played, however big or small. As Ronnie said: “It was the one I wanted, so I do like this one.”

For a little perspective of what this number really means, if Ronnie stopped racing today it would easily take his closest active competitor on the earnings list at least three years of averaging $10 million a year to catch him.

GRASSROOTS PERSPECTIVE

with CHRIS LOMON

Trainer Oscar Johnson Jr. goes from being a Titan in the NFL to one on the track

by Chris Lomon

What, if anything, could the NFL and standardbred racing possibly share in common? More than you might think according to Oscar Johnson Jr.

It was a question that elicited, perhaps surprisingly, a quick response from the former offensive lineman who has had a longstanding association with horse racing.

Former NFL player Oscar Johnson, Jr. in the winner's circle at Shenandoah Downs.

"Work ethic, for sure," Johnson said, when asked if there are any connections between life on the gridiron and life on the racetrack. "You have to show up every day and be willing to put in the work."

And he undoubtedly has.

KJ Erich gave Johnson Jr. his first win as a trainer thanks to an impressive victory at Shenandoah Downs.

Recently, on April 22, Johnson celebrated his first pari-mutuel training win when pacer KJ Erich posted an impressive victory at Shenandoah Downs.

Co-bred, owned and driven by Dr. Scott Woogen, the 10-year-old pacing son of Roll With Joe was sent off as the 2-1 choice in the eight-horse field on race 13 on the card.

On top by 1 ¼-lengths at the stretch call, KJ Erich flashed a final quarter of :29.4 on his way to a comfortable three-length score in a time of 1:58.4.

The former football player transformed into a cheerleader when the horses turned for home.

Those in the grandstand that day likely heard the big man with the big voice urging KJ Erich for his best turn of foot.

“It was a great feeling,” Johnson said. “I was the loudest one watching the race. My voice just got louder and louder the closer they got to the wire. When I saw him pull away from the other horses, it was awesome to see.”

Johnson had more to cheer about the following day, once again with Woogen in the race bike.

Just A Passenger, a 7-year-old trotting son of Cayenne Turbo, notched a 2 ¼-length triumph in 1:59.

“To win your first race and then win the next day, it doesn’t get much better than that,” Johnson said. “I’m just really happy I get to do this now. I love it.”

Starting out as a co-owner, Johnson, who hails from Crystal Springs, MS, is now building his training career, eager to see success in another sport.

After starring on the offensive line for the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs during his U.S. collegiate football days, Johnson went undrafted in 2013, but was picked up by the NFL’s Tennessee Titans where he played for three seasons before moving on to the Carolina Panthers for the final two years of his career.

Johnson maintained his connection with horses and horse racing during his pro football days through his good friend Lawrence Cooper.

“ I guess you could say I’m the coach now. That’s one of the best things about this sport, getting to work with the horses and finding ways to bring out the best in them. Just like any athlete, they all have different personalities, different needs and different times that they mature. But all of that is great.”

~ Oscar Johnson Jr.

Shoulder surgery eventually put an end to his football career, but he had another love to reconnect with.

“Even when I was playing football, horse racing was always a big thing for me,” Johnson said. “It’s just something I have always enjoyed.”

“The ones that I’ve had are very honest horses and they really don’t do anything wrong.” - LUC BLAIS

These days, Johnson, to put it in football parlance, has settled in nicely in his coaching role with the pacers and trotters under his watchful eye.

"I guess you could say I'm the coach now," he said with a laugh. "That's one of the best things about this sport, getting to work with the horses and finding ways to bring out the best in them. Just like any athlete, they all have different personalities, different needs and different times that they mature. But all of that is great."

He lists Blueridge Straight, a horse that started 132 times and earned nearly $80,000 in purses before he was retired in 2015, as his favorite horse to date.

Johnson is looking to add horses to his present roster, a number that currently stands at nine.

"You are always looking for a horse that fits your barn's needs," he said. "So, I'm constantly keeping a look out for ones that I think would suit us. I like that part of racing, in doing your homework and making sure you are on top of things."

Johnson credits several people for helping him along the way in his horse racing journey.

"I've been very fortunate to have so many good people help me over the years," he said. "This is a sport where you can learn something new every day and it's important to ask questions, to listen and to put all of that into what you do. Any advice you get, you can take that and include it with your own approach. I have to thank people like Calvin Cooper, Lawrence Cooper, John 'Mann' Hughes and John Willis. I wouldn't be doing what I'm doing without them."

And what he's doing, aside from winning, is enjoying the ride.

This year is Johnson's first at Shenandoah Downs in Woodstock, VA.

"It's a really beautiful racetrack and the people have been great," he said. "It's been a great experience so far and I'm glad we made the decision to come here. I really do enjoy it and hopefully, we can get some more wins."

No wonder the rookie trainer is constantly sporting a big smile.

With four wins, five seconds and a trio of thirds from 33 starts this year, Johnson is off to a strong start in the latest chapter of his racing career.

One thing that will remain a constant is a familiar approach, one that he used to good effect during his football career.

"It will always come down to the work you put in," he said. "Whatever it is you do, whether that is football, horse racing, or something else, you can control how hard you work. And a lot of times, that effort can end up paying off with success."

Something that Oscar Johnson knows all about.

Copenhagen Cup the perfect Elitloppet preparation for Önas Prince

by Thomas Hedlund

Önas Prince (Chocolatier) will enter the Elitloppet at Solvalla on May 28. Trainer/driver Per Nordström got a nice last preparation race when the duo won the $110,000 Copenhagen Cup at Charlottenlund racetrack in Denmark on Sunday (May 14).

From post 7 behind the gate, Önas Prince flew to the front and Nordström held high pace throughout the race. First over trotter Calle Crown held strongly and closed the gap to the leader in the stretch, but Önas Prince had everything under control and Nordström's skilled trotter came home in a strong mile rate of 1:53 over 1.3 miles.

Önas Prince was second in his Elitloppet elimination last year and made a break when he attacked three wide in the last turn in the final. The 6-year-old trotter looks stronger and sounder this year and Nordström seems to have hit the bull's eye regarding his horse's condition this spring.

Calle Crown was a strong runner up and Seven Nation Army finished a good third.

DEXTER DUNN TO DRIVE STOLETHESHOW IN ELITLOPPET

Four-time defending U.S. Driver of the Year Dexter Dunn will travel to Sweden to pilot Frode Hamre-trained Stoletheshow in the Elitloppet.

Solvalla's sports general Anders Malmrot told Travronden.se (translated by Google translate): "It's [exciting] we will get to see him and his driving style here. He is the best in the U.S. and it will be extra fun that he is coming here because he has not been here before."

It is possible Dunn will also drive at Solvalla on the Saturday card the day before the Elitloppet and in other races on Elitloppet day.

NURMOS AND GOCCIADORO TO ELITLOPPET

Timo Nurmos trained Brother Bill (From Above) received an invitation to the Elitloppet last weekend. On Wednesday night (May 17), Alessandro Gocciadoro's Lotteria-winner Vernissage Grif (Varenne) got his ticket to the Elitloppet.

Brother Bill finished second to Hail Mary at Solvalla last week and the strong debut for the season impressed Malmrot and the pink ticket was delivered to Nurmos' horse.

Vernissage Grif is Gocciadoro's second horse in the 2023 Elitloppet. His Vivid Wise As (Yankee Glide) was one of the earliest invited horses for the big mile race.

Unfortunately, one invited horse has to stay in the barn at the end of the month. French-bred and trained Horsy Dream has not been at his best level in his latest starts and trainer Pierre Belloche chose to stay home with his horse.

Saturday (May 20) is the day when the last qualifying race is scheduled and traditionally it's Gävle's $75,000 Prins Daniels race that will offer the winner a ticket to the Elitloppet.

A 10-horse strong field will run the mile in the hunt for a spot in the Elitloppet and it's quite an open story that will take place in Gävle. Title defender Click Bait (won this race last year and accepted the invitation to the Elitloppet) drew post 9, behind horses while Italian trained Usain Töll will start from post 5 behind the gate.

ECTOR FRANCIS STRONG IN MODENA

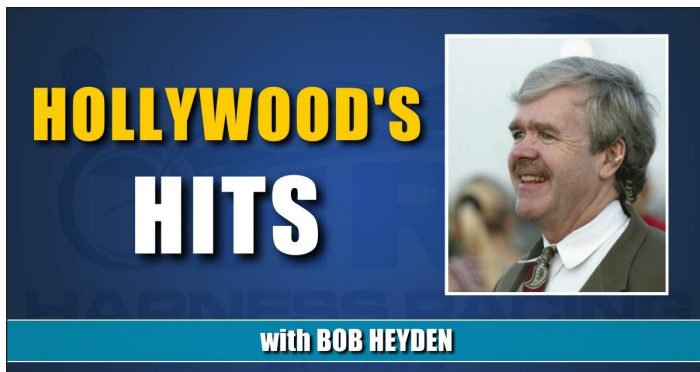

Ector Francis (Nad al Sheba), driven by Gaetani di Nardo, won the $165,000 Gran Premio Tito Giovanardi in Modena, Italy on Sunday afternoon (May 14) and the 3-year-old colt hit the lead when the field turned onto the back stretch for the first time. Ector Francis was unstoppable from that position and he came home in mile rate 1:59.3 over 1.3 miles.

In the fillies' division, $70,000 Gran Premio Carlo Cacciari Filly, another Nad al Sheba offspring claimed the trophy. Elettra d'Esì could hold the opponents behind her at the wire and Mauro Baroncini's horse won in 1:59.3.

Does harness racing care about you?

by Bob Heyden

This question “Does harness racing care about you?” was posed to a delightful dozen representing a wide range of positions in, or used to be in, the industry. There is no right or wrong answer here.

1. JACK DARLING: “In my case, harness racing is doing fine for me. All my life I have made my living racing, buying and selling horses as an owner. Harness racing provides adequate purses and racing opportunities to do that. The OnGait auction site has revolutionized our ability to buy and sell horses quickly, easily and for fair prices. Harness racing has provided the opportunity for the breeding business, yearling sales and stakes racing to thrive. The rising expenses have made turning a profit much tougher, but it is still possible.”

2. JIM BERNSTEIN: “My answer is easy. Have to have fans in the stands. Without this, the sport dwindles.”

3. DAVE MATTIA: “I have been saying ‘self-inflicted wounds’ for 20 years. The leadership, in my opinion, is often unqualified and it’s as though anyone can just walk into racing and hang up a shingle saying that they are the guy with the solutions.”

“At one time, before he switched professions, my older brother was one of the highest paid marketing execs in the USA. He’d often lecture young marketing executives about the failed marketing of potentially viable brands, and he often used harness racing as an example. Although he never participated in the sport, it was his opinion that harness racing was a prime example of how to not market your product. The irony is that 99 per cent of the time most young marketing executives didn’t even know what harness racing was, which became my brother’s opening talking point.

“Similarly, but on a somewhat positive side, I had an economics professor when I was in college who used harness racing as an example of the brilliance of the claiming system in racing for classification of horses and creating a kind of currency. He used claiming to show how an artificial economy and invisible wealth is invented or created from nothing but perception of a lot of intangibles. He was not a harness racing fan, and he said so, but he appreciated the claiming system as a teaching tool. Of course, I totally got it because I was already in the business, but a lot of the other students didn’t. In fact, most of them either never heard of harness, or they called it ‘chariot racing.’”

4. JOHN KOPAS: “I’ve said for years the younger generation doesn’t have the respect for the greats that went before them.”

5. PAUL KELLEY: “It’s not whether harness racing cares particularly about me, it’s more about does harness racing care about itself. The obvious answer is no. What industry could possibly be more fractured by individual interests than ours? Racing commissions, racetrack/casinos, horsemen’s associations, etc., all operate strictly for their own interests. We have rendered ourselves dysfunctional by our own greed.”

6. MICHAEL CRUSE: “Harness racing in my opinion only cares for the elite premier races. Big card, big money. This is what harness racing represents to me. It’s at the point we don’t have a lower level of racing anymore. Very seldom do AE1, AE2s get in. The claimers are extinct, especially the cheaper ones which kept a small guy in the business. Doing away with the barn areas also takes the cheaper horses out of play with the cost of boarding and shipping.”

7. LURIE MORNINGSTAR: “I think dad [Buddy Gilmour] was satisfied by the way he was treated at the end. He was disappointed with the track closings like the rest of us. He had many memories of people and horses that served him well to the end.”

8. PETER BLOOD: “It doesn’t seem that way now, but in the past, I have been recognized for my career by being inducted into the New England/Florida Halls of Fame.”

9. MARY MCDERMOTT: “I think that when you look at it as a whole the answer is no. But then when you break down each major aspect/category you see the people who do care. Harness racing is made up of a bunch of small organizations and businesses and those are the people that keep us afloat. I think after working for the Hambletonian Society for five years – going above and beyond to make sure grooms were always cared for and given fantastic swag bags at major events – we as a Society along with our sponsors cared. I think HHYF shows they care by trying to get the youth involved. Equipment companies care by giving back to banquets and donating auction items. But with that being said, I think there’s many things in harness racing that could show they cared a little bit more about the small stables and the trainers, grooms and owners who don’t have major stakes horses but have been in the business for many years. I think harness racing should care a little more because without the horses we wouldn’t have harness racing.”

10. GEORGE ANTHONY: “Never did, never will. Racing should be more worried about its survival into the near future as the numbers keep dwindling.”

“It’s not whether harness racing cares particularly about me, it’s more about does harness racing care about itself. The obvious answer is no. What industry could possibly be more fractured by individual interests than ours? Racing commissions, racetrack/casinos, horsemen’s associations, etc., all operate strictly for their own interests. We have rendered ourselves dysfunctional by our own greed.”

~ Paul Kelley

11. JUSTIN IRVINE: “I think it depends on the person. The bigger the name than yes, I think they care about you. It also depends on what jurisdiction you are in. Some places take really good care of their horsemen and others couldn’t care less.”

In this case I did save the best for last.

12. MARY PAT RHODES: “A perfect subject. Harness racing was taken over by a group of PR people that held the sport hostage. They thought they were more valuable than the horses or trainers. Greed and fame ruined the sport. To hold an USHWA dinner off-track shows just how arrogant they have become. These fat cats wanted Vegas or Orlando to fit their foodie needs. It became an elitist gang of nobodies. It started in our era [Mid-1980s to present]. They only allowed the chosen ones in the gang. Years of elitism went on. Useless PR people would promote their gang and forgot the sport. It became who and not why.

“We rewarded the PR people and not the people who put on the show. Everything is about the experience. Harness tracks lost the experience. Driving into dirty broken-down facilities is a turn off. There has to be a touch of all six senses. There should have been entertainment. Their greed wound up killing the golden goose. I remember Lofty Bruce [top trainer 1980s] asking Merle MacDonald [top assistant for The Bill O’Donnell stable] why he was taking me and my friends to the track as we were only grooms.

“There should have been attention to the racing side of the sport. More focus on the horses. A good PR person hides in the background and showcases the subject. Not one of those can be found in the PR offices today. Tracks have cut out the guests experience. I have watched major successful marketing from Disney [in her home state of Florida]. It is always the experience. When you drive into the property you get transported into the Disney magic. You see the landscaping and the fresh painted signs and buildings. Everything looks fresh. You walk through the gates and you get hit with the Disney magic in an explosion. You walk into a track and you get stale beer, sweat and old mustard smells smack you. Remember how amazing it was to walk into the lobby at Pompano? The palm trees and the stone floors transplanted you to a beach vibe. With a touch of elegance. Making people dress up was the only way to conduct that atmosphere too. When you elevate the person, you elevate the experience.

“The overplayed figureheads of our sport killed it too. Showing up to the races or awards shows is too easy. Pompano Park died when you couldn’t see the track from the dining room. They moved the grandstands away from the winner’s circle. You couldn’t see the finish line. Geez, that was the highlight of the track. You want to see the finish. Remember how cool it was to see Herve [Filion] arrive via helicopter? Or watching the pageantry of the winner’s circle for every race. I was caught up in post parades. The bugle, the elegance of each horse walking past and under the lights. It made me want more. The old windows that you had to walk to, none of that betting from your own table. That made it too automatic. I loved the talk shows prior to the races and during. We learned while enjoying the show.

“The old timers got to be held in esteem. [Stanley] Dancer, [Billy] Haughton, [Del] Miller, [Carmine] Abbatiello and [Buddy] Gilmour. Then after them the throw to the wayside happened. Only a few got out with their reputation intact. The gang of grifters took over. We started so strong. I started at Vernon. It was family, community. We knew each other. We partied together and we mourned with each other. Drivers, trainers, CEOs, directors, always said hello. No grandstanding then. I loved visiting Blue Bonnets. They were so welcoming every year. The gang of up and comers was replaced by those who couldn’t. No big wig stepped up with any plan to help Pompano. Never an action plan just a bunch of moaning. I remember back in the day the New Jersey horsemen wanted to boycott The Meadowlands’ box. Horsemen from PA then dropped their horses in. Their greed was taking over. I see it every day. I walk past Pompano, my heart sinks when I hit that side, it’s brutal. The construction sites are empty. The Governor has opened border patrols on I-95. The construction sites are coming to a stop. Pompano’s plans will not get built this decade.”

NA Cup hopeful Annapolis Hanover exceeds expectations

by Ken Weingartner / USTA media relations manager

When trainer Mitch York bought Annapolis Hanover as a yearling at the 2021 Standardbred Horse Sale, he hoped the pacer would develop into a top horse on the Pennsylvania fair circuit. It didn't work out that way, but York isn't about to complain.

Annapolis Hanover, purchased for $15,000 and owned by York, has hit the board in all 14 of his lifetime starts, winning nine. He has earned $260,183. Most of his races have been in state-bred stakes, including a second-place finish in last season's Pennsylvania Sire Stakes championship for 2-year-old male pacers.

If all goes well in the coming weeks, Annapolis Hanover will head to the Grand Circuit, with the $1 million Pepsi North America Cup on June 17 at Woodbine Mohawk Park on the radar. Annapolis Hanover was ranked No. 9 on Trot magazine's list of top NA Cup contenders, with spring book odds of 19-1.

"I don't want to get ahead of myself," said York, who began training horses in 2019 after a 25-year career as a Pennsylvania State Trooper. "He definitely has done well; I've been happy with him every week. We'll see how competitive he is in the next couple weeks and go from there."

Annapolis Hanover's next race is Sunday (May 21) in a $38,687 division of the Pennsylvania Sire Stakes at Pocono Downs at Mohegan Pennsylvania. He is the 5-2 second choice on the morning line, leaving from post 1 with driver Hunter Myers. The gelding goes into the event, the second of four PASS splits for 3-year-old male pacers, off a 1:50.3 victory in an opening-round PASS division May 6 at The Meadows.

For the season, Annapolis Hanover has two wins and a second in three races, with the setback coming in his seasonal debut by a head to 4-year-old Rule Of Law from post 9 at The Meadows.

Following Sunday's race at Pocono, his next start is scheduled to be in the third leg of the PASS at Harrah's Philadelphia on May 28.

York, who was introduced to harness racing by his father-in-law, Dave Brickell, has developed several Pennsylvania fair champions but Annapolis Hanover would be his first Grand Circuit horse. Annapolis Hanover is eligible to the Somebeachsomewhere Stakes at Mohawk the week prior to the North America Cup eliminations. His stakes calendar also includes the Messenger, Max C. Hempt Memorial and Matron.

"It's been fantastic," York said. "My wife (Erin) and I had a really good time last summer taking him racing. Hopefully, everything stays the way it is, and he continues to race well. I've been impressed with just how low-key he is. He's the easiest keeper, I think, that I've ever had. And the way he finishes races has always impressed me."

Annapolis Hanover began his career by winning two of three conditioned races at The Meadows before entering the stakes fray with a third-place finish in a division of the Pennsylvania Sire Stakes. A victory in a division of the PA All-Stars then launched a five-race win streak that came to an end with his runner-up finish to Fulton in the sire stakes championship.

"He was on the smaller side, so I figured he would be in my price range," York said about purchasing the son of Stay Hungry—All Night Long, adding with a laugh, "I hoped he would be a great fair horse. He never got to see too many fairs.

"We knew he was a pretty decent horse, and it was probably the second leg of the sire stakes last year [a 1:52.3 win at Harrah's Philadelphia] that it became apparent we had a pretty good horse."

Fulton, who was ranked No. 5 among North America Cup contenders in the spring book, is the 2-1 morning-line favorite in Sunday's PASS division that includes Annapolis Hanover. Trained by Linda Toscano, Fulton captured his 2023 debut in a sire stakes division at The Meadows in 1:49.2.

"Just to be racing against horses like that is pretty cool," said York, who has an 11-horse stable. "The fact we own [Annapolis Hanover] absolutely makes it more special."

The 5-2 favorite in the first division is last season's Breeders Crown champion, Ammo. The Joe Holloway trainee, who was sixth on the NA Cup contender list, made his seasonal bow on May 11 in a conditioned race at Philly, and won by 6-1/4 lengths in 1:51.2. Just Bet It All, also NA Cup eligible, is the 3-1 second choice.

Bamboozler, trained by Virgil Morgan Jr. and No. 11 among NA Cup eligibles, is the 5-2 favorite in the third division off a 1:50.1 win in the sire stakes at The Meadows. Ken Hanover, trained by Roland Mallar, is the 5-2 choice in the fourth division. He has won all three of his starts this season.

Racing begins at 6 p.m. (EDT) at Pocono Downs. For free past performances, visit the Pennsylvania Harness Horsemen's Association website here.

An open letter to The Jockey Club from the USTA

The following is an open letter to The Jockey Club from the U.S. Trotting Association:

"Because a body of men, holding themselves accountable to nobody, ought not to be trusted by anybody." Thomas Paine (1791)

We did not anticipate reaching out to you, but we couldn't help reacting to the broadside that your president, James L. Gagliano, directed at the National Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association (NHPBA) on May 12 for having the temerity to challenge The Jockey Club's wounded sacred cow, the Horseracing Integrity & Safety Act (HISA). You didn't mention the U.S. Trotting Association (USTA) by name, but there's a clear implication that the USTA is one of those "unrelated, agenda-driven, special interest activist" plaintiffs that you flippantly accuse as trying to "hoodwink" the racing public. How ironic.

Let's set the record straight. First of all, the National HBPA is a plaintiff in only one of the five lawsuits challenging HISA and the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals unanimously agreed with their position and ruled HISA unconstitutional. The USTA is party to another lawsuit. Yes, there are lots more of us who stand up for our constitutional rights, including several state attorneys general who were duly elected by the people of their states to protect their interests. There are 10 states in the case that see the same constitutional issues with HISA that we do.

You claim that HISA wasn't passed "in the middle of the night." It was. Inserted at the 11th hour as a miniscule part of a 5,593-page omnibus spending bill that included COVID relief funds as its selling point, the bill was signed into law at 11:40 p.m. on the evening of Saturday, Dec. 19, 2020, just 20 minutes before the deadline for shutting down the federal government. This was made possible by a uniquely powerful senator from Louisville. The colossal document, described three days later in The Hill as "a pork-filled cluster filled with anything and everything that has nothing to do with the coronavirus pandemic or relief," also included money to support gender programs in Pakistan, study a race riot that occurred in Springfield, IL, in 1908 and develop a statement of policy regarding the succession or reincarnation of the Dalai Lama. We kid you not.

What HISA didn't get, at any stop along its five-year journey, was one minute of floor debate in the House or the Senate. That's right, this industry-changing bill was not debated by either the full House or Senate. Its passage was a result of the type of power play politics and backroom dealings that have, sadly, become the hallmark of The Jockey Club.

We say this because we did, indeed, meet with you on two occasions when you wanted our support. In September 2016, two Jockey Club representatives came to Columbus to "invite" the USTA to be part of what would eventually become HISA. We met again with a Jockey Club executive two months later in Louisville and indicated that we found the described legislation as being a bad fit for harness racing. Count us out, we said, and that was that. Or so we thought. In the spring of 2017, you gave us a courtesy call to say that, "Hey, we're introducing that bill in Washington, DC, tomorrow, and, unlike our failed 2015 version that was limited to thoroughbred racing, this one's open to all breeds, and there's a pretty good chance that you're getting pulled in. Welcome aboard!"

As with the harness racing industry, there are significant problems in thoroughbred racing, but that's your business, not ours. It does puzzle us, however, as to why you dismiss out of hand the opinion of a thoroughbred organization like the NHBPA, which has almost 30,000 members (and a democratically-elected board) who are the backbone of the industry, in favor of what your elite, private, invitation-only, 130-member club wants. Money talks, apparently, and quite loudly.

For five years, we asked how much HISA would cost. You never provided an answer, and you never asked for any public funding. Now we have a clearer picture: $66 million in assessments for thoroughbred racing alone that have been pushed down to the states and horsemen. That's how much the Horseracing Integrity & Safety Authority, the privately-held monopoly that was formed as a result of HISA's passage, says it needs to operate in 2023.

Unlike state racing commissions, which are statutorily mandated to conduct their business out in the open, the Authority has no such obligation. Want to know how much the Authority's executives make? So do we, but they're not talking. What was discussed at the last board meeting? Your guess is as good as ours, because no minutes are made available. Want to review an itemized budget? They don't have to show you that. Think you can use the Freedom of Information Act to compel discovery of this information? Sorry, but it doesn't apply to private entities.

One last point about money. We took special notice of Mr. Gagliano's cavalier remark about how the various lawsuits "are driving up the industry's expense." That's a coded threat to horsemen that if you keep trying to voice your opinion in the courts, we're going to make you pay. Literally. Because, as with other unidentified assessments to the industry, "the industry" means the rank and file, the people in the trenches.

“The industry” means the horsemen.

HISA is, for now, the law of the land, but was going nowhere on Capitol Hill until thoroughbreds tragically started breaking down and dying at Santa Anita in 2019. We heard over and over how this legislation was needed to make horse racing – excuse us, thoroughbred horse racing – safer. But it hasn’t and it’s quite unlikely that the full implementation of the medication control program, portions of which are already in place at the major racetracks, will have any appreciable effect. For five years (and still today), we asked how HISA would be an improvement. We’re still waiting for an answer and the evidence suggests quite the opposite. As the Authority admitted, Churchill Downs was in “full compliance” with HISA rules and processes during Kentucky Derby week. The recent spate of equine fatalities there is not, as Mr. Gagliano says, “unfortunate.” The casualties are appalling and they keep happening at alarming rates.

HISA failed to prevent seven deaths at Churchill Downs during Derby Week. Another horse broke down and was euthanized on Sunday. That’s a fact that none of Mr. Gagliano’s bluster can change. HISA is not the solution. It never was and it never will be. That’s why we’re working to introduce a federal bill that will better serve racing’s needs.

The bottom line? HISA is a terrible fit for harness racing and one that has been foisted upon the sport by one of those “agenda-driven, special interest, activist” groups about which you, The Jockey Club, have so graciously deigned to warn us.

Namely, yourselves.

Another Matt Kakaley milestone: 6,000 victories

Matt Kakaley closed out a storybook week at Pocono Downs at Mohegan Pennsylvania, one in which he went over $100,000,000 in career earnings, by notching his 6000th driving victory with Willing Hanover in the trotting division of three $15,000 conditioned featured races on Tuesday afternoon (May 16).

The 35-year-old Kakaley teamed with the Donato Hanover gelding to overcome an uncovered trip with ease, guiding him to a lifetime mark of 1:55 for trainer Tim Lancaster, also co-owner with Mark and Meghan Lancaster. After the race, family, friends and the horse’s connections joined with Kakaley in the winner’s circle (their first winner’s circle celebration of the week, as Kakaley went over $100 million by finishing second in a PA All-Stars contest Sunday).

There were also two pacing divisions of the feature. One went to the Betting Line mare Zeus Hanover, who was used early and late yet had enough to win a three-way photo in a lifetime best 1:52.3. Jim Marohn Jr. adapted to circumstances well in winning with the Lisa Martin trainee, who is owned by Mary Martin and Roger Dirlam.

The other sector also went in 1:52.3 and also saw a new mark taken, as the Stay Hungry sophomore gelding Full Support moved to the lead off the first turn and held off pocket-pulling favorite Erinwood Yves for the victory. Kakaley capped off his day with his third triumph on the card, tops among the local crew, for trainer Joe Pavia Jr. and the partnership of Steven Held, Joe Pavia Jr. Stable Inc., Bridgette Jablonsky, and PCW Racing LLC.

There were also three divisions of the top claiming handicap trot, each going for $15,500. Two of the winners were driven by Tyler Buter and trained by Jason Brewer, although Brewer lost both to $30,000 claims: Town Mister won in 1:55.3 as he departs the ownership of First Up Racing Stable, and Lady’s Image took a new mark of 1:54.2 before leaving the proprietorship of Ameer Najor. The other winner was 14-1 shot Mushana, piloted to a 1:55 victory by Marcus Miller and staying with trainer Steven Brabrook and owner Jaypaul Hoover.

Racing resumes on Saturday (May 20) at 1 p.m. at Pocono with a strong card; on Sunday at 6 p.m., the card will feature the second preliminary round of the Pennsylvania Sire Stakes for 3-year-old pacing colts, with the four divisions of sire stakes horses containing many horses expected to contend for the “glamour division” national stakes, complemented by five divisions of sire stakes action. Program pages for all Pocono races are or will be available at <https://www.ppha.org/downsmppps.html>.

Cutler kicks off Meadowlands Grand Circuit season

The Grand Circuit season at The Meadowlands has historically opened with the Arthur J. Cutler Memorial and that will again be the case on Saturday (May 20) when 11 of the finest older trotters in the land will assemble to compete for a purse of $155,200.

The stake was launched in 1998 by Meadowlands president Jeff Gural (long before his current role) to honor his dear friend and frequent companion at the races who died far too soon. Artie Cutler was a renowned restaurateur in Manhattan who loved food and gambling on the horses with his pals. Many of those friends still assemble at the track on Cutler night to reminisce and celebrate his memory.

The race itself has been a fitting tribute to Cutler as the list of winners reads like a who’s who of trotting. Ecurie D DK set the stakes record and equaled the world record with his dazzling 1:49.1 triumph in last year’s edition.

The great mare Bella Bellini is the most accomplished of this season's participants. Dave McDuffee's homebred has a very long list of accomplishments throughout her $2-million winning career and seeks to add her name to a list of female Cutler winners that already includes champions such as Bee A Magician, Hannelore Hanover, Atlanta and Manchego. Trainer Nifty Norman and driver Dexter Dunn have teamed to guide Bella through her many successes.

It won't be easy, as the competition is led by the red-hot pair of Ron Burke trotters, It's Academic and Hillextotic, inaugural Mohawk Million winner Venerate who makes his first start for the Melander barn and Pretender who has come back raging for Nancy Takter.

Saturday's card is deep with talent. Three divisions of NJ sired trotters support the feature along with an interesting assortment of overnights.

The races may be watched live on Fox Sports 2 from 8:00 to 11:00pm.

Free programs may be had here. First post is 6:20 p.m.

Big M races to be shown live nationally all weekend

The Meadowlands' partnership with the TV team at the New York Racing Association (NYRA) continues this weekend and that's a good thing for harness racing fans, as they'll experience some double vision.

Instead of the usual just-Saturday-night coverage, "America's Day at the Races" will be shown on both Friday (May 19) and Saturday (May 20) nights to a national television audience on either Fox Sports 1 (FS1) or Fox Sports 2 (FS2), and will feature the action from The Big M alongside a thoroughbred track. On Friday, Churchill Downs will be on display, while on Saturday, Charles Town Races will be seen.

On Friday night, racing fans can watch the action on FS2 from 6-8:30 p.m. before the broadcast switches over to FS1 from 8:30-11 p.m.

Saturday's broadcast is from 8-11 p.m. on FS2. The $155,200 Arthur J. Cutler Memorial for the best free for all trotters in training is the marquee event at The Meadowlands, which will also have New Jersey Sire Stakes action for 3-year-old trotters. Big M TV's Jessica Otten will provide the harness commentary both nights.

"It's always an honor to share the stage with Churchill Downs on one of their rare Friday night programs," said Meadowlands' chief operating officer and general manager Jason Settlemoir.

"The Friday dual simulcast comes on the heels of Churchill breaking the all-time betting record on Derby Day last Saturday.

"Being a part of America's Day at the Races gives The Meadowlands and standardbred racing an enormous opportunity to showcase our product to a very large new audience."

The remaining schedule for when Meadowlands' races will be shown on either FS1 or FS2 is as follows:

- Saturday, July 1 (9-11 p.m.; Crawford Farms and Six Pack FFA Trots, Dave Brower Memorial and Perfect Sting FFA Paces)
- Saturday, July 8 (9-11 p.m.; Meadowlands Pace eliminations, Graduate finals)
- Saturday, July 15 (10 p.m.-midnight; Meadowlands Pace, William Haughton Memorial, Hambletonian Maturity plus other stakes for total purses of $2.5 million)
- Saturday, Aug. 5 (1-5 p.m. and 6-7 p.m.; Hambletonian, Hambletonian Oaks plus other stakes for total purses of $3.5 million)
- Friday, Sept. 8 (9-11 p.m.; New Jersey Classic Series finals)

SPORTSCASTERS' DERBY: Mark Cannizzaro of the New York Post and Keith Irizarry of MLB Network both came up winners in their first-ever trips around the track, as each won one of two divisions of the track's "Sportscasters' Derby", which was contested last Friday (May 12).

While Cannizzaro and Irizarry got bragging rights among the eight broadcasters who participated in the event, the real winner was Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, the charity for both winners, which received a total of $10,000 in donations, courtesy of The Big M.

THE RACES KEEP ON COMING: Live racing at The Meadowlands will take place every Friday and Saturday for the next 12 consecutive weeks. Post time is 6:20 p.m., except for the last day of the meeting, Hambletonian Day, Saturday (Aug. 5), when the first race heads to the gate at noon.

DON'T PAY: Free past performances for every race of every Meadowlands card are available by going to playmeadowlands.com.

Niki Hill successful in Pocono qualifier

Top pacing mare Niki Hill, coming off two New Jersey Breeders Maturity victories in her only starts of 2023, turned in a winning 1:53.3 qualifier Wednesday morning (May 17) at Pocono Downs at Mohegan Pennsylvania.

Dexter Dunn was in his usual seat behind the 4-year-old daughter of Always B Miki as she rattled off fractions of :29.3, :58.1 and 1:26.2 before storming home in :27.1 to win by open lengths for trainer Chris Ryder and owner Tom Hill.

Niki Hill, who has career earnings of $1,342,452 and was the champion 2-year-old of her class, is a possibility for the May 28 $100,000 Betsy Ross Invitational Pace at Pocono's sister track under the PHHA banner, Harrah's Philadelphia.

It was exactly 52 weeks before that day, in Pennsylvania Sire Stakes competition, that Niki Hill had a final turn mishap and finished worse than second for the only time in her 19 lifetime races to date, causing her to miss much of her 3-year-old campaign.

If Niki Hill would be in that race (the draw is next Wednesday) and emerge victorious, it could provide some solace for her unfortunate 2022 visit.

The replays of the Wednesday qualifiers at Pocono are on the PHHA website, www.phha.org. Niki Hill was in the seventh qualifier.

USHWA Youth Membership open for 2023

The United States Harness Writers Association (USHWA), the world's oldest organization for harness racing communicators, on Friday (May 12) opened to new applicants for its Youth Membership designation for 2023-24.

At its 2018 annual meeting, in Orlando, FL, USHWA directors approved the introduction of a youth membership category. This non-voting category was designed for aspiring harness racing media members, 21 years of age and younger.

Five years later, former USHWA youth members have become active members of the organization and are working in the harness racing industry.

USHWA youth membership founder Melissa Keith and longtime supporter/sponsor of the USHWA youth Tim Konkle (Midwest Harness Report) welcome applications from, or on behalf of, harness racing participants 21 years of age or younger.

Young people with an interest in pursuing harness racing journalism, race calling, racetrack photography, broadcasting, etc., can contact Keith (Canada) or Konkle (U.S.) about this opportunity before June 12. Their $20 annual dues will be generously sponsored by Konkle.

USHWA youth membership has helped open doors and make connections across the industry in tangible ways. Current USHWA youth member Grady Hachey (Canada chapter) joined the Truro Raceway broadcast team as a regular racing analyst this season. On Twitter, he recommended becoming an USHWA youth member.

"I would not have gotten my new job at Truro if it weren't for USHWA," Hachey said. "Joining USHWA gave me the ability to get my name out there and meet new people in the harness racing media. I highly recommend becoming a member!!"

To apply or learn more, contact Tim Konkle (hoosierhorsereview@comcast.net) or Melissa Keith (mkeith71@gmail.com).
